WESTFIELD IS SHUT OUT BY PLAINFIELD

In a Great Game at Recreation Park, Alis Defeats Its Rival By a Score of 3 to 0.

SUPERB EXHIBITION

ONLY ONE ERROR IS MADE BY ALIS AGGREGATION.

Magnificent Support Given Cronin—Waller Does Good Work for Westfield—The Contest in Detail.

There was a turn in the tide on Saturday and for the first time this season Alis defeated Westfield, the score of the contest at Recreation Park being 3 to 0 in favor of Plainfield. Bassford took McGeoy's place in right field, where he exhibited considerable ginger. The whole Plainfield team was on its mettle and played gilt-edged ball. Cronin, of the Brooklyn Nationals, twirled masterly ball for Alis, striking out eight men and allowing but two insignificant hits. The fine support given him brought victory.

Walton was charged with the only error, which was a poor throw to first. Waller put up a great article of ball for Westfield, although he was touched for five safeties, including a corking two bagger by Courtney. The only errors made by Westfield were charged to Connelly at first. He made four misplays. The large crowd of Plainfielders witnessing the contest was more than satisfied with the result and gave the team much praise for its splendid work.

SHELL GAME CAUGHT MANY

FAKIR ROPED IN "EASY MARKS" AT GALVIN'S PARK SATURDAY NIGHT.

Fully equipped with a table and balls and a sufficient number of confererates, a shell game operator set himself up in business at the entrance to Gavin's Park, Saturday night. He soon had a crowd about him and in a short time was hauling in dimes, quarters and dollars. Included in the score or more of "easy marks" that struggled for a chance to make a wager that was all one-sided, was a good many young men from this city.

The fakir was having a good time and a nice run of business until he was spotted by one of the Fanwood township committeemen on a tour of inspection. Securing the proprietor of the Park he ordered the fellow and his gang away from the grounds and they quickly complied. It is said they cleaned up several hundred dollars and would have gotten as much more but for the interruption.

HELPING POOR CHILDREN.

Special Service at Grace Episcopal Church Last Night.

The special service last evening at Grace Episcopal church for the benefit of the Mary Morgan Home at Netherwood attracted a large congregation to the church. Miss Sara Curry, manager of the home, was present and with her a number of the New York visitors at the camp. The services was in charge of the Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector-emeritus of the church, who also made an address, introducing Miss Curry.

The work and need at the home formed the topic of Miss Curry's address and she told of the conditions of the city homes and the great value of the opportunity offered by the camp. Clarence Titus, of Elizabeth, also addressed the meeting. The regular choir of the church rendered special music and children from the camp sang and recited.

At the close of the service, several of the congregation remained to talk with Miss Curry personally about the work. An offering was taken for the benefit of the work at the camp.

Reception for Engaged Couple.

A party of immediate friends of David Dreier and his fiancee, Miss Rose Freudenthal, of Brooklyn, met yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dreier on West Front street. Among the guests were Samuel Dreier, of West Front street; Mr. and Mrs. Morris Eisman, of New Market; Mr. and Mrs. Garret Dreier, of New Brunswick, and Mr. and Mrs. William Newcorn, of West Front street. The guests were invited for dinner and spent the afternoon at the Dreier home, partaking of supper before their departure. A painful accident marred the afternoon for David Dreier. While climbing the steps to the train platform to meet his fiancee early in the afternoon, he slipped and fell, severely spraining his ankle. His injury confines him to his home.

St. Stephen's Picnic.

The regular annual outing of the Sunday-school of St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, was held Saturday afternoon at the grounds of the Netherwood Hotel. Some seventy-five children were present and the afternoon was spent in playing all sorts of outdoor games. Late in the afternoon refreshments were served to the children by a committee of the women of the parish. The committee in charge of the affair included Rev. Arthur S. Peck, rector of the church, Mrs. Hugh Knox, Mrs. K. Hill and Mrs. Walter F. Platt.

Not a Party "Organ."

The Plainfield Press comes out and officially declares that it is neither for Parker nor for Roosevelt. But it adds: "Unless something unforeseen occurs we do believe that Jersey will cast its vote for Mr. Roosevelt." Accepting the stand of The Press as absolutely non-partizan, the Democrats cannot assert that in stating its belief the wish was father to the thought.—Newark Evening News.

Released on His Own Recognizance.

By the intercession of his fellow-employes at the Lake Pigment factory, John Burgess, colored, who was being held in $150 bonds to answer statutory charges made against him by his wife, Saturday, in Justice Hand's court, was released late Saturday afternoon. Judge Hand released him on his recognizance.

Bridge Committee Meeting.

The bridge committees of the Union and Somerset county Boards of Freeholders will meet on the Giraud avenue structure this afternoon to inspect it and take the final steps preparatory to accepting it from the contractors.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE FROM TERRIBLE DEATH

A Young Man Hung Head Downwards on a Freight Train for Over Ten Miles.

HE STOLE A RIDE

STRUCK REPEATEDLY BY PROJECTIONS ALONG TRACK.

His Head Badly Cut and Bruised—Awful Trip From Elizabeth to Fanwood Saturday.

With one foot held firmly as if in a vise, George Hardie, twenty-three years old, of Elizabeth, hung downward between two coal cars of a train on the New Jersey Central Saturday afternoon, while it travelled a distance of nearly ten miles. He was struck repeatedly by projections rising up from the track but was helpless to extricate himself and was noticed by no one until the train reached Fanwood. He was there discovered by the brakemen who hauled him up and brought him to this city.

When carried into the North Avenue Station he was bleeding from a dozen bad cuts about his face and head but despite the terrible ordeal through which he passed he retained consciousness and was able to tell how he came to be in the predicament. He caught the train at Elizabeth, he said, intending to come to Plainfield, but had barely seated himself on a brake wheel when a sudden jolt caused him to lose his balance. He fell between the cars and would have gone beneath the wheels but for his foot catching in a part of the coupling irons. The distance from there to the track bed is quite high and it left him hanging with outstretched arms but powerless to free himself. At times he caught hold of the frame work of one of the cars and rested himself but when it became too tiresome he had to let go. Keeping his senses he shouted as often as he could and it was while the train was slowly climbing the Graceland grade that the crew heard him and started the search that led to his discovery.

Hardie was afterward removed to police headquarters and his hurts were attended by Dr. Lufburrow. It seemed impossible that he should escape so luckily after undergoing what he did but he took it calmly. He was placed on a trolley car and in charge of a patrolman was removed to his home.

WIND PREVENTED ASCENSION.

Boroughite Unable to Make Contemplated Trip in Balloon.

Owing to a high wind which prevailed in the upper air last evening, Clarence Mundy, of the borough, was prevented from making his contemplated balloon ascension. He was willing to attempt it and everything was in readiness but the park management and the regular aeronaut decided it would be too risky and the plan was abandoned.

Mundy is still determined to make the trip through space and if conditions are favorable next Sunday evening he will be allowed to go up.

Sued for Misrepresentation.

Complaint has been issued by Joel Ginsberg against Samuel Turnansky for misrepresentation of the value of a newspaper route Ginsberg was to purchase. Its overestimated value has caused part payment of $145 from Ginsberg and he will bring action, alleging fraud in Nash's court this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The complaint includes charges of abuse and bodily injury to Ginsberg at the hands of Turnansky.

Funeral of Miss Kilpatrick.

Funeral services over the remains of Miss Annie Kilpatrick were held from St. Mary's church, this morning, with a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance. The mass was conducted by Rev. Father Delehanty and interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery. Those who acted as pall bearers were William Drake, John Wierenga, John Kearns, Dennis Bermingham, Michael Kiely and Fred Winn.

Arrangements for Yates' Funeral.

The body of Joseph W. Yates, who died Friday night at Lake Minnewaska, N. Y., was brought to this city last evening. Funeral services will be held from his late home on East Seventh street tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 and interment will be at Hillside.

HIS LAST SERMON AS THEIR MINISTER

Rev. Dr. E. L. Earp Preached to a Large Congregation at Grace M. E. Last Night.

HIS PARTING WORDS

HE QUOTED ST. PAUL IN HIS DISCOURSE.

Rev. Mr. Blakesley, of Summit, to Have Charge Temporarily—Committee on New Pastor.

Two large congregations greeted Rev. Dr. Edwin L. Earp in Grace M. E. church, yesterday morning and evening, especially at the latter time when his pastorate concluded. His remarks on both occasions were in the nature of counsel to the membership but he refrained in one sense from preaching a farewell sermon.

He expressed the wish that the church would enjoy continued prosperity and that his successor be accorded the loyal support that had been given him. In conclusion he quoted from Paul's farewell to the Corinthians and said: "Finally, brethren farewell; be perfected; be comforted, be of the same mind; live in peace; and the God of Love and peace shall be with you."

Included in the evening attendance were many members of other churches and it was so noticeable that Dr. Earp referred to it, dwelling on the fact that the denominations of the city and borough are a united congregation.

Dr. and Mrs. Earp will leave Saturday for Maryland and from there will go to Ridgewood. They will establish their home in Syracuse about September 1.

The pulpit of Grace church will be occupied the coming two Sundays by Rev. Dr. Blakesley, of Summit. The official board of the church will meet this month and settle upon Dr. Earp's successor.

MISS GWYNNE EVANS WEDDED

FORMER PLAINFIELDER NOW THE WIFE OF A MISSIONARY.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Gwynne Evans, formerly of this city, and Frederick Cramer, a missionary to China, which took place recently at Los Angeles, Cal. The couple will soon sail for China, where the groom will take charge of a mission station.

Miss Evans was for two years employed here as city nurse by the City Union, King's Daughters, and she made a host of friends during her stay. After leaving this city she went to California where she has lived ever since. Her former home was in Canada.

Hurt Playing Ball.

Archibald Hacquer, of Central avenue, was painfully injured while playing ball on Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon. A swift grounder flew up as he was about to catch it and struck him just above the eye and on the rim of his glasses. A deep cut was inflicted in which physicians at Muhlenberg Hospital inserted three stitches. His face was also badly bruised and remained painful until yesterday.

Wheel Smashed, Escapes Injury.

Losing control of her bicycle on North avenue, near Park, Saturday evening, Miss Emma Swenson, of Hillside avenue, plunged headlong into a carriage driven by Charles Barry. She was thrown against the vehicle but luckily escaped with barely a scratch. Her wheel was demolished.

SIXTY ITALIANS GO OUT ON STRIKE

Laborers on City Work Quit Because Some of Their Countrymen Are Discharged.

TIE-UP TEMPORARY

POLICE ARE CALLED TO THE SCENE TO PRESERVE ORDER.

Strikers Were Orderly—Contractor Telegraphs for Other Men to Go to Work on Sewers.

Dissatisfied because several of their number were discharged for reasons they could not understand, sixty Italians employed on the sewage installation on East Seventh street, near Richmond, went on strike shortly after 7 o'clock this morning. They laid down their picks and shovels and though many of them made threatening gestures toward the foreman, no violence was offered. Fearing that they might become troublesome word was sent to police headquarters and the patrol wagon with a force of men responded. Their services were not needed as once the uniforms were espied the strikers moved off.

A few of the important workmen remained and the Italian offices in New York were immediately telegraphed to for another supply of laborers. They will probably be here this afternoon and the work can be continued without any great delay.

This is the second time the Italians have gone on strike since the work was started and it is thought their dissatisfaction is due to the methods pursued by the padrone who gets them the positions. He hires them in New York and after guaranteeing them steady work exacts a large payment for it. It is said that he forces those on the Plainfield job to pay him eleven cents a day out of their meagre wages. Accordingly when any of them are discharged they fail to understand it, believing their contract with the padrone insures them their place.

INJURED WHILE CYCLING.

Elizabeth Man Collided With Frank Bailey Saturday Afternoon.

Irving H. Stantman, of Elizabeth, astride a swiftly moving motor cycle, and Letter Carrier Frank Bailey, awheel, collided with great force at Madison avenue and Front street, Saturday afternoon. Bailey's wheel was wrecked and he was thrown some distance but sustained no serious hurts. Stantman described a circle in the air but sprang to his feet with only a slice of macadam on his face.

Witnesses said Stantman was purely at fault and both he and Bailey were taken to police headquarters. Bailey refused to make any complaint against him and he was allowed to go after giving security to pay for the wrecked wheel. The motor cycle was not damaged.

Gifts to Charitable Institution.

Through the kindness of Miss Margaret Hayes, of New York city, six large double lawn swings and several lawn settees were presented to Miss Curry Saturday for use by the campers at the Mary Morgan Fresh Air Home, Netherwood. The swings were purchased by Miss Hayes with the proceeds of a fair recently held in New York city. Miss Hayes, who is a personal friend of Miss Curry and a worker in the New York tenement district during the winter, is at present the guest of Mr. Benstein, of Oak Tree.

Meeting at Netherwood Home.

Dr. George H. Whitney was the speaker at the Mary Morgan Fresh Air Home yesterday at the regular afternoon service. He addressed the little campers on the theme, "God's Love," and showed how each one has blessings. Clarence Titus was in charge of the meeting and also made a brief introductory address. Miss May Grant sang two soprano solos, "Gently Rest" and "Come Unto Me." Miss May Voorhees was at the organ and played for the hymn singing by the children. There are at present some 250 at the home, some twenty-five of whom are mothers.

Customary Communion at Trinity.

According to the annual custom, communion services were held last evening at Trinity Reformed church, prior to the pastor, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, going on his vacation. A large congregation was present at the service, which was also in the nature of a farewell to the pastor and his family.

RAILROAD MEN PLAY BALL

CONTEST AT BAYONNE WITNESSED BY CENTRAL'S OFFICIALS.

The New Jersey Central ball team met the Central team of the Philadelphia and Reading at Bayonne on Saturday, winning by a score of 5 to 1.

It was through the courtesy of Robert Davis, Democratic leader of Hudson County, that the league grounds were secured. The game was sharp and fast. The brilliant work of Arthur Smith in center field, was a feature. Monohan, pitching for the Jersey City team, held his opponents down to a few scattering hits. In the fifth inning Captain Giddis, of the visiting team, was knocked out of the box.

Among those who witnessed the contest were Vice President and General Manager W. G. Besler, F. T. Dickerson, chief clerk to Mr. Besler, of this city, and a number of other officials of the road. Robert Davis was also present. There were about five hundred persons at the game.

REV. DR. RAYMOND HERE.

President of Union College Conducted Services at Crescent Ave.

Rev. Dr. A. V. V. Raymond, president of Union College, conducted both services at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church yesterday in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie. In the morning, Dr. Raymond spoke from the topic of Matt. 13:33—religion as the leaven of Christian life. In the evening, the text was taken from 1 Cor. 3:9—"For we are laborers together with God." In development of the topic, Dr. Raymond spoke of the fact that the truth of this statement was an unavoidable fact and that the laborer shall be judged according as he stand or fall in time of temptation. There was special music at both services. The Rev. Henry C. Minton, of Trenton, will occupy the pulpit next Sunday.

Affected by Lightning.

Mrs. J. S. Pray, of East Sixth street, is much improved from a severe shock she received during a heavy electrical storm at Exeter, N. H., on Tuesday. She was at the trolley station in Exeter at the time of the storm when a heavy bolt struck near the station. Mrs. Pray was stunned almost into insensibility, her left side being affected. She was taken to the home of friends whom she is visiting. Mrs. Pray's children, Martin Stutsman and the Misses Stutsman, are with her. At present they are at Hampton Falls, N. H., where they will probably remain until September 1.

Not a Hit in Nine Innings.

"Warry" pitched a great game for the Elizabeth Stars against the Cuban Giants at Elizabethport. In the entire contest only twenty-nine men faced him and only two reached first base. Not a Cuban reached second base and not a single hit was made off "Warry." Only two balls were batted out of the diamond, both flies, one caught by McGeoy and the other by Poole. The Stars made two runs and nine hits and one error. The Cubans made no runs, no hits and two errors. The contest was witnessed by the biggest crowd of the season, many from this city being present.

Police Looking for Wearren.

The police are on the lookout today for Patrick Wearren who broke faith with them. He was arrested at 4 o'clock yesterday morning for drunkenness and in response to his sister's pleadings and the heated condition of his cell last night, he was let out on promising to be in court this morning. He failed to show up and as no word came from him he will be arrested on sight and allowed no concessions until his case is disposed of.

Not Afraid of Herman.

George Buss brought action against Jacob Herman in Justice Mosher's court Saturday on grounds of fear and to secure surities from his warlike neighbor to keep the peace. S. S. Swackhamer, Esq., was attorney for Herman and in the cross examination caused the plaintiff to admit that he wasn't afraid of anyone. This caused Justice Mosher to dismiss the complaint. W. G. DeMeza, Esq., represented Buss.

Public Library Sub-Station.

Hope chapel has been made a sub-station of the Public Library. It will be opened between the hours of 2 and 4 every Wednesday afternoon for the selection and exchange of books. The service is intended for West End residents who find it inconvenient to go to the main building.

A. J. Leader, of Duer street, started for Kearsage, N. H., this morning, where he will enjoy a much-needed vacation for a week or ten days.

FRANK O. REINHART ON HILLSIDE'S LINKS

Crack Young Player Attracted the Enthusiasts by His Fine Game on Saturday.

THE VARIOUS CONTESTS

MISS MURPHY WON IN THE CLOCK GOLF COMPETITION.

Low Scores at Park Golf Club for Two Cups—Events on Westfield Golf Club's Course.

Several events at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, on Saturday, attracted many enthusiasts to the course, and low scores were the rule. A feature was the return of Frank O. Reinhart to the game. He returned a gross of 73 to which was added four, giving him a 76 net and third honors for the Golf Committee cup.

First honors for the cup were won by G. F. Schoonmaker, who returned a net score of 74, while W. L. Glenney with a 75 net, finished second. These scores do no change the standing among the leaders, except that it gives W. L. Glenney 5 5-6 points.

These scores were returned for the Golf Committee cup:

G. F. Schoonmaker, 92, 18—74; W. L. Glenney, 74, plus 1—75; Frank O. Reinhart, 72, plus 4—76; Robert Abbott, 76, plus 1—77; Willard Wadsworth, 78, 0—78; Olaf Saugstad, 87, 9—78; H. F. Fox, 96, 17—79; C. B. Morgan, 87, 6—81; L. B. Taylor, 92, 10—82; G. T. VanBoskerck, 92, 9—83.

Miss Anna Murphy won the first prize in the clock golf competition for women with a score of 23, while for the second prize Miss Susan Wharton, Miss Josephine Lapsley and Miss Harriet Goddard were a tie with a score of 24. In the playoff Miss Goddard won with a 23. These prizes were offered by Mrs. Walter Gaston.

A new weekly event commenced Saturday, was a competition for a cup offered by Walter Gaston to be contested for by those having handicaps of 18 or over, the play to be on the point system, three points for the best score, two for the next best and one for the third best. Owing to the fact that few knew of the competition, a limited number took part on Saturday. There were two winners of points and the third had to go by default. These are the winners: H. L. Hall, 103, 0—103; H. Robert, 107, 1—106. As both of these players have handicaps under 18, they had to take reduced handicaps. The play will continue every Saturday till the end of the season.

Next Saturday there will be another clock golf competition for women for a prize offered by Mrs. T. W. T. Maxwell.

Excellent scores marked the play for the President's and Park Golf Club cups at the Park Golf Club on Saturday, although the number of contestants was not large. Gus W. Faber won first honors for both trophies, with a score of 84, while Rev. J. O. McKelvey and Morgan T. Townsend won second and third honors for the President's cup. For the scratch cup, Morgan T. Townsend and Raymond B. Carroll finished second and third.

Faber now leads for the President's cup with nine points and Morgan T. Townsend is tie, with Arthur Peck with 5½ points and Raymond Carroll has a total of four points. For the other cup, Morgan Townsend has a substantial lead with 16 points and Gus. Faber is a close second with 11. Mr. McKelvey is now fifth with six points.

These scores were posted on Saturday for the two cups:

G. W. Faber, 84, 0—84; Rev. J. O. McKelvey, 98, 13—85; M. T. Townsend, 90, 2—88; Walter McNaughton, 116, 28—88; R. B. Carroll, 93, 48—89; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 106, 17—89; Nelson A. Miller, 105, 14—91; L. B. Thurlow, 109, 18—91; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 114, 16—98.

The only event at the Westfield Golf Club on Saturday was the Governors' competition. W. G. Delemeter and Hugh Talbot qualified in this play, each making a net score of 78.

These were the scores returned:

W. G. Delemeter, 103, 30—73; Hugh Talbot, 101, 28—73; A. D. Tuttle, 89, 14—75; R. K. Taylor, 94, 18—76; S. A. Trevvett, 90, 10—80; F. B. Simpson, 110, 27—83; C. P. Worth, 121, 30—91; H. W. Gladwin, 117, 26—91.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Ida Olive Eve, of Savannah, Ga., sister of Mrs. Lulu Dempsey, of West Third street, to W. G. Wright, of New York.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

READY REFERENCES FOR THE LOCAL BARGAIN SEEKERS.

W. H. Pope, the North avenue electrician, make a specialty of electric bell and burglar alarm wiring. Drop him a line by postal or 'phone him and he will cheerfully furnish estimates.

Hundreds of smokers say that Eggerding's cigars are everything that is claimed for them by the maker. They are made from pure, selected tobacco leaf and cannot be equalled for the money.

For anything in the jewlry line go to J. Hervey Doane's store in Park avenue. The goods are not only the best, but the prices are reasonable. Mr. Doane also is an expert in the work of examining eyes and fitting glasses.

This is just the time of the year to have papering and painting done and there is no better firm to do it than Charles Conover & Co., of Elmwood place. The stock of papers carried by the firm cannot be excelled and the work is the best.

Roth & Co., the East Front street butchers, are doing all in their power to give their patrons the best meat at the lowest prices while the strike is on. The firm is advertising fine broilers at prices within the reach of all, while in the fish line you can do no better than buy at this market.

The H. E. Gayle Hardware Company is well stocked with first-class hardware as well as kitchen utensils. If you need a refrigerator, window or door screens, lawn mower or an oil stove this is just the place to get these things at right prices. Builders' materials are also carried in stock.

"A thing of a beauty is a joy forever," that is to say if you see a pretty bit of scenery while on your vacation and you snap it with your camera, you will always have it to remind you of that pleasant time. Frank VanWinkle, of North avenue, has the cameras and the supplies. Nuf ced.

Weinberger, the West Front street clothier, is now showing a fine line of summer suits in all the popular shades and weights, also an attractive line of negligee shirts, hats, shoes and men's furnishings. His custom tailoring department is one of the best in the city if not the State and entire satisfaction is guaranteed as to fit, goods and price.

It's nice not to have to worry about where the money for that new suit is to come from. The system of credit originated by the People's Credit Clothing Company makes it possible to secure a complete outfit without giving security and at terms to suit the purchaser. Drop in at their East Front street establishment and be fitted out.

The proper method of buying dry goods means a great saving. I. H. Boehm always has dozens of bargains to select from anyone of which will give great value for the money. For years Boehm's store has been in the same location and the customers of today are those who patronized it a decade ago. Be wise and number yourself among them.

AMUSEMENTS.

During the hot weather the Eden Musee is one of the coolest amusement places in New York city. Every hall and corridor is supplied with artificial breezes, and the palm decorations throughout give a cooling effect. The winter garden has been arranged so as to represent a roof garden. The stage is handsomely decorated, and the programmes of the afternoon and evening concerts are made up to correspond with those at Manhattan Beach. The summer attractions at the Musee have never been so good as at present. A large number of new moving pictures have just been received, and they include many war views from Russia and Japan which show troops marching over the plains and in actual battle, and also war ships in maneuvres.

The series of fights and hairbreath escapes from death that Bonavita has had during the past few weeks with his group of twenty-seven forest bred African lions, culminated last Thursday in a terrible fight for life, in which he lost a thumb and was severely lacerated. So ferocious have his lions become of late, that Director Bostock, at Coney Island, was considering the advisability of discontinuing the act, but the entreaties of Bonavita prevailed and he was allowed to perform. In consequence, however, of Thursday's fight, which took the whole of the Bostock force to rescue Bonavita from death, Mr. Bostock announced the positive withdrawal of this act. Since doing so, he has been deluged with requests from patrons to reconsider the matter, which, coupled with the earnest entreaties of Captain Bonavita, Mr. Bostock has decided to permit Bonavita to give a farewell performance next Thursday, with his present group. After this one performance, however, Bonavita will commence to reconstruct the group.

EL PASO TRAIN HELD

Outlaws Line Up and Rob Rock Island Passengers.

MAIL AND EXPRESS CARS DYNAMITED

When the Train Stopped at Logan the Engineer and Fireman Were Covered by Guns and Had to Do the Robbers' Bidding.

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 1.—A train crew which has just arrived with a light engine from Santa Rosa reports that Rock Island passenger train No. 4, which left El Paso Saturday at 7 o'clock, was held up near Tucumcari, N. M., and robbed. The passengers were lined up and their valuables taken from them, after which the express and mail cars were uncoupled from the train and run about two miles up the track and there dynamited and robbed.

The train, eastbound, was held up about seventy miles west of Delhart by three masked men at a small station called Logan. Engineer G. E. Walker made the following statement:

"We made our regular stop at Logan, when my fireman and I were covered with guns and ordered to move up. We obeyed and stopped the train at the end of the station. The robbers then made us uncouple the mail and express cars and run a short distance up the track, where they ordered us to stop again. Then they entered the express car and attacked the through safe with explosives. They failed to open the safe, and, having used up their explosives, they made off in the darkness. The mail car and passengers were not disturbed. The local safe contained no money, consequently the robbers secured nothing."

A posse from Delhart, headed by Sheriff Webb, hurried to the scene, and it is reported that they have the robbers surrounded and expect to capture them.

The robbery was reported at Logan, a small station some distance from Tucumcari, by one of the passengers who had escaped the robbers.

Strikers Seem to Be Losing Ground.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Packers and business men identified with the Employers' association in this city believe that the union is doomed. Mr. Donnelly, head of the Butchers' union, says with almost pitiful emphasis that the ranks of the strikers are holding firm and declares the men must win. The impartial observer, weighing all the evidence, can hardly avoid the conclusion that the strikers are in a bad way and that victory seems to lie with the packers.

President Diaz May Come North.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 1.—Thomas N. McAuley, a New York financier, in the course of an interview with President Diaz expressed the opinion that if President Diaz would visit the United States it would increase American interest in Mexico. In response President Diaz said that he might visit the United States during the coming winter. This remark is taken to mean that General Diaz intends to take a rest from executive duties soon after the installation of Senor Coral in the vice presidency.

Trolley Line For Garrett, Pa.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 1.—Contracts aggregating over $500,000 have just been let by Pittsburgers for the construction of an electric railroad from Garrett, Pa., to Frostburg, Md., a distance of twenty-five miles. The company, which is incorporated as the Meyersdale and Salisbury railroad, proposes furnishing light and power to a dozen Pennsylvania towns and eventually operating a passenger line from Johnstown, Pa., to Cumberland, Md. The central power plant will be at Boynton.

German Ultimatum to Venezuela.

WILLEMSTAD, Island of Curacao, Aug. 1.—It is reported that Herr Pelldram, the German minister at Caracas, has delivered an ultimatum demanding the immediate payment by the Venezuelan government of the interest on the amount of the award to be paid to Germany as stipulated in the protocol signed by Herbert W. Bowen, representing Venezuela, in February, 1903. If this demand is not complied with, the report says, the minister will leave Caracas on Aug. 4.

Many Hurt In Trolley Wreck.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 1.—Twenty-three persons were hurt as the result of a rear end collision between two large trolley cars on the shore line of the Cleveland, Eastern and Painesville railroad near Nottingham, O. Except Mrs. John Heinrichs of Cleveland, who is said to be badly hurt, the other passengers sustained only minor bruises.

President Visits Virginia.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. — Sunday was excessively hot, and the president and Mrs. Roosevelt spent the greater portion of the time away from the White House. CZAR DEEPLY MOVED

Von Plehve, Russia's Murdered Minister, Buried.

BELLS TOLL'D THROUGHOUT EMPIRE

Imposing Ceremony Attended by Emperor and Imperial Family, Foreign Representatives and Many Great Men of Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 1.—M. von Plehve, the minister of the interior who was assassinated Thursday morning last, was buried yesterday, and in every city and hamlet of this vast empire church bells were tolled and masses and prayers said for the repose of the soul of the murdered minister.

The services here, which were according to the rites of the Orthodox church, were of an impressive and imposing character. At 11 o'clock in the morning high mass was said in the stately chapel adjoining the ministry of the interior. Emperor Nicholas and the empress stood with the broken hearted widow and the children of the minister at the foot of a great mound of flowers on which rested the casket. To the right on gold embroidered cushions before a mass of wreaths banked to the ceiling were ranged the decorations which had been won by the statesman during his notable career. To the left were the metropolitan of St. Petersburg and the officiating bishops and priests in their gold emblazoned vestments. A screen of flowers concealed the famous imperial boys' choir.

Among those present were other members of the imperial family, the foreign representatives, including ministers of the empire, generals, admirals, nobles, governors of the distant provinces like those of Astrakhan and Irkutsk, in fact all high officialdom, not even omitting Genghiz Khan, a lineal descendant of the Napoleon of Asia, who is now a major general in the Russian service.

The entire assemblage was in full uniform, and on the arm of each one present was a badge of mourning. All held lighted tapers throughout the service, and the air was heavy with the perfume of flowers and incense from the censers.

At the most solemn moment, when all knelt and many were affected to tears, the widow was overcome and fainted. The emperor came to her assistance, and sue was carried out by gentle hands.

The emperor was visibly moved, and upon the conclusion of the mass he followed the casket, which was taken up on the shoulders of the ministers and borne down the broad marble staircase to the street. There the funeral procession was formed, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse drawn by six coal black horses which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in somber trappings of woe. A black garbed groom stood at each bridle, and in advance went sixteen similarly clad lantern bearers. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot. The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy monastery, where the burial took place, was over five miles away and also because of the condition of the empress his majesty soon entered his carriage and returned to the Peterhof palace.

At the end of the procession came four white chariots filled with the floral offerings. The cortege proceeded slowly through the avenues and streets, preceded by a squad of mounted police, and passed within sight of the place where the tragedy occurred.

As the body passed every head was uncovered, and thousands crossed themselves.

The monastery stands on a plain beyond the Narva gates, and at these gates fully 50,000 persons were gathered.

After a burial service in the church the body was interred in the adjoining cemetery, where repose the remains of many of Russia's greatest men and at a point within a stone's throw of the grave of M. Siplaguine, who was M. von Plehve's predecessor and who also fell by the hand of an assassin less than two years ago.

British Protest to Venezuela.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Aug. 1.—The British minister at Caracas has strongly protested in the name of the English bondholders against the seizure by the Venezuelan government of the asphalt lake at Guanaco, the property of the New York and Bermudez Asphalt company, maintaining that the interests of the bondholders will be menaced unless the lake be immediately restored to the company.

Chicago Beat Fair City Team.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Seven hits for ten bases, together with an error, a pass and a wild pitch, gave the National locals the game in the second inning. Both teams fielded loosely, and both pitchers were unsteady and wild. The score: Chicago, 9; St. Louis, 5.

JESSEN IS IN PORT

Vladivostok Squadron Has Ended Its Second Raid.

KUROPATKIN, TRAPPED, MUST FIGHT

Tokyo Contradicts Rumor of Port Arthur's Capture, but It Is Closely Invested—The Situation For Russia Is Now Critical.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—A special cablegram from Tokyo says that the Vladivostok squadron has returned to Vladivostok.

An earlier dispatch said that the Vladivostok squadron had passed Tsugaru strait on the way to Vladivostok on Saturday afternoon.

Admiral Jessen, commanding the squadron, has thus ended his second raid on Japanese and foreign shipping.

The raid of the Vladivostok squadron has been an extremely disastrous one. It is estimated that besides the loss of the Knight Commander sunk by the squadron, two hundred thousand tons of chartered shipping has been held ten days at a loss of $7,500,000.

Advices from Chefu say that the Japanese have occupied every position surrounding the besieged fortress of Port Arthur with the exception of

ADMIRAL JESSEN.

Golden hill. Both sides have suffered tremendous losses in the operations necessary to bring about this state of affairs.

The members of the Russian intelligence bureau, while denying the report that Port Arthur has been captured, are inclined to believe the reports true to the extent that the Japanese have made great progress in their operations about the besieged fortress.

Although public attention has been distracted from the events of the war, first because of the fear of international complications, and second because of the assassination of Minister of the Interior Von Plehve, the situation at the front is regarded as critical.

The enveloping movement of the three Japanese armies of Generals Kuroki, Nodzu and Oku around General Kuropatkin's position appears to be almost complete, and the extended line of the Japanese seems to be the only drawback to concerted action. It is realized here that the Russian general must now either fight or withdraw the whole army northward, as he is being so closely pressed at Haicheng.

Opening in an artillery duel, the Japanese attack on the Russian right flank has been begun at Haicheng. Dispatches from that place say the Japanese advance has been checked, but the result of the battle is not yet known.

St. Petersburg believes General Kuropatkin is fighting a decisive battle, as he was threatened with envelopment by the advancing Japanese.

From Tokyo comes official contradiction of the Shanghai rumor that Port Arthur has been captured.

A Newchwang report says that there has been heavy fighting for two days in the marshes south of Haicheng during the gradual retreat from Tashichao of 5,000 Russians forming the rear guard and that the peril of this force increases daily.

The statement that the British residents of Newchwang, headed by the British consul, made a pro-Japanese demonstration upon the arrival of the Japanese in that town and that the British flag and also the United States flag were displayed alongside the flag of Japan is denied.

A St. Petersburg dispatch says that the Russian version of the sinking of the British steamer Hipsang by a Russian torpedo boat, as communicated to the British embassy, relates that the Hipsang was steaming from Fuchau bay, which is in the occupation of the Japanese, at night time without showing lights. The torpedo boat fired ten shots at the Hipsang, which instead of stopping replied with rifle shots. The Hipsang then tried to escape in the fog, whereupon she was sunk by the torpedo boat.

From Vladivostok no details have been received of the sinking of the British steamer Knight Commander by the Vladivostok squadron except a statement to the effect that a portion of the crew and passengers and the ship's papers are held for evidence in court to justify the claim that the ship was a legal prize and therefore subject to confiscation.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 1, 1904.

There is one consolation during this muggy weather in the fact that our clothes stick to us if nothing else does.

While both of the presidential candidates are men of ability and have good qualifications, the walking delegate in his own estimation, is a "biger" man than either.

Plainfield's baseball enthusiasts are jubilant over the victory of Allis on Saturday. Westfield put up a great game, but the local aggregation won out by a score of three to nothing. Dunellen defeated its old time rival New Market for the third time, the score being two to one. Both contests were remarkable exhibitions.

The first trick of the campaign in New Jersey has been played in the appearance of a pamphlet entitled "What the candidacy of Judge Alton B. Parker represents." It is addressed "to the loyal Democracy of New Jersey." It is a little too radical in its denunciation of the Democrats who brought about the nomination of Parker to deceive many.

CLINTON AVE. WINS AGAIN

EMERALDS OF PERTH AMBOY ARE ROUTED BY SCORE OF 7 TO 3.

The Clinton Avenue ball team defeated the Emeralds, of Perth Amboy, on the home grounds Saturday for the second time this season. The score was 7 to 3. Not a run was scored until the seventh inning, when the locals tallied three. In the eighth they made four, while the visitors chalked up three. Features of the contest were the batting of Brit Martin and the pitching of Scott, while Malone, for the visitors, got two of the four hits.

The detailed score:

—Judgment was taken at Justice Hand's court Saturday in attachment proceedings brought by William N. Pangborn, for Mobus Bros., against Frank Zarros. The Judge awarded $30 and costs.

—On complaint of Abram Kunsman, William Thornton was arraigned in the city court Saturday, charged with using profane and indecent language. Thornton admitted the charge but declared he had provocation. By using a little diplomacy Judge Runyon induced the two to shake hands and they left the court room with faces wreathed in broad smiles.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Ziba Osmun, who is proprietor of a stage line between this place and New Market, was the victim of a murderous assault on Saturday afternoon, at the hands of two young toughs, who presumably came from Plainfield. The two boarded the stage at New Market and when Dunellen was reached refused to pay their fares. When Mr. Osmun demanded payment the two jumped upon him and one of them rendered him incapable of defending himself by kicking him in the stomach and knocking him down. Some passersby saw the fracas and ran to Mr. Osmun's assistance. The two toughs then took to flight and were not caught.

A party of people from here and Plainfield spent yesterday picnicking at Chimney Rock. The party started from the home of Joseph Hague and were taken to their destination by C. T. Rogers.

The Misses Mattie and Sadie Barret, formerly of this place, but now of New York, visited old friends in town on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Conover, of New York, entertained relatives from New York on Sunday.

The Dunellen A. C will meet the Clinton Avenue team next Saturday, on the local diamond.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Meseroll entertained a number of relatives from out of town yesterday.

Miss Florence Chichester, of Poughkeepsie, is visiting at the home of James Craig.

The Presbyterian Sunday-school excursion will go to Asbury Park next Thursday.

The annual Merrel-Dayton reunion will take place the second week in August.

Walter Vliet entertained the family of his brother from Elizabeth yesterday.

Harry Apgar, of Philadelphia, spent Sunday at the home of his parents.

Miss Ethel Jamieson, of Basking Ridge, is visiting Mrs. John Kennedy.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Giddes, of Philadelphia, spent Sunday in town.

Mrs. Arthur Gaston entertained out of town friends yesterday.

The borough Council will meet this evening.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The domestic troubles of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bettman are to be aired in the borough tonight. Nearly two weeks ago Mrs. Bettman asked the borough poor committee to take care of her. The committee found a boarding place for her at Mrs. Hooke's. It is understood that Mr. Bettman has said he will give a stipulated sum per week towards her support if the authorities will name a reasonable amount.

Of course it had to happen just then. As the trolley company was hurrying the crowds home from the ball game at Recreation Park, Saturday afternoon, the wheels on the forward car of the several specials being run, became blocked and traffic was delayed for some time. The service was good but there is a "Jonah for the company somewhere.

Rev. J. Y. Irwin, of Perth Amboy, occupied the pulpit at the Baptist church Sunday morning. Mr. Irwin's sermon was enjoyed by a large congregation. No evening service was held, Rev. Mr. Shott, the pastor, preaching at the First Baptist church, Plainfield.

The one day in the year—the local Sunday-schools together with several of the Westfield schools held their annual union excursion to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove tomorrow. Nearly everybody in town will go as this is the only local excursion of the year.

Mrs. Thomas J. Nicholl and daughters, who have been spending several weeks in the Catskill Mountains, returned home on Saturday. Mr. Nicholl, who is improving nicely from his recent severe illness, will remain another week or two.

The Misses Robertshaws, who have been spending a week with their cousins, the Misses Wade, returned Saturday to their home at Jersey City.

George H. Johnston, who was detained at home several days last week with an attack of inflamatory rheumatism, is able to be around again.

Miss Jennie Johnston led the weekly meeting of the Epworth League held Sunday night at the Methodist church.

Miss TenEyck Beardsley, of the borough, left Saturday for a sojourn of several weeks along the Jersey coast.

Charles Johnston and family, of New York, are spending August and September at "The Homestead."

Miss May Marsh, of Park avenue, spent Sunday with her aunt, Mrs. John Johnston, of South avenue.

The members of the B. Y. P. U. held the weekly meeting last night in the parlors of the church.

Miss. Bella Mercoirs has returned from a visit of several days with out of town friends.

John Wade entertained a classmate at Dickinson College over Saturday and Sunday.

Charles Wade, the grocer, is out with a new and up-to-date delivery wagon.

Mrs. William Sharp has returned from a visit with relatives in New York.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Circulars are out announcing the joint excursion of the Sunday-schools of the Baptist churches of New Market and South Plainfield, and the Epworth League, of Bound Brook, to Bellewood Park, N. J., on August 9.

Rev. J. A. Cubberley began his vacation today to continue through the month. Services at the church will be conducted on Sunday evenings at 7:30, by the Christian Endeavor Society.

Farmers have finished gathering in their oats which yield a fair crop this year.

William Hamilton and family spent Sunday with relatives at Perth Amboy.

Miss Nellie Manning spent Sunday with Miss Mary Ayers, in Plainfield.

Willie Winans is entertaining his cousin from Watchung.

DUNELLEN, 2; NEW MARKET, 1

HOME TEAM WINS IN PITCHERS' BATTLE AT DUNELLEN.

Dunellen defeated New Market Saturday afternoon in a splendid exhibition of the National game, at Dunellen. As in the two former contests Dunellen won but only by a narrow margin. The game developed into a pitcher's battle in which the honors were evenly divided. Each pitcher allowed three hits and gave two bases on balls. The fielding on both sides was sensational. Giles' one handed catch of a line hit from W. Nelson's bat being a feature of the game.

New Market scored first in the fifth on J. Nelson's single with two men on bases. Dunellen brought in two runs in the eighth, Fletcher and Garvey both scoring by good base running, and by New Market juggling the ball. In New Market's half of the eighth, Hill shut out the tying run by a perfect throw to the plate from right field.

The line up:

Giles, ss; Craig, 3b; Garvey, lf; Fletcher, 2b; Mathews, 1b; Graham, rf; Hill, rf; Alberts, cf; Smith, p; Davis, c.

New Market—Taylor, 3b; Mack, ss; W. Nelson, 2b; Voorhees, 1b; Squires, p; J. Nelson, rf; Peddington, cf; Waglow, lf; A. Nelson, c.

Good Music at Church Service.

Under the direction of Clifford Braider, organist, a special musical service was held at the First Presbyterian church last evening. There were solos by Mrs. S. H. Tugwell, contralto; Elmer Cutting, tenor; duetts by Miss Etta Raybert, soprano, and R. Wilson Derby, bass, also several special selections by the quartette. The pastor, Rev. C. E. Herring, gave a short talk appropriate to the service. This is his last service at the church until he returns from his vacation, September 1.

Miss Runkle Won at Golf.

An event of interest at Lake Champlain on Wednesday last was the children's handicap golf play, in which Miss Mary Runkle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Runkle, of this city, took part. The first tee presented a pretty spectacle when Miss Runkle, the first player, drove off. The players and spectators were grouped about to watch the driving, and the little folks were a bit nervous at first. The prizes were handsome silver cups. Miss Runkle won the first prize, playing from scratch.

THE ANGORA GOATS

RAISING THEM A GROWING INDUSTRY IN THIS COUNTRY.

Their Wool Is a Valuable Product and Is Used in Almost Countless Ways — Valuable for Other Things.

The Angora goat is not generally known throughout the world as a domestic animal; many who come upon its name in the natural histories and cyclopaedias pass it out of mind as a semi-wild beast. However, if all who are indebted to the Angora for some of their most beautiful clothing were familiar with the animal itself, it would have tens of thousands of friends. The most valuable feature of the Angora goat is its fleece, and when the ladies are told that this fleece is what is known in commerce as mohair, they will think they know all the rest; but it is hardly possible that they are aware of the fact that their brilliantine and zibeline dress goods, their imitation astrachan coats (though not often sold as imitations) and a score or more of such-like goods are made of mohair; they are not aware that their best furniture is upholstered with mohair, because this product has all the luster of silk, all the durability of the frame of the chair itself, and all the beauty of design that can be woven into any fabric; that their children have muffs and cape trimmings of the raw mohair; and that hundreds of floors have rugs made from the skins of Angoras, generally dyed a brilliant color, but often in the natural white. When men are informed that almost every upholstered car is done in mohair plush they are not really astonished until they are still further informed that mohair is nothing else than Angora goat hair. All this is true, and much more could be added. The world's annual production of mohair is truly immense.

The native habitat of this little friend of mankind is Asia Minor. At different times efforts have been made to acclimatise them in various countries, but generally without success, owing usually to an unsuitable climate. However, a few head were brought to the United States in 1849, where they have lived a precarious existence for many years. In the early fifties a considerable number were transported to Cape Colony, where they have thriven to such an extent as at this time to make that country the leading mohair-producing territory in the world.

During the last four years there has been a distinct revival of this industry in the United States, a condition which has been brought about largely through the efforts of the government in its behalf. Previous to this time most of the goats had been concentrated at places in a few of the western states, and not many people knew anything about them; but now they may be found in every state and territory, and at several points in Canada, and nothing but the best reports are heard of them from all these sections. They are doing well in the semi-arid southwest in the mountains of California and Montana, and on the sand-dunes of Lake Superior. In New England they give fair promise of being the forerunners of a rehabilitation of the abandoned farms there, where the extreme cold of winter does not injure them. The present expansion of this industry in the United States is based principally upon two features—the production of mohair and the destruction of brushwood by the goats. Incidentally, they produce very fine mutton, but not many good mohair producers are slaughtered for meat. The fleece is found to be superior to the South African product, and only slightly inferior to the Turkish hair. There are mills in New England that consume all of the domestic product, and, besides, they import over a million pounds. Although there will be a rapid increase in the amount of hair produced in the United States, there is no prospect of a surplus for many years to come.

GEORGE FAYETTE THOMPSON.

DINING-ROOM DRAPERIES.

Plain and Inexpensive Material That Serves Well for the Purpose.

The neighboring merchant, says Ada Sterling, in Harper's Bazar, may not keep the variety of demins so popularly adopted by city housekeepeers, and so truly useful in the home of modest aspirations, but he is altogether likely to carry quantities of red-brown or old-blue "overhaulin's," and these, in a weave that is a kind of compromise between jeans and duck, and not unlike the demin, are admirable substitutes for this favorite material. From the point of view of the artist, their tones are excellent. A whole sitting-room may be done in either, beginning with the chair cushions and those of the improvised settle, the draperies, and even the floor covering. To give color to the dining-room of a farmhouse, generally whitewashed or kalsomined and plainly painted, such materials will prove excellent. They improve in softness as laundering becomes necessary, and will take needle ornamentation admirably. This, when done with rope-linen thread or mercerized cotton, is often highly effective. A room with blue duck cushions as a feature, with white walls, and soft, fresh muslin curtains, with a hooked or woven or merely plaited rag carpet, will be dainty, modern, and refined. Interiors so treated are no longer accounted plain and "countrified," but are being devised again and again in the colonial cottage homes that distinguish the beautiful suburbs of New York, Philadelphia, and Washington.

Many calico designs seen upon the counters of country merchants are wholly unfit for wearing apparel, but they will often be of a pattern and coloring and body which will serve admirably for the making of trunk covers, closet curtains, for the dressing of beds, and for making box-plaited or gathered mantel lambrequins. They are fresh and sanitary, and, by means of neat workmanship in making them up, may become things of real beauty. A room so treated should not contain, of course, more than one pattern of goods, the curtains and ruffled trunk covers and valanced bed being done in the same. Where variety is desired, colored linings may be given the bedspread or the curtains, such as plain rose or blue or green; or, where even this is not available, a soft yellowed or unbleached muslin will serve with good effect.

HELPS FOR THE HEALTH.

Some Simple Remedies Which Are Suggested for Common Ailments.

Oranges are said to be excellent for a sallow complexion. Of course, one at breakfast time cannot be depended on to make an appreciable difference in one's color, but four or five a day will be likely to.

Carry a cake of chocolate in your handbag when taking a long drive or a several hours' train ride. A nibble now and then of this will prevent a headache or be sufficiently nourishing to check the restless hunger apt to be noticed on such occasions.

If cold water fails to relieve tired and aching feet, try rubbing the feet and ankles with alcohool, then powdering with talcum. Nothing is more conducive to discomfort and inability to work with vigor than aching or uncomfortable feet.

Some one has drawn attention to the fact that music eexrcises an influence on the growth of the hair in a most curious manner. Constant playing for some years on metal instruments, the trombone in particular, will cause baldness; while the playing of the piano, violin and violincello rather increases than otherwise the growth of the hair. Flue and clarinet players are not supposed to be influenced either way.

Persons who are sensitive to drafts should not sit in a strong breeze generated by an electric fan. One good way to derive comfort from these useful contrivances, without permitting the waves of air to beat directly against the body, is to turn the fan toward the wall, from which they will rebound. An agreeable change in the atmosphere of the room will be felt, without the strong wind continually blowing on one's back.

It takes a long time to cure enlarged pores, and the only certain remedy is by the use of the scrubbing brush and a pure hygienic soap. By this process the pores, which have become enlarged by the clogged secretions, are kept free, and gradually they will contract and become normal in size. Thousands of cures have been effected in this manner.

Apple Batter Pudding.

An apple batter pudding is made by slicing tart apples into a deep dish, adding sugar and a little water, and baking until nearly tender enough. Prepare the batter by sifting together two cupfuls of flour, three tablespoonfuls of baking powder, and a little salt. Beat an egg and mix it with a cupful of milk, half a cupful of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Stir the flour into this mixture and pour the batter over the apples. Bake about 20 minutes and serve with whipped cream or a sweet sauce. This pudding may be made with berries, fresh or dried; peaches or other fruit. —N. Y. Post.

Baked Pears.

Peel, halve and core ripe pears, the harder the variety the better. Pack them into an earthenware jar or a casserole with a little sugar and a cupful of cold water, and bake in a cool oven for several hours. They may be eaten hot but are better if allowed to get very cold. Serve with whipped cream.—N. Y. Post.

JAPANESE ACCESSORIES.

Designs of the Orient Are Much in Evidence in Season's Dress Goods.

Then tendency toward Japanese stuffs is most pronounced. The fad for all things Japanese invades the realm of dress and is becoming more and more pronounced, says the Brooklyn Eagle.

It is altogether likely that the Japanese stuffs always were in existence, but it is only lately that their beauties became apparent to western eyes. To-day ones sees the great Japanese wisteria vines embroidered and stamped upon dress materials. There are wonderful dresses, all gay with cherry blossoms, while the Japanese quince and Japanese flowers of all kinds, from tiny chrysanthemums to the gorgeous pomegranates, are found painted and wrought, stamped and etched, outlined and indicated upon nine out of ten of the summer dress materials.

In materials this is just as noticeable as in colors. The Japanese sliks were never so fashionable, and there are countless silks and other stuffs that feel and look like silk and which come from the Japanese looms to be made up into summer and autumn gowns for the American women to wear.

In hats, too, this Japanese influence is seen. The plain American sailor is still the style and always will be. But there is a Japanese sailor, made out of coarse, sofe, open Japanese straw. It is braided and it is rolling in the brim, and the crown is round, instead of square. This sailor hat is trimmed with a scarf of soft silk, which is tied at the back and is finished with two floating ends, with fringe finishing each of the ends.

One of the pretty summer Japanese hats was made of openwork straw in openwork design. Upon the under side of the brim there was a design in big, coarse Japanese stichery. The top of the crown was worked in the same manner, while around the crown there was a twist of Japanese silk finished with a bunch of cherry blossoms. Fetching, indeed, these little styles, and very attractive to the eye of the artistic American girl.

In girdles, in stocks, in parasols, in sashes and in the small things of dress the tendency toward the Japanese is very pronounced. There are soft Japanese silks, which are made, not in Roman design, but very like the Roman, with stripes and squares. The silks are decorated in odd ways, which are so very orientally as to admit of no mistake.

Upon a background of plain dull gold silk there will shine forth the most brilliant of quince blossoms, all done in clusters, with green leaves to temper the glare of the scarlet. There are long green stems to furnish the necessary note of green. The design will be small and neat and apparently done expressly for the stock or girdle which it is to adorn.

There is one very attractive feature about all the Japanese work, and, indeed, about all oriental designs. It looks as though it were done to order. There is no hit or miss or haphazard about it. There is a finish that is exquisitely neat to everything. And in this respect the American handiwork has taken a lesson from the oriental for nothing could excell the eastern work in absolute neatness.

FAILED TO SURPRISE HIM.

The Easterner Knew His Business and Readily Turned the Joke.

Last year the fruit-raisers held a convention in a western city. It was devoted largely to a discussion, pro and con—mainly "con"—as to the "Ben Davis" apple, relates Youth's Companion. Now, the Ben Davis, by reason of its being large, red, fine-looking, a prolific grower and an excellent keeper, is a favoriate apple among westerners who raise fruit for the markets; but the coarseness of its flesh and its lack of flavor and sweetness make it strongly disliked by those who judge an apple by its quality.

Among the apple growers in attendance at the convention was an eastern horticulturist who had been especially severe in his denunciation of the Ben Davis. He presented figures showing that the exportation of American apples to Europe had fallen off lamentably of late years on account of the fact that the most of them were of this particular variety, and that the people over there could not be brought to regard them with favor; and he urged that the convention set the seal of its condemnation on the Ben Davis and discourage its further growth and exploitation.

A fruit grower who had an orchard of several thousand apple trees, all of them of this particular kind, one morning handed him a magnificent looking specimen, bright red and of the largest size.

"You think you know a good deal about apples," he said, with a sly wink at the others who were standing about. "Taste that and see if you can tell what variety it is."

The eastern man bit, or tried to bite, into it. He found that its exterior was a thin shell of papier-mache, while its interior consisted entirely of cork.

"Yes," he said, with a countenance wholly unmoved, "I known what it is. It's a Ben Davis, but it's the best one I ever tasted."

Washing Delicate Fabrics.

A valuable hint for washing delicate woolen goods, silks and ribbons, is to use potato instead of soap. Grate two good-sized potatoes fine, and dissolve them in a pail of lukewarm water; in it the goods are washed as carefully as in soapsuds, then thoroughly rinsed. This method is especially good for outside garments.—Good Housekeeping.

Griddled Potatoes.

Have cold, boiled potatoes and cut in long, rather thin slices. Dip them in melted butter, sprinkle with salt and paprika. Broil and when serving garnish with chopped chives.—Boston Budget.

ATTRACTIVE GOWNS.

Dresses of Checked Silk and Cotton Materials Are Popular.

At the races recently numbers of rather plain silk gowns were observed, notably some of checked blue and white and mauve and white silk in pliable soft taffeta. One of the prettiest of these was very simply fashioned, with loose sleeves showing plaited frills, a wide gathered flounce on the skirt and a wide folded belt of the plain silk.

Checked gingham and lawn dresses, too, are ultra smart and can be prettily trimmed with embroideries in the shade of the dark check. One of these was seen recently at a seaside resort. It had a full blouse waist, with a wide collar composed of three rows of scalloped trimming. The skirt was shirred around the hips, and it had three rows of scallops around the bottom. The hat worn with this was of ecru straw, trimmed with a wreath of rosebuds and two ends of lace hanging over the back of the upturned brim.

White dotted muslin dresses are combined with pale blue sash belts. The touch of pale blue reappears also on the sleeves at the elbow puff, and if becoming another touch can be added in the shape of the wide hair bow.

The picture shows a cream straw shade hat trimmed with holly berries and leaves falling on the hair in the back.

UP TO DATE MATERIALS.

Soft Effects—White Wool Tailor Mades For Seashore Wear.

Cheviots and serges still continue to be in vogue and always will be, as nothing can take the place of one of these garments carefully tailored and worn with stiff shirt waists and tailor made stocks.

White wool tailor made, mostly with short coats, are being sold a great deal at present for seashore and mountain wear.

There is a fancy for all the softer materials, and satin messaline and crepe de chine are very popular. White muslin and lace are of course smarter than everything else at this time of the year, and the large sleeves show to great advantage in these materials.

From Vienna, home of the tailor made, comes the dictum that the smart street costume of the fall is to be extremely plain. Already last winter there was a hint of this in the straight tailor made models worn with severely plain shirt waists.

Pink is very fashionable. It has taken the place of the pale shades of green and lemon which threatened us the early part of the season.

Everything in dress is shirred, appliqued and gauged. Quaint cross over effects are arrived at by means of bias plaitings or the soft fichu. There are also some curious old fashioned kiltings, though the fabrics generally used are soft, and there is a little chemisette of lace or embroidered muslin. Ruches are also made in every variety. Muslins in particular can stand any possible amount of ruching and plaiting.

Chiffon veils this season are very little worn and then only for traveling and distinctly tailor made occasions.

The picture shows a taffeta gown of hortensia pink, trimmed on the waist with lace and small buttons. The scarf is of mousseline and lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SOLVING A PROBLEM

EASE IN HANDLING CHICAGO'S VOLUME OF MERCHANDISE.

THROUGH TUNNEL SYSTEM

It Will Do Away with Much of the Heavy Street Traffic — The Cost of Pure Water— Other Notes.

Chicago.—It is expected that six months from the present time the majority of the merchandise shipped in and out of the business district of Chicago will be delivered to and from the depots underground.

Present Condition of the Streets.

The Illinois Tunnel & Telephone company is above all else a tunnel company. The automatic telephone served very well as a blind for an unsuspecting public. The telephone has been installed; some day it may be useful and a competitor for the old established Bell system; to-day, and for several years to come, it would not pay operating expenses, to say nothing of dividends on an investment of some $30,000,000 which the company has put into the tunnels. The 40 miles of tunnels, which were ostensibly built to serve merely as conduits for telephone wires, but telephone conduits are not necessarily 15 feet high by 12 feet wide, which represents the dimensions of the largest tunnels, nor even seven feet wide by nine feet high, which is about the dimensions of the smallest of the tunnels. Neither is an electric railway track in all of these tunnels, or hundreds of electric cars needed in the operation of a telephone system. The telephone wires are there; they occupy a few inches of space in the apex of the tunnels; the remainder of the extensive system will be utilized for the purpose of freight delivery to and from the depots.

The company has purchased a large tract of land at a point where it is possible for every railroad line in the city to reach it. All merchandise freight going to or from the wholesale or retail district will be received at or shipped from this point. To this point the tunnel cars will run, making elevator connection through the basement with each of the large stores.

What It Will Mean.

Clean, asphalted, uncrowded streets is what the system means to Chicago. At least, such are the possibilities.

As the Streets Are Expected to Be.

Under the present conditons, with thousands of heavy trucks passing to and fro constantly asphalted streets are out of the question. Nothing but cobble stones will stand the heavy traffic. Granite cobble stones are expensive to lay, and even more expensive to keep clean. In fact, it is next to impossible with the limited means at the command of the city to clean such streets. To make even a semblance of cleaning them they must be swept by hand, inch by inch, every day. Washing is out of the question. Every crevice is a lodging place for dirt, and there it sticks, only to be removed by the efforts of a lusty street sweeper applied to a heavy brush.

To-day the streets in the business districts of the city are horribly overcrowded. More so than the muchly advertised overcrowding of Broadway in New York. Long lines of heavy trucks block important thoroughfares all through the working hours, and pedestrians must either take their life in their hands and thread their way through them when wishing to cross or wait until an obliging policeman stops the steady procession for a few seconds so as to give the pedestrians an opportunity.

Another thing which this system of tunnels will do, especially when the system of coal delivery is put in operation. It will strike a death blow at the teamsters' union, the strongest labor organization in the city, and the one which the industrial and commercial interests of the city have had to incessantly bow to. Within a year it is expected that a number of the big trucking companies that now haul goods to and from the depots will be virtually put out of business, and their employes forced to look for other jobs.

The Drainage System.

When plans now in course of construction are completed Chicago will have one of the most complete drainage systems known in any country in the world.

Where the Evanston Golf Camp.

In the effort to provide pure drinking water for the people and remove the pollution of the lake by turning the drainage of the city in another direction more than $35,000,000 have been spent, and the work has but just begun. To complete it the big system of intercepting sewers on both the South and North sides of the city must be completed. Those on the South side are well along, and water will be flowing through a part of them within a short time. Those on the North side are hardly begun.

In addition to those projects new territory has been added to the drainage district, making necessary the building of new canals from the Calumet district on the south to connect with the main canal now in operation, and from the lake at Evanston on the north to connect with the north branch of the river which already connects with the main canal. When these projects shall have been completed practically every bit of Chicago's drainage for a distance of 25 miles north and south, will flow through the drainage canal and into the Mississippi by the way of the Illinois river. Before they are completed not less than $70,000,000 will have been expended in the effort to give the city pure drinking water.

The route of the new north shore canal cuts directly through the grounds of the exclusive Evanston golf club. This will take out of the center of the grounds a right of way not less than 500 feet wide, and through this will be constructed a ditch of 120 feet in width flanked on either side by high banks of earth. The bunkers and water hazard such as these will make are too much for the north shore golfers, and the club is sadly preparing to vacate and is looking for new grounds.

The City Directory.

The issuing of the annual edition of the Chicago city directory is an event much watched for by thousands. Probably no other volume of the year is of so much general importance to the public as this is. To be sure the blue book holds first place with the elite element, but the numbers of that class is as yet so small that the coming of a new volume makes but a small stir in the city. The "oldest citizen" takes great pride in making comparisons of sizes between each new volume and others that have preceded it. He goes back half a century and more to the little volumes that contained but a few hundred names, and following it down comments upon the rapid growth, illustrative of the growth of the city, to the present book of ten pounds in weight, and carrying 657,000 names, indicating, so the experts say, a papulation of about 2,250,000 people.

Growth of the City Directory.

Owing to a new rule of the publishers, made this year, to leave out the names of "all unmarried ladies not engaged in business," the book is not so noticeably larger than the one of last year as has been the case in previous years, there being but 3,000 more names this year than last.

A study of the book shows the most common name in Chicago to be Johnson. There are 57 closely set columns of him. Smith is the next most popular name, with ten colums less than the Johnsons. The Andersons rank third with 40 columns; Browns are fourth with 25 columns, and good, old, familiary Jones comes along in fifth place with but 18 columns.

From the ghetto district many peculiar names are gathered, among which may be found Bing, Ding, Bang, Zipp, and Zinger among the explosives; Geiser and Kidder in the slang class; Bugg, Monk and Duck for natural history, and Booze, Beer and Swig to shock the prohibitionists. Henry Neverthought probably does not live up to his cognomen, and Fred Lovelady must be a social favorite.

The Family of Birds.

Just as practically every cognomen known to the human family may be found in the Chicago city directory so may virtually every species of bird known to the northern states be found within the city limits.

The Flight of the City Birds.

The robins, the bluejays the red-winged blackbird, the prettily colored wild canary, the wren, the little king bird, the crow and, in fact, all up and down the bird scale numerous representatives of each family may be found. Like the Johnsons of the human family, the sparroys—the little victims of the air guns and the slingshots of the boys—are by far the most numerous. Another family that is not so common is the chimney swift. They find attractive nesting places in the unused chimneys of the city. The barn swallows are another variety that is even less numerous than their cousins, the swifts. In the residence districts, especially, the purple martins are favorites, and are catered to with attractive bird houses, which are often preempted by the omnipresent sparrow.

Rather an uncommon bird for the city, and yet one of which there are considerable numbers, is the nighthawk. They build their nests on the graveled roofs of the tall skyscrapers and flat buildings, and many a janitor refers to them as "my friends."

Of all the birds of the city none are more popular with the passing thousands than the pigeons of the downtown district. Their feeding place is the street and the sidewalk, and for any person to maliciously harm one of them would be almost cause for a lynching bee.

DIAMOND DUST.

The West End A. C. defeated "Man-eater" Mullen's "Nationals" Saturday morning on their grounds on West Fourth street. The defeat was by one run, the score being 8-7. The battery for the "Nationals" was Schiller and Mullen.

The Metuchen B. C. whitewashed the Potter A. C. on the Potters' grounds Saturday afternoon by a score of 3-4. Had it not been for the errors of the home near the close of the game, the contest could not have been decided in nine innings. The Terry brothers formed the battery for the team.

PERSONAL.

Wm. R. Cock, of East Fifth street, is ill with typhoid fever.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Saums, of West Front street, are visiting relatives at Point Pleasant.

Dr. B. VanD. Hedges returned Saturday from his vacation. While away he visited the Exposition at St. Louis.

For a Day's Outing.

For a day of pleasure go with the First Presbyterian, Congregational and Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-schools to Ocean Grove and Asbury Park on Thursday. You will not only have an enjoyable day at the seashore, but will be in good company. Ample arrangements have been made for the comfort and convenience of all who go.

In Court for Fighting.

For fighting and raising a general disturbance on East Fourth street, Saturday night, Edward Dooley and John Stoppel were arraigned in the city court this morning. The preponderance of evidence was against Dooley and he was fined $5 with twenty days alternative. Stoppel was suspended.

Lineman Seriously Hurt.

Frederick J. Campbell, of Jersey City, a lineman employed by the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, fell off the top of a telephone pole at Westfield this morning, breaking two ribs and sustaining a puncture of the lungs. He was removed to the Elizabeth Hospital.

Democrats New Headquarters.

The Democratic Club, of this city, has leased Central Hall, the top floor in the Taylor building, corner of Park and North avenues, as headquarters for the party during the campaign. It is proposed to secure prominent speakers and hold public meetings during the campaign.

C. C. Long Caused Disturbance.

Charles C. Long, of the borough, was arrested on Somerset street by Patrolman Meyers, Saturday night, for disorderly conduct. Judge Runyon released him on a suspended sentence this morning.

ANCIENT GAME'S POPULARITY CONTINUES

Notwithstanding Predictions Golf is Still a Sport to Attract the Well-to-do Citizen.

PROMINENT PLAYERS

REINHART, BAKER AND OTHERS WHO ARE RANKED AS EXPERTS.

Hillside and Park Golf Clubs Draw a Large Element of Residents—Clubs in the Vicinity.

The continued popularity of the game of golf has often been a cause of wonderment to many, especially in this vicinity, where several fine golf courses are maintained. In addition to the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club in this city, and the Park Golf Club in the borough, there is the fine nine-hole course of the Westfield Club, as well as the one at Finderne. There is also the Colonia Golf Club at Rahway and still another course at New Brunswick.

Although the game is comparatively new in this country, having been imported from Scotland, Americans have been quick to see the advantage of it in the way of exercise. The game is not what one might term as a "poor man's recreation," for it is quite expensive. In addition to the membership dues, it costs considerable for a devotee to equip himself fully. There are several kinds of clubs the player must have, while the cost of golf balls is not the least expense. Manufacturers have not as yet brought the prices of these balls down to any great extent and for the man or woman who plays the game to any extent, the expense of keeping a stock of balls on hand is sure to be an important one.

Since the introduction of golf in Plainfield and the borough, several players have become prominent in the game not only on their home course, but in championship plays throughout the State and country. Notably among them are Frank O. Reinhart, J. Whitney Baker, Frank Talmadge, W. L. Glenney, Robert Abbott, H. deP. Wright and several from the Park Golf Club, including Morgan T. Townsend and others.

Notwithstanding that the game is expensive, the various clubs in this vicinity have large memberships and are constantly electing new members. Several times the Hillside Club has amended its constitution and by-laws changing the limit of membership and even then there has often been a waiting list. The popularity of the Park Golf Club has been about equal. While the Hillside Club maintains an 18-hole course, the club across the brook has a very sporty nine-hole course. Those who heave played on both, claim that the borough course is more difficult and that a low score is much harder to make there than at Hillside.

Each club expends considerable money in keeping its course in fine condition. The grass has to be cut regularly and frequently and especial care is given to the greens which must be as smooth as possible for putting and approaching.

Entertaining the Little Ones.

A pleasant evening was passed at the Mary Morgan Fresh Air Home, Netherwood, Saturday, on the occasion of the visit of A. A. Lake and fifteen members of the Dunellen Christian Endeavor Society. The time was spent in all manner of indoor games and contests by the children. The society brought with them a large phonograph, which was set up and rendered well known airs during the course of the evening. Each member of the society brought along cake, candy or refreshments of some sort and a collation was subsequently served to the campers.

Major Carl Lentz, chairman of the Essex county Republican committee, in an authorized interview predicts success for the Republican ticket this coming fall and gives valuable Essex county figures. The major says: "In my opinion the election of President Roosevelt and Senator Fairbanks is beyond question. If anything, I consider President Roosevelt stronger than his party. There is no doubt in my mind about New Jersey's going Republican and Essex county will give the ticket a large majority."

"New Jersey is not going Democratic this fall; that kind of talk was all moonshine. Roosevelt will carry our State and we are going to see to it that he carries it by a large majority." Congressman H. C. Loudenslager thus expressed himself to several members of the Union league in Philadelphia. Mr. Loudenslager is New Jersey's member of the Republican congressional campaign committee and he is taking a keen interest in the preliminary work of the campaign. "What about that Parker telegram?" he was asked. "That telegram does not mean anything to the sound money men of New Jersey."

Hacquer's Team Defeated Firemen by Score of 3 to 2.

The local firemen's baseball team with Captain Townley in charge and a scrub team collected by "Col." Archibald H. Hasquer crossed bats on Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon. The contest was a very good one and resulted in victory for Haoquer's forces by a score of 3 to 2. A return game is to be played within the next few weeks.

The two sides lined up as follows: Firemen—Sherwin, p; Rockfellow, c; Hamilton, 1b; Townley, 2b; Brokaw, ss; Yaegar, 3b; McCabe, rf; Janet, lf; Emmons, cf. Haoquer's—Whitley, p; Woodland, c; Josephs, 1b; Nash, 2b; McComb, ss; Trotter, 3b; Todd, cf; Hewitt, lf; Colthar, rf.

Leslie Hansen Dead.

Leslie M. Hansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hansen, of Lincoln place, died yesterday at the home of his parents. He was seventeen years old and had been ill for a long time. A brother and sister survive him. Funeral services will be held from his late home Wednesday afternoon at 2:30.

—A sudden flash of lightning which accompanied a slight storm flurry, yesterday afternoon struck a tree on Steiner place, opposite Augustus Rupert's residence. The bolt also glanced along the Rupert porch but did not cause any great damage.

Somersets, 10; Celluloids, 1.

The Celluloid A. A., of Newark, was defeated by Somerville Saturday by a score of 10 to 1. Smiling Jimmie Montross made his debut as a Somerville pitcher, and held the visitors safe at all stages of the game. He sent many back to the bench by the strike-out route. The new team, which was virtually the Scotch Plains nine, played finely and won as it pleased. The attendance was 500. The score:

Somersets.....	0	0	4	0	2	3	0	1	x	—10

Auto Struck a Boy.

A boy whose identity could not be learned but who is said to live on East Second street, was run into by an automobile on upper Somerset street, yesterday afternoon, and painfully injured about the head. He was attended at Maul's hotel by a passing physician and later removed by his mother, who was with him, to this city in a carriage.

MATTERS CONSIDERED BY THE CITY FATHERS

Protest Against Speed of Trolleys on East Front St. and Watchung Ave.

BUY GARBAGE CANS

BONDS TO BE ISSUED FOR MACADAMIZING PURPOSES.

Public Hearing on Street Improvement—Fire Pretection at Netherwood Fresh Air Home—Other Affairs.

The Common Council at its August meeting held last night received a strong protest from Dr. J. B. Probasco and others asking that some action be taken to regulate the running of automobiles and trolley cars at the corner of East Front street and Watchung avenue. The petitioners cited the fact that the corner is a dark one and accidents are sure to occur unless preventive measures are taken. They asked that an arc light be placed on the corner and that the trolley cars be compelled to make a full stop before turning either into Front street or Watchung avenue.

Another matter to which the attention of the Council was called was that in reference to a cellar hole on the Durlach property, the result of moving a portion of the building. The petitioners asked that steps be taken to fill this opening, thereby preventing possible accidents. The matters were referred.

J. B. Coward, Esq., representing Coward and Murray, owners of the property occupied by police headquarters on East Front street, appealed to the Council regarding the city water rent for the building, stating that as there is but one connection to the building, the water company cannot divide the bill. Mr. Coward desires that the city make some arrangements to pay the rent for water. The matter was referred to the proper committee with power.

Joseph E. Meyer, one of the property-owners signing A. D. Thompson's petition to have Denmark road and Berkely avenue macadamized, in a letter to Councilman Wilson, requested that his name be taken from the petition for the reason that he had learned the expense would be greater than he anticipated. He added that he is willing to sign to have Berkely avenue macadamized.

Rev. E. M. Rodman petitioned the Council for a fire hydrant near the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, explaining that the nearest hydrant is over a half mile away. He spoke of the necessity of having better fire protection near the Home on account of the great number of children there during the summer. The matter was referred.

Assessor H. O. VanEmburgh reported several assessments made in error and at his request, Mr. Daniel offered a resolution providing that the same be cancelled. Assessor Charles H. Hand also made a request for the adjustment of several assessments on Hillside and Martine avenues and proper action was taken regarding them.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that thirteen building permits were granted during July.

Mr. Gloak offered a resoluiton that the city purchase 840 garbage cans at the crematory at an expense of $84.90, the money to be appropriated from the general fund. The resolution was adopted, Messrs. Daniel and Murphy voting in the negative. The cans are a part of the equipment of the old Plainfield Sanitary Company and if the city eventually adopts municipal collection of garbage the cans will be useful, besides the present cost is exceedingly cheap.

Mr. Lee's recommendation that the petition of Thomas Callahan, of Richmond street, for a fire alarm box at the corner of East Third and Richmond streets, was granted.

Mr. Murphy recommended the granting of two electric lights on Clinton avenue at the corner of West Fifth and West Sixth streets. The request was granted by a unanimous vote.

Mr. Gloak introduced an amendment to the ordinance presented at the last meeting providing for the macadamizing of certain streets. The amendment cuts out one block on Berkely avenue, where J. W. Rinehart owns property on both sides of the street. Mr. Rinehart protested against the macadamizing in front of this property and the ordinance was

INCREASED SEWER FACILITIES

FLOW HAS NEARLY DOUBLED AND IMMEDIATE ACTION IS NEEDED.

According to the opinion of Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett the time has arrived for the Common Council to take steps to provide increased facilities for caring for the city sewage. He made this recommendation at the regular meeting of the Council, last night.

The suggestion accompanied Mr. Gavtet's monthly report. He stated that during the past month ninety-five sewer permits were granted and that since the last improvement to the system was made in March, 1900, 480 connections have been made. At that time the daily flow of sewage matter was 450,000 gallons and the present flow is 850,000 gallons. In view of this he made the suggestion that the Council prepare to take care of more sewage matter. The proper committee will consider the question and report later.

TO ERECT FLAT BUILDING

L. L. MANNING CONTEMPLATES IMPROVEMENT ON WEST FRONT ST.

L. L. Manning, the marble cutter, who owns the property corner of Central avenue and West Front street, has plans in preparation for the erection of a handsome building where his marble works now stand. It will contain well-appointed flats on the second and third floors and stores on the ground floor. In making this improvement the marble works will be transferred to the rear of the property.

Before actually commencing the work, Mr. Manning and John Abbott, the adjoining property-owner, asked the Council last night to establish the building line on West Front street, between Central avenue and New street. This was granted and in connection with it, Mr. Gloak chairman of the street committee, said after the meeting, that as soon as Corporation Counsel Marsh returns from Europe, he proposes to have him draft an amendment to the ordinance which will establish building lines in all of the principal streets, especially in the business part of the city. This action will probably be taken in Sycamore avenue, where an unsuccessful attempt has been made to widen that thoroughfare.

DISPUTE OVER LAWYER'S FEE

SUPREME COURT ORDERS NEW TRIAL IN UNION COUNTY COURT.

In the New Jersey Supreme Court on a rule to show cause in the case of William H. Waldron against Winfield S. Angleman, Esq., an opinion has been filed setting aside the retraxit procured by the defendant from the plaintiff at the time the latter alleges he was in a state of intoxication. The plaintiff is a resident of Warren township.

The case will be re-tried at the October term of the Union county court. The retraxit terminated the case until some action could be taken upon it in the Supreme Court.

The original action grew out of an accident at a grade crossing in Dunellen about three years ago, when the plaintiff was injured. Mr. Angleman secured a settlement with the New Jersey Central without trial, retaining what he bellieved to be a fair compensation for services.

The plaintiff was dissatisfied with his share of the amount and brought an action against his counsel to recover the balance he thought due him. The lawyer disposed of this action temporarily by having him sign the retraxit.

The Week at Netherwood Camp.

The nightly evening meetings at the Mary Morgan Home, at Netherwood, will be in charge of various church societies of this city, Rahway and Elizabeth. The First Baptist church, Elizabeth, will visit the camp this evening and conduct a meeting. Frederick H. Andrews will address the campers tomorrow evening. The Seventh-Day Baptist church Christian Endeavor Society will be in charge of the meeting on Thursday evening, and on Friday services will be conducted by the Epworth League from the First Methodist church, of Rahway.

The Time of Your Life.

Don't let any other engagement prevent you from going with the First Presbyterian, Congregational and Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-schools to Asbury Park on Thursday. You will have one of the best times of your life and a day at the shore will do you lots of good.

COAL WILL REMAIN AT $6 FOR A TIME

Action of New York Dealers Will Have No Effect on the Local Market Just Now.

BIG SUPPLIES HERE

LATER A RAISE OF FIFTY CENTS A TON WILL BE MADE.

Price in New York $6.15—Wholesale Rate $4.90—The Railroads Are Well Stocked.

Contrary to expectation the price of anthracite coal did not take a jump yesterday as was the case in New York and Brooklyn. It is quite likely that some time this month the local dealers will raise the price from $6, the prevailing figure, to $6.50, and keep it there for the winter, unless there should be serious trouble at the mines. However, strike troubles should not seriously interfere with the local market much, it is believed, as the railroad company is well supplied with anthracite at its storage plants and nearly every local dealer along the line has a big supply.

The fourth advance of 10 cents a ton ordered by the anthracite coal operators, pursuant to their agreement made in March, and the third advance of the same amount agreed upon by the Coal Merchants' Association of Manhattan and the Bronx, went into effect yesterday.

The wholesale price for domestic sizes in New York during August will be $4.90 at the shipping points adjacent to New York, and $6.15 per ton for the same sizes at retail.

Instead of the local dealers making the ten cent raise each month, as the dealers have done in New York, they will make one raise of fifty cents. This system seems to meet with general approval on the part of the consumers and is less troublesome to the dealers. During the past few weeks there has been considerable talk in the mining regions regarding a strike, there being certain grievances which the operators and miners have failed to adjust. It is hoped that they will be before long and that there will be no strike.

BUILDING LINE ORDINANCE

AMENDMENT TO PRESENT MEASURE IS INTRODUCED IN COUNCIL.

In response to a request presented by L. L. Manning and John Abbott, of West Front street, Mr. Gloak, chairman of the street committee, introduced an amendment to the ordinance providing for the establishment of building lines, at the meeting of the Common Council, last night. Under the provisions of the old ordinance, adopted years ago, the building line extended only as far as Central avenue on West Front street, and as Mr. Manning contemplates the erection of a large building on the southwest corner of Front street and Central avenue, he is anxious to have the line established.

The line was established by an amendment of the ordinance which provides that it be thirty-five feet from the center line of the street, instead of forty. This will make it uniform with the line east of Central avenue, and at the same time it will not affect the curb line which would make the street narrower. The ordinance was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised.

Oldest Bank in State.

The National Newark Banking Company, of Newark, completed its one hundredth year of existence Saturday. It is the oldest banking institution in New Jersey. A charter was obtained from the Legislature of 1804, and it was afterward extended three times. The business was established in a dwelling house in Broad street. On the first day about $4,000 was taken in from depositors. The bank had no vaults, and the officers took the securities to the vaults of the Manhattan Company's bank in New York.

Entertained Friends With "Stag."

George C. Graves, of Liberty street, entertained twenty members of the former Criterion Club at his home last evening. The affair was in the nature of a stag and was greatly enjoyed. Piano selections by Marcus Hoyt and vocal solos by Clarence Brokaw and John P. Hall were features of the entertainment end.

VITRIFIED BRICK PAVE; NOT THE WOOD BLOCK

Original Plan for Renovating and Improving Watchung Ave. Is Materially Altered.

UNANIMOUS DECISION

P. S. C. TO SHARE IN EXPENSE OF LAYING NEW PAVE.

Brick Is Cheaper Than Wooden Block, and Is Said to be More Durable—Work to Start in Fall.

It was decided at the meeting of the Common Council last night to substitute vitrified brick for wood as a material for paving Watchung avenue, between North avenue and Second street. Mr. Gloak previously stated that the vote taken at the last meeting on the question of paving with wooden blocks, was lost by a six to five vote, the rules of the Council requiring a majority vote.

Mr. Gloak then introduced an ordinance providing for the use of brick instead of wood. It was adopted on its first and second readings and ordered advertised. It will be impossible to commence the work until after September 1 as it will take that time to pass the ordinance.

The ordinance provides that no work shall be done in paving the street until the Public Service Corporation shall deposit $1,100 with the city treasurer. The expense for the improvement is to be shared by the city and the Public Service Corporation and the street is to be paved its entire width with the vitrified brick, which in the opinion of the Council is more desirable than wood, besides it with will cost the city $200 less than the wooden pavement. All of the members voted for the ordinance, except Mr. Tyler, who is out of the city.

POLICE TO PLAY BASEBALL

NEWARK COPS CHALLENGE TO BE ACCEPTED BY LOCAL BLUECOATS.

Through a challenge received from both the First and Fourth precinct police baseball nines, of Newark, the local bluecoats may re-organize their team which was quite prominent on the diamond two years ago. Owing to a pressure of duties and the illness of several of the members, the policemen did not play last season and nothing has been done as yet this year.

In past years several games were played with the Newark and Elizabeth teams and the former have been eager to again contest with the Plainfielders. The two challenges were received yesterday and with Chief Kiely's sanction a meeting was arranged to take place this afternoon when some action will be taken. The majority of the policemen are in favor of re-organizing especially since there are several good players among the recent additions to the force. The meeting will be called to order by Patrolman Overbaugh, who was the former captain.

BARNABY BAILED.

Former Plainfielder Released on $20,000 Bonds to Answer Serious Charge.

Frank A. Barnaby, formerly of Plainfield avenue, president of the Knickerbocker Steamboat Company, owners of the ill-fated Gen. Slocum, was arraigned before United States Judge Thomas yesterday and held in $30,000, or $10,000 on each of two indictments.

Mr. Barnaby, together with seven others, was indicted for aiding and abetting the Knickerbocker Steamboat Company, owners of the General Slocum, in fraud, misconduct and violence of law in the equipment of the General Slocum, whereby life was lost. This charge is equivalent to that of manslaughter.

Complaint Dismissed.

The complaint made by Samuel Turnansky against Joel Ginsburg on grounds of assault and of obtaining money under false pretenses was dismissed at Justice Nash's court yesterday afternoon because of the non-appearance of the plaintiff to press the charges. Wm. Newcorn, Esq., was the attorney for Turnansky, and W. S. Angleman, Esq., represented the defendant.

HOURLY TROLLEYS ON P. S. C. EXPRESS LINE

New Schedule Goes Into Effect and Will Continue Indefinitely.

EXPERIMENT A SUCCESS

SERVICE BEGINNING MAY 13, HAS PROVEN POPULAR.

Heavy Travel Every Day—Running Time Has Been Improved—The Company's Plans.

Appreciating the patronage that has been extended the through service between Jersey City and Trenton, the Public Service Corporation has determined to run hourly cars from those points each way. The change will be made Thursday and the new schedule will continue indefinitely. Through cars to Trenton will leave the Watchung avenue terminus in this city at 8:44 a. m., and every hour thereafter until 9:44 p. m. The first through car for Jersey City will leave the same place at 8:46 in the morning and every hour thereafter until 9:46. For the convenience of passengers wishing to continue to Philadelphia, steamers will leave Trenton at 1 and 5 p. m.

The Public Service officials first started the through service on May 13 of this year, purely as an experiment, four trips being made daily. It won instant favor with the public and it soon became necessary to run cars every two hours. Even then the patronage increased steadily and the determination to run hourly cars was agreed upon yesterday. At the start it was believed that the heavy travel would be only on Saturdays or Sundays but this has proven erroneous as the cars are filled on every trip throughout the week.

The running time has been greatly improved and it is seldom that any delay occurs through accidents. Extra cars are stationed at convenient points and they can be placed in service at short notice. It is the intention of the company to make further improvements until the through runs become firmly established with the travelling or pleasure seeking public.

TED STARTED FOR CHINA

YOUNG OVERTON CARRIED OUT TO SEA ON VESSEL BOUND FOR ORIENT.

Edward A. Overton, Jr., of Washington Park, who is known to his friends in the baseball world as "Teddie," narrowly escaped an unlooked for trip to China, Saturday afternoon. He is employed by a steamship company which carries on an Oriental trade and in the course of his duties Saturday morning, he was sent to one of the boats that was preparing to sail.

While conferring with some of the officers in their quarters the captain gave orders to get under way, not knowing he was aboard, and the boat pulled out from the dock. "Teddie" was still talking business when the rocking attracted his attention and hurrying on deck he found himself in the Lower Bay. Ordinarily ocean going steamers are accompanied out by a tug but on this occasion there was none and he faced the prospect of remaining aboard until China was reached.

The captain gave orders to keep a sharp look-out for an inward bound steamer on which the unwilling passenger might be placed but none showed up. Late Saturday evening after the ship was well past Sandy Hook a pilot boat was sighted and was called alongside. The overjoyed "Teddy" was placed aboard and remained on it until Sunday afternoon when he was put on another boat bound in and taken to New York.

Governor Swackhamer?

Samuel S. Swackhamer has announced that he is not a candidate for renomination for Assemblyman from Somerset County, and at the same time he gives it out that he is not looking for either the Gubernatorial or the Congressional nomination. He doesn't deny, however, that though he may have his eyes closed to such honors, he is standing up to his full height in order that in case the political lightning is diverted from other rods he will be in position to be struck.—Newark Evening News.

NOT TO WIDEN THOROUGHFARE

COMMON COUNCIL HEEDS PROTEST OF SYCAMORE ST. PROPERTY OWNERS.

That any attempt will be made on the part of the Common Council to widen Sycamore street, for the present, is not likely. At the August meeting last night an opportunity was given anyone present to speak for or against the improvement. G. W. V. Moy, Esq., representing Mrs. Chapin, who owns the property on the north corner of East Fifth and Sycamore streets, objected to the widening in behalf of his client.

He said that if the street was to be widened its entire length the damage would not be so great, but under the present plans it would cut a portion of the house off. Mr. Moy was the only one present to speak on the subject, but a storm of protest was raised at a recent meeting and in view of this the Council does not feel justified in widening the street. There is every reason to believe that it will remain as it is until a more feasible plan for the improvement is presented.

WRECK VICTIM IN COUNCIL

WILSON FREDERICK TAKES HIS SEAT WITH DUNELLEN BOROUGH FATHERS.

Wilson S. Frederick, of Dunellen, the Westfield wreck victim who underwent the tedious skin grafting operation at Muhlenberg Hospital, attended a meeting of the Dunellen Common Council last evening as a member of the body, for the first time in eighteen months. He was greeted warmly by the other councilmen and after shaking hands with each one, seated himself in the chair which he had occupied so many times before he met with the terrible accident that all but cost his life. He evinced a lively interest in the proceedings and to the casual observer seemed anything but the man who had been given up for dead by several physicians before grafting was tried as a last resort. After the meeting he was placed in a carriage and taken to his home, having suffered no ill effects from the evening's work.

Mr. Frederick has been a member of the Dunellen Council for several years and when in his usual health he was always alive to the needs of the municipality. He devoted a great deal of his time to Councilmanic work and when still a hospital patient he followed the official doings of his colleagues. It was his determination to attend as soon as he was strong enough and though he planned to be present at last month's meeting, last evening was the first time he felt equal to the task.

HUSBAND AND WIFE PART

MRS. C. A. BETTMAN GOES BACK TO LIVE WITH HER MOTHER.

Through the intervention of friends an amicable understanding was effected yesterday between Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bettman, of Fanwood, whose domestic troubles were brought to the attention of the township authorities by the latter's application for aid. Her request was to have been considered at a committee meeting last evening, but in the meantime steps were taken by outsiders to bring husband and wife together and their plans succeeded in the afternoon.

The two met then for the first time since the trouble began and Mrs. Bettman was allowed to see her young son who was taken from her two months ago. Before they parted an agreement was reached which lets the borough out of the trouble. Mrs. Bettman announced that if she was given possession of the child, allowed her fare and paid a certain amount weekly, she would return to her mother's home in Galveston, Texas. The husband agreed to these terms and all proceedings were dropped. Mrs. Bettman will leave for Galveston within a few days.

Craig Blair Hurt.

While he was returning from a visit with relatives in Washingtonville with his uncle, David Boice, on Sunday afternoon, Craig Blair, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Blair, of East Fifth street, was thrown from his wheel and he fell in front of an automobile going in the same direction. The accident happened in front of Maul's hotel at the upper end of Somerset street. The man driving the machine stopped as quickly as possible, but the lad's head struck the front part of the auto inflicting a cut. Otherwise he was not injured. He was brought home in the auto and Dr. D. C. Adams attended him.

SERIOUSLY INJURED IN RUNAWAY ACCIDENT

John Geary, of South Plainfield, Falls Beneath Horses' Hoofs and is Badly Hurt.

UNDER WAGON WHEELS

VICTIM TAKEN TO HIS HOME IN POLICE PATROL.

Received Severe Blow on the Head—Horses Suffered—The Wagon Damaged—Wounds Dressed by Dr. Hughes.

John Geary, the well known South Plainfield produce dealer, was badly injured in a runaway accident which occurred on Somerset street early this morning.

While unloading vegetables in front of Currin & Conover's store his horse gave a sudden start, throwing him backwards over the seat. In falling he grasped one of the animals by the tail which served only to frighten it and also its mate. Both sprang forward at a mad gallop, throwing Geary to the ground and trampling on him before he could pull himself away. He let go the horse's tail only to fall beneath the wheels of the wagon and they passed over his body.

Bystanders picked him up and carried him to Conover's residence where he was made comfortable until the arrival of Dr. Hughes. The physician found him badly cut, scraped and bruised in a dozen places and suffering from several blows on the head. A close examination disclosed no broken bones but there is a possibility of internal hurts from the weight of the wagon passing over his chest. His injuries were dressed and he was removed to his home in South Plainfield by the police patrol ambulance.

When the wagon was overturned what was left of the load of tomatoes, cabbages and other garden truck was thrown in every direction. A trail of tomatoes led up Somerset street from Grandview avenue to Coddington avenue.

The runaway horses continued up Somerset street to Coddington avenue where they collided with a tree, smashing the wagon pole and throwing themselves down. They were captured and placed in Stonewall Jackson's stables. One of them was quite badly hurt and the other sustained a few cuts.

WANTED WIFE SERVED.

Constable Weaver Succeeded, However, in Notifing Defendant of Suit.

Although unsuccesstul in the first two attempts, Constable Peter V. Weaver has finally succeeded in serving Morris Abrams with papers in the case in tort of Miss Reilly against Abrams. The constable met Abrams in front of his store on West Front street yesterday afternoon, and attempted to hand him the warrant. Abrams refused to take it, saying, "You have made a mistake. It is my wife you should serve, not myself." The constable answered: "I do not settle cases in the street" and shoved the paper under Abrams' arm. It fell to the sidewalk, but Mrs. Abrams, who had just come out of the store, saw it fall and, stopping, picked it up. The constable's work was done.

The case, which is to come up in Justice Hand's court Saturday morning, is being brought on complaint of Miss Reilly on account of a pair of shoes. Miss Reilly, who is a New Yorker spending the summer in this city, left a pair of shoes at Abrams' for repair several weeks ago. On calling for them at the appointed time, it is alleged, the salesman gave her a pair which he insisted were the ones she left. On Abrams refusal to return her what she claims as her own shoes, Miss Reilly started suit.

New Charge Against Goldstein.

Another warrant has been sworn out against Max Goldstein by Samuel Turnansky, on the embezzlement charges brought up at Hand's court last week. The Judge dismissed the complaint on its former appearance because of a legal technicality in the wording. The complaint charged Goldstein with the theft of $60 as collector for Turnansky but this embezzlement was not in a lump sum and the complaint had to be reworded. W. S. Angleman, Esq., represents Goldstein and William Newcorn, Esq., is lawyer for Turnansky. The case is called for Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock and a bond of $100 has been filed for Goldstein's appearance.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas U. Dudley and son, of Park place, have gone to Virginia for the month of August.

BASEBALL IN PAST DAYS.

When the Famous Red Stockings Were Virtually Beaten by Harvard.

The year 1870 saw baseball well established and deserving its title of national game, writes James L. Steele in Outing. Of the amateur clubs the Harvard University team was one of the strongest, virtually defeating the famous Red Stockings in one game. The score stood 17 to 12 in Harvard's favor at the beginning of the ninth inning, and with two Reds out, Goodwin, the Harvard pitcher, was hit by a batted ball and injured. He recovered sufficiently to pitch the game out and then fainted—the Reds, meanwhile, piling up eight runs and winning. The game was played in Cincinnati. Imagine a Harvard team of today going so far from home to play a professional club!

That year the Cambridge small boy looked upon Archie Bush and his players as occupying positions of honor several points higher than the President of the United States and his Cabinet.

Another notable achievement of a Harvard nine was the twenty-four inning and no-run game in 1877, with the Manchester, N. H., Club. In this game Catcher Tyng, of the Harvards (yes, Jim Tyng—perennial Jim Tyng), made the unprecedented record of thirty-one putouts and three assists. While this game was interesting and exciting in its early part it grew somewhat monotonous after the fifteenth inning, owing to the fact that the dead ball used became "punky" and the batsmen were unable to knock it outside the diamond. The pitching of Ernst amused the spectators, however, and I think Ernst must have been the pioneer contortion pitcher.

It was customary in those days for a pitcher to stand erect and deliver the ball with the hand below the shoulder, but Ernst had a way of tucking the ball behind his back, looking over his right shoulder and elevating his left leg as he pitched. That seemed to the spectators a bad case of monkey business, and always called forth derisive remarks from the small boys. His record of fifteen strike-outs, and but four flies knocked into the outfields as outs, shows that he knew his business at all events.

The scores of a few games played by leading clubs in 1869 show that a player's occasional request for a substitute to run a few laps for him was not without reason:

Harvards 39, Lowells 16; Clippers of Philadelphia 87, Nationals 9; Havards 40, Fairmounts 14; Lowells 102, Andersons of Lynn 8; Cincinnatis 70, Unions of St. Louis 9; Eckfords 45, Atlantics 25.

These are fair examples of the scores made by the best clubs. Those by some of the minor clubs oftentimes resembled the scores of a billiard match.—Newark News.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Paris by Night," the splendid spectacle and musical comedy which the Messrs. Weber and Rush are presenting atop the Madison Square Garden these days, has caught the popular fancy of New Yorkers and of the visitors to thee metropolis as never before has a summer entertainment in New York. What with sixty pretty girls, a dozen comedians and comediennes, nearly a score of song hits, magnificent costuming, girl ushers, booths in which fancy articles are sold, various games such as Japanese ping pong, and cooling breezes which never fail to sweep across historic Madison Square, is no wonder that "Paris by Night" is the Mecca to which jaded New Yorkers and their friends journey nightly. Many new features have been introduced into "Paris by Night" since the beginning of the season, such as songs and specialties, and there is no doubt that this attractive resort will remain open until the cold weather of the fall compels its closing.

Up the Hudson.

On August 4, 18 and September 1 the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will run its usual midsummer excursion to the "Upper Hudson," under personal escort. Special excursion tickets will be sold on these dates for regular trains arriving at Jersey City prior to 10:05 a. m., good to return on same day on any regular train leaving Jersey City after arrival of steamer. A stop will be made at West Point, giving those who disembark an hour and a half at that point, and enabling them to view the United States Military Academy. In order to insure an early return, no stop will be made at Newburgh, although the steamer will run to a point off that city and there turn. Round-trip rates: Princeton, $3; New Brunswick, Metuchen and Perth Amboy, $1; Rahway, 80 cents; Elizabeth, 75 cents; Newark, 50 cents. Proportionate rates from other points.

KELLER IS DEAD.

Russian Commander Killed on Field of Haicheng.

THREE JAP ARMIES CONVERGED

Kuropatkin, In Desperate Position, Had to Give Battle.

STRUCK BY SHELL FRAGMENT.

Greatest Battle of the Campaign in Manchuria — Japanese Attack in Tremendous Force Many Times With the Bayonet, but Have Been Repulsed by Stubborn Resistance of Russian Infantry.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Special advices from St. Petersburg say that against an overwhelming force of Japanese, comprising three armies attacking from three sides, General Kuropatkin still holds his position around Haicheng and Liaoyang. The Japanese have been frequently repulsed at various points along a battle front fifteen miles in length. The Japanese have renewed the attack time and time again.

The satisfaction felt by the emperor and the general staff at the Japanese setback is overshadowed by the news of the death of General Count Keller, commanding the Russian forces. He chose an exposed point from which to watch the battle and was struck by a Japanese shell, dying in twenty minutes.

This engagement between the combined Japanese forces in Manchuria and the Russian army is the greatest battle of the campaign, and the result of a Russian defeat would be extremely disastrous. The Japanese force is enormous, and General Kuropatkin reports that more troops are being landed in the vicinity of Newchwang, from which point they can be hurried up to re-enforce the depleted ranks of those who have borne the brunt of the fighting.

The Russian artillery has done magnificent work in the battle, frequently forcing the Japanese to shift their positions. Japanese artillery fire has been very effective, especially when used as a cover for infantry charges. Thus far all the advances of the infantry have been repulsed by the Russian soldiers, many hand to hand bayonet conflicts being reported.

Desperate efforts are being made by the Japanese to force the Russians from Simoucheng, an important position at the juncture of the Fengwangcheng and Siuyen roads. The latest news concerning this position is contained in the following dispatch from General Kuropatkin to the emperor:

"All our positions were retained at Simoucheng when the fighting ceased at 6:45 p. m., July 31, but I have not yet received reports of the operations on our extreme right flank.

"We retained all our positions held by our eastern force at Yangze pass. General Keller, commanding, had chosen this as the point from which to watch the fight. A battery near him was exposed to heavier fire than any other, and he was mortally wounded at 3 o'clock. He died twenty minutes later."

General Kuropatkin also reported the retirement of the Russian vanguard on the south front a short distance in the direction of Haicheng.

Despite the hopeful tone of the official dispatches there is a feeling of apprehension in the general staff. The weather in Manchuria is almost unbearably hot, and the seriousness of the situation requires General Kuropatkin to use every man able to fight. It is feared that the Japanese by force of numbers will succeed in overwhelming Kuropatkin's army and cutting it off entirely. His condition is admittedly critical, his left flank has been turned, and the chief hope held here is that he will be able to hold his position until the Japanese, whose losses have been extraordinarily heavy, will be compelled to retire for reorganization.

Fragmentary dispatches indicate that the Japanese efforts are concentrated on Haicheng, while there is a general advance along the line of the railway. No report has been made of the Russian losses in the engagement.

According to Kuropatkin's official dispatch to the emperor, to the southward the battle began for the possession of the important position at Simoucheng, which is located at the juncture of the Fengwangcheng and Siuyen roads.

Two separate armies were launched from the east above the two roads, while a third under General Oku moved up east of the railroad from Tashichao to try to cut off the Russian force there from Haicheng. If the latter move is successful this force will be crushed.

A portion of General Kuroki's army at the same time advanced against General Count Keller's position at Ikhavuen, east of Liaoyang, trying the favorite Japanese plan of outflanking him on the right. Still farther north, on the Saimatsza-Liaoyang road, the Japanese moved forward against Houtsintze, twenty-five miles from Liaoyang. It was in this fight that General Count Keller was killed.

General Kuropatkin's situation will be desperate in the event of his defeat.

A Tokyo dispatch says that after two days' fighting the Japanese have occupied Simoucheng, thus cutting off General Stakelberg from General Kuropatkin.

General Kuropatkin's reports only carry the fighting up to Sunday night, when the Russians had been driven in from the left flank of the Simoucheng position. The Russians had repelled several attacks and one bayonet charge in which there was desperate hand to hand fighting at Kangwa heights. Elsewhere the Russians are reported to be holding their own.

General Kuropatkin's reports gave no figures of the two days' fighting. A brief dispatch from Haicheng says that an artillery duel has raged all day along the entire front, but that the Russians at nightfall continued to hold their positions.

BUILDINGS TIED UP.

New York Strikers Stop Work on Four Skyscrapers.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The Building Trades alliance, made up of seventeen unions, has declared a strike against the George A. Fuller Construction company, and work has been tied up on the Times building, Sturtevant building, Trinity building, New York Hippodrome and the Taber building.

Philip Weinsheimer, president of the Building Trades alliance, who declared the strike on the subway last week, is responsible for the strike. The reason given for calling out the men was because of a claim that the Fuller company had been using stone from non-union quarries and trimming yards. It is thought that the actual reason was because of the fear of a lockout on the part of the Building Trades Employers' association. At a meeting of this association the board of governors formulated a letter which was sent to each of the unions in the Building Trades alliance. While it was admitted that the action taken was of very decided importance, the employers absolutely refused to reveal the contents of the letter. Charles L. Eidlitz, the president of the association, said that the stand taken was "firm," but he would not admit that anything like an ultimatum had been sent.

The strike and the movement of the employers grew out of a series of disputes that promises to involve the employers and union men in the building trades in another gigantic struggle. The feeling is extremely bitter between the two sides, and both have been preparing for the fight that appears to be beginning. The employers assert that if they are driven to it they will declare war to the finish on the unions and employ nonunion men under an open shop understanding. In the subway the Brotherhood of Carpenters, the Electrical Workers' union, Operative Plasterers' society, Plumbers and Gasfitters' union and the Metal Lathers' union are out on sympathetic strike to support the Amalgamated Painters' society in its demand for half the painting.

The Building Trades alliance has practically taken the place of the organization headed by the late Sam Parks, who recently died in Sing Sing prison.

Goodyear and Stranahan Now.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, is quoted as speaking favorably of Charles W. Goodyear of Buffalo for the Democratic nomination for governor, and there was some comment among Democrats who are about the hotels. For the most part they indorse the view of Mr. Murphy as to Goodyear's availability, but there is a belief that the up state leaders will have to be consulted before Democratic winners can be picked. The name of Nevada N. Stranahan, collector of the port of New York, has been added to the list of available in case Elihu Root absolutely refuses to accept.

Murderer Took Eighty Drinks.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 2.—Governor Van Sant has fixed Tuesday, Aug. 30, as the day on which William Chounard of Cass Lake, Minn., shall be hanged for murder. Governor Van Sant in deciding on Tuesday for the day of hanging said he did not favor the popular notion that hanging should be invariably on Friday. Chounard was convicted of having murdered his common law wife last winter. It was shown in the evidence that on the day of the murder Chounard drank eighty drinks of whisky before committing the crime.

Charged With Myers Murder.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 2.—Mrs. Agnes Myers and Frank Hottman, charged jointly with the murder of Clarence Myers, a printer, the woman's husband, were arraigned in the criminal court and their trials set. The courtroom was literally packed with people. Many women fought for admittance, and several fainted.

Negro Killed at Newburg.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Aug. 2.—David Selden, a negro worker in a brickyard, was shot dead here last night, and a fellow workman, William Williams, was arrested as he was about to board a train, charged with the murder. In Williams' pocket was found a revolver with two exploded cartridges in the chamber.

Saratoga Bank Will Reopen.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 2.—The stockholders of the First National bank have consented to a 90 per cent assessment on the par value of the stock, payable Aug. 6. This was required by the comptroller of the currency in order to reopen the bank, which was recently closed to escape a run.

Ex-Senator Vest No Better.

SWEET SPRINGS, Mo., Aug. 2.—Former United States Senator Vest is losing strength perceptibly, although he takes nourishment.

SARATOGA'S OPENING.

Lord of the Vale Beat Bad News and The Picket.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 2.—A fast track, partly cloudy and warm weather, a remarkably large crowd and a well filled card combined to make the opening day's racing here well worth while. Lord of the Vale, August Belmont's four-year-old chestnut, by Hastings out of Lady Violet, ridden by Lyne, won the feature event of the day, the Saratoga handicap, without effort, covering the mile and a quarter in 2 minutes 5 seconds and thus equaling the track record for that distance. A length and a half separated the Hastings colt from E. R. Bradley's Bad News at the finish, Hermis and Waterboy having been withdrawn. The Picket ruled favorite, having 9 to 5 chalked against him when they went to the post, but was beaten out of third money by Caughnawaga by a neck.

James R. Keene's Sysonby won the Flash stakes, worth $5,000 to the winner, in hollow fashion. Augur ran second, six lengths behind his stable mate. He in turn was half a length to the good over Glorifier. Sysonby and Augur were coupled in the betting to win, while odds of 3 to 1 were quoted against Augur for place. Trapper was outclassed.

A Western Tennis Champion.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Miss May Sutton of Los Angeles, Cal., adds the title of wesern tennis champion to her string of victories, which also includes the national event, Miss Mabel McAteer of Pittsburg failing to appear on the Kenwood courts to defend her title against the challenger, Miss Sutton, who won the western tournament. In winning the western championship Miss Sutton made a record. Up to the finals with Miss Wimer she had not lost a game in the tourney, having captured thirty-six. In the finals Miss Wimer succeeded in winning three, leaving the California girl with a record of having won forty-five out of a possible forty-eight games. In the five years she has been playing Miss Sutton has never lost a set in tournament play.

Americano at Harlem.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Americano, an added starter, won the Garden City handicap, the feature of the opening of the Harlem summer meeting. Clifton Forge, the favorite, was second, and Gypzene, the extreme outsider, was third. The stake had a gross value of $3,775. It was a desperate finish between the first two, only a nose separating them. Americano had Clifton Forge pinned in on the rail all through the final eighth of a mile, preventing the favorite from getting through.

Waters' Car First at Erie.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 2.—The first car to reach Erie in the run of the American Automobile association, New York and Boston to St. Louis, was that of J. M. Waters of New York. He covered the distance from Buffalo in three hours and fifty minutes. The second car was the Haynes-Apperson, and the third H. L. Pope and Walter Selgler. Twenty-four cars have arrived. Six cars will join the tourists at Cleveland.

Tennis at Boston.

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Holcombe Ward of Orange, N. J., and Beals C. Wright of this city, who won the eastern tennis championship in doubles on Saturday at the Longwood Cricket club, have won their matches in the semi-finals of the singles event and will meet today for the honor of playing the present holder of the Longwood cup, William A. Larned.

Cashier Was Defaulter and Forger.

GRINNELL, Ia., Aug. 2.—H. C. Spencer, cashier of the defunct First National bank of Grinnell, who met death with his son in a mysterious double drowning two weeks ago, was not only a defaulter, but also a forger. Evidences of this fact came to light in the discovery of nine bogus notes, purporting to be signed by as many farmers and business men. The nine notes aggregate $7,475. The bank is badly involved.

President Used Threatening Words.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Aug. 2.—At a public reception President Nord accused the foreign population of raising the rate of exchange in order to oppose the government. He added some threatening words which have alarmed the foreign colony. The rate of exchange is 600 per cent.

"IN A BAD WAY."

Many a Plainfield Reader Will Feel Grateful for This Information.

When your back gives out;
Becomes lame, weak or aching;
Your kidneys are "in a bad way"
Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you.
Here is local evidence to prove it:

Mrs. M. A. Hall, of 219 Prescott place, says: "For several years I had a dull aching pain across my back at times extending to my hips. I was compelled to lie in just one position all night and stooping, lifting or bending forward aggravated the pains. Although I used different remedies that were recommended to me I obtained little if any relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills highly endorsed in our daily papers and procured a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. It was not long before I felt great relief and I was surprised how quickly the pain in my back disappeared."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

FINNISH ALLIANCE.

Public Statement Issued to the American Nation.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The Finnish National Alliance of the United States has issued a public declaration concerning the attitude of Finland to Russia, in which they say:

"We regard it as our duty to assure the amicable American people and the entire civilized world that there is not a respectable man or woman in Finland—excepting fortune seekers, who exist everywhere—who does not grieve in despair over the down tearing of her most sacred human and civil rights, the ruin of her educational institutions and the destruction of her peaceable system of civil government, for which has been substituted a state of lawlessness and despotism.

"We are aware that the Finnish people, in spite of all means of compulsion, still regard, in accordance with the declaration of their representative body, the Russian military ordinance, enacted through forceful methods, as illegal and unlawful. And even though some sort of a representative body might be convened by compulsory ways and means, as is the intention at present, for the purpose of approving all these violations of law, we still know that the Finnish people, as long as the present conditions prevail in their country, can neither be nor are they even in such a position as to become responsible in any manner for the actions of this prospective congress."

CLEVELAND GOING TO ESOPUS.

Judge and Mrs. Parker to Visit World's Fair.

ESOPUS, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Judge Parker's invitation to former Secretary of State Richard Olney of Massachusetts to visit Rosemount has been accepted, and Mr. Olney is expected within a fortnight and possibly before the notification ceremonies on Aug. 10. Thursday has been fixed for the visit of Edward C. Wall of Wisconsin and Mrs. Wall. They are en route to Europe.

It is understood here that former President Grover Cleveland has been invited to spend a day at Rosemount on his way home from New Hampshire, where he is spending the summer.

Judge and Mrs. Alton B. Parker have accepted the invitation of Norman E. Mack to be his guests on New York day at the St. Louis exposition, October 4.

Senator P. H. McCarren, the ranking member of the New York state Democratic executive committee, against whom a fight is being waged for the chairmanship, will probably call on Judge Parker before the close of the week.

Marconi Wireless Experiments.

SIASCONSET, Mass., Aug. 2.—William W. Bradfield, chief expert of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of America, has arrived here to conduct a series of experiments at the station in this village in long distance communication. Since the government ordered the abolition of the system on the Nantucket South Shoals lightship several weeks ago no messages have been received at the Siasconset station. Occasionally, however, the instruments have been slightly affected, and sometimes letters and words have been recorded, evidently coming from ocean liners.

Telegraphers Quit Work.

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 2.—The Missouri, Kansas and Texas order of railroad telegraphers in Dallas has quit work, obeying the order for a strike of all the telegraphers employed on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas system.

WRECK AT WESTBORO

Boston and Worcester Line Trolleys In Collision.

TWENTY INJURED IN HEAD-ON SMASH

Mrs. Stewart of Winthrop Beach Dead—John Doe, Motorman, Will Die — Five Women Had Legs Broken—Orders Go Wrong.

WESTBORO, Mass., Aug. 2.—A score of persons have been injured, two of them fatally, in a head-on collision between two trolley cars on the Boston and Worcester Street railway near the Washington street crossing, three miles from Westboro.

Mrs. Caroline Stewart, Winthrop Beach, is dead.

John Doe, motorman, of Wellesley was internally injured, has fractured ribs and compound fracture of jaw. Doe is unconscious, and he cannot survive. Miss Maud Maguire, otherwise Thornton (actress), of Boston had her right leg crushed, and it was amputated above the knee. E. Iwar Westerburg of Lynn, Addie Bonniro, Mrs. Lydia Lock, Miss Moody and Mrs. L. G. Stone of Spencer had their legs broken.

Miss Amelia Woodward, Henry Herrick, Mrs. Flora Herrick, wife of Henry Herrick; Rowena Whitney, James Kehoe, Worcester; John Murphy and Mrs. George Wesson were more or less seriously injured, and a score of others were slightly hurt, but were able to proceed to their homes.

The accident occurred on a curve at a steep incline and was due to a misunderstanding of orders relating to the crossing of two cars on a single track. The officials of the company claim that Conductor Balcom and Motoman Dunn, in charge of a car bound easterly from Worcester to Boston, should have waited at a turnout near the scene of the accident until a car in charge of Motorman John Doe and Conductor Metcalf, running to Worcester, had passed. Usually the men are furnished with written orders. It is understood, however, that the orders were telephoned to Balcom and Dunn and were misunderstood.

The car bound for Worcester was running down a grade and, turning the curve, struck the car heading in the opposite direction. The westbound electric was running at the rate of about twenty-five miles an hour, it is said, but the other car was able to reduce speed somewhat and was not running swiftly. Both cars were badly damaged by the impact, but were not thrown from the roadbed.

The westbound car carried thirty-one passengers and the other thirty-five, all of whom were thrown forward violently and some crushed by the bent framework. The passengers on the front seats of both cars received the worst injuries and in addition to broken bones sustained severe cuts from flying glass.

The collision occurred within three miles of a similar accident which happened one year ago. Car No. 104, one of those in the wreck, was in last year's accident.

The officials of the road are making a thorough investigation.

Armenian Revolutionists Killed.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 2.—Official telegrams report that a band of Armenian revolutionists ambushed a party of soldiers in the neighborhood of Mush. On the arrival of re-enforcements the Armenians fled, setting fire to three villages on their way. Another band of Armenians numbering sixty attacked the village of Mossum, in the vilayet of Erzerum, but was repulsed by the garrison and attempted to escape to the Russian frontier. The escape of the band, however, was prevented by the frontier guards, only four of the Armenians getting away.

Will Talk About Dead Democrats.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Former Senator Pettigrew of South Dakota, who was at the head of the delegation to St. Louis, has been reported as refusing to support the Democratic ticket. He has arrived in New York and said: "The Democrats of my state have nominated a good ticket and adopted a good platform, declaring for government ownership of railroads and other public utilities. I shall make speeches and will talk about dead Democrats, such as Jefferson and Jackson."

Michigan Central Elevator Burned.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 2.—The Michigan Central elevator, operated by the Paddock, Hodge company, was totally destroyed by fire last night at a loss of $200,000. The building contained 150,000 bushels of corn and 75,000 bushels of oats. In addition to this fifteen freight cars were destroyed in the fire. The fire started on the fifth floor, eighty-five feet above the earth, and the cause is unknown.

Father and Daughter Killed.

MILLTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 2.—While sitting under a tent Edward J. Wilkinson and his daughter, Miss Martha Wilkinson, were struck by lightning and instantly killed. Mr. Wilkinson was for over forty years a watchmaker on Center street, New York, and was a brother-in-law of Patrolman Michael Moran of the New York police department.

Governor Visits Sick Americans.

VIENNA, Aug. 2.—The governor of Triest visited the three American officers and five sailors who are in the hospital there suffering from typhus fever. He spent some time in conversing with the patients, who are all reported to be convalescent.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 2, 1904.

A continuous performance—the Fall of Port Arthur.

You don't have to die in order that your friends may find in what esteem you are held. Running for a nomination is a much better way. Alvah A. Clark, of Somerville, tried it and the State press did the rest.

In all fairness to Alton B. Parker, it might be said that some of his visitors would not be welcome at Esopus were it not for the fact that he is a candidate for office. "Politics makes strange bed-fellows."

Thomas Taggart, the chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is back of a voting machine concern, according to the New York Evening Sun. The machine is said to work accurately so there's no use of his introducing them in Republican districts.

The circumstance that four prayer meetings a week are held at the Fresh Air Camp, Westfield, suggests the question whether the seeds of piety, like those of butter beans or squash, cannot be sown too thickly?—Cranford Chronicle.

We suggest that at least one of these meetings be dispensed with and in its place a service be held in Brother Potter's office.

"There seems to be a regular campaign against substitution by druggists," says the Philadelphia Record. "That the system of persuading a buyer to take something else than that for which he asks is vicious no one can doubt. There is, however, a simple remedy in the hands of the aggrieved. A manufacturer says that by judicious and emphatic newspaper advertising he has created a demand for his particular article and that no person will accept a substitute. This seems reasonable."

Robert E. Pattison has passed away. Though a Democratic of the most pronounced type he was once elected comptroller of the rock-ribbed Republican city of Philadelphia and twice elected governor of the banner Republican State of the Union. His success in politics as in business was due to his virtues, the most striking of which was honesty, and the people found that he did not forget to practice his principles when entrusted with an important office.

Under the heading of "Lost," the Plainfield Press calls attention to the absence of Congressman Charles N. Fowler, and asks the "finder to please return to Union County." And yet The Press claims to be an independent paper, with no desire to stir up trouble for either of the parties.—Newark Evening News.

You can't stir up trouble for Charles N. Fowler around these diggings. As you are aware by this time, Plainfield is the stronghold of the distinguished congressman. Anxious inquires on the part of his friends led us to advertise for information concerning his whereabouts, without waiting until the election returns this fall, which are apt to tell us that he is with us again for another term.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Borough Council held its monthly meeting in the Borough Hall last evening. Wilson S. Frederick was present for the first time since the wreck of Jan. 27, 1903, and received a hearty reception. The committee which had had in hand the purchase of the lot on which the Borough Hall stands, reported that the Central Railroad of New Jersey would accept the offer of $400 tendered by the Borough Council and upon motion of Mr. Frederick it was voted to empower the Mayor and Clerk to issue a note for the amount when the deed for the ground should be presented. The question of allowing B. Sirisky to move the Kuldushes building from the lower part of the town to the lot recently purchased by him from the Vars estate, brought out considerable discussion, but permission was finally granted him to move it provided he assume all responsibilities for any accidents that might arise during its removal. After attending to the other ordinary business of the meeting, it was moved and carried that the next meeting be held on September 8, as the first Monday in the month is a legal holiday. The dog ordinance was brought up and after considerable discussion was passed on the third reading. The rest of the time was taken up with routine business. All of the Councilmen were present except Ryno.

Considerable dissatisfaction is being expressed around town at the way the trolley cars run pass Washington avenue. No matter from which side a wagon is coming it is impossible to see the trolley approaching until almost upon it. None of the trolleys, especially the through cars, slack up when nearing the corner and several times carriages have almost been struck. Ziba Osmun started to drive over the track the other day and had to back up, the car was so close. The warning of a bell is not sufficient and the cars should be made to slow up when approaching the corner.

The result of Saturday's baseball game was much more satisfactory than either of the former contests have been. In Saturday's game there was not a vestige of a kick at any decision, while in the other games there was a continual dissatisfaction. Mr. Brown, of Plainfield, did splendid work as umpire and will probably be retained for the rest of the season. This afternoon the local team will play at Riverside Park with the South Amboy team, if rain does not interfere.

A. A. Lake has been appointed to a position in the office of J. H. Ambruster, division passenger agent for the Lehigh Valley in Newark.

The Borough Council will hold a special meeting next Monday evening for the purpose of going over the Assessor's books.

Miss Ethel Jamison has returned to her home in Basking Ridge, after visiting Mrs. John Kinney.

Frederick Wilcox, formerly of this place, but now of Somerville, was in town yesterday.

The Borough Board of Education will hold a regular meeting this evening.

E. H. Walters and family spent yesterday out of town.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Base hits of local interest—The Twilight F. C. was disappointed again on Saturday afternoon, the Berkely Club cancelling their game so late in the week that Manager Jahn was unable to fill in the date. This makes three straight Saturdays the local team has been without a game. All the lovers of the National game in town were found Saturday afternoon at either Westfield or Somerville. The result of the Alis-Westfield game was pleasing to the fans, while the showing made by the former local team at Somerville showed that the Somerville management made no mistake in taking the team under its wing for the balance of the season. "Smiling Jimmy" Montross's work in the box as well as the support back of him pleased the Somerville rooters. The games at Elizabethport and Rahway Sunday afternoon was attended by the usual delegation from town. Will Scotch Plains have a team next season? Well, it is just possible, as the local games are sadly missed when Saturday afternoon rolls around. Berkely Heights and Summit played at Berkely Sunday afternoon. Some of the local talent wore the Berkely uniforms.

The Italian feud among the residents on Hunter avenue continues to break out occasionally. Several times since the murder of Toney Martin by Vansch, the residents have complained to the authorities that Mrs. Martin was making life miserable for them. Judge Clark was called into the case and has tried to make peace at the colony but it seems to be an impossible thing to do. Mrs. Martin claims that she does not annoy her neighbors, but that she is the much-abused person. It was just such constant bickering as this between Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Vansch that eventually caused the fight to death between Martin and Vansch several months ago. So the public can look for trouble again most any time.

From the looks of the weeds growing in the Baptist cemetery, the public are led to believe that the effort made to raise money for the purpose of keeping the cemetery in condition, has been abandoned.

Some people will have meat no matter how high or scarce it is. This fact has led someone to begin raiding the hen roosts in town. One of the latest visits paid was at Mrs. Hosinger's hennery, last week.

The loss sustained on the building by the fire at the home of William D. Johnston's several days ago, has been settled by George H. Johnston, the local representative of the Hartford Insurance Co.

Township Clerk Edward L. Hand, who has been taking his annual two weeks' vacation from his duties with the Hartford Insurance Co., of New York, returned to work Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hollingsworth, of West Fourth street, spent Sunday with Mr. Hollingsworth's father, Loftus Hollingsworth, of Johnston's drive.

Samuel Parsells, of New Brunswick, has been spending several days with his family, who are summering at Mrs. Parsells' parents at Glenside Park.

The town has a lost look today. Nearly every one who could arrange to get away, went with the local Sunday-school excursion to Asbury Park.

Henry Lentz, of Brooklyn, spent Saturday and Sunday with his family, who are spending July and August with Mrs. Frank Hosinger.

The Misses Edna and Florence Nicholl are sojourning for a time at Keithville Lake in the Catskill Mountains.

Miss Fanny Haskard, who has been spending two weeks with her brothers in Boston, Mass., has returned home.

Briant Johnston, who has been spending a week with friends at Tenafly, N. J., has returned home.

Manager Jahn, of the local ball team, expects to be able to arrange a local game for Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Joerg's home on Coles avenue has been brightened by the arrival of a son.

Mr. and Mrs. John Miller and family have returned from a visit with Newark friends.

Mrs. John Robison and daughter, Miss Louise, spent Monday with friends in New York.

The Misses Meyers, of Park avenue, entertained friends from New York over Sunday.

A daughter has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. McInerney, of the borough.

Tonight will be ladies' night at the Suburban Club in the borough.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A committee from the various Sabbath-schools interested in the excursion to Bellewood Park on Aug. 9, met last night for final arrangements at the home of L. D. Walker.

The coating of cracked stone on the dam has been covered with dirt, which will bring some relief to automobilists who found the stone dressing unfit to drive over.

The Township Committee met today at Hotel Nelson, New Market, and attended to the regular business of the month.

The winter killed hedge on the lawn of the Baptist parsonage is being cut down and removed.

Miss Mabelle Cubberley is visiting Miss Christal MacMurray, at Jersey City.

Freeman Shotwell, of the City National Bank, has returned from his vacation.

John Henry, of West Front street, who has been ill with rheumatism for many weeks, is now undergoing treatment at Muhlenberg Hospital.

Collector F. H. Smith and Charles H. Dunham, who have been spending a few days at Asbury Park with their wives, returned home yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Bonny and Miss Spier, of the borough, left yesterday for Friends' Lake, Adriondacks, where they will remain during three weeks of August.

Sale of Lands for Unpaid Taxes—Notice of Sale.

Public notice is hereby given by George F. Brown, Collector of the Borough of North Plainfield, county of Somerset, that he will sell at public sale all the lands, tenements, hereditament and real estate hereinafter mentioned, for the shortest term for which any person or persons will agree to take the same and pay the tax lien thereon, including interest and costs of sale.

SUMMER IN GOTHAM

HOW THE OTHER HALF LIVE ON HOT NIGHTS.

ROOFS AS SLEEPING PLACES

Society Comes In for Ridicule from the Pen of a French Guest—The Romance of Senator Clark —Other Gossip.

NEW YORK.—A mid-summer night's dream in New York is likely to be on the roof. After dark on one of these intolerably muggy, depressing nights, a large proportion of the population moves up from the superheated streets to the roofs. How many do so, and under what circumstances they do so, no one class is prone to suspect. Of course, one half doesn't know how the other half lives, and it is a good thing for each half that it remains in this condition of ignorance. If the half that goes to the roof gardens knew the squalid misery of those who sleep on the roofs it might taint their appetites. And if the roof dwellers of the East side (and other sides) knew about the cushioned indulgences of the roof garden thousands, the knowledge might make their thirst a little harsher and their tin beds a trifle harder. The contrast is indeed violent enough. Under the stars in one quarter are the lucky, who can loll in comfortable seats, listening to gay music, watching the best that modern vaudeville can do to amuse, drinking iced drinks from tall glasses. These favored are carried to and from the street levels in easy elevators, and to and from their homes in devil wagons. Under the stars in another place, heat-bedraggled tenement crowds are climbing to the roofs, roofs still radiating the heat of the blistering sun, with cheap pillows and maybe an occasional tattered blanket, to stretch themselves on the tin or the slatted clothes-drying inclosure. At midnight both phases of life are to be found at the same time. At one in the morning the arching lights of the roof gardens have disappeared. Who shall say that after that the roof sleepers always have the worst of it? There are hot rooms in the best houses and best hotels in New York.

An Impolite Book.

THE book of the Frenchman, M. Jules Huret, describing his visit to America, is making a great deal of talk. A few extracts have been printed, but one must look over the volume to find what a peculiar book this Frenchman's book is. Foreigners have written about us ever since there was anything to write about. They have flattered, ridiculed, sneered, prophesied as they have pleased, and we have always read what they have had to say with a great deal of interest. Foreigners pretend to be amazed at the avidity with which we read such things. But this latest analysis, praisful as it is, for the most part—abounding in glorifications of the American girl, and all that—has brought up a new question, or one that seems new in its present form. How far is a guest of an individual privileged to go in describing what he sees and hears while he is a guest? Is it good taste for a Frenchman or for anyone else to accept entertainment at a private house and then go away to find fault, satirize, even guy a little? This is what M. Huret seems to have done. The Astors, Fishes, Belmonts, Whitneys, Sloanes and Harrimans took him up; he saw their drawing-rooms, heard their talk, ate their dinners, and it is the unanimous opinion that he has not shown great delicacy in what he has written of his experiences. Very bad taste is what the society people as well as those who do not like to be called society people say of M. Huret's chapters.

An Engagement and a Wedding.

THE gorgeous new house of Senator Clark, at Fifty-seventh street and Fifth avenue is being prepared for occupancy. Senator Clark is coming to live in Millionaires' Row. He is to bring home, not his ward, but his wife. Nothing more sensational has hit New York's moneyed society more startlingly in many years than the announcement that Senator Clark has for three years been married to his ward. The little romance in the south of France will have a very curious and very spectacular sequel in the metropolis. There are to be some superb entertainments at the Clark house. But the most-looked-at feature of these entertainments will not be the palace or its fixings, but the little girl who captured the heart of a multi-millionaire, was married to him, bore him two children, all without the knowledge even of the mult-millionaire's family.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Pauline Astor has for various reasons called out much debate. The man in the case has already had his share of notoriety. Capt. Herbert Henry Spender Clay formerly belonged to the Second life guards. He became mixed up in a money scandal, and his resignation was thereupon demanded by the king, after he had refused to resign to Lord Roberts. The father of Clay was a heavy stockholder in the rich Bass Brewing company. Last year the captain was hunting grizzlies in the Rockies. It is said that he is not popular in London. Hence it may be suspected that the marriage will not increase the popularity of the Astors, who are not liked in London any more than they are liked in New York. William Waldorf Astor was so much disliked in New York that he shook the dust of the metropolis from his feet and went across the sea to make himself an Englishman. England liked his money, and has taken a great deal of it, but it has never been able to like Astor. The king is known to have said some pretty harsh things about "that fellow Astor" while observing the outward form of civility to the American. I fancy that the king knows that he would not popularize himself with the Americans—and this is a thing he is always desirous of doing—by making Astor a peer, though Astor would pay more for a good title than ever was paid when the market price of that commodity was at its highest.

Fashions Becoming Very Femine.

UNTO the mere man who does not observe the subtle changes in fashion, it has come with considerable astonishment that women's dress is now exceedingly feminine. All the new fashions are fluffy and delicate. Laces are in evidence everywhere—even in bathing suits—and the touches of masculinity that were wont to creep into feminine apparel have entirely disappeared. Woman is no longer tailor-made, and one of the economic results of this change is the ruin of the ladies' tailor. The imagination cannot picture a man in the act of making any part of one of these new creations, and the fact is that no man does. The Fifth avenue ladies' tailors are going out of business one by one. Except for riding habits there is nothing for them to make, and automobiling has cut so seriously into outdoor entertainment that riding habits are not so much in demand as they were. The change in Fifth avenue is great, but it is not so great as the change in the appearance of the fashionable women. It is just as true that unfashionable women show the change. The shop girls reflect these new ultra-feminine styles in clothes that are by no means so well adapted for business as the former tailor-made suits.

Among new feminine fads is that for "tanned" hair. Tanned complexions have been in favor for some time. So long as physical culture is fashionable I suppose that all the signs of out-door life will be fashionable also. But tanned hair is new. There are tricks about washing the hair and drying it in the sun which keep the tanning from being streaky and make it "shaded." And this is the necessary quality—"shaded" hair.

A Christian Science Leader.

ANOTHER annual summer pilgrimage to Mrs. Eddy, participated in by many thousands of New Yorkers, calls attention to one of the most conspicuous figures among the active workers in this city. Some half dozen years ago a sensation was created in Wall street by the announcement that a big firm of brokers, both members of the exchange, were going to part company on account of Christian Science. It was Henry Pennington Toler who had taken up the new creed. The separation of the partners was entirely friendly, and Mr. Toler took a new partner of the new faith, opening large offices at the high-priced corner of Broadway itself, across the way from Trinity church. Mr. Toler comes of a prominent New Jersey family. He was famous at Princeton as one of the greatest football players that college has ever produced. Later he won fame at golf. He is a large, handsome, magnetic man, with a manner that is at once charming and forceful. About two years ago Toler astonished New York by assailing the city's right to the upper part of Manhattan island, it being shown that the old town of New Harlem had never been legally ceded to the city. Search made by lawyers on behalf of Toler showing that about $2,000,000,000 worth of property on the water fronts and old creek beds were never New York's to give away. Scarcely less astounding was Toler's proposition to take this tract of the city, still legally belonging to New Harlem, and make it into a new Jerusalem—a Christian Science New Jerusalem. When the scheme was fully under way, and after Toler had spent $150,000, Mrs. Eddy sent word to Toler that the Christian Science could not set up a material New Jerusalem. At this moment Toler had five richly furnished offices in New York, all devoted to the propaganda. He had sold his seat on the exchange to advance the work. He closed all the offices without a murmur, uncomplainingly faced what looked to everybody else like financial ruin, and turning his back upon Wall street and all other business concerns, became a healer in company with Mrs. Stetson at the First Church of Christ Scientist.

QUEER JAPANESE CUSTOM.

How the Boy Liars of the Flowery Kingdom Wash Away Their Transgressions.

Yokohama (Japan) Special.

Among the many curious customs that offer such an endless source of interesting study to the westerner traveling in Japan perhaps there is none that arouses his interest so much as that which obtains throughout the Flowery Kingdom, among the rich and poor alike, of washing away their children's lies by a species of shower bath that is a cleanser of the physical as well as of the moral being.

Ablutions play a large part in every form of Japanese worship. Before the shrine which is to be found in almost every home there is a sort of crude bathtub made in the stone floor. The water for these is supplied from pipes which send a heavy stream down from the roof. Seated before the altar in the middle of the "tub" the prevaricating culprit is made to suffer the penalty of his many lies. The volume of water comes dashing down upon his defenseless head with a force that would make a robust American lad "see stars." But the Japanese liar knows that there is no other way to appease the wrath of the injured god of truth, so he succumbs to the inevitable with a much better grace than that with which his western brother takes his whipping, and sits before the shrine of his family divinity, reading aloud for the benefit of a number of bystanders the long list of lies that has brought him to this uncomfortable pass.

JAP BOY DOING PENANCE.
(Lets Water Run Over Him to Be Purified for Lying.)

The shrine before which this moral water-cure takes place resembles those which are so common in the houses of Catholic countries. The decoration of flowers and numerous candles is much like that with which the pious Italian adorns the altar of the Virgin or his patron saint. Only the hideous little squatting figure of the Japanese god shows that this is an infidel shrine. In the morning the reverent head of the house puts a cake, a little heap of rice and a sprig of green upon the altar, an offering intended to propitiate the god and draw down his blessing upon the family. When drakness comes a little lighted lamp is placed before the idol to cheer him in the long hours of the night, during which, according to Japanese belief, he faithfully guards the household from all harm.

NEMESIS OF PORT ARTHUR

Gen. Nogi, Jap General, Who Is Besieging the Fortress, Known by This Sobriquet.

Tokio (Japan) Special.

Gen. Nogi, who is in command of the forces that are attacking the Port Arthur forts from the land side, has under his command a force that is variously estimated by the Russians and Chinese at from 30,000 to 60,000. He is one of the ten Japanese officers who hold the rank of general. He was promoted to this rank a month ago. In the Chinese war he was in command of one of the divisions that took Port Arthur, and later in the same war was commander in chief of the army that invaded Formosa. After the Chinese war he was governor general of Formosa.

LIEUT. GEN. COUNT NOGI.
(Japanese General Who Is Conducting Siege of Port Arthur.)

Had a Dream Worth Having.

John Stonebrunner, of Springfield, O., is a believer in dreams. He dreamed that at a certain spot, near Beatty, he saw a settler burying gold. The repetition of the dream, two days later, caused him deep reflection. He went to the spot indicated, and there unearthed gold coins to the value of $1,500. The treasure is supposed to have been concealed there in the year 1745, by a French settler.

FASHIONS FROM PARIS.

Simpler Millinery—Heavy Linen Lace Is Much Used.

The best millinery from Paris is extremely simple, especially when worn with the somewhat elaborate silk frock. White chip and manila with variations in the way of Tuscan straw are the rage. Small hats still show a flat crown, and many have a straight brim tilted back from the face and raised at the sides.

The popularity of voile seems never to wane. They predict a winter of it in Paris, and truly nothing is prettier than a cream white or gray voile made up daintily with plenty of dyed lace or insertion and a touch of chiffon to soften it.

The tendency now is toward coat and skirt, instead of shirt waist costumes. This is especially true of linen, in which material dressy and cool frock and frill models are almost universally becoming.

A great deal of heavy white linen is being used for automobiling. Long coats of natural linen trimmed with collars and cuffs of red are also smart.

Heavy cluny and linen laces are used to trim the dressy open mesh linen gowns, as well as more dressy frocks of voile and white cheviot. There seems to be a craze for heavy laces this year.

The picture shows a silk gown trimmed with lace and ruchings. The corselet and choux are of velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

DRESSY FROCKS.

Taffeta Is Always Smart and Becoming—Late Motor Styles.

For dressy wear the soft taffeta frock seems very popular, and quite charming evening gowns are also made of it. A model seen recently was of sky blue taffeta, the full skirt gauged around on cords until midway between waist and knee, but otherwise guiltless of decoration. The waist was similarly treated below a chemisette of lace, and it was worn with a beautiful pale blue chiffon and lace evening coat cut very full and loose.

WHITE NEGLIGEE.

The strictly smart woman will leave the floating ends, the scarfs and other fluffy detail, including hat strings which tie under the chin, to her more picturesque but perhaps less well dressed sister. It is a question whether the picturesque in the present fashions is not carried too far by the woman who has not fine taste and discrimination.

The picture shows a dotted muslin negligee having a V shaped lace edged collar and very wide sleeve ruffles, also edged with the lace.

UNIQUE FRIENDSHIPS

THEY ARE TO BE FOUND DURING CAMPAIGN YEARS.

SOME SEEN IN WASHINGTON

Roosevelt and Parker, Warm Personal Friends, Strong Political Enemies —When the Laugh Was on Congress—Other Gossip.

Washington.—If politics sometimes makes strange bed-fellows it also sometimes develops unique friendships between leaders of the opposing forces. In the present campaign men in both parties will be waging inveterate political warfare against bosom friends in the other party. There are some strong friendships among public men who differ in political belief. The standard bearers of the two great political parties in this year's contest, President Roosevelt and Judge Parker, furnish an example of warm personal friends representing opposite political sentiments. These two men are more than mere acquaintances; they are friends of many years' standing, and each finds much in the other to admire. As governor of New York Mr. Roosevelt was thrown into close personal contact with Supreme Court Justice Parker, and has never hesitated to express his admiration for the latter's courage and distinct ability as a judge. Justice Parker has reciprocated the personal friendship of the president and entertains an exalted opinion of the character, courage and ability of the young man now chief executive of the nation.

Friends Outside of Politics.

There is such a personal sentiment existing between the two families that a favorite dog owned by Judge Parker bears the name of "Teddy Roosevelt." The president is having a good deal of quiet fun about this dog just now, and has laughingly indicated to friends of the judge that if the latter finds it at all embarrassing to have "Teddy Roosevelt" in evidence at Esopus during the present summer, when that spot will be the Mecca of hundreds of good democrats, he, the president, will agree to care for the dog at Oyster Bay. The young Roosevelts would gladly undertake the task of looking after the animal until after election. Judge Parker laughs good-naturedly over the situation and declares that "Teddy Roosevelt" will not be in the way at Esopus this summer so long as he does not object to the visit of his democratic friends.

Campaign Committee Chairmen.

The chairmen of the two congressional campaign committees, while not exactly Damon and Pythias, are exceedingly warm friends. They are Mr. Joseph W. Babcock, of Wisconsin, the chairman of the republican congressional committee, and William S. Cowherd, of Missouri, chairman of the democratic committee. Both gentlemen are members of the house of representatives and both serve on the very important committee that handles legislation affecting the District of Columbia. In fact, Mr. Babcock is chairman of this committee and Mr. Cowherd is the ranking minority member of it. Should the democrats win a majority in the next house Mr. Cowherd would probably become chairman of the District of Columbia committee and Mr. Babcock would be the ranking minority member. There is very little politics in this committee and Mr. Babcock and Mr. Cowherd work together for the interests of the district, and each supports the other on the floor of the house on nearly every proposition that comes from the committee.

Enjoy a Quiet Game Together.

The friendship that exists between "Uncle Joe" Cannon, the speaker of the house, and John Sharp Williams, the minority leader of the house, is well known. They have served together for years on the appropriations committee, of which Mr. Cannon was so long chairman, and there formed an intimacy that no turn of politics can disturb.

The Coast Defenses.

There has been so much heard about the new navy, the building up of the navy and the necessity of having a navy equal to any other in the world that the public has lost sight of another arm of the service used for the defense of the country. This is the system of coast defense, which has been proceeding quietly and without attracting one-tenth the notice that the fine new navy has.

The Harbors Are Defended.

When the war with Spain came on the government realized that this very important work had not been prosecuted with the industry that the needs of the country demanded. Under the direction of President McKinley, defective features of the coast defense were corrected, and he promptly used a part of the emergency appropriation of $50,000,000 for the planting of harbor mines and protecting important ocean harbors of the country with modern submarine mines. Since that time the whole subject of coast defense has been more seriously regarded until today the report of the war department shows that since the system was inaugurated this military defense shows the expenditure for fortifications, armaments, electrical appliances, etc., of $90,000,000 in round numbers. According to the defense project first mapped out, and which is still being followed, it will yet cost to complete the work about about $51,000,000. The whole aggregate cost of providing defense for the coast, ocean harbors and seaport cities will, therefore, be approximately $141,000,000. The annual cost of maintaining this defense, including garrisoning, annual supplies, etc., is estimated at $18,000,000.

It will be seen that the war department has considerable to its credit as well as the navy department in providing adequate defense for the country

The Last Laugh.

The executive departments have a joke on congress. Last session Mr. Landis, of Indiana, stirred up quite a commotion by denouncing the practice of supplying cabinet officers and bureau officials with free carriages. He delivered one of his impassioned speeches on the floor of the house on the subject of abuse of the carriage privilege, and declared that bureaucrats had a line of public carriages for private use that would extend from the capitol to the white house almost.

As Congress Would Have Had It.

There was not the best of feeling between the executive and legislative departments at that time, as the Bristow post office scandal report had just come in containing the names of upwards of 200 congressmen as being connected with irregularities. The statesmen were eager to find some way in which to "get even" with the departments, so they hit upon the plan of restricting the use of carriages for official purposes. To insure this a provision was inserted in one of the appropriation bills that no carriage should be used for personal use and each should have printed upon it the name of the department to which it belonged.

There was a good deal of chuckling over this latter provision, as it was believed few of the department officials would care to attend social functions and go about personal affairs in a carriage labeled with the name of a public department.

It now turns out that as the law is construed by its official interpreter in the treasury department, Comptroller Tracewell, it only applies to those carriages named in that particular appropriation bill. It so happens that the only carriages so named are those for the use of the superintendent of public printing and the superintendent of the bureau of engraving and printing. These are two of the hardest-worked officials in the government and two who have more legitimate use for public conveyances than any others. They are the victims of the scheme to humiliate other officials. Their two carriages must bear the label of the departments to which they belong, while all the under secretaries, chiefs of bureaus and other government employes who have been driving about in gorgeous undesignated vehicles can continue the practice.

A Suggestion of Thanksgiving.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson makes a delightful contribution to light summer reading by the publication of a brochure on turkeys. The genial secretary could not have found a more delectable subject for the dog days, as the finely illustrated little pamphlet brings up visions of Thanksgiving and Christmas days, with snow and ice, sleigh bells and skating. This publication gives a history of the turkey and states a well established fact in these words: "No other kind of domestic poultry has come into such general use throughout the entire world for Thanksgiving and holiday feasts as the turkey." It was enumerated as a dainty in England in 1541, but in 1573 it had become the customary fare of the farmer.

Secretary Wilson's Timely Suggestion.

According to Secretary Wilson's little book the turkey is a most useful bird. Its raising affords a chance for money-making and, as compared with other live stock, it will return a larger profit when properly handled. It is a self-sustaining forager, as it gains the greater part of its living from bugs, grasshoppers and waste grain that it picks up in its wandering over the range. Its grower is at little or no cost for its keep for several weeks. The statement is made that turkeys are now used not only for roasting "but to an increasing extent as cold cuts for sandwiches and for salads, and large numbers of poults are used for broilers. No dish is more valued in our large cities at the present time than a broiled poult."

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark, 14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

SYMPATHY IS MISAPPLIED.

President of Yale University Plays Samaritan and Is Taken for a Daring Robber.

New Haven (Conn.) Special.

No matter who a man is, there is usually one subject upon which he dislikes to converse, and in the case of President Hadley, of Yale university, it is the setting of dislocated jaws.

Mr. Hadley had been shown just how to do it by a physician of his acquaintance. That was months before his knowledge was unexpectedly called into service. On a Fall river steamer the head of the New Haven college was sharing the stateroom of a gentleman who had taken pity upon the late-comer, who could get no room for himself. Mr. Hadley, of course, had the upper berth.

ARTHUR D. HADLEY.
(President of Yale Who Was Carried Away by Gratitude.)

In the middle of the night from the lower berth came gagging sounds, gurgles and low moans. Mr. Hadley jumped down and snapped on the light. There lay his benefactor, his chin tight against his breast, his mouth open, and his lips drawn rigid. President Hadley recognized the signs.

"Be calm, sir," he said, excitedly. "I know just what to do."

Wrapping a towel about his thumbs to prevent their being caught when the jaws should fly into place, he climbed into the berth and kneeling by the man's shoulders took the ends of the jaw firmly in his hands and began to work it into place.

The rest of the story is merely this. That President Hadley had to spend practically all the rest of the night trying to explain to his cabin mate, the ship's captain and surgeon, and half the other officers that he was merely endeavoring to do a kindness and had no thought of assaulting a peaceful citizen who happened to have a nightmare.

PRECIOUS VASE OF COINS.

It Is the Work of 25 Years and Is Covered with Ancient and Modern Money Pieces.

Philadelphia (Pa.) Special.

The fruits of 25 years of labor and saving are visible in a curious vase made by Edward Rausch. The vase is over five feet high and 32 inches at its largest diameter. Its exterior, from top to bottom, is composed of coins, ancient and modern, great and small, representing the money tokens of all peoples, which have been carefully made fast to a surface of copper. Some of the coins are extremely rare. Among them are crude bars, rings and bolts, which were once used as the medium of exchange by African and other savage tribes. Spanish coins of early date are seen in abundance, and some early

(Made by a Philadelphia Man and Valued at $75,000.)

Greek coins are there. Silician spoon money, early Japanese bars and forks, African horseshoes, shell money of sea coast savages, as well as the most modern coins, are to be seen.

The value of the vase Mr. Rausch places at $75,000. Its makers, who lives at No. 2331 North Twenty-seventh street, is a cornicemaker, and by birth a German. He says the vase is the only one of its kind in the world. He began to collect the coins in 1879, and, though not possessed of wealth and dependent for his living on his daily toil, he collected so rapidly that he soon conceived the idea of making the vase. He found, however, that what looked like an immense pile of coins when loose covered only a small patch on the vase, and then he devoted his life to finishing the article.

Mystery of the Rain Tree.

The mystery of the rain tree of the Canaries is a cloud that hovers about it constantly; this is condensed to water, which saturates the leaves and, falling from them in constant drops, keeps the cisterns which are in excavation beneath them always full of water.

GARVIN AT BOSTON

Governor of Rhode Island on Anti-imperialism.

PHILIPPINES OUGHT BE LIKE CUBA

Dewey Should Have Been Ordered to Do at Manila What Perry Did For the Japanese—Make Them Independent and Friendly.

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Despite the intense heat and humidity more than 2,000 persons crowded into Faneuil hall last night to hear W. Bourke Cockran of New York, Governor L. F. C. Garvin of Rhode Island and Charles Francis Adams of this city address a mass meeting called by the New England Anti-imperialist league.

"Adherence to the Democratic platform," was the slogan of the speakers. The venerable George S. Boutwell, former governor of Massachusetts and the president of the New England Anti-imperialist league, presided.

Former Governor Boutwell made a brief introductory address and then introduced Governor L. F. C. Garvin of Rhode Island.

Governor Garvin spoke in part as follows:

"It appears that the only argument now advanced for the subjugation of the Filipinos is that they are benefited thereby. Such reasoning is both dangerous and doubtful.

"Quite likely, as the Republican platform and candidate aver, our government of them is an improvement upon that of Spain. But this is not the contention. The question is whether the Philippines would not be still better off if we had dealt with them as we did with the Cubans. Certainly that seems probable. Half a century ago we came into contact with another Asiatic people. We found them cut off from the world and consequently away behind in civilization, but we did not feel it to be necessary for their benefit to take possession of the islands and forcibly thrust upon them our western enlightenment. On the contrary, we cultivated their friendship and led them by our example, advice and assistance to undertake the task of advancing their own fortunes. Today, as a direct result of the wise and consistent action of two Democratic administrations, Japan ranks with other civilized nations, possesses a constitutional government adapted to her needs and has made greater progress in all that goes to make a nation great than any country in the world, not excepting our own. Why should not Admiral Dewey have been instructed to do for the Philippine Islands what Commodore Perry did for the Japanese?

"Instead of an independent and powerful friend, as is Japan, we have in the Philippine archipelago a costly, dependent and bitter enemy. By becoming a so called 'world power,' which is another name for bully, we have lost our standing as the pioneer of liberty, the hope of the downtrodden in every land. We have aroused the apprehension of the weak countries and forfeited the respect of the strong ones.

"As was to be expected, our denial of the right of self government to other people has already reacted here at home. The latest and most flagrant illustration is to be found in Colorado. As a result of anarchy on the part of the constituted authorities there have arisen strikes, accompanied by violence, martial law and finally an abrogation of the bill of rights through the deportation of citizens beyond the borders of the state.

"Analogous instances of disregard of law are occurring in other states."

Governor Garvin declared his interest not merely in the abolition of imperialism, but in the abolition of that government of the few which had made imperialism possible. To this end he advocated a more direct and complete control by the people of the state and national constitutions.

Lincoln Trolleymen Will Strike.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 2.—All the street railway employees of Lincoln threaten to go out on strike today unless an obnoxious order by means of which the motormen are to keep check on the conductors' receipts is rescinded. The men also want more than 19 cents an hour and are said to be forming a union. The Epworth assembly begins here tomorrow, and a strike would be serious at this time.

Governor Pattison Is Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2.—Former Governor Robert E. Pattison is dead at his home in Overbrook. Death was caused by pneumonia complicated with a weakened heart. Governor Pattison had been very ill for more than a week, but it was thought he had passed the crisis. For this reason there was grave fear when he failed to show increased strength and his heart action became such that stimulants had to be given.

To Repair Schoharie Falls Dam.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 2.—The sale of the property of the Empire Power company at Schoharie falls, near Amsterdam, to the Hudson River Electric company was confirmed at the offices of the latter company here. A force of experienced dam builders has been sent to Schoharie falls to repair the dam and put the plant in operation.

Fairbanks Enjoyed His Rest.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 2.—Senator Charles W. Fairbanks, Republican nominee for vice president, has returned home with his family from Mackinac. He is making arrangements to receive on Wednesday the official notification of his nomination for the vice presidency. He is in splendid health and says he thoroughly enjoyed his rest in northern Michigan.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

The Westfield crowd kicked a whole lot about the work of Umpire Watt, their own man.

Hickman, Westfield's short-stop, failed to show up on Saturday and his place was hard to fill.

"Larry" Battam, of the Orange A. C., and Hickman will probably be with Westfield on Saturday.

The Murray Hills with Duggleby, of the Philadelphia Nationals, in the box, were defeated on Sunday by the Philadelphia Giants, 10 to 4.

Alis and Westfield will meet again on Crescent Oval on Saturday. Manager Johnston is determined to land the Plainfield team on top again.

Umpire Merity will officiate in the contest between Alis and Westfield on Saturday, and there is no doubt but that he will continue his good work.

It is confidently announced that Waller will again pitch for Westfield against Alis on Saturday. Many believe that Manager Denman will spring a surprise on the locals.

The Westfield fans who put up a kick against Cronin pitching for Alis on Saturday, forgot that Denman used Thatcher, of the Brooklyn Nationals, against the locals in the first contest of the season.

Since the commencement of the Alis-Westfield series, Jack Auten, of the Hotel Kensington, has been lucky in picking the winner. The morning of the day of the contest he has told a few friends who would win and his predictions have come true each time. Jack attributes his success to a dream which he has on the Friday night before the contest.

ROD AND GUN.

Leonard VanCamp, of Westervelt avenue, is on a hunting trip for plover. The season opened yesterday.

Arthur A. Cannon and Charles Woolston, of the borough, left yesterday for Barnegat on an extended fishing trip.

Jesse Ayres, of Dunellen, made a fishing trip to Seawaren Sunday. Though alone in the boat, Ayres pulled in fourteen good sized weakfish.

A letter has been received from Ira F. Randolph, who is spending some time at Barnegat Bay, which states that weakfish have never been biting better than at present at that place. He reports that the boats that go out every day in the bay and the inlet average catches of from fifty to seventy-five apiece.

Real Estate His Benefactor.

A few years ago, a working man in one of our factories, bought a property, knowing that it was good value, but little dreaming that it would start him on the road to wealth, which it afterward proved. He recently sold his property for nearly double the amount he paid for it, he then reinvested the whole sum in other good real estate, as he considered it as safe as a bank, and knew it would yield a greater revenue than 3 per cent compound interest.

The opportunity for you too is open to make money in real estate.

We show the way to beautiful homes—properties that can be purchased so low, there's a substantial profit for you in their rapidly increasing value.

Now is the time to buy—come in and see us about it.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ulrich, of Brooklyn, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Blatz, of Somerset street.

Arthur Cannon, of Somerset street, bookkeeper for Milligan Brothers, of New York, is spending his vacation at his home in this city.

Justice Hezekiah Hand and wife were among those to go on the annual excursion of Westfield and Fanwood churches this morning to Asbury Park.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Peter Gulick, a Raritan butcher, has filed a petition in bankruptcy.

—Miss Jeanette Summers, stenographer at Francis J. Blatz's law office, resumed her duties yesterday after a two weeks' vacation.

—The famous Rockyford and Maryland Gem muskmelons can be found at Neuman Bros. Also fresh Jersey tomatoes, Jersey egg plant and fancy table apples received in early morning consignments.

—While making some repairs in vacant offices on the fifth floor of the Babcock building yesterday, carpenters in some way dislodged a large plate glass from one of the windows. The heavy glass fell with a crash, landing on the sidewalk in front of Shirley & Johnson's.

Beechwood Heights Sold.

Beechwood Heights, the residential tract near East Bound Brook and owned by the L. D. Cook estate, was sold yesterday to Silas D. Drake as agent for New York capitalists. It consists of seventy acres of ground all on an upland that overlooks Bound Brook. The new owners contemplate the erection of from six to ten houses before fall, each to cost about $3,000.

Big Furniture Sale.

The great semi-annual August furniture sale is now going on at Woodhull & Martin's. It was inaugurated by the firm five years ago and has gained in popularity each time, and is still increasing. Everything is marked down and there are scores of good bargains to select from.

Bryan's Conversion.

Mr. Bryan writes to James Martine at Plainfield: "I feel that we have a good platform." William must have changed his feeling since he made a spectacle of himself at St. Louis trying to kick the stuffing out of that same platform.—Trenton StateGazette.

Bound Brook in Service.

The ferryboat Bound Brook, of the New Jersey Central's North river fleet, was placed in service again yesterday for the first time since her collision with the excursion boat Cetus. The repairs that were made were quite extensive and proved very costly.

changed to read "from the easterly curb line of Berkely avenue to the southside of Park terrace." This improvement calls for the issuance of $12,000 worth of bonds and the appointment of commissioners by the Common Pleas Court to assess benefits and damages. A public hearing will be granted in the matter on Tuesday night, September 6.

After Mr. Daniel presented two resolutions, one providing for the transfer of $500 from the general to the fire fund and another providing for the borrowing of $1,500 for sanitary sewer improvements, the Council adjourned.

IN STRIKERS' PLACES.

Work on Sewer Trenches in East Seventh Street Renewed.

Yesterday's strike on the part of some Italians employed by the sewer contractor for the excavation of the sewer tranches on East Seventh street, near Richmond street, proved of short duration, as this morning the work is proceeding as usual, twenty Italians having been secured to take the places of the strikers. As soon as the Italians refused to continue their work yesterday morning, Foreman John Murtaugh sent word to the Italian offices in New York city to secure other men, and this morning laborers arrived and quietly entered the trenches and continued the work of those who had angrily thrown down their tools and quit yesterday.

CO. K AT PRACTICE.

Local Militia Preparing for Shoot at Sea Girt.

Members of Co. K will meet at the armory tonight and Thursday night for practice on the range, prior to going to Sea Girt on August 9. The half-inch target at the armory range corresponds to the eight-inch target at Sea Girt and serves the purpose of preparing the men for the more severe test on the state range.

The distances fixed at the armory for shooting are 200 yards standing and 300 yards prone. There is unusual interest this year in the rifle practice and it is expected that a majority of the members will visit Sea Girt.

RUSSIAN ARMY CUT OFF

MIKADO'S TROOPS TAKE SIMOUCHENG, NEAR HAICHENG.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

St. Petersburg, August 2.—Great anxiety is caused here today by a report that Gen. Stakelberg, commanding the rear guard of Gen. Kuropatkin's army in the retreat toward Liaoyang, has been cut off by the Japanese.

The report says that the Mikado's army has succeeded in taking Simoucheng, about ten miles from Haicheng, and has now a force between the rear guard of 5,000 men and the main Russian army.

Other despatches received from the seat of war declare that Gen. Kuropatkin is retreating. He is hemmed in by the three big Japanese armies and forced to retire or engage in a battle which must prove disastrous.

CAR PUSHED INTO STREET

HEAVILY LOADED IT JAMS AGAINST BRIDGE AFTER RUNNING OFF SIDING.

Heavily loaded with finished stone for walks, a flat car was pushed over the siding at Washington street this morning at 8:30 and went entirely across that thoroughfare before stopping. It fetched up against the bridge abutments with a crash that aroused the neighborhood and led to the belief that a wreck had occurred. The accident was caused by the engineer of the train mistaking the brakeman's signals and he was unaware that the end of the siding had been reached.

The wrecking crew was summoned from Elizabeth and the wrecked car was lifted to the tracks again shortly after 6 o'clock. Washington street in the meantime was blocked to traffic from Third to Fourth streets.

Train Hold-Up.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 2—Five bandits held up the Illinois Central's Chicago and St. Louis express train, known as the "Diamond Special," and today they are being tracked by blood hounds. Twenty detectives are on the trail of the robbers. The men held up the train in the night just outside of Chicago, aroused the passengers and marched them to the two two sleepers in the rear of the train, and while the leader held them at the point of pistols the others went through their clothing and baggage, taking all money and valuables they could find.

Y. M. C. A. Dynamo Arrives.

The new Westinghouse electric dynamo to be used in the generation of electricity in the new lighting plant to be installed in the Y. M. C. A. building, has arrived and will be placed in position immediately. After completion of this plant the entire building will be lighted by electricity generated in the building. A double oil engine is to be installed to run the dynamo.

Lawn Festival Postponed.

IN THE CHRISTIAN FIELD

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Finn, of Putnam avenue, left yesterday for Montgomery County, Pa., to spend their vacation.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, has gone to Squirrel Island, Maine, for the month of August.

F. H. Martin, formerly of this city, but now of Dover, where he is the assistant to Rev. Dr. W. W. Halloway, pastor of the Memorial Presbyterian church, was in town yesterday calling on friends. Dr. Halloway is at present in Europe and Mr. Martin is in charge of the pastoral work. Next Sunday he will occupy the pulpit of his church and tomorrow night he will have charge of the mid-week prayer-meeting.

JERSEY CENTRAL'S MOVE SUSPECTED.

Belief That Application Hides Attempt to Get Line in Staten Island.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey made application to Supreme Court Justice Dixon at Jersey City Saturday, under the general railroad act of 1898, for the appointment of commissioners to condemn the lands of the Damler Manufacturing Company, and Ottillie and George Thurm, in Bayonne, to enable it to lay tracks to the plant of a wire and cable company. The court appointed the commissioners, and counsel for the interested property owners immediately took out a writ of certiorari, contending that the proceeding should have been under the act of last year.

There is a suspicion that the proceeding is not wholly intended for an innocent spur, but is a movement toward getting the grade crossing across the Boulevard at Second street, and complete the line across Bayonne, preparatory to crossing the Kill von Kull by bridge or tunnel, and constructing the line through Staten Island to connect again with the Central's tracks at Perth Amboy.

GASTON CUP PLAY.

T. W. T. Waxwell Won First Honors for Trophy.

HOSPITAL GOVERNORS MEET.

Only Routine Business Considered Last Night.

Nothing but routine business was transacted at the August meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, held last night in the Public Library building. There were eleven members present, one more than is necessary for a quorum, and in the absence of First Vice President W. R. Cock, who is ill, the second vice president, E. H. Ladd, Jr., presided at the meeting.

Progress was reported in the construction of the Nurses' Home and all the other reports showed a gratifying condition of affairs in Muhlenberg Hospital.

Mrs. Elliott Collins, of Brooklyn, returned home yesterday after a visit of a week with her brother, C. M. Meeker, of East Front street.

TELEPHONE COMPANY MAKING IMPROVEMENTS

Manager C. W. Runyon Plans for Better Service in Territory Including Westfield.

LATEST FACILITIES

COMMUNICATION TO BE HAD WITH HARLINGEN AND BELL MEAD.

Changes to be Made at the Local Office — Need for Another Switchboard at Central Here.

The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company is constantly aiming to increase the efficiency of its service and the scope of its business. For several weeks past, Manager Charles W. Runyon has been engaged in supervising many improvements in the Westfield territory, where a new office has been established at the corner of Broad and Elm streets. Heretofore, the exchange has been in the store of Druggist Trenchard.

Besides a new office, there will be a new up-to-date switchboard, similar to the one in the Plainfield office, aerial cables, a new distributing board and the selective system of ringing telephone bells. It is the purpose of the company to make the Westfield exchange as modern as the one here and to give as good service. Two operators are now employed there, one in the day time and one at night. A third operator will soon be engaged to assist in handling the increase in business.

Within the coming week telephone communication will be had with Harlingen and Belle Mead, those towns being in direct connection with the Somerville exchange. The local company heretofore covering this part of Somerset County has been taken over by the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company and there will be general improvement in the service and eventually other towns in that vicinity will be connected by telephone. Calls to that part of the State will be made through the Somerville office.

Manager Runyon is also preparing to care for the constantly increasing business here. A new section to the present switchboard will be added, making it possible to install a great many new 'phones in the city and at the same time not interfere with the present excellence in service. From time to time improvements are made at the local exchange with a view to keeping it up to the highest point of efficiency.

TAX BOARD INSTRUCTIONS

TAX LISTS TO BE EXAMINED AND REVISED SECOND TUESDAY IN AUGUST.

Thomas B. Usher, secretary of the State Board of Taxation, has sent out to the various tax boards of the State circulars calling attention to section 19 of the revised tax act of 1903.

The section provides that the governing bodies of all taxing districts or boards charged with the revision of taxes are requires to meet on the second Tuesday of August, for the purpose of examining, reviewing and correcting the assessor's tax list and duplicate, both of which the assessor is required to lay before them, properly made up and legibly written in ink, to be by them examined, revised and corrected, and they may adjourn from time to time to discharge their duties, and shall complete their work on or before the last day of August.

The tax list must remain on file with the clerk of the municipality and be open at all times to the inspection of taxpayers, except in towns and cities where there is a board of assessors with a fixed office; in such case, the tax list must be kept in such office.

Perilous Work.

Seated on a small board held by a block and tackle, the employes of a New York contracting firm, began work today painting the four high smokestacks at the local electric light plant of the Public Service Corporation. The stacks are of iron and extend 125 feet in the air but the men go about the hazardous job as unconcerned as if it were a board fence. The block and tackle was hauled to the top by means of a small wire which has always been suspended inside the columns.

COPS ORGANIZE BALL TEAM

JOHN FLYNN IS CHOSEN CAPTAIN OF BLUECOATS' NINE.

In order to accept the challenge extended them by the Newark policemen's baseball team, the members of the local force met yesterday afternoon and reorganized their baseball club. Roundsman John Flynn was elected captain, Chief Kiely manager and treasurer and Patrolman Overbaugh secretary. The Newark challenge was formally accepted and while it was impossible to fix the exact date for the contest or the grounds, it will probably take place in Newark on or about August 27. Tuesdays and Fridays were named as the regular practice days and the applicants will be tried out at once.

The majority of the officers entered enthusiastically into the scheme and there are indications of a strong team being put out. Among those who will be included in its personnel are Patrolmen Charles Flynn, John Mc Keon, Peter Hamilton, Morris Higgins, John Kelly, William McCarthy, Dennis O'Keefe, Martin Vanderweg, Andrew Saffron and William Messler. Several of these are good players and their positions will be assigned them after Captain Flynn witnesses their practice work.

A TRIBUTE TO SWACKHAMER

HIS CHARACTER HAS WON HIM DISTINCTION SAYS NEWARK NEWS.

The Newark Evening News had this to say editorially in yesterday's issue:

"Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer, of Somerset, has firmly and finally declined to be a candidate to succeed himself, and consequently the nomination must go to some other Democrat, probably to Nelson Y. Dungan, former prosecutor of pleas. Mr. Swackhamer, it is said, has his eye on some better position, and if so it is by no means to his discredit and there will be a great many in this State, both in the Democratic party and outside of it, who will candidly admit that Mr. Swackhamer is capable of filling a higher office.

"There was something spectacular about him in the debates in the House during the two terms he has served, and it cannot be said that all his legislative conduct was on the highest plane of statesmanship. He sometimes descended to take advantage of opportunities for retort and repartee that tickled the ears of the groundlings, but this was allowable in a minority Assemblyman, particularly when the majority members were in the habit of laying themselves open to such attacks. But aside from this he was a capable and excellent Assemblyman and a man of so much merit that Somerset County, normally Republican, elected him twice; the first time because of a party split, but the second time simply because he couldn't be beaten.

"Mr. Swackhamer appears to be one of those few men who are moved by conscientious convictions rather than by temporizing policies, and it was the man's high character quite as much as his ability that won him distinction as an Assemblyman. It is a pity that more such men do not find their way to the Legislature, and stay there."

JOHN DRISCOLL'S BIRTHDAY.

Celebration of His Ninth Anniversary Attended by Playmates.

In honor of the ninth anniversary of his birthday, John Driscoll, of Lee place, was tendered a pleasant surprise party by thirty of his little friends yesterday afternoon. The guests enjoyed themselves with games and were then served with refreshments.

The affair was arranged by Miss Bessie Parent and among those in attendance were Mary Donnolly, Bridget Hepner, Lizzie Reagen, Mary Smith, Nellie Smith, Katie McGauley, Bertha Bender, Cora Bender, Walter Wilson, John Wilson, Thomas Kilbride, Robbie Harris, John Miles, Thomas Coulter, Frank Donnolly, William Sullivan, John Winzenreid, Henry Bender, Willie Regan and Clarence Walters.

FUNERAL SERVICES OVER JOS. W. YATES

Rev. Erskine M. Rodman Conducts the Service and Pays a Tribute to Dead Man.

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS

REMAINS ARE PLACED IN HILLSIDE RECEIVING VAULT.

Throng of Citizens at the Obsequies—List of Honorary Pallbearers — The Music.

The home of the late Joseph Washburn Yates, on East Seventh street, was thronged with relatives and friends, yesterday afternoon, who attended the funeral services of the well-known citizen. Included among those present were men prominent in the business affairs in this city and New York; persons who had known Mr. Yates for many years and who learned to admire him for his many sterling qualities.

In the absence of Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and pastor of Mr. Yates, Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector emeritus of Grace Episcopal church, and an intimate friend and neighbor of the dead man, conducted the services.

There was a handsome display of floral tributes from relatives and friends, including wreaths and cut flowers, while banked around the bier were several ferns, palms and asparagus vine.

During the services William N. Runyon and Elmer E. Runyon sang Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," "The Morning Land" and "Saved by Grace."

In the course of his remarks concerning Mr. Yates, Rev. Mr. Rodman spoke in part as follows:

Rev. Mr. Rodman's text was: "Thanks be to God, who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ,." I Cor. XV. 57.

He said in part:

"It may be said without hesitation that there never has been a funeral of any of the children of men, whether an infant of days, or a man of old age at which, amid many varying circumstances, some sustaining thought or some useful lesson could not be gleaned by one who had an eye for such things.

"The surroundings are infinitely various, but comfort pervades them all. If it is an infant, we think that it is taken from the evil to come, delivered from all the trials and temptations and sorrows of life. If an old man, we remember that rest is sweet after the labors of the day.

"This does not seem like a funeral, but rather like a victory, which our friend has gained. And we are here not to lament and mourn, but to render thanks to God who has given him the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. And the circumstances of it would not have been ordered in a way more to his liking. He loved this home and the surrounding grounds but he loved also that other summer home to which he has gone for some years, every summer, to recruit and prepare himself for the work of the rest of the year. He loved the flowers and the trees of his lawn here. I have watched him as he was tenderly superintending the work, that he thought would tend to their nurture and well-being. But he loved also Minnewaska for the simplicity and naturalness of its scenery, and there in the quiet and peacefulness he had been spending the past weeks. He had a serious illness here not long ago which brought him very near to the grave, but his work was not done, and God brought him back to at least some degree of his former health. I believe that in that sickness he was taught lessons which he might have learned nowhere else. I am told that for some months past his reading and his thoughts have been not so much upon things of this life and this world, as upon the future life and that other world, towards which he felt his steps were treading. As I have seen him walking, very slowly to and from his home, it has seemed to me that he was holding communion with his God and Father and meditating upon the things of the eternal world. Thus he was seeking to get ready for his entrance upon that other and better life.

"The circumstances remind me of the death of that other saint of God, the venerable Bishop of Central New York, who fell asleep so recently at his summer home. In his pocket book was found a worn slip of paper on which were inscribed these words:

"'Life's race well run,
Life's work well done,
Life's crown well won;
Now comes rest.'"

The honorary pall bearers were Dr. Ellis W. Hedges, Dr. T. H. Tomlinson, Stephen A. Ginna, John Leal, James E. Martine and J. Evarts Tracy. The remains were placed in the receiving vault at Hillside Cemetery and will be interred later.

FREEHOLDERS ACCEPT GIRAUD AVE. BRIDGE

Joint Committee of Union and Somerset Boards Settle Contentions With Contractors

AFTER LONG DELAY

SERIES OF EXCUSES GIVEN FOR FAILURE TO COMPLETE IT.

Structure Cost $6,471—Work Commenced in June 1903—Temporary Bridge Used for a Time.

Following a meeting of the proper committees from the Union and Somerset County Boards of Freeholders, the Giraud avenue bridge over Green brook has been formally accepted, thus ending all contention between officials and contractors that has existed for many months. At the next regular meeting of the two boards the construction bills will be passed and payment for the structure will be made, amounting in all to $6,471.

Although but a small stone and iron affair, it is doubtful if any other bridge in this section has had more vicissitudes in its building than this one. The foundation was commenced in June, 1903 and the structure was to have been completed and turned over to the Freeholders by the following fall. Delays occurred one after another and the work dragged slowly along despite warnings from the officials that the contract would be taken from the Dover Iron Works and completed at its expense. Finally, in response to requests from residents in Washington Park who use Giraud avenue a great deal, a temporary structure was thrown over the stream and the trouble was alleviated for the time being.

The work afterward ceased entirely and it remained dormant until the iron works officials were given a stated time to complete the bridge or forfeit the contract. They complied by getting material on the ground and finishing it up last week. Their contention all along has been that it was impossible to get the steel from the mills and that after it was shipped the cars were delayed.

This was part of a statement made to the Freeholders by Contractor Birch, of the Dover Company, just previous to the acceptance. The bridge is a very substantial affair and is greatly appreciated by both pedestrians and drivers.

EnRoute to Panama.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Mosher, of West Fifth street, have received a letter from their son, Stanley Mosher, who, with a number of other surveyers, are on their way to Panama to take Government positions. The letter was mailed at Wapling Island, 900 miles out, the point being one of mail exchange. According to the schedule the steamer was due to arrive at either Colon or Panama last Tuesday and the young man's parents anxiously await another letter.

Donations to Charity.

A friend of the City Union, King's Daughters' baby camp on the mountain and the Mary Morgan Fresh Air Home at Netherwood, called at The Daily Press office this morning, and left $3 for the camp on the mountains and $5 for the other institution. Those in charge of these institutions will appreciate similar gifts from those inclined to help them.

P. S. C. Officials on Inspection.

A special trolley car carrying officials of the Public Service Corporation, passed through here this morning going toward Trenton on a tour of inspection The car, a new one, was handsomely furnished and provided with every convenience. A. H. Stanley, general superintendent, and Mr. Carver, the chief engineer of the road, were aboard.

Cranford Minister to Speak.

The Rev. A. L. Hough, pastor of the First M. E. church at Cranford, will lead the afternoon meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday at 4 o'clock. DeWitt Frazee will render selections on the cornet.

REPORT ON SANITARY INSPECTION OF HOUSES

Inspector Leonard Gavett Has Examined the Health Conditions of 361 Dwellings.

SERVES 215 NOTICES

WORK TO BE CONTINUED DURING PRESENT MONTH.

Section of the City Covered—Result of the Inspections in Detail—Ordinances Enforced.

The work of house to house inspection has been pushed with considerable energy by the Board of Health during the past month, and excellent results have been attained toward a general cleaning up of the city. At the August meeting of the Board, yesterday, facts and figures were presented showing the amount of work thus far accomplished. It was decided to continue the scheme of sanitary inspection during the coming month and every effort will be made by the Board to secure as many sewer connections as possible, thus abolishing cesspools.

Inspections have been made covering the following territory:

East Third street, between Watchung avenue and Richmond street; East Second street, between Park avenue and Richmond street; West Second street, between Park avenue and Plainfield avenue; South Second street, between Liberty street and Grant avenue; Grant avenue, between South Second street and West Third street; Spooner avenue, between South Second street and West Third street; Plainfield avenue, between West Second street and West Third street; Liberty street, between West Second street and West Third street; New street, between West Second street and West Third street; Central avenue, between West Second street and West Third street; Madison avenue, between West Second street and West Third street; Muhlenberg place, between South Second street and West Third street; Cottage place, between Washington and Richmond streets.

The results of these inspections is as follows: Total number of houses inspected, 361; privy vaults which required cleaning, 94; cesspools, which required cleaning, 6; accumulation of ashes and garbage to be removed, 19; accumulation of garbage, to be removed, 6; accumulation of manure to be removed, 5; defective plumbing systems found, 13; abandoned privy vaults not properly filled, 16.

In enforcing the ordinances of the Board it was necessary to serve 215 notices. These were as follows:

Notices to abate nuisances, 58; notices to abolish vaults, 82; notices to abolish cesspools, 29; notices to connect with the sewer, 46, total, 215.

Co. K at Practice.

Members of Co. K turned out last night in large nmbers to practice on the company range. Excellent scores were the rule and the boys feel confident that they will make a good showing at Sea Girt. The armory will be open for practice tomorrow night and Friday night and Captain Martin hopes the members will take this opportunity to improve their shooting to the highest possible point of efficiency. Those who have not yet received their checks can get them from First Sergeant Peterson.

Trolleymen's Outing.

A good-sized delegation of conductors, motormen and employes of the Middlesex Employes' Benevolent Association visited Riverside Park yesterday afternoon to attend the annual outing of the association. By an arrangement with the management, the Park was at the disposal of the trolleymen from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until late in the evening.

Death From Cholera Infantum.

Little Joseph McGauley, the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McGauley, of Prospect avenue, died suddenly yesterday afternoon from an attack of cholera infantum. Funeral services will be held from the home tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. The interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Hope Chapel Service.

In the absence of Rev. Laurence R. Howard, of Hope chaple, who is on his summer vacation, the pulpit will be occupied on Sunday by Robert Love in the morning and Kenneth Robbie in the evening.

—A baby boy arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Haurand, of Elmwood place, this morning.

NARROWLY ESCAPED DEATH

TWO BOYS FELL THIRTY FEET IN THE WEST END.

Edward Gunsleman, aged twelve years, of Manson place, narrowly escaped being killed on Monday, when he and a companion named Dorhman fell a distance of thirty feet out of a tree located on the McQuire property in the West End. Young Gunsleman struck on a picket fence, bruising and lacerating his arm and side. He just barely escaped being impaled.

His companion, who landed on the ground and was not injured in the least, hastened to the home of Rev. George Mooney nearby, and Dr. P. B. Cregar was summoned. Mr. Mooney and the doctor arrived about the same time and the injured lad, after temporary treatment, was removed to his home, where the doctor was obliged to take many stitches to close the laceration.

A remarkable fact was that not a bone was broken. It will be some time before the lad will be able to go out. Last Fourth of July he suffered the loss of three fingers through a premature explosion of gunpowder. His father accidentally dropped a piece of lighted punk into the powder while his son was arranging for a discharge of a cannon.

ALTERATIONS AT FIRST M. E.

ENTRANCE TO EDIFICE TO BE REMODELLED NOW.

Plans for the entrance alterations at the First Methodist church have been filed with Building Inspector Doane, and building permit was granted yesterday afternoon. The plans drawn by Oscar F. Teal, of New York, show that the exterior stone steps at the church are to be done away with and the entrance to the church is to be at street level in the building proper. Within, broad flights of stairs are to lead up to the church on either side of the present vestibule.

A glass foyer is to be built across the front of the church. New stairs are to be erected to the gallery in place of the present spiral stairs. There will be square staircases to conform with the building ordinance. A. M. Gatchell has the contract for the carpenter and Charles M. Raybert will attend to the plumbing work. The changes in the approach will necessitate a change in the basement entrance and in the position of one of the furnaces.

"JIM" TO FIRE OPENING GUN

FARMER ORATOR TO SPEAK AT RATIFICATION MEETING.

Elizabeth Democrats are looking forward with great expectancy to a big meeting set for Friday evening when the party constituents from all over the county will assemble. The main item of business to be transacted is the ratification of the national platform and Candidates Parker and Davis. Plainfield will be represented by a large delegation of the faithful and the issues will be gone over pro and con.

Several notable speakers have promised to be in attendance but the place of honor on the programme has been accorded the "Farmer Orator" James E. Martine, of this city, who is already primed with oratorical ammunition for the campaign.

Milk Supply of Good Quality.

The Board of Health reports that during July twenty-seven dairies were visited which included principally the dairies supplying milk to the Willswood Farms Dairy Company's creamery and Marchant Brothers' creamery. Forty-three samples of milk were analyzed during the month which included all but two of the bottled milks sold here. With a few exceptions the milk was of very good quality.

Walter Babcock's Party.

Walter Babcock, of Clinton avenue, entertained a party of friends at his home last evening at a musicale. The affair was greatly enjoyed and at its close refreshments were served. Among those who contributed selections were the Misses Julia Connolly and Ethel Reynolds, Anthony Callahan and William Oretty.

Infant Girl Dead.

Charlotte Winifred Terry, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Terry, of Garwood, died yesterday from cholera infantum. The little one was four-and-a-half months old. Funeral services will be held at the home of the parents tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

MISS ANNA O'KEEFE WEDS DANIEL COURAINE

Nuptial Ceremony Takes Place at St. Mary's Church in Presence of Many Friends.

RECEPTION FOLLOWS

REV. ANDREW M. EGAN OFFICIATES AT THE WEDDING.

Bride's Sister as Maid-of-Honor and Groom's Brother as Best Man—Mrs. Couraine a Member of St. Mary's Choir.

In St. Mary's church at 6:30 last evening, Miss Anna O'Keefe, daughter of Mrs. Annie O'Keefe, of West Sixth street, was made the wife of Daniel Couraine, of Stebbins place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Egan in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends.

Miss Lizzie O'Keefe, a sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor and Edward Couraine, of Jersey City, the groom's brother, acted as best man. The bride was gowned in white silk mulle over white taffeta with pearl trimmings. She wore a veil caught up with lemon blossoms and carried a prayer book, the gift of the groom. The maid-of-honor wore white silk mulle and carried white asters. John O'Keefe and Michael O'Keefe, of this city; Culver Knox and Richmond Walsh, of Jersey City, were the ushers. While the bridal party was assembling before the altar Miss Mary J. Smith presided at the organ and rendered the Lohengrin wedding march.

Following the ceremony a reception was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Couraine at the home of the bride's mother, which was attended by many guests. They left late in the evening for a wedding trip, at the conclusion of which they will make their home in Jersey City, where the groom formerly resided. He is employed in a Wall street banking house and his business associates presented him with a dinner set and a purse of gold. The bride was remembered with many gifts, among them being an oak chair from the choir of St. Mary's church, of which she has been a member.

PUBLIC HEALTH IN JULY

REPORTS FOR THE MONTH AS SUBMITTED AT BOARD MEETING.

Reports showing the work performed during July and the sanitary condition of the city generally were received at the August meeting of the Board of Health, yesterday. Few cases of contagious disease were reported and at present there are only two houses under quarantine.

There were reported the following number of cases of disease: Diphtheria, four; scarlet fever, two; typhoid fever, two; measles, twelve; tuberculosis, five. There was one death from diphtheria and four from tuberculosis. Sixteen marriages were reported, twenty-four births, one still-birth.

Of the sixteen marriages thirteen were white. Twenty of the births were white and four colored; eighteen female and six male. The one still-birth was male and colored. Of the twenty-five deaths reported, fifteen were female, ten male; twenty were white and five colored.

The deaths at all ages are as follows:

Under one month, two; one month to one year, four; one year to five years, two; five years to twenty years, three; twenty years to forty years, three; forty years to sixty years, four; over sixty years, seven.

SEWER PIPE WORK.

Philadelphia Firm's Contract Here Half Completed.

Stone & Grossart, of Philadelphia, who have the contract for building the extension to the sanitary sewer system here, have secured a $12,000 contract to lay three miles of water pipe at East Orange. They will soon commence that work. Mr. Grossart will take charge of it and Mr. Stone will come to this city to superintend the work here.

The local sewer extension is about half completed. Mr. Grossart said today that with clear weather the job could be completed in five weeks. There has been some delay in receiving pipe, and this together with the wet weather and labor troubles have caused considerable delay.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

READY REFERENCES FOR THE LOCAL BARGAIN SEEKERS.

Henry J. Weirenga, the Park avenue truckman, never miss train connections with baggage. When you go away, have him take your trunks.

The place to get a good cigar is at M. C. Dobbins' Park avenue tobacco store where the Nickle Yara is made and sold. It has been a favorite with local smokers for many years.

A question: Are you abusing your eyes? If so, ask yourself it is likely to pay. If in doubt consult Stiles & Co., Philadelphia eye specialists, 107 East Front street, every Thursday.

Before the price of coal jumps to $6.50 per ton it would be a wise plan to put in your winter supply. Ten Eyck & Harris can sell you the best grade of coal and would be pleased to take your order.

There is no better equipped drug store in the city or State than Dudley Miller's on Park avenue. He can compound your prescription quickly and accurately and he also sells the purest drugs and medicines.

The display of fine jewelry, silverware, watches, diamonds and clocks at Charles E. Vail's store in Park avenue, is very attractive. The goods are guaranteed to be the best and to give the longest service.

The old adage, "take care of the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves," is always true, and if you put your pennies in the Dime Savings Institution you will also draw a substantial interest on your account.

Mine Host Windham, of the Hotel Windham, continues to add improvements to his popular hostelry. It is now one of the most complete and up-to-date hotels in the State, having every convenience for permanent or transient guests.

Bread, cake and pies left at your home by Warnock's early morning deliveries. At the West Front street store you can leave your order any time for all flavors of ice cream and water ices. Prompt delivery in the city and borough.

The automobile repair shop and storage house recently established by A. B. Laing on Sycamore street, has proven a great convenience to local autoists. All manner of machines are repaired, and if the owners desire it, they can be kept in storage.

You can change the appearance and the light of a room entirely by repapering it. A completely new line of summer papers has just been received at Woolston & Buckle's North avenue store. Call and see samples and consult about estimates.

Latest novelties in pounded brass—jardenieres, finger bowls and fancy trays—can be found at Gavett's West Front street china store. Also many beautiful designs in hand-painted china tableware. Fancy lamps and candle-stick. Go to Gavett's when in search of wedding or birthday presents.

On account of the fact that Werner's store is soon to be remodeled and extensively altered, it has become necessary that the entire stock of men's summer clothing be dispensed of in ten days. Business and sack suits at reductions of almost fifty per cent. All new goods. Special cuts in men's furnishings.

"A stitch in time saves nine," says the old saw and for that reason it is imperative that the correct time should always be known. L. Moraller & Son, the well known Park avenue jewelers, have watches that can be relied upon and they also do expert repairing. They are among Plainfield's oldest established jewelers.

Your vacation will be all the more enjoyable if you know that your valuables are protected during your absence from the city. By the addition of new storage and safe deposit vaults the City National Bank is fully equipped and competent to care for silverware, jewelry and family heirlooms. No danger of burglars, no fear of fire.

S. Schauer & Co.'s grocery and meat market on West Front street, is one of the most popular stores in the city and you are always sure of getting the highest grade goods at the lowest prices. Every customer of this store is able to save money and they do not get inferior goods. The firm strives at all times to please its customers and if you would be satisfied with your groceries and meat trade here.

KUROKI'S VICTORY.

Russian Forces Driven Out of Kantzuling.

PORT ARTHUR DEFENSE FALLS.

Japanese Army Advancing All Along the Line In Pursuit of the Retreating Enemy—German Ship Sunk by Jessen's Squadron.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—A special from Liaoyang says that after a fierce battle the eastern Russian force has evacuated Yangtzuling, the Russian position six miles west of the Motien pass.

The battle raged the whole day along the southern and eastern fronts. The Japanese advanced with overwhelming forces, flanking the Russians on their right. The losses of the Russians, however, were slight. The Seventeenth Siberian regiment drove the Japanese out of one position.

General Kuroki has reported as follows:

"At daybreak the Japanese army commenced operations for attacking the enemy occupying Yushulintzu and Yangtzuling, both places situated about twenty-five miles from Liaoyang.

LIEUTENANT GENERAL KELLER

"The enemy at Yushulintzu consisted of two divisions, with corresponding artillery.

"The attacking operations were carried out as prearranged, and by sunset we defeated both wings and dislodged them from their strong position.

"At daybreak we resumed the advance and pursued them four miles in the westward direction. The enemy fled toward Anping.

"The enemy at Yangtzuling consisted of two and a half divisions, with four batteries of artillery. The attacking operations there also progressed successfully, and by sunset we carried the enemy's principal positions, but a portion of them offered the stoutest resistance, and we had to bivouac the night in battle formation.

"At daybreak we resumed the attack. All the heights fell into our hands. The enemy fled toward Tanghoyen.

"The casualties are under investigation. We captured some field guns, but details are still unknown.

"In this engagement the attacking forces were at a disadvantage, firstly on account of the steepness of the ground, and secondly on account of the lack of suitable positions for our artillery, while the heat was above 100 degrees Fahrenheit."

It is officially announced at St. Petersburg that the German steamer sunk by the Vladivostok squadron was the Thea, a vessel of about 1,000 tons.

The Thea was a 934 ton freighter, which had been trading in the China seas under the German flag.

It is presumed that the Thea, although flying the German flag, was chartered by an American firm. In view of the fact that she sailed with a cargo of canned fish it is considered not unlikely that, like the Arabia, she sailed from Portland, Ore. The canned fish is believed to have been intended as a delicacy for the officers and the wounded, as the Japanese are very fond of fish.

According to reliable information, Viceroy Alexeieff has left Harbin and is due at Vladivostok today.

General Kuropatkin reports that the Japanese have occupied Ikhavuen and the Yanze pass, thirty miles east of Liaoyang.

Heavy fighting continues on both the southern and eastern fronts, the object of the Japanese in the east being to flank the corps which was commanded by the late General Keller from the south and north, which is easily possible. The progress of the enveloping movement may have forced the corps to retire on Liandiansian, which is the next position in the direction of Liaoyang.

A Newchwang report says that General Fukushima arrived there yesterday morning, having marched up from Port Dalny. The Japanese are confident that the reported victory at Haicheng is true. They say the Russians there probably were outflanked by General Nodzu. General Fukushima, complying with instructions from his superiors, called upon United States Consul General Miller and extended to him the thanks of the Japanese government for his work in assisting Japanese refugees and maintaining order at the time of the Russian evacuation of Newchwang.

Lieutenant General Count Keller, killed in the fighting at Yangze, was a commander on whom General Kuropatkin placed great reliance. He was the first general officer of the Russian army to lose his life in this war.

It is reported at Tokyo that after three days of desperate fighting the Japanese have captured Shantaikow, one of the important defenses of Port Arthur. Shantaikow is situated on the railroad ten miles from Port Arthur.

Rear Admiral Jessen's report from Vladivostok says that with the cruisers Rossia, Gromoboi and Rurik he left Vladivostok July 20. After sinking a small Japanese vessel the cruisers held up the British steamer Camara, but as she had no cargo and "was not caught in the act of carrying contraband of war we were compelled to let her go."

A Japanese coasting steamer was next met, but as most of her fifty passengers were women we determined to release her.

Two Japanese schooners were sunk. Then Admiral Jessen fell in in quick succession with the British steamers Arabia and Knight Commander. Of the Arabia he says nothing new. "The Knight Commander only stopped after the fourth shot," the admiral reports. Her cargo being railroad material, "undoubtedly contraband for the belligerent party, and not being able to bring her to the nearest Russian port owing to her not having enough coal without manifest danger to the squadron, we sank the Knight Commander after taking off all her crew and removing her papers."

Two more Japanese schooners laden with salt were then sunk.

The steamer Schinau, from Australia for Yokohama, was inspected and released.

The Thea, a German vessel with a full cargo of fish from America to Yokohama, was stopped. She was regarded as a legal prize, and her crew was taken off and the vessel sunk owing to the impossibility of bringing her to a Russian port.

CORTELYOU'S SELECTIONS.

Republican Executive Committee of Eight Named.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Chairman George B. Cortelyou of the Republican national committee has selected the men who are to serve on the executive committee during the coming campaign. The committee is divided equally between Chicago and New York, four members being allotted to each headquarters.

The following are the members of the executive committee as announced by Mr. Cortelyou:

Eastern headquarters, New York.—Charles F. Brooker of Connecticut, N. B. Scott of West Virginia, Franklin Murphy of New Jersey and William L. Ward of New York.

Western headquarters, Chicago.—Harry S. New of Indiana, Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, R. B. Schneider of Nebraska and David W. Mulvane of Kansas.

Davis In Absolute Control.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 3.—The preliminary work for the Democratic state convention which has opened here shows that Henry G. Davis, the Democratic candidate for vice president, is in absolute control. The Davis interest has brought to the convention many older Democrats who have not been in attendance regularly in recent years. Owing to the fact that Mr. Davis has refused to express preferences for candidates the delegates are at sea regarding the ticket. Judge John H. Holt is prominently mentioned for governor.

Syrians Claim American Citizenship.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Aug. 3.—A few of the Syrians in spite of the rioting here tried to reopen their stores, but were compelled by the soldiers to close them again. Some of the Syrians are American citizens, and they have appealed for protection to Minister Powell. The minister has promised them that energetic action will be taken in their behalf, at the same time advising them not to open their stores for a few days. In the fight between the police and the soldiers many were wounded.

Manslaughter In Westboro Case.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 3.—An investigation of the head-on collision on the Boston and Worcester Street Railway company's line on Monday, which resulted in one death, conducted by the state police, has resulted in a determination that E. J. Balcom, conductor of the eastbound car which ran on to the single rail and collided with the westbound, must answer to the charge of manslaughter.

To Contest Will of Waldorf Suicide.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 3.—A contest for the fortune, estimated to be worth $2,000,000, of the late Bertha Dolbeer, who committed suicide at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York, has been begun by Adolph Schandler of Alameda, an uncle of Miss Dolbeer, who alleges that the decedent was of unsound mind when she bequeathed most of her wealth to her friend, Miss Ella M. Warren.

Got What Was Coming to Them.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 3.—The Americans who robbed the Wells-Fargo express car on a passenger train on the Mexican Central railroad near Bermejillo, in the state of Durango, two years ago, of over $50,000, at last have received their sentence, being twenty years' imprisonment in the public jail at Durango.

Conference of Nihilists.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 3.—It is said here that a conference of Russian nihilists and terrorists was held from July 25 to July 29 at the residence of a Russian, near the French frontier. Fifty to sixty persons are said to have attended, mostly from abroad.

Miss Roosevelt at Bar Harbor.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 3.—Miss Alice Roosevelt has arrived here as the guest for several days of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Damrosch.

The Widdicomb Furniture.

All who saw this superb Furniture yesterday were willing to indorse our insistment that it is the "Finest Furniture Ever Sold in Newark." Were it two months later we wouldn't make the low prices we are charging now. The summer is a handicap to the furniture business, and with two acres of goods on our hands and several carloads on the way, the trade must be stimulated. We bought this Widdicomb Furniture for feature purposes, and we find we have made no mistake. Many who will not use the Furniture until fall have improved the opportunity on account of the price. Note a few sample items:

HELLO WON THE MOHAWK.

Saratoga Track Sees Delhi Make Mile In 1:37 3-5.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Newton Bennington's three-year-old Hello won the Mohawk, the stake feature of the racing at Saratoga, in impressive fashion. Passing under the wire Hello was two and a half lengths ahead of Champlain. Frank Farrell's Gensalvo-Lillian Belle colt Champlain made the running until the stretch was reached. At this point Hello came up under a hard ride by O'Neill and was never headed. In the last few jumps Bobadil, ridden by Sperling, an apprentice, advanced from the ruck and finished in third position. The opinion prevailed that Mrs. Drake's colt would have gained a better position with a better boy up.

The best race of the day was the last, in which Mr. Keene's great colt Delhi covered the mile in 1:37 3-5, making a track record and coming within one-fifth of a second of Dick Welles' world's record. Gray Friar, in at bottom weight, closed in the stretch and was only half a length behind at the wire. Delhi is a candidate for the Great Republic, the richest stake of the meeting.

Ingomar's Protest Did Not Go.

COWES, Isle of Wight, Aug. 3.—The protest of the yacht Ingomar, owned by Morton F. Plant of New York, against the White Heather in the race for the Commodore's cup, the American boat claiming that the British yacht collided with her, has been decided in favor of the White Heather, which won the race on time allowance, though the Ingomar crossed the finish line first.

Fenn Defeated Kramer.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 3.—The first race of the cycling events of the grand circuit meet and national championships of the National Cycling association, constituting part of the Olympic games, were held in the Stadium grounds. The feature was the defeat of Frank L. Kramer of East Orange, N. J., by W. S. Fenn of Waterbury, Conn., in the one-third mile grand circuit championship.

Huzzah at Harlem.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—The feature event at Harlem was a handicap at a mile and an eighth. It was won by Huzzah by three lengths. Birch Broom beat Brags four lengths for second place. Port Royal, the only other starter, ran out at the far turn and again turning into the stretch, losing whatever chance he may have had. Weather clear and warm; track fast.

Racing at Dover.

DOVER, N. H., Aug. 3.—The midsummer light harness meeting opened at the Granite State park with a large attendance. Three favorites won in straight heats, although Kitty Giltner was hard pressed by Zambia in each heat of the 2:20 trot. There were but two horses in the 2:08 pacing event, Terrill S. winning handily. The 2:15 pacing race went to Jim Kyle.

Hilee Won at Fair Grounds.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 3.—Hilee, in great form just now, won the feature of the fair grounds card yesterday in the fastest time for the track this year, going six furlongs in 1:13¼. Folies Borgeres was only a head behind the winner. Woodlands, a two-year-old from Schreiber's stable, ran six furlongs in fourteen flat, beating Braden a nose at the wire.

Girl Starved to Death.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 3.—Mystery surrounds the death of Miss Botles, aged twenty years, who came here from New York city two months ago. She is thought to have starved to death. The girl boarded alone. When a gentleman who knew her went to her room in the boarding house at 3315 Washington avenue he found her dying. He summoned the landlady, but the girl died within a few minutes.

Two Ministers on Upturned Boat.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—The Rev. R. W. Shaw, 5465 Madison avenue, and the Rev. Henry A. Dexter were rescued by life savers after they had clung nearly two hours to the keel of their capsized sailboat in the lake off Sixty-eighth street pumping station. Their boat was overturned by a sudden squall, and the ministers were thrown into the water.

Aultman Fatally Shot.

NORFOLK, Neb., Aug. 3.—Policeman Pilger fatally shot Lewis Aultman of Boston while Aultman was attempting to avoid arrest. Aultman came here from Bonesteel, where he was wanted in connection with the lawlessness which occurred during the Rosebud registration period.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair and warmer; north winds.

BANDITS LOOT TRAIN

St. Louis Excursionists Robbed Outside Chicago.

MASKED ROBBERS IN PULLMAN CARS

Illinois Central Has Offered a Reward of $4,000 For Outlaws, Who Held Up Passengers In Their Night Robes.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Four highwaymen, all heavily armed, two of them wearing masks, robbed the passengers on the Illinois Central's Chicago and St. Louis express train known as the Diamond special, on the outskirts of Chicago as it neared Matteson, Ill.

The robbers secured all the money and valuables carried by the thirty passengers in the two Pullman sleeping cars, stopped the train and escaped in the darkness. The forward sleeper was entered first. The occupants were aroused and, with nothing on but their night clothes, were marched back to the Pullman car behind.

Two of the passengers who were slow in responding to the commands of the robbers were hit on the head with a hatchet, and one was seriously injured.

One of the bandits fired into a berth whose occupant was slower than the rest. He came scrambling out in a hurry, and the rest responded more readily to the orders after that.

When the passengers in the two cars had been lined up in the rear Pullman two of the robbers stood guard, one at each end of the car, with drawn revolvers. The third, who is supposed to have been the leader, ordered the passengers who had been compelled to bring along their clothes from the first car to throw the garments on the floor. The passengers in the rear car were then commanded to return to their berths and deposit their clothes in the same heap.

Then the leader, with the utmost coolness, began to search the clothing for valuables. When he had finished this search he made a close examination of the passengers for any money they might have secreted.

When the search was completed all the booty was placed in a flour sack, and the three robbers joined their companion who had stood guard in the vestibule of the train. Pulling the bell rope, the signal to the engineer to stop was given, and when the speed of the train had slackened sufficiently the robbers, after having locked the doors of the car, jumped off and fled in the darkness.

So systematic was the work of the bandits, and with so little confusion was it accomplished, that the train crew was unaware of what was going on. It was not until the engineer, in response to the signal, brought his train to a stop and seeing nothing of the remainder of the crew walked back to the rear of the train to ascertain what was the matter that he learned of the robbery.

No attempt was made to rob the mail or express cars. The robbers secured more than $1,000 in money and valuables.

G. H. Groce, superintendent of telegraphs for the Illinois Central, who was one of the men robbed, left the train at Kankakee and notified the Illinois Central railroad detectives in Chicago. The latter wired the Central police, and detectives were sent out on a train to begin search for the robbers.

The officials of the Illinois Central railroad have decided to increase the first reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of the bandits who held up the Diamond special to $4,000, a reward of $1,000 being placed on the head of each of the robbers.

Mrs. Nelson A. Miles Dead.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 3.—The wife of General Nelson A. Miles is dead of heart disease here, where she was visiting her son Sherman. President Roosevelt has sent to Lieutenant General Miles a telegram expressive of the sympathy of himself and Mrs. Roosevelt in the general's bereavement. Mrs. Miles will be buried in a beautiful plot of ground resting on the crest of a long sloping hill which rises from the Potomac and overlooks the city of Washington, in the national cemetery at Arlington.

One Thousand Defendants.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Aug. 3.—The Cudahy Packing company has applied for an injunction in the federal courts to restrain each individual striker in Sioux City from interfering with the work of the company and from threatening employees. One thousand strikers are made defendants. The company charges the strikers with resorting to coercion and violence.

Say Strikers Ask For Work.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Aug. 3.—Packers say that many strikers have applied for their old positions, but that none of them were employed, as the companies had all the men they could use. All pickets have been withdrawn. The strikers continue to say they are satisfied with the situation.

Two Drowned at Fire Island.

FIRE ISLAND, N. Y., Aug. 3.—A young man and woman, whose names are not known, were drowned here while bathing in the surf at Oak island. The body of the woman has been recovered and will be sent to Babylon, N. Y.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 3, 1904.

Judging from the results of the battle we are led to believe that his name is General Kuropatkinnot.

"The effort to bar the saloon is one of the most tragic and comic failures in history," says Bishop Potter. And just so long as men of Henry Codman Potter's type occupy places among the mighty, the curse of strong drink, which has wrecked unnumbered homes and sent millions of men to hell, will continue.

A laudable work is being carried on at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home and there is always a need for funds. The same is true of the King's Daughters' Baby Camp, on the mountain. A dollar goes a long way at these worthy institutions. Any contributions are appreciated. This morning a generous hearted woman left three dollars at this office for Baby Camp and five dollars for the Fresh Air Home. Who's next?

It is a noticeable fact that the papers claiming New Jersey as a doubtful State in the present campaign are principally those published in New York. For instance the New York Herald on Sunday classified it as such and on Monday The Sun rated it among "the Northern States put down by all reasonable men as extremely doubtful." The value of these two expressions of opinion lies in the fact that both newspapers are independent in the present campaign; at least we are led to believe they are from the tone of their editorials. The majority of papers in this State, however, seem inclined to agree that New Jersey is not a doubtful quantity but will be found in the Republican column when the vote is counted up. The Jersey City Journal, Republican, says: "The indications are that the Democratic total vote will go up nearer to the 200,000 line, and that the Republican total will be nearer the 250,000 mark. There is absolutely no reason for putting New Jersey in the doubtful column." The Paterson Daily Press, also Republican, figures out the same total vote and declares that the idea of the Democrats carrying the State is "an event which only the blindest party zealotry can entertain as a possibility."

Runaway Boy's Tale.

Found by a policeman making his bed on a front doorstep, Willie Fisher, a young colored boy, was taken into custody last evening and arraigned before Judge Runyon this morning. The wanderer told a great tale upon the multitudinous duties imposed upon him by a farmer, which included "curryin' horses and cows," and he decided to run away. His relatives reside here but he was afraid to go to them and accordingly camped out. His grandmother was in court and on her promise to take care of him he was released in her charge.

Horses Stray Far Away.

Unhampered by harness and apparently on a pleasure jaunt, two horses were strolling up Plainfield avenue, near Eighth street, at an early hour this morning when they were sighted by Patrolman O'Keefe. By executing a flank movement he captured both and took them to a livery. This morning Joseph V. D. Fields, of Bound Brook, telephoned police headquarters that two horses had strayed from his pasture and comparing descriptions it was found that O'Keefe's captures were the missing animals.

Held a Watermelon Social.

A watermelon sociable was held last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Welsh, of McKinley place, under the auspices of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America. The evening was spent in playing games and at midnight watermelon was served. A large number of members and their friends were present.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that an ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance for the permanent improvement of certain streets and portions of streets of the City of Plainfield, with permanent and durable macadam pavement, and to provide the necessary funds in advance of the collections and assessments for benefits," a copy of which is subjoined to this notice, has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time, and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Common Council to adopt such ordinance at the regular meeting of the Common Council to be held in the Council Chamber, No. 149 North avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., at eight o'clock p. m., on Tuesday, the sixth day of September, A. D. nineteen hundred and four, at which time and place, prior to the adoption of said ordinance, said ordinance will be considered by the Common Council, and all persons interested may be heard before the Common Council with reference to the proposed ordinance.

By order of the Common Council.

JAMES T. MACMURRAY, City Clerk.

Dated: Plainfield, N. J., August 1, 1904.

AN ORDINANCE

for the permanent improvement of certain streets and portions of streets, of the City of Plainfield, with permanent and durable macadam pavement, and to provide the necessary funds in advance of the collection of assessments for benefits.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the following streets and parts of streets of the City of Plainfield, shall be permanently improved with durable macadam pavement to be completely laid and constructed on or before the thirtieth day of November, A. D., 1904, said macadam pavement to be of the depth and width hereinafter specified, that on Monroe avenue, Spooner avenue and Lee place to be equal in every respect to the macadamizing on Clinton avenue between South Second street and West Third street, and that on the remaining streets to be in every respect equal to the macadamizing on Madison avenue, between West Sixth street and West Seventh street, in said city, and all work to be given out upon contract to the lowest responsible bidder, and only after bids therefore shall have been solicited and received according to law, all bids to specify prices for each of said streets or parts of streets separately.

Spooner avenue from the southeasterly curb line of West Third street to the northwesterly curb line of West Eighth street;

Lee place, from the southeasterly curb line of South Second street to the northwesterly curb line of West Seventh street;

Carlton avenue, from the northerly curb line of Putnam avenue to the southeasterly curb line of East Seventh street;

Kensington avenue, from the northerly curb line of Watchung avenue to the southeasterly curb line of East Seventh street;

Randolph road, from the easterly curb line of Plainfield avenue to Cedar Brook;

Norwood avenue;

New street, from the southeasterly curb line of West Front street to the northwesterly curb line of West Seventh street;

Berkeley avenue, from the easterly curb line of Ravine road to the southerly curb line of Park Terrace;

Denmark road, from the easterly curb line of Belvidere avenue to the proposed macadamizing on Berkeley avenue.

Sec. 2. That said streets and parts of streets described in Section 1, excepting Monroe avenue, shall be macadamized for a width of sixteen feet, that is to say, eight feet on each side of the center lines thereof; Monroe avenue from South Second street to West Fourth street shall be macadamized for a width of thirty feet, that is to say, fifteen feet on each side of the center line thereof, and from West Fourth street to West Seventh street for a width of thirty-six feet, that is to say, eighteen feet on each side of the centre line thereof; Monroe avenue, Spooner avenue and Lee place to have a depth of eight inches of iron slag and trap rock, and the remaining streets to have a depth running from six inches in the centre to four inches at the sides, and the macadamizing preparation shall be laid down to the grades already established by ordinance for said streets or portions of streets respectively.

Sec. 3. That for the purpose of obtaining money by the sale of bonds hereinafter specified for the permanent improvement of said streets and parts of streets as aforesaid, in advance of the collection of assessments for benefits, the Common Council of the city do hereby, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, authorize the issuing of twelve registered municipal bonds of the City of Plainfield, of One Thousand Dollars each, amounting in all to twelve thousand dollars, which bonds shall bear interest at the rate of five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually and be payable three years from said date of issue with the option of the City to redeem or pay off the said bonds, or any one or more of them at any time after one year from date of issue, and before three years from said date of issue, or giving personal notice to the said holders of said bonds, or thirty days' notice by advertisement in the official newspapers of the city, of the intention to make such redemption or payment, which bonds may severally or collectively be sold for an amount not less than par value, and the interest on said bonds shall be raised annually by taxation and the principal be paid by the city at maturity, and the money derived from the assessments upon the property benefitted, shall, when collected, be held as a fund toward the payment of said bonds.

Sec. 4. That after said improvements shall have been completed the Common Council shall, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, apply to the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Union for the appointment of Commissioners to estimate and assess benefits upon the owners of the lots or parcels of land and real estate peculiarly benefitted by such improvements, in proportion, as near as may be, to an amount equal to the amount of benefits actually acquired by the lands and real estate bordering on said streets or portions thereof respectively, by reason of such improvements respectively, and in case the costs and expenses aforesaid shall exceed the amount of said benefits, the excess thereof shall be paid by the city at large and raised by general tax; no property or owner thereof to be in any case assessed beyond the amount of benefits actually derived from said improvements.

for the permanent improvement of Watchung avenue, from North avenue to East Second street.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the roadbed of Watchung avenue, extending from the northwesterly crosswalk of North avenue to the southeasterly crosswalk of East Second street, be forthwith repaved with vitrified brick, for its entire width, at the general expense of the city, less the direct contribution of the Public Service Corporation, to be paid for (after first applying the direct contribution of the Public Service Corporation) out of the money raised by tax for the improvement of streets, as provided by the Act of the Legislature entitled "An Act to authorize cities to make permanent improvements in the roadbeds of streets at the general expense," approved May 13, 1884.

Section 2. That before any work shall be done under this ordinance, an amount not less than $1,100.00, on account of direct contribution from the Public Service Corporation, shall be deposited with the City Treasurer.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

JAMES T. MACMURRAY, City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 1, 1904.

AN ORDINANCE

to amend an Ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to regulate and establish the center, curb, side and building lines of Front street from Grove street to the City line at Evona," Approved May 6, 1874.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

That Section 2 of the ordinance to which this is an amendment be and the same is hereby amended by adding the words: "Southwest of Grove street on the northwesterly side of Front street and southwest of New street on the southeasterly side of Front street; that between Central avenue and New street on the southeasterly side of Front street the building line shall be thirty-three (33) feet from the center line."

Proposal for Addition to Somerset St. School Building.

An adjourned meeting of the Board of Education of North Plainfield will be held at the Somerset street schoolhouse Friday evening, August 12, at 8 o'clock, at which time and place said Board of Education will receive sealed proposals for furnishing all labor and materials and constructing the additions and alterations to Somerset street school building, according to the modified plans and specifications now on file in the office of said building.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals at the time and place specified, the Board will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents and make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board. It is proposed to allot the work under the following separate contracts: Carpenters, Masons, Painting, Plumbing, Electrical, Heating. All proposals are to be sealed, properly endorsed and delivered to the district clerk.

In order to insure uniformity and prevent misunderstanding, the bid must be made out in the form of proposal furnished by the architect, and no other proposal will be considered.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check of amount stated below, to be forfeited on conditions named in the proposals: Carpenters' contract, $250; masons' contract, $250; painters' contract, $150; plumbers' contract, $150; electrical contract, $150; heating contract, $150.

The Board reserves the right to accept any or to reject any or all proposals presented.

ROBERT M. FOUNTAIN, District Clerk.

FEAST OF KALOGERO.

OBSERVED IN NEW YORK CITY WITH SIMPLE CEREMONIES.

Sicilians in New York, Believing in the Healing Powers of Their Patron Saint, Seek His Humble Shrine.

New York Special.

As the Irish honor St. Patrick so the inhabitants of Sicily pray to San Kalogero. In whatever land the Sicilian wanders, the feast days of the year for him are those devoted to the memory of Kalogero, who discovered the healing spring of Sciacca in Sicily, and by the virtue of its waters banished disease and even in prosaic Manhattan, the little colony of Sicilians wedged in between the Bowery and Broadway still celebrate with all the ancient rites and ceremonies the festal days of San Kalogero.

Annually, when the time of the three days' feast arrives, dreary Elizabeth street tenement houses are festooned with brilliant lines of bunting, and the red, white and green of Italy, surmounted by the arms of the house of Savoy, mingle with the red, white and blue of America. Long arches of many colored lights are flung across the narrow street, and hundreds of Sicilians, wearing uniforms of every description, national costumes and also Garibaldi shirts, throng out to pay their annual homage. National bands play familiar Sicilian airs, and for the time this corner of New York is transformed into a semblance of the fair island of the Mediterranean.

This year, perhaps as a mark of especial gratitude, San Kalogero was honored the other day with a huge shrine, built against the wall of a tenement, its gilt magnificence covered by a fringed canopy. On the shrine was placed a portrait of the ancient saint healing a Crusader, who knelt before him, accoutred in full armor. The altar was ablaze with tinsel glory and covered with pink and white decorations of paper and thin muslin, and before it a hundred candles, the offerings of grateful Sicilians, burned steadily.

The New York Tribune states that before the original shrine in Sciacca, the home of the saint, pilgrims for generations have deposited their crutches and canes, having been healed by the spring, through the interposition of San Kalogero. There, as at Lourdes or the shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre, huge heaps of discarded crutches are eloquent testimony to the efficacy of the saint. But in this improvised Elizabeth street shrine there were no crutches, but instead of number of wax models of broken legs and arms and bruised heads, realistically colored to show evidences of disease. There were, also, two wax models of babies, contributed by grateful parents, whose little ones owed their recovery to San Kalogero, and not a few one and two-dollar bills, the expressions of more practical gratitude.

SHRINE OF ST. KALOGERO.
(Erected by the Sicilians of New York in Elizabeth Street.)

To the Sicilian San Kalogero is a most potent saint. When illness visits his house he first prays to San Kalogero and then summons a physician. If the invalid recovers, the praise is to San Kalogero and only part of the fee for the doctor. When the feast days of the saint come around again the grateful votary pays homage at some shrine erected in the saint's honor, and there deposits some financial expression of his gratitude.

The Italian of the mainland has nothing to do with the Sicilian saint or his feast. San Rocco, the wandering French priest of jolly memories who banished the plague from Italy and returned to France to be executed as a spy, is his patron saint. The feast comes in August, when most of the buildings of the Italian district are decorated. There was great fear and trembling in Little Italy last year because the shrine erected to San Rocco's honor took fire and burned.

Fish Coughed Up a Ring.

Henry Walter, of Jamaica, Long Island, a hotel man, has a new diamond ring, which came to him in an extraordinary manner. Walter was fishing in Jamaica bay when he felt a fierce tug at his line. He landed a weakfish weighing six pounds. The fish gave him a hard fight before he landed it. As Walter swung the fish over the gunwale into the boat it spit the hook from its mouth, and with it a diamond. When later seen by a jeweler the ring was valued at $35.

Planning Future Forests.

A bill now before the Ohio legislature provides for the payment of a premium or bounty of $2 an acre for a period of ten years to any land owner of the state who will plant and care for forest trees in compliance with the rules laid down by the state board of forestry.

HAS BRIGHT FUTURE

SENOR CORRAL WHO IS TO BE MEXICO'S VICE PRESIDENT.

Was Himself the Author of the Bill Which Created the Office—Highly Praised by President Porfirio Diaz.

City of Mexico Special.

"President in reserve" is the designation employed by Gen. Porfirio Diaz in referring to his secretary of the interior, chosen by the nationalists as their candidate for the vice presidency.

"I congratulate you," said the president, addressing a delegation from the convention, "on having nominated as a candidate for the vice presidency a citizen who, in addition to his upright character, enlightenment and public spirit, demonstrated by admirable service in various important posts, possesses the moral and physical energies which are proper to his relatively youthful age, and for which not even a career of patriotic abnegation and honorable service can afford a substitute."

Little did Ramon Corral think when he drew up and presented to the chamber of deputies the bill creating the vice presidency and extending the presidential term from four to six years, that he would be the man selected to fill the vice presidential post and later become in all probability the successor of Gen. Diaz, the great soldier who has earned the title of "peace president."

The question of the retirement of Gen. Diaz was settled a year ago, when both the nationalists and liberals nominated the president to succeed himself.

The amendments to the constitution as finally adopted provide that in the event of the death, disability or absence from the republic of the president, the vice president shall immediately assume the duties of the presidency without the necessity of taking a new oath. Neither can he resign except for very grave reasons, which must be passed upon by the congress, and neither can he leave the republic without the permission of congress.

The law authorizing the amendments makes the vice president ex-officio president of the senate, but leaves the incumbent free to accept other offices and perform the duties for which he may be selected by the president, the bill declaring that it is not expedient that the vice president be condemned to be a mere passive spectator of the public affairs which at any time he may be called upon to direct. Probably Corral will retain the portfolio of interior affairs.

SENOR RAMON CORRAL.
(Minister of the Interior and Future Vice President of Mexico.)

It has long been the desire of the president to lay down, at least temporarily, the reins of government, rest from his arduous duties and make a tour of the principal cities of the United States and Europe. The clause in the amendment allowing leave of absence, the vice president serving ad interim, gives him the opportunity, though whether Gen. Diaz will embrace it cannot now be stated.

Ramon Corral was born in Alamos, State of Sonora, January 10, 1854. He made his appearance in the political world as the editor of two newspapers, El Fantasmas and the Voz de Alamos. Both of these publications were opposed to the administration of Gen. Ignacio Pesqueira, who controlled the local government of Sonora for 20 years. In 1875 he exchanged the pen for the sword, and when the revolution of August 11 of the same year began, with Gen. Francisco Serna at its head, Corral took an active part in it, maintaining on the battle field the same principles he had proclaimed in the columns of the press.

Elected to the legislature and afterward appointed secretary of state, Corral assisted in the elaboration of many of the laws that are to-day in force in the state, more especially those pertaining to fiscal regulations.

In the assembly of 1887 he was elevated to the vice governorship of Sonora, and he virtually had charge of the executive power during most of the term by reason of leave of absence granted to the constitutional governor. Corral retired from the position in 1891, acted as secretary of state until 1895, and was then unanimously elected governor for two terms. One of the results of his efforts is the College of Sonora, in the capital of the state. Numerous schools and a multitude of industrial enterprises throughout the state owe their existence to his initiative.

Corral became governor of the federal district of Mexico on December 19, 1900, and on January 16, 1903, was sworn in as minister of interior in the cabinet of President Diaz. His capacity for government has been demonstrated. His personality is very attractive. He possesses a rare combination of affability and authority. Being a native of a frontier state he has come into frequent contact with Americans and understands and appreciates the character of the American people.

BEHIND PROSCENIUM ARCH

Men Working There Are United in International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes.

Boston (Mass.) Special.

The International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, which recently held its twelfth annual convention in Milwaukee, was organized in New York city in 1893. Previous to that time there had been local unions of stage employes chartered directly from the American Federation of Labor in a number of cities, but all efforts to unite them in a national body had failed.

At the first convention there were 11 cities represented, and a campaign of organization was started, but it was found difficult to unite the men, as many were found ready to work for an evening shifting scenes and doing work of that order for the privilege of seeing a free show. At the Omaha convention in 1898 it was decided to broaden the scope of the organization and admit the Canadian locals, and since that time the union has steadily increased in importance.

At the present time there are over 100 local unions, with a membership of about 6,000, controlling almost every theater in the country.

Patrick T. Barry, the international president, is a member of the Boston local union, and was elected to his present office at the Columbus convention last year.

Lee M. Hart, general secretary-treasurer of the organization, is a Chicagoan and is widely known in labor circles throughout the country. He has been identified with the labor movement since 1879. He was one of the leaders instrumental in forming the present organization, and has held office continuously since, first as treasurer, then as president, and since 1898 he has been secretary-treasurer, being elected without opposition at each convention.

The executive work of the organization rests in the hands of Mr. Hart, and he has proved himself not alone an organizer of great ability, but an able and conservative official in handling strikes. The organization includes all mechanics behind the proscenium arch in a theater, and in addition to reducing the hours of labor to eight a day the men have practically doubled their wages since the union was formed, 11 years ago.

MRS. MAYBRICK'S RELEASE.

It Was Effected on the Fifteenth Anniversary of the Beginning of Her Trial.

London (Eng.) Special.

Mrs. Florence Maybrick, the American woman who has been imprisoned in England for the murder of her husband, was released on July 20, the fifteenth anniversary of the commencement of her trial.

In certain cases the term of imprisonment dates from the beginning of the trial, and such was the case on this occasion.

After her release Mrs. Maybrick immediately joined her mother, Baroness Deroques, in France, from whence they sailed for America.

After her arrival in the United States Mrs. Maybrick will proceed direct to Louisiana to appear in the land suit which Judge Yarrow, of Washington, is conducting for the imprisoned woman.

Mrs. Maybrick's recent term of semi-custody was granted for the purpose of permitting her to regain her mental tone, which the long incarceration had impaired. There were times when she appeared feeble-minded, but now her mind is normal and she is in condition to proceed with her suit.

Girls In Love

Why Some Engagements Are Broken

"THERE goes a long engagement that won't be an engagement long," remarked little Mrs. Flippant.

And while the others cried "For shame!" Mrs. Commonsense looked after the couple with a grieved expression in her eyes. "Quarreling again," she sighed.

"Well, that's always the trouble with long drawn out engagements," observed one woman. "The man and the girl haven't anything new to find out about each other. The result is that to fill in the time they find fault with what they do know, with this very charming result."

"Not with all girls," remarked Mrs. Commonsense. "There are many varieties of the girl in love, and they all differ."

"Merging at length into the sameness of the married woman, I suppose?"

"Yes, if you want to be pessimistic. But marriage, while it removes a few of the bumps of originality, also takes away quite a few of the angles of eccentricity, let me tell you."

"Well, what about the married ones?"

"I may be prejudiced, but I still say they are in the minority as far as crankiness is concerned. After all, it is a great developer of diplomacy and suavity of disposition to have to live right along with one person."

"Ye-es, especially some persons," observed little Mrs. Hardtimes, with a grim expression around the corners of her mouth. "But do go on, my dear, and classify the married woman in the raw, otherwise the girl in love."

"Well, first and foremost there is the sentimental girl. She is more in love with the idea of being in love than anything else. The man who is going to marry her may be merely a captain of industry and not a knight errant, but, for all that, she invests him with all sorts of highfalutin nonsense.

"Then there's the coquette. She uses all her wiles to capture the man of her heart, and once she has him she doesn't take any better care of him than if he were an old shoe.

"Then there is the mercenary girl. But I almost hate to speak of her, because she really isn't in love. She is the cold blooded little fish who leads all men to propose to her regardless of their feelings, and then she passes them in review and picks out the one who can give her the most ermine muffs and silk stockings."

"Let me remind you of the exacting girl."

"Exactly. She wants James chained to her door mat, where she can make use of him at any hour in the twenty-four. She is the queep, and queens do nothing. The poor man is the slave to be made to fetch and carry. If he goes away from her, he must render an account of every minute of his time.

"The nagging girl is a little different. She finds fault with the cut of Teddy's collar, with the way he fixes his hair, with his ties, with his manners. She teases him to tell her things when it is evident he doesn't want to. She urges him and repeats things over like a tiresome child.

"Then there's the society girl. It's no rest for the man to whom she is engaged. She drags him around everywhere. She glories more in the appearance of her escort than she does in his love."

"And the jealous girl?"

"Plain fool, my dear, because if the man who is engaged to her really does things that should make her jealous she shouldn't marry him, and if it is merely a case of ungovernable imagination on her part she deserves to lose him.

"There are two kinds of girls I left out: One is the girl reformer who marries a man, or rather falls in love with him, to make him change all his habits of life and adopt new ones to please her. The other belongs to the stupid type—the girl who can't take an intelligent pleasure in a man's interests, who the minute the conversation leaves the personal is out of her element and has nothing to say."

"For goodness sake, give us now the ideal girl in love!"

"The thoroughly nice, healthy minded girl, who honestly loves the man she is about to marry with a sincere, warm hearted affection which makes her patient and kind to him, trusting him absolutely and while expecting the right treatment giving him the right treatment. Above all, the girl who is his chum and his companion."

MAUD ROBINSON.

LIVELY GRAND DUKE

BORIS INVITED CHORUS GIRLS TO SEE A REAL WAR.

His Conduct Angered Gen. Kuropatkin and Led to Personal Encounter—Czar Said to Be in Hot Fury.

St. Petersburg (Russia) Special.

Just what will be the punishment meted out to Grand Duke Boris for his remarkable ideas of war, which, after slashing Gen. Kuropatkin across the nose, resulted in his being recalled from the far east, is interesting high official and social circles.

The consensus of opinion seems to be that Boris will be exiled to the southern Russian estates of his father, Grand Duke Vladimir.

The czar is furious at the escapades of the dashing but profligate young Boris.

The full details of the war career of the grand duke have leaked out and have created the greatest indignation.

As soon as Boris received his orders to proceed to the front he gave a dinner to his friends in the operatic chorus, and there are few pretty St. Petersburg chorus girls that do not know Boris. As the dinner rolled along, Boris waxed enthusiastic in talk about the glories of war.

"Dear Boris," said a tall, divinely built girl, raising a wine glass, "how we shall miss you. Won't we, girls?"

There was a clatter from the wine glasses and a chorus of "Yes, yes. Poor dear Boris, we shall miss you, indeed!"

Staggering slightly from the effects of the wine, but his eyes sparkling with good fellowship, the dashing, handsome and reckless young aristicrat waved his champagne glass in the air and cried:

"Why miss me, girls, at all? Come along, all of you. I invite you to be the guests of Boris in the far east. Matters are dull here in St. Petersburg. I promise you a royal good time."

The girls were enthusiastic, and the next day announced to their friends that they were going to Port Arthur to view the war as the specially invited guests of the royal family.

A few days later Grand Duke Boris boarded a luxuriously fitted-up train of special cars with a few officers. With them were the several girls and a small army of maids. The slow trip over the wild, desolate route in Siberia seemed to pass only too quickly.

GRAND DUKE BORIS.
(Russian Prince Who Went to War with a Bevy of Chorus Girls.)

One entire car was stocked with champagne and so great was the demand that it was exhausted before the end of the journey.

Arriving at headquarters the royal party and its girl attendants created a sensation. Kuropatkin was shocked. He did not say anything for a time, however, and night after night there were orgies in the camp.

Word came to Boris that a small army of Geisha women were traveling not far from the Japanese army.

"We will introduce them to Russian cigarettes," said Boris, and he proposed an expedition to capture the pretty Japanese women. All the officers present agreed to take part in it, but the next morning it was forgotten.

Another brilliant thought occurred to the champagne-muddled Boris. At one of his dinners he arose and proposed this toast:

"To the devil with the God of War. Let us drink three bumpers to the Goddess of Love."

They were drunk with a cheer. And it was the straw that broke the commanding general's patience. He commanded Boris to appear before him. Boris staggered into Kuropatkin's headquarters drunk.

"You must ship those women back to St. Petersburg," the old general said, sternly.

"How brutal you are," leered Boris.

"No; I mean it," said Kuropatkin, losing patience. "They are demoralizing the entire camp. This is not an opera bouffe, but a real war."

"You beast," shouted Boris, beside himself with rage, and drawing his sword he made a lunge at the general, who, if he had not stepped back nimbly, would have been killed. As it was, he was wounded in the nose.

The czar was informed by telegraph all the particulars and recalled Boris. The St. Petersburg girls returned on an ordinary soldiers' train, in marked contrast to the manner in which they had departed for the seat of war.

In Kuropatkin's headquarters the Goddess of Love was buried for once and all and the God of War was again placed on his pedestal.

KANSAS CYCLONE STORIES.

Traveler from the East Declares That the Tales He Heard Bordered on the Marvelous.

"A 'fish story,' here in the east is your euphuism for an incredible lie," said a traveler. "Now, if you should go to Kansas you would probably begin to call lies 'cyclone stories.'

"Marvelous, truly marvelous, are the cyclone stories that the Kansans tell. A cousin of mine declared to me that on his Kansas farm a cyclone had once shot hundreds of straws against a telegraph pole with such velocity that, like steel darts, they had penetrated the wood to a depth of several inches.

"Another Kansan said that a cyclone once threatened to blow away a load of wood that lay in his yard. His father threw himself on the wood in order to anchor it to the ground with his weight. But the cyclone was too strong for the old man. It bore away him and the wood together, and astraddle of logs, he rode like a horseman slowly through the air. He would, no doubt, have disappeared forever, but his three sons rushed forth and overtook him, and their combined strength brought the old chap safely down.

"A third Kansan told me that one summer such a steady and strong wind blew from the south that a pithfork of hay thrown against a southward facing wall would remain suspended against the wall as though glued there. The wind held the hay in place with a pressure like that of a mighty hand.

"I suppose that most cyclone stories are untrue. Those concerning straws that penetrate wood are, however, true enough. To prove them straws have been shot from guns at blocks of wood, and at a velocity of 175 miles they have penetrated the wood like darts of steel."

BABY PLAYED WITH SNAKE.

Reptile Crawled Into Eva's Clothes Basket and Both Seemed to Have a Good Time.

Undismayed by a blacksnake that crept into a clothes basket in which she lay in the yard, Eva Buelah, three years old, daughter of Peter Buelah, a River Hill (Pa.) farmer, hailed the intruder as a new pet and caressed it as she would a kitten until rescued from her dangerous position by her frightened father.

Her years were too few for knowledge of the scrape her prototype had got into in connection with a serpent, but little Eva, perhaps, was wiser than Eve, for, whereas the mother of the race let the constrictor do most of the talking, the baby kept up an uninterrupted flow of prattle to the snake. From the moment in which it dragged its four feet of length into her wicker paradise she was the most delighted youngster in those parts. She cooed the sable playmate, rapped it over the head with her rattle and laughed with delight when it wriggled over her. Her parents heard and saw her, but they didn't perceive the snake until the father walked from the door of the house toward the basket. Then he dashed to her side.

Buelah snatched the little one from the basket and gave her a fling that sent her rolling over the grass. Then he raised a clothes pole and swung it on the snake until he had beaten the reptile to a pulp. He was astonished to find Eva unharmed. There was no danger of poison, but the snake, being of the constrictor species, might easily have choked the child in its folds.

Cheap Production of Coal.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

DECLINES ALL INVITATIONS.

President Will Not Attend Public Functions This Year.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Lieutenant Governor Curtis Guild of Massachusetts and General Blackmar, commander of the department of Massachusetts, G. A. R., headed a committee which has invited the president to attend the national encampment of the G. A. R. to be held in Boston Aug. 15 to 20. The invitation extended to the president was that he attend the encampment on the 16th inst. and review the great parade that day.

President Roosevelt expressed his sincere appreciation of the invitation and his wish that his engagements might permit him to accept it, but he held out little encouragement to the committee that he would be able to attend the encampment, saying he probably would have to decline it, as he had declined all similar invitations to participate in public functions during the present year.

Killed by Boy's Blow.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 3.—J. W. Brown, a member of the Charlotte police force, has been killed by Paul Biggers, a sixteen-year-old white boy, here. Biggers had been arrested for violating a city ordinance, and after the hearing the boy passed the police officer and laughed or sneered at him. Brown thereupon gave chase and laid hold of Biggers, who struck him in the stomach with his fist. The officer knocked the boy senseless with his club. A large crowd gathered, and threats against the officer were made, but the crowd was kept back, and the boy was taken to the police station. Brown was taken ill shortly afterward as a result of the blow struck by Biggers and died a few hours later.

Bosworth's Mysterious Death.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Aug. 3.—Charles Bosworth, who was found battered and unconscious in his room in Ward's block here, died in the New Britain hospital about 4 o'clock without uttering a word upon which the police may work in their effort to clear up the mystery of the death of the alleged gambler. His skull was crushed, and he was badly beaten in other parts of the body. He is said to have almost always carried large sums of money with him, sometimes as much as $2,000. Nothing of any value was found on him.

Excursion Yacht on Rocks.

THOUSAND ISLANDS PARK, N. Y., Aug. 3.—The steam yacht Where Now of Kingston, returning to Thousand Islands park with thirty passengers on board, ran high and dry on a shoal just above the park. The boat was running at full speed when it went upon the rocks, which were slightly submerged. It swayed for a moment, then toppled to one side, throwing the occupants against the rail and into the water. The passengers were all rescued, a score of rowboats getting to the scene immediately.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

In addition to being a fast baseball player, Bassford, the new right-fielder for Alis, is a fine tenor singer.

A remarkable game of ball was played on Sunday between Jamaica A. C., of Long Island, and the Atlantic A. C., of Brooklyn. Twenty hits were made by each team and the score was 6 to 4 in favor of Atlantic A. C. Doescher pitched for Jamaica. Besides allowing twenty hits, he gave eight bases on balls and struck out five men. Skeggs, the one-armed wonder, who played one game last year for Alis, made three hits, one being a three-bagger.

Take five of the leading pitchers of the country, and there is a pronounced similarity in their effectiveness. In nineteen of Mathewson's games the average of hits made off him is 7 8-19. The average off McGinnity for twenty games is 6-4 20 The average off Chesbro for twenty-seven games is 6 19-27, off Owen for twenty-three games 7, off Young for twenty games 7 7-20, off Waddell for twenty-four games 7 2-24. Double figure hitting in a game has been done off Mathewson five times, off McGinnity four times off Chesbro four times, off Owen three times, off Young three times, off Waddell four times. The most hits made off Mathewson in any one game were 13; off McGinnity, 11; off Chesbro, 13; off Owen, 11; off Young, 11; off Waddell, 12. Fewest hits in a game: Off Mathewson, 1; off McGinnity, 2; off Chesbro, 1; off Owen, 2; off Young, 0; off Waddell, 1. Early in the season double figure hitting was done off Mathewson three games in succession—10, 13, 11. The same thing happened to Waddell—10, 10, 12. None of the other three has been hit for double figures twice in succession. All the figures have given refer only to games in which the pitchers referred to were in the whole game.

GOLF.

In addition to the Governors' competition there will be ball sweepstakes handicap at the Westfield Golf Club on Saturday.

The Arsdale Golf Club got even with the Westefild Golf Club team on Saturday, by winning the match played on its own course. Two weeks ago Westfield defeated Arsdale by a score of 13 to 7. Saturday's score was 11 to 10. The Nassau system of scoring was used. The summary: Westfield—M. Whitlatch, 2; Sherman, 0; R. I. Townley, 0; Woodward, 2; Condit, 0; Bogart, 3; W. M. Townley, 3; Floyd, 0. Total, 10. Arsdale—Kight, 0; Garfield, 2; Woodward, 3; Carruthers, 0; McLaughlin, 3; Baker, 3; Kellner, 0; White, 0. Total, 11.

Only such foreigners as the executive committee of the United States Golf Association sees fit to invite can compete in the national amateur championship, to be held on the links of the Baltusrol Golf Club, September 6 to 10. In view of the fact that absolutely no restriction is put upon the British championship, which, in consequence, was won in June by Walter J. Travis, such drawing of lines will cause severe criticism abroad. The lowest sixty-four men in the first qualifying round of eighteen holes can continue in the second and third medal rounds. Then the thirty-two standing lowest on the fifty-four holes are eligible for the match play. The winner will receive a gold medal, the runner-up a silver medal and the other semi-finalists bronze medals. Entries are subject to the approval of the executive committee of the U. S. G. A.

Three IDEAL... BUILDING Lots

Anyone who knows values and appreciates desirable location, will at once recognize that the three lots we have for sale on are unusually fine for home sites. High elevation—pleasant surroundings—convenient to station and trolley.

It will pay you to see these lots—they're very lowly priced. Ask us for full particulars.

Plainfield Land & Building Co.. 207 North Ave.

—Atwood L. Da Costa, referee in bankrupcy, yesterday signed the order confirming the sale of the judgment found among the assets of John B. Dahl, the bankrupt, and disposed of on Saturday to Cormick Caulfield through Francis J. Blatz, Esq., trustee of the estate. William Newcorn, Esq., counsel for the trustees, announced yesterday that with the conclusion of the matter, the affairs of the bankrupt with shortly be adjusted.

C. O. Stanley, of Netherwood, left yesterday to spend some time in Boston.

NOW A PHYSICAL INSTRUCTOR

ERIC MORALLER TO GO TO DE PAUW UNIVERSITY.

Eric Moraller, of West Fourth street, has just accepted the position as physical instructor at De Pauw University, Greencastle, Indiana. He is interested in all sorts of athletic sports, in the Y. M. C. A. and in this city, and during the last season held the captaincy of the champion basket ball team at the Y. M. C. A. Training School at Springfield, Mass.

Mr. Moraller has just completed a course of study at the Y. M. C. A. Training School at Springfield, Mass., graduating from there in June as a member of the class of 1904. For several years past he has been a worker at the annual Y M. C. A. conference held each summer at Silver Bay.

BEHIND CLOSED PORTALS

HAPPENINGS OF THE LOCAL FRATERNAL ORDERS.

Plainfield Typographical Union, No. 399, will hold an important business meeting tonight and every member is urged to be present.

At its meeting last evening Freedom Castle, No. 42, K. G. E., received a visit from New Brunswick and Annandale delegations. The dinner set was drawn drawn for and was won by Edward Fluck, of West Fifth street.

One of the chief features of the Knights Templar conclave, in San Francisco, in September, will be the parade. It is expected that fully 15,000 sir knights will take part in the big demonstration, and that it will be the most brilliant spectacle ever seen on the Pacific coast. In the line will be some of the most prominent men in fraternal order work in the country, and a number of Canadians will be present as guests of the grand commandery of California. There will also be a delegation from England, coming as special representatives of the highest Masonic bodies in that country and Wales. King Edward, of England, who was once grand master of the English branch of the order, before he ascended the British throne, will send Earl Euston as his personal representative to the conclave. The visitors will be escorted by the officers of the grand encampment of the United States.

IN THE CHRISTIAN FIELD

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

Rev. J. W. Musson, minister in charge of Faith chapel, will have charge of the prayer meeting at the First Baptist church tonight.

Rev. Lewis Bond, a returned missionary from Turkey, will preach in the Scotch Plains Baptist church Sunday morning and will illustrate his sermon on the black-board.

Rev. Lewis Bond, formerly of Plainfield, but for the past several years a missionary in Samaria, will give a black-board talk at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The First Baptist and Seventh-Day Baptist church, of New Market, the Baptist church, of South Plainfield and the Epworth League, of Bonud Brook, will join in an excursion to Bellewood Park on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, on Tuesday, August 9. During the day there will be a baseball contest.

RAILROAD TO SUMMIT.

Work Begins This Week on Rahway Valley Road.

Work on the new Rahway Valley Railway, which is to run from Summit to New Orange, will be started, it is declared, within a week. This line has long been projected and several times it has seemed as if the plan were perfected, but something has happened to postpone the construction. An election of officers was held last week and William W. Cole, of Elmira, N. Y., was elected president. The company is capitalized at $350,000. The road will skirt the Baltusrol Golf Club grounds, and will prove a boom to out-of-town golfers who desire to reach this course, and it will establish a connection between the Lackawana Railroad in Summit and the Jersey Central and Lehigh Valley roads at the other end.

Somerset Freeholders to Meet.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders, will hold its regular meeting in the court house at Somerville on Tuesday. There is likely to be a scrap over the macadamizing of the road from Somerville to the Hunterton county line. Several months ago this was applied for and there is now a big petition out in favor of the thoroughfare's improvement.

Miss Nellie Cotter, of East Sixth street, is dangerously ill at her home.

TO INCORPORATE THE HOME

OFFICERS OF NETHERWOOD FRESH AIR INSTITUTION TO BE ELECTED.

Those interested in the Netherwood Fresh Air Home have taken steps to have the institution incorporated, the matter now being in the hands of W. S. Angleman, Esq. These are the incorporators: Rev. E. M. Rodman, Plainfield; Alex. C. Morgan, New York; L. H. Biglow, Jr., Montclair; George A. Chapman, Plainfield; Miss Sara Curry, superintendent of the Home; trustees, C. A. Titus, Elizabeth; David Hand and George E. Hall, Plainfield.

As soon as the work of incorporation is completed there will be announced the full list of officers governing the institution. It is proposed to firmly establish the Home and get it in such condition that its support for the summer work will be assured.

PERSONAL.

J. LeRoy Roth, of Easton, Pa., has succeeded Edward S. Tomlinson, as physical director at the Passaic Y. M. C. A.

George W. Force, of East Front street, has returned from a three months' business trip through Tennessee.

John J. McGowan, a Journal reporter, who has been on a two weeks' vacation to the British provinces, has returned home.—Elizabeth Journal.

COWS MILKED DRY BY FISH

Leap from Water to Herd and Get All the Nourishing Food They May Require.

A Hawaii correspondent of the New York Herald says that for months the cows of the district of Kona, which is along the sea, have been dry. Prize cows which in season could be depended upon to give bounteous supplies of rich milk have disappointed their owners steadily, although there was no physical reason for it. Milk has arisen to a premium in the district and could not be obtained at any price.

Naturally, the natives were suspected. The white farmers organized special bands of vigilantes to watch, but night after night brought forth no result. Cows which should have given large supplies in the morning would return from a night's grazing on the rich grass absolutely dry, although it was certain no human being had approached them during the night.

The explanation has been found at last; at least, in the opinion of some of the farmers and it has come from the natives. The far-famed and almost legendary "milkmaid" flying fish have again returned to the shores of Hawaii and are plying their peculiar vocation.

It was only after many natives had been given a species of the "third degree" by the suspicious husbandmen that the explanation was given.

According to them the waters of the Pacific contain a strange species of flying fish which thrives on milk alone. The native word translated means "milkmaids." These fish, say the natives, first appeared in the latter part of the eighteenth century and were supposed to come from the shores of Australasia. They have long, pliable snouts, and when once in action cannot be detached.

Their plan, it is said, is to swim through the surf quietly to the shore, where, by tumping up in the air, they can discover a herd of goats or sheep or cows graing on the sea grass. They then arise, as if in ordinary flight, and, as if prearranged, certain ones end their flight on certain animals. There they dangle until their thirst or hunger is appeased or the supply runs short. They then swing themselves loose and at the same time gain the impetus which enables them to reach the sea again. Once in a very long while, it is said, one of these fish is captured because he is so greedy that he cannot fly at all after his meal.

The cows, it is said, never heed their strange milkmaids, because the flutter of the wings of the fish produces a current the air most pleasing on a warm night.

Take the Old Club's Name.

The Somerset baseball team, of Somerville, will hereafter be known as the West Ends. Saturday they will play New Brunswick.

PLAINFIELD PASTORS ON "MODEL" SALOON

Local Ministers Express Their Views on Bishop Potter's Experiment.

SOME CONDEMNED HIM

DR. SNODGRASS, SAYS IT IS MERELY CHOOSING LESSER EVIL.

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson Explains the Idea—Opinions of Other Local Clergymen on the Plan.

Included in the storm of protest from all over the country that has followed Bishop Potter's participation in the dedication of the "Subway Tavern" in New York, for the elevation of tippling, is emphatic disapproval of his action by Plainfield clergymen. Several local pastors who were approached on the subject expressed the belief that the bishop had erred in his action and that instead of bettering the saloon evil it will tend to further it.

The saloon in question is supposed to be a "model" affair or a "poor man's club," the primary idea being to disassociate immorality from the drinking habit. The originators propose to eliminate that profit in the saloon business which comes from the sale of inferior goods and encourages men to drink more than they should. A man can enter the Subway Tavern and use the place as a clubroom, look over papers and magazines, smoke his pipe or cigar and sit in the company of decent fellows where the treating habit is discouraged. A man showing signs of intoxication is not to be served, women can purchase beer at a "fountain" in the front part and, in short, the saloon is to be conducted on the lines of the taverns in England started by Lord Grey. This is an extract from the statements made at the dedication.

Among the Plainfield clergymen who expressed an opinion in the matter yesterday, was Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, who has followed up Bishop Potter's action and who is also thoroughly acquainted with Lord Grey's plan and its workings. He did not approve of the bishop's participation, he said, and he did not believe that the P. E. church would uphold him in any way.

"It is simply substituting a lesser for a greater evil," he continued, "but one that encourages a man to take his first glass of liquor. Of course the proprietors say they will not serve a man who shows sings of intoxication but it is only a step from this place to dozens of others where no restriction is made. Instead of this Subway Tavern what the country needs is a substitution for the saloon like the Holly Tree Inn in England, where the drinking of liquor is discouraged and coffee, tea, milk and chocolate is to be had in abundance. Bishop Potter says the saloon is the poor man's club but it need not be necessarily. The Y. M. C. A. has in nearly every city warm, comfortable and well lighted reading rooms where everyone is welcomed without having to buy a drink for the privilege. I believe there should be a Y. M. C. A. building for every saloon and in this way their influence can be offset."

When Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector emeritus of Grace P. E. church, was asked this morning if he believed the Episcopal church would approve of the Bishop's action, he declared he doubted it and he did not believe the Diocese of New York would take any cognizance of it.

"His presiding at the exercises," said the clergyman, "was a questionable action but he is right in a good many views. For a long time he has argued that it was an injustice for him to have dozens of privileges at fashionable clubs while the poor man had no place to go to but the saloon after his day's work. It is his belief that if the saloon can be remodelled and liquor sold as are groceries it will mean the uplifting of the evil. Personally I believe the Bishop realized fully what he was doing when he went into the place but whether or nor it will bring about any good result is a question that can only be decided in time."

Rev. Dr. Edwin L. Earp spoke of the saloon reform as very grave question. Social reformers have considered it time and again but they have found that while the church has sought to do away with it they have failed to suggest a substitute. The poor man certainly needs a club, he said, and

BOY BRUTALLY ASSAULTED

ABRAM KUNZMAN HOLDS COLORED LAD RESPONSIBLE FOR THE ATTACK.

Charged by Abram Kunzman, the West Third street grocer, with brutally assaulting his ten-year-old son, Isador Kunzman, William Robinson, colored, the fifteen-year-old son of Peter Robinson, of West Third street, was summoned before Justice Hand this morning. Kunzman says that on July 29, as his son was proceeding along West Third street, near his home, young Robinson rushed at him with clenched fists and, for apparently no reason at all, pummeled the smaller boy severely about the head and face. Isador was badly bruised and subsequently developed a pair of black eyes and a large black and blue bruise on the side of his face.

On account of the Judge's business at Elizabeth today, hearing in the case was postponed until Friday morning at 9 o'clock. William Newcorn, Esq., will represent Kunzman and the State in the matter.

SYRIAN GUIDE IS HERE

SAIID KHALIL HAIK THE GUEST OF CHARLES W. M'CUTCHEN.

Saiid Khalil Haik, a dragoman and contractor for upper and lower Egypt, Mount Sina, Palestine and Syria, is the guest of Charles W. McCutchen, of Rockview avenue. Saiid Haik recently came to this country with a fine Arabian horse purchased by Mr. McCutchen while abroad. He has been a guide in foreign countries since he was twelve years old and has travelled extensively through the large countries.

This is Saiid Haik's first trip to America and he is much pleased with what he has seen here. It has been his pleasure to meet many friends here whom he has guided through foreign lands and they have made his stay one long to be remembered. He will probably be in this country two or three weeks more and upon his return will take an American party abroad. His home is near Beyrout. He learned the English language when quite young and speaks it fluently.

PLAINFIELDERS AT THE SHORE

The First Presbyterian, Congregational and Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-schools, together with their friends, left this morning on their annual excursion to Asbury Park. Notwithstanding the fact that the weather was far from promising, the excursionists turned out in large numbers and filled fourteen cars. Some of the coaches were overcrowded, many persons being obliged to stand up. It is quite likely that additional coaches were attached to the train at Roselle.

Members from each Sunday-school composed the general committee having charge of the day's outing and every arrangement was made for a pleasant time at the shore. There were no mishaps at the start and so far as could be learned no one intending to take the trip was left behind The excursionists will leave the Park at 6:15 tonight.

Married at a Hotel.

Frederick W. Stuart, a traveling salesman, whose home is in Jersey City, and Miss Georgianna S. Lyon, of Brooklyn, who has been making her home at the Hotel Rosell, were married last evening at the hostelry. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Erskine M. Rodman and was witnessed by a small gathering of friends. The young couple will make their home in this city.

Invitations for Wedding.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Mabel G. Dean, daughter of Mrs. Luara Dean, of East Front street, to Frank E. Kesselring, of the borough. It will take place at the home of the bride's mother on Monday evening, September 5.

Land Development.

A Boston Syndicate recently purchased of David Magie, of Lorraine, twenty acres of land at the latter place and it is being sub-divided. Already half of the property has been sold to individuals and the work of building houses commenced.

AERIE OF EAGLES FOR PLAINFIELD SOON

Movement on Foot for Organization of Fraternal Order of Eagles in This City.

CIRCULATING PETITION

"TIM" SULLIVAN, OF NEW YORK, INTERESTED IN THE SCHEME.

Fifteen Plainfielders in the Elizabeth Aerie—President Roosevelt a Member of the Order.

Known throughout the State as a home for secret societies and kindred organizations, Plainfield is soon to have another lodge added to its already large list. Members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, which is considered one of the strongest in the Western part of the country, have taken steps to establish a local aerie, as the lodges are called, and a petition list has been put in circulation. Thirty names have already been secured and before the institution date is set it is thought the number will reach fifty. Timothy D. Sullivan, one of New York's best known politicians and the head of the aerie in that city, made the request that the charter be applied for before September 22 in order to have the Plainfielders attend the annual convention at Baltimore as the "baby" aerie, but this has been found impossible. It will probably be October before the organization is perfected.

The Elizabeth aerie includes 15 Plainfielders in its membership and it is they who are working to secure the local foothold. Among those most interested are Charles Stranzenbach, Samuel Terry, Daniel Force, Fred Moore, Daniel J. Shea and Rudolph Kampf.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles has gained thousands of members in the East during the past year and it bids fair to rival many of the older established organizations within a short time. Its principals are akin to those of the Elks but differ in the fact that it pays sick and death benefits. One of the best known enthusiasts in the order is President Roosevelt, who was made a member while on one of his Western trips and who has since attended all the big conventions and affairs it has conducted. In New York city it has become an important factor in social affairs and when the annual meeting was held there last year Mayor Low welcomed the thousands of visiting Eagles.

GOT RIGHT OF WAY.

Traction Company Obtained Permit Through Union Township.

The Morris County Traction Company has been granted a franchise to build a trolley line through Union township to connect at Springfield with the proposed road which will run to Summit and into Morris County.

The grant was made at the monthly meeting of the Union Township Committee. The application was originally made about a year ago, and it was for a permit to construct the road from the Springfield bridge along Morris avenue to Elizabeth, connecting with the Public Service Corporation line at Cherry street.

The company agrees to begin the construction of the road within four months and to have it completed within a year.

The fare from Springfield line to the Central railroad depot in Elizabeth will be five cents. The cars are to run on half-hour headway.

D. of A. Union Meet.

A large delegation of members from Martha Washington Council, No. 28, Daughters of America, will attend an union meeting of the order to be held Saturday night at Elizabeth. Councils from Newark, Jersey City, New Brunswick, Rahway, Perth Amboy and other places will attend The State officers will also be present. There will be classical initiation during the evening. The Plainfield members will leave on the 7 o'clock trolley.

Reinhart Getting in Form.

Frank O. Reinhart, accompanied by Martin O'Loughlin, are on the course of the Cranford Golf Club, today. Reinhart is preparing to enter the championship play at Baltusrol, where he now holds the record for the course, a 72. His performance at Hillside on Saturday when he made a 72, shows that he is up in his game.

EXPECT PROCEEDINGS AGAINST MR. GALVIN

Scotch Plains Residents Believe That The Township Committee Will Act.

SUNDAY DISTURBANCE

GOOD PEOPLE PROTEST AGAINST DANCING ON SUNDAY.

Thomas J. Nichols Returns From His Vacation and is Prepared to Act—Citizens Back of Him.

With the return of Thomas J. Nichol, chairman of the Scotch Plains township committee, from an extended vacation, residents of the village believe that something is to be done to place a restraint on the Sunday desecration at Galvin's Park. During his absence, investigations have been carried on in a desultory way but nothing has been accomplished. It is known that Chairman Nichol has maintained an aggressive attitude toward the place but hitherto the proprietor allowed no opening that might lead to action. With the introduction of dancing on Sunday afternoons it has given a different aspect and the disapproval expressed by residents near the place is evidently to be considered.

Last year the Township Committee received a petition, asking that an attempt be made to curb the Sunday amusements in the Park and an investigation was ordered. It led to certain restrictions being placed and the appointment of a special policeman to see that they were enforced.

This was continued until last fall but with this season's opening everything was placed in full swing with more noisy attractions than ever. No remonstrance was made until the dancing on Sunday was inaugurated and it immediately called for disapproval from all sides. The informal protests were not fully considered while Chairman Nichol was out of town but there is now a possibility that matters will be different.

MAYOR BILL'S CLAM-BAKE

NEW MARKET'S "FIRST CITIZEN" TREATS "THE BOYS" LIBERALLY.

New Market enjoyed another "social" affair, last evening, the biggest since "Mayor" Smith's celebration dinner. It was a clam-bake given by Proprietor Charles Thornton, of the Hotel Nelson, but was really under the patronage of "Mayor Bill," who was one of the first on the scene and who remained until the last clam and ear of green corn had disappeared. The guests numbered 150 and included many prominent Plainfielders. New Market's sporting element was out in full force and through the thoughtfulness of the Fair heir they found amusement in other ways than by attending the wants of the inner man. Blue chips were used and though the limit was placed at fifty cents it was afterward cut down to five at the request of the "mayor."

One of the distinguished guests was Colonel Downey, of New Market, who made use of the occasion to come out strong for Parker and Davis. In a fiery speech he spoke of them as "two grand men" and the cheers that greeted his remarks rolled over the lake and past the railroad bridge as far as Fiddler's Elbow.

Improving Big Tract.

The Mills' estate, of Morristown, is cutting and sub-dividing 150 acres of land at Westfield and C. M. Meeker, of this city, has a contract amounting to $4,000 to grade and lay it out into avenues and streets. H. C. VanEmburgh, as civil engineer, is also engaged in the work of improvement.

Execution Issued in a Suit.

Judgment was given and execution issued in Justice Hand's court this morning in a suit on the third of the $50 notes held by the Rising Sun Brewing Company against Morris Farbman on contract. Hetfield & Hetfield are counsel for the Brewing Company.

—Henry Drake, of Woodhull & Martin's delivery department, is enjoying a week's vacation.

—At Kirch's cigar store, 120 North avenue, for Friday and Saturday, Telonettes, very special, pkg of 10, 11c. 842

—Neuman Brothers are offering Jenny Lind, Gem and Rockyford muskmelons at a special price by the basket. A new lot in tomorrow.

SOLOS A FEATURE OF THE BAND CONCERT

Programme for Tomorrow Night's Open Air Attraction Includes Popular Numbers.

OFFERMAN TO SING

JOHN NESTOR AND EDWARD RUBSAM ALSO TO PARTICIPATE.

Four Vocal Solos, Seven Selections by LaVere's Band; and One Xylophone Solo.

Encouraged by the success of last week's arrangement, Leader Ben LaVere has again given soloists prominence in the programme for tomorrow evening's concert at Concert Park. George Offerman and Johnnie Nestor will furnish vocal numbers and Edward Rubsam will play selections on the xylophone. Mr. Offerman is to give two new songs, "Come down from the big fig tree," and "Isn't it nice to have someone to love you," and Nestor will render "The man with the ladder and the hose" and "A lonely, little maid" which were announced for a previous programme but not given. In response to numerous requests, Miss Mabel Maxson's march, "Sylvia" will be included in the instrumental numbers.

The concert is to start promptly at 8:10 and as Mr. Offerman is third on the programme tardiness will mean the missing of one of the features. Leader LaVere announces that patronage of the seating stand means a continuance of the concerts until October and asks that the attendants act accordingly. A collection will also be taken this evening in order to aid the fund. The programme in detail is as follows:

March—"The Diplomat".....Forrest
Concert Waltz—"Sweet Remembrances." St. Clair
Vocal Solos—(a) "Come Down From the Big Fig Tree"....Madden & Morse
(b) "Isn't it Nice to Have Someone to Love You"..Browne & Morse

Finale—"Sylvia".....Miss Mabel Maxson

NOW TRAVELING INSPECTOR.

Joseph Connors Demonstrating Cancelling Machine for Uncle Sam.

From an ordinary workman in a Brooklyn machine shop to a traveling inspector of cancelling machine in the employ of the Government is the rapid promotion that has come to Joseph Connors, son of Edward Connors, of West Third street. Taking advantage of his spare time, the young man studied industriously and when the position of foreman was declared vacant in the Brooklyn shop where letter cancelling machines are made, he was selected for the position.

Afterwards he was advanced further and when the government asked for an inspector to tour the country, Connors was recommended. He was soon appointed and is now in Michigan demonstrating the workings of the machine to postoffice employes. He will go further West during the present month and will return to Plainfield some time in September. Mr. Connors' success has been heard of with pleasure by his many local friends and his chances for further advancement are considered very good.

To Celebrate Anniversary.

Typographical Union, No. 399, met last evening and besides transacting routine business a committee, consisting of L. W. Niles, Robert Scott and Cortlandt Parker Adams, was appointed to arrange for the celebration of the Union's fourth anniversary. The committee was given full power to act, and the members are looking forward to a great time after the adjournment of the regular September meeting.

Mr. Robbie to Wed.

Invitations has been issued for the wedding of Miss Florence Margaret Hughes, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Hughes, of Waltham, Mass., to Kenneth Robbie, boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A. here. The ceremony will take place at the Hughes' home in Waltham, Mass., on Wednesday, August 17.

T. U. Dudley, of Park place, is away for the summer.

MR. BESLER ON C. R. R. OF N. J.

VICE PRESIDENT EXPECTS GREAT INCREASE IN ROAD'S BUSINESS.

W. G. Besler, of North Plainfield, vice president and general manager of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, expects a general improvement in the business of the road in the fall.

"We are now expending $1,000,000 at our ferry landing in New York and are also making improvements at Thirty-third street, which will increase our facilities and enable us to render better service," he said yesterday.

"We have enlarged considerably on the plan for the proposed extensions at Bayonne, N. J. It will not mean an arrangement to enter Staten Island, but will provide only for a spur 1,000 feet long, which we have long desired. The outlook for the iron industry, which is the barometer of trade, is improving, the crop prospects over the country are good, and there are other favorable signs which cause me to feel happy."

"MANEATER'S" TEAM WON

MULLIN'S N. A. C. DEFEATED THE COLORED GIANTS HANDILY.

"Maneater" Mullen's N. A. C. baseball team defeated the Plainfield Colored Giants on Crescent Oval yesterday afternoon by a score of 10 to 8. The Colored Giants are the pick of the colored ball players of the West End and up to the game yesterday had not lost a game this season. Buckley and Conklin were in the points for the N. A. C., while Edwards and Fred were the battery for the Colored Giants.

The Colored Giants are not satisfied with their defeat and have asked Mullen for a return game. The Colored Giants think that with the game played on their field they will be able to turn the tables. The teams lined up as follows: N. A. C.—Apgar, Buckley, Mullen, Conklin, Leichtentritt, Elliott, Francisco, Gray, Frank. Colored Giants—Edwards, Fred, Roy, Orudup, Williams, Harris, Schenck, George, Charles.

TWO LITTLE ONES GOT LOST

PLAYMATES WANDERING FROM PRIDEVILLE WERE FOUND IN THIS CITY.

Chafing under the quietude of Prideville, four-year-old William Feiring, Jr., of Harrison avenue, and Jennie Carver, his nearest playmate, a few months his junior, started out yesterday in search of more bustle and activity. Hand in hand and with many exclamations of wonderment at what they saw, they wandered into Front street and along that throughfare as far as Westervelt avenue. By that time the novelty of their excursion wore off and not even a generous gift of chocolate candy from a sympathetic friend could prevent Jennie from exercising her womanly privilege of a good cry. Her guide and protector fought hard to keep back his own tears but they would come in spite of himself and it was two heartbroken, tear-stained, chocolate smeared children that were taken to police headquarters.

There Willie exhibited his manliness and while he told who he and Jennie were and where they had come from and all about their trip, a big kind-hearted bluecoat hurried after his father, William Feiring. The two were then placed in charge of another officer who landed them safely at home just as Prideville was getting a searching party organized to hunt up the missing ones.

Boom at Beechwood Heights.

Silas D. Drake, representing the New Jersey Realty Company, has taken title to seventy acres at Beechwood Heights, near Bound Brook, and already five lots 100x200 each have been sold and two $5,000 dwellings will be erected at once. Plans have been drawn and estimates secured for the erection of eight more houses to cost between $3,000 and $5,000. They are to be completed by April 1 next.

Left Car and Meals Behind.

The fast Royal Blue line express which passes through Plainfield at 4:45, was forced to stop at Richmond street, yesterday afternoon, and leave off the dining car which had a dangerous hot journal. The detachment interferred with the dinner plans of a lot of hungry passengers who faced the prospect of going to Washington before they could be served.

PLANS FOR NEXT SEASON'S BALL TEAM

The "Plainfield" Nine to be Put on the Diamond Will be a Strong Aggregation.

ENCLOSED GROUNDS

GEORGE JOHNSTON WILL BE THE MANAGER.

New York Americans and New York Nationals May Cross Bats With Alls This Fall.

Although baseball here this season has had its ups and downs, plans are already being laid for next year's team. It is proposed to make a number of improvements at Crescent Oval, provided a long enough lease can be secured on the grounds, and there seems to be every reason to believe that it can be. It will be called the "Plainfield" nine.

Among the improvements now in contemplation is to enclose the grounds with a substantial fence and to build a large wing to the present grandstand that will accommodate half again as many persons as the present one. It is also proposed to make room for carriages and automobiles and the outfield will receive attention.

George Johnston will undoubtedly remain as manager and he expects to retain the present team, with a strong pitching department. The idea is to give the public a fast article of baseball and only the best and strongest teams will be brought to this city. Manager Johnston is much pleased with his present team, believing it to be one of the strongest in the State. With a strong twirler he is sure that he can meet the best aggregations in this part of the country.

Mr. Johnston is now negotiating with a first-class pitcher to remain with the team for the balance of the season and if successful, he will have no fear as to the Westfield team. If Cronin is not able to pitch against Westfield on Saturday, Mr. Johnston will have a man equally as strong. He has every reason to believe that he will take a majority of the remaining contests in the series with Westfield.

A strong attraction for the close of the season will be either the New York Nationals or the New York Americans and possibly both. Mr. Johnston has practically closed the deal for the appearance of at least one of these teams here and he believes that a fine exhibition will result. The contests will be played right after the close of the big league season and before the around-the-world trip is taken.

Swackhamer's Future.

It has been given out that Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer will not accept the Assembly nomination again this fall. His party is very desirous to have him go back to the Legislature, but he positively refuses. Mr. Swackhamer is one of the leading young Democrats in the State and his public career has been one that insures a brilliant future for him if he stays in politics. He has been frequently mentioned for the nomination for Governor, also for the Democratic nomination for Congress in this district.—Hunterdon County Democrat.

Smallpox in Elizabeth.

Smallpox is on the increase in Elizabeth, and there are now four cases in the isolation hospital. Cecilia Powers, a dressmaker, residing at 459 Court street, Elizabethport, whose two brothers were attacked with the malady, developed it yesterday, and was removed last night to the city institution. Annie Hogan, a young girl, who worked for Miss Powers, also contracted the disease. The Board of Health is puzzled to account for the outbreak at this time. Every precaution is being taken.

St. Stephen's Senior Club.

At the meeting of the Senior Club, of St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, last week, red and blue were adopted as the special colors of the organization. Saturday at 4 o'clock, the club will convene again and at this meeting the club yell and other details of organization will be brought up for consideration.

No Sunday Games.

Early in the season Manager Johnston declared himself as being opposed to Sunday baseball, believing that the venture would not pay in this vicinity. The Saturday games are about all that Mr. Johnston has time for with his other duties.

BOOK NEWS.

It is planned to issue on Thursday of each week items of library news. This will frequently take the form of book lists, such as lists of books recently added, lists on special subjects and like topics. Frequently the lists will be annotated, the aim being to make these annotations of real service to the reader, by giving him the opinion of a trustworthy critic as to the value of the books or a few words as to their scope. Borrowers should keep these lists. The Plainfield Public Library will furnish to anyone making application a list of its books on a given subject.

THE FORUM.

Communications from readers of The Daily Press on all subjects of local interest are invited. All such communications must be stripped of personalities, and must be signed by the writer. His name will not necessarily be published. The editor is not responsible for views expressed in this column.

Editor, The Daily Press:

A leading editorial in Tuesday's Courier, entitled "A one railroad city," would endeavor to cast ridiculous criticism on the Board of Trade of this city. Yes, in the deliberation of our Board there has been much talk though hardly of a wearisome nature, since its trend had but one aim, and that to advance the interest of our city. We have not talked of the "Gilded cross and crown," but have argued upon lines which have resulted in advancing the welfare and attractiveness of Plainfield. For a long time we have realized the need of another railroad and to that end have visited the officials of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, looking to a spur to this city; that we have thus far failed is no fault of the members of the Board of Trade.

No neighbor Frost, don't find fault or hold us up to ridicule, but rather join us and lend a hand toward voicing the beauties and attractions of this, our home—Plainfield.

Proposals for New High School Building.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at a meeting held July 12, 1904, notice is hereby given that the Board of Education will meet on Tuesday, Aug. 9, 1904, at 7:45 p. m. at the Board room in the High School Building, corner of West Fifth Street and Arlington Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place, said Board of Education will receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the construction of the New High School Building as provided in the modified plans and specifications now on file in the office of the Board, in the High School Building, corner of West Fifth Street and Arlington Avenue, Plainfield, N. J., until the day of the meeting, as above mentioned, copies of which may also be found at the office of the Architect, Mr. Herbert D. Hale, 92 William Street, New York.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals, at the time and place specified, the Board will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided such parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board.

All proposals should be endorsed "Sealed Proposals for Construction of New High School Building."

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids, or to ask for modifications of the same.

By order of the Board,
F. T. WOODHULL, Sec'y.

TANYA WON THE SPINAWAY.

Good and Plenty Won a Pretty Finish In Steeplechase.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Tanya won the Spinaway stakes of $15,000 for two-year-olds by a length and a half from W. S. Fanshawe's Schulamite, who in turn was a length ahead of John E. Madden's Linda Lee. The Spinaway was inaugurated in 1881. Tanya made all the running and was never headed, winning easily.

A pretty finish was seen in the steeplechase for four-year-olds and up that have not won a field event worth $1,000. Thomas Hitchcock, Jr.'s, Good and Plenty, Ray up, won it by only half a length from Royelle, who was a close contender throughout.

Shaw rode two winners, Tanya in the stake race and Acefull in the last race, which was won after a hard drive by three-quarters of a length.

Penn Bicycle Champion.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 4.—At the grand circuit and national amateur championships of the National Cycling association held in the Stadium the most interesting event was the one mile professional grand circuit championship, won by W. S. Fenn of Waterbury, Conn. The four cracks, W. S. Fenn, James B. Bowler, E. F. Root and F. L. Kramer contested. Barring a slight accident to Kramer, he would have won. He took the lead after the second lap, but he punctured his tire, which flattened out and tore from the frame. He finished fourth.

PARKER'S SUCCESS.

Cordial Message Sent From William Jennings Bryan.

WILL GIVE HIS HEARTY SUPPORT

Nebraskan Leader to Place Himself at the Disposal of the National Committee and Do All Possible to Insure His Election.

ESOPUS, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Edward C. Wall of Wisconsin and Mrs. Wall were the guests of Judge Parker. They are en route to Europe. Mr. Wall brought a cordial message direct from William Jennings Bryan, assuring Judge Parker that he is heartily with the ticket and will place himself at the disposal of the Democratic national committee to do everything in his power to insure party success this fall.

Mr. Bryan breakfasted with Mr. Wall at the latter's home in Milwaukee July 23, and they spent several hours together. They have been warm personal friends for eight years, and Mr. Wall supported the Democratic ticket as earnestly during the two silver campaigns as he will now support Judge Parker. Mr. Wall has never agreed with Mr. Bryan on the money question, but that made no difference in his attitude toward the Democratic ticket.

DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGNERS.

Thomas Taggart Announces the Committeemen Selected.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 4.—Thomas Taggart, chairman of the Democratic national committee, has announced the following officers of the Democratic national committee and the following members of the national executive committee:

National Committee.—DeLancey Nicoll, vice chairman, New York; George Foster Peabody, treasurer, New York.

Executive Committee.—W. F. Sheehan, chairman, New York; August Belmont, New York; John R. McLean, Ohio; United States Senator Thomas S. Martin, Virginia; Colonel J. M. Guffey, Pennsylvania; former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., New Jersey, and Timothy E. Ryan, Wisconsin.

Visitors For Parker.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Henry D. Clayton, member of the Democratic national committee for Alabama, accompanied by Edward L. Russell and Richard Taylor of the same state, visited Judge Parker at Esopus today. Mr. Russell was chairman of the Alabama delegation at St. Louis, and it was he who announced that "Alabama yields to the imperial state of New York" when the roll of states was called to nominate a presidential candidate. It has been learned that Peter C. Weber of Nevada, member of the committee to notify Judge Parker of his nomination, is dead.

Fighting the Hereros.

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—Lieutenant General von Trotha, commander in chief of the forces in German southwest Africa, wires that the Second Field regiment was attacked at Okateitei by 150 Hereros. The Hereros were repulsed, leaving fifty dead. The Germans lost three wounded besides two natives killed and one wounded. General Trotha had carefully encircled the Hereros in the Waterberg hills, and it is probable that the attack was an effort to break through the German lines.

Railway Torpedoes Exploded.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 4.—With a report that could be heard over a mile distant, several thousand torpedoes, packed for shipment in the yards of the Versailles Railroad Signal company's plant at Versailles, exploded. Three of the buildings of the plant were completely demolished, three employees were seriously injured, and every window in the vicinity was broken. The men are probably fatally hurt. The cause of the explosion is not yet known.

Jealousy Caused Murder.

CHARITON, Ia., Aug. 4.—Maddened because his sweetheart went riding with a rival, Walter Ralston, aged nineteen, lay in ambush and when the couple returned fired upon them. Miss Ruth Campbell, aged fourteen, was shot through the lungs and will probably die. Her companion escaped. Ralston is under arrest.

Boys Made a Century.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 4.—Complaint was made to the police here that about 100 panes of glass in the Stafford cotton mills had been broken and three boys, the oldest of whom is under twelve years of age, were summoned to court. The mills are among those involved in the strike.

Director at Lincoln's Funeral Dead.

RED BANK, N. J., Aug. 4.—William M. Chase of Brooklyn, seventy-one years of age, an undertaker, who was one of the directors at the funeral of President Abraham Lincoln, is dead at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Edward Bowman of Little Silver, near here.

A Royal Marriage.

MADRID, Aug. 4.—A marriage has been arranged between the Infanta Maria Teresa, sister of King Alfonso, and Prince Ferdinand of Bavaria.

JAP CRUISER SUNK.

Kasuga of Togo's Fleet Destroyed Off Port Arthur.

CREW OF FIVE HUNDRED GO DOWN

Russians Repulse Fierce Attack on Wolf Hill, One of Port Arthur's Defenses — Nodzu Gains the Simucheng Heights.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Reports from the seat of war say that in an assault on Port Arthur the Japanese armored cruiser Kasuga, formerly the Argentine cruiser Rivadavia, was sunk. The loss of life in the sinking of the Kasuga is reported to reach 500.

These reports, taken in connection with others from Tokyo, indicate that the Kasuga went down in a combined land and sea attack on Port Arthur.

Refugees at Chefu say that the Japanese lost 20,000 men and that the Russian loss was from 5,000 to 6,000. The Japanese after a general advance on all the land defenses were compelled to retire.

The fighting occurred north of the city of Port Arthur, at Wolf hill, and was sanguinary and resulted in the repulse of the Japanese. This hill is situated near the railroad, and eight trains were kept busy bringing the wounded Russian soldiers into the city. The wounded men from the east forts reached Port Arthur in all kinds of vehicles, many, however, coming afoot, dragging shattered limbs.

The Russians unite in declaring that the fortress will never fall, but they expect that scarcely a building will be left in the city where now there is scarcely a whole pane of glass.

The Russian fleet from its anchorage shelled the advancing Japanese after returning from what seems to have been a reconnoitering maneuver.

The Japanese captured two lightly garrisoned forts on the east shore, but abandoned them when their comrades were repulsed from other positions.

The forts at Port Arthur bristle with guns, including many of the eight inch caliber, but the naval artillerymen are alleged to have inflicted the heaviest loss on the Japanese.

The Japanese while repulsed have by no means been beaten, and a renewal of fighting is expected.

Among the prisoners captured during the engagement on Wolf's mountain was a Japanese lieutenant carrying a freshly written letter stating that the fighting had been severe and the Japanese losses heavy.

The Japanese are now occupying the outpost trenches which they captured from the Russians.

Both the Japanese and Russian fleets are reported to be in excellent condition.

Advices from Tokyo say that General Nodzu has captured heights over 1,900 feet in altitude across the Simucheng and Haicheng road, five miles northwest of the former place, with emplacements that the Russians had taken months to build. They were held by two divisions of Russians under Lieutenant General Alexeieff, with rapid fire guns.

The Russian line extended for ten miles east and west, with outposts on the heights four miles to the south of Simucheng.

Japanese outpost companies were at first forced from their trenches after heavy fighting to the summit of the line of hills forming the highest ridge of the range. This range is half a mile behind the trenches. Halfway between the trenches and the ridges and about parallel to them runs the road, upon which is located a temple. The fiercest fighting was focused about this temple, which the Russians held for about three hours in spite of a rain of bullets from the opposite ridge. The Russian dead and wounded were thick about the temple. Five dead men had fallen in the road on their faces. Their rifles were under them. They had been killed as they appeared over the crest of the hill.

The Russians made a hurried but fairly orderly retreat down the valley. They left behind them, however, many dead and wounded, a number of rifles, drums, great coats and trenching tools. A Russian battery took up a position in the valley and fired a few rounds to cover the retreat, and infantrymen were brought up in good order by their officers to the support of the guns. The white coats worn by the Russian officers made them conspicuous targets for the Japanese. The Russian firing was altogether inaccurate, while the Japanese fired at will. The Russian troops kept in close formation, but the Japanese soldiers deployed in extended order. It was plain that the Japanese soldiers were possessed of much greater initiative and dash than the Russians.

The engagement was a fair test of the capacities of the two forces, and the net result of it was that one Japanese regiment of three battalions, only two of which were on the firing line, defeated three Russian regiments in spite of the fact that another Russian regiment was held in reserve. The Russians employed their artillery much more than the Japanese did theirs.

It is impossible to estimate the losses at this hour. Desultory firing still continues as the Russians still retreat, and dead and wounded men are being brought in by the hospital corps. The Russian casualties are undoubtedly much greater than the Japanese. Russian dead were being buried all over the field, the temporary hospitals are filled with wounded, and a few unwounded Russians who had hidden in the fields are surrendering.

The temple, with several holes in its walls made by shells; bullets everywhere underfoot, Generals Nishi and Okasaki and their staffs in evidence, the dead bodies of Russian and Japanese soldiers on the ground and wounded men of both sides lying still or being conveyed to the hospitals, the trophies of war collected in piles, General Ian Hamilton of the British army and other military attaches surveying the battlefield, notebooks in hand, all combine to make an impressive picture of war.

The Japanese are pleased with their victory, but calm and businesslike as always.

A Newchwang report says that the Russian gunboat Sivoutch, which has been in the Liao river since the beginning of the war, has been deserted and blown up near Sancha, and the crew with the vessel's guns has started for Liaoyang. Two Japanese gunboats reconnoitered the position of the Sivoutch and were fired on.

Russia Settled Promptly.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 4.—The owners of the British collier Foxton Hall, which was detained at Port Arthur from the time of the first attack made by the Japanese until early in March and which suffered damage during her detention, have received compensation from the Russian government. The speedy settlement of the claim by Russia has greatly gratified shipowners here.

The Strike In St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 4.—President Croun of the St. Louis Dressed Beef company declares his plant is being operated successfully notwithstanding it is short handed. The allied trades have gone out on a sympathetic strike, involving all the trades of the packing house industry in St. Louis. In this last walkout all the drivers and boiler house men stopped work at the plant of the St. Louis Dressed Beef company. The strikers claim that the meat cutters engaged in the various city markets have laid down their cleavers. The drivers of all the branch houses of Chicago packers in the city, numbering several hundred, are also out.

Sleeping Car Porter a Smuggler.

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—According to Special Treasury Agent Frank E. Johnson, who gave testimony in a case against William Fessenden, a sleeping car porter, before United States Commissioner Fiske here, extensive smuggling operations have been carried on by Fessenden and others. Fessenden and Roger Robinson, another porter, were arrested recently on charges of bringing clothing into the country from Canada without paying duty. Agent Johnson testified that Fessenden admitted having received 300 or 400 bundles of contraband clothing on single days.

Blindness From Bathing.

WAKEFIELD, Mass., Aug. 4.—Louis Adleman, a young man of this town, has become totally blind as the result of bathing while he was overheated. He went swimming in Lake Quannapowitts several days ago, and immediately afterward his sight began to fail him. Adleman is now blind. Specialists state that the case is a very rare one and that his loss of sight is due to paralysis of the optic nerve, caused by his overheated condition at the time he entered the water.

King Christian Is Obstinate.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 4.—The royal physicians are urging King Christian not to travel to Ribe, where the ancient cathedral has been restored and where great festivities will be held next week. The king, it seems, doggedly refuses to abandon his journey. While the state of his health is not alarming, his majesty is feeble, and he has been ordered to seek quiet and rest, but the doctors' efforts and precautions so far have met with small success.

Candy Men's Day at Fair.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 4.—Confectioners' day was celebrated here in honor of the National Jobber Confectioners' association, which met in Convention hall. The candy men, mostly from eastern states, were present in great numbers at their tenth annual convention. President Francis delivered an address of welcome, to which George R. Fritz, ex-president of the association, responded.

Baldwin Airship a Success.

OAKLAND, Cal., Aug. 4.—Captain T. C. Baldwin has made another ascension with his airship from Idora park. He rose to a height of about 500 feet and then sailed northward for a distance of about ten blocks in a slight breeze, made a turn, came back and descended in the park without any mishap. The ascension was entirely satisfactory.

A Female Horse Thief.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Carrie Foster, alias Mary Skiffington, was surrendered to the authorities of Rutland, Vt., on an extradition granted by Governor Odell. She is under indictment for horse stealing and was captured here after selling two horses.

"IN A BAD WAY."

Many a Plainfield Reader Will Feel Grateful for This Information.

When your back gives out;
Becomes lame, weak or aching;
Your kidneys are "in a bad way"
Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you.
Here is local evidence to prove it:

Mrs. M. A. Hall, of 219 Prescott place, says: "For several years I had a dull aching pain across my back at times extending to my hips. I was compelled to lie in just one position all night and stooping, lifting or bending forward aggravated the pains. Although I used different remedies that were recommended to me I obtained little if any relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills highly endorsed in our daily papers and procured a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. It was not long before I felt great relief and I was surprised how quickly the pain in my back disappeared."

FAIRBANKS IS TOLD

Elihu Root, Chairman, Makes Notification Address.

THINKS EX-SENATOR DAVIS TOO OLD

Said That Democratic Nominee For Vice President Might Not Be Able to Replace Parker Should Occasion Arise.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 4.—Senator Charles Warren Fairbanks was officially notified at 1 o'clock in the afternoon of his nomination for the vice presidency. Brief and simple exercises took place on the broad veranda of his home in North Meridian street. Although the general public was invited, it was not expected that there would be a large crowd present, and in fact many more gathered than had been looked for. Hundreds of Senator Fairbanks' "neighbors" crowded about his home and cheered him as he spoke.

Elihu Root of New York, chairman of the notification committee, delivered the address of notification. Mr. Root said in part:

Senator Fairbanks, the committee which now waits upon you was appointed by the national convention of the Republican party held in Chicago in June, and its agreeable duty is to notify you of your nomination as the Republican candidate for the office of vice president of the United States for the term to begin on the fourth day of March, 1905.

We give you formal notice of that nomination with assurance of the undivided and hearty support of the great party which has executed the people's will in the government of this country for the better part of the last half century. The nomination comes to you in accordance with the best methods and practices of representative government. It was the result of long and earnest consideration and discussion by the members of the convention. It was not the chance product of an excited hour, and it was not upon the demand of any powerful influence—political or otherwise—constraining the judgment of the delegates. It was not made for the purpose of conciliating possible malcontents or of swelling the campaign fund of the party. No bargains or intrigues contributed to it. No suppressions of the truth or misleading of the convention as to your principles and opinions were necessary to bring it about. It was the deliberate, informed and intelligent judgment of the delegates from every state and territory, and it was their unanimous judgment.

It is a great office to which you are called. John Adams and Thomas Jefferson and George Clinton and John C. Calhoun and Martin Van Buren and many others whose names are illustrious in the history of our country have filled it. It is an office of high dignity and immediate, ever present importance. The credit and honor of our country are greatly concerned in the character and conduct of the man who presides over the senate of the United States, that powerful and august body of which you are already so experienced, so useful and so honored a member.

But the vice president has other grave duties of imperative obligation. When the people elect a president under our political system they do not merely select the man for the office. They give their approval to certain controlling principles and policies of government, and the administration of which the vice president is a part is bound to give effect to these principles and policies. The primary duty of the vice president, to be always ready to take up the burden of the presidency if occasion requires, carries with it the duty to be always ready to continue unbroken the policies which the people have intrusted to the administration for execution.

Our opponents of the Democratic party have signally failed in this respect. They have nominated as their candidate for the vice presidency an excellent gentleman who was born during the presidency of James Monroe and who before the 4th of March next will be in the eighty-second year of his age. Before the next administration is ended he will be approaching his eighty-sixth birthday. It is no disparagement of this gentleman, for whom, I believe, we all have the highest respect, to say that he shares the common lot of mortals and that the election of any man of such great age would furnish no safeguard to the American people against the disaster which would ensue upon the death of a president with a successor not competent to perform the duties of the presidential office.

In your election, on the other hand, this chief requirement will be fully met. In the full strength of middle life you are prepared for the exhausting duties of the presidency. Your successful and distinguished career, the ability and probity with which you have already discharged the duties of high office, the universal respect and esteem of the people of Indiana, who have delighted to honor you, the attachment of hosts of friends throughout the Union, all assure us that you have the character and the ability to govern wisely and strongly should you become president.

Nord Winning Popularity.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Aug. 4.—President Nord, accompanied by all the members of his staff, paraded through the streets of the city, throwing money to the natives running behind his carriage. The people fought for the coins, at the same time crying, "Long life to Nord!" and "Down with the Syrians!" The Syrians are terror stricken and do not leave their houses.

Yes, he is so fair in his comments.

"That the newspaper is the best medium for any publicity purpose is a growing opinion," says an exchange. "A European peace organization has decided to destroy the war spirit and promote enduring peace by advertising in the leading daily newspapers. An immense sum of money will be used to place in the advertising columns the arguments in favor of peace and against war."

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Harry Giddes has gone to Port Richmond, S. I., to spend a week with his brother, Arthur Giddes, formerly of the borough. It is said that a number of the officials of the P. S. C. have been over the road recently devising a new schedule by which the Newark cars will run straight through to the borough line.

Augustus Mobus and Henry Johns, of Plainfield, succeeded yesterday in moving the Kuldoshee building from its foundation on Main street to the Vars' lot adjoining the postoffice, without doing any damage to trees or delaying trolley traffic in the least.

Mrs. Walter G. Clawson has returned from a week's visit with her aunt, Mrs. M. Swackhamer, who is proprietor of Hotel DeHaven on the Jersey Coast. She had a pleasant time and is much improved in health.

The one handed catch which Billy Giles made last Saturday was one of the kind that makes the game interesting. When Billy is playing his game there are few who can beat him.

Graham, of Bound Brook, who was given a tryout last Saturday, did not have a chance to make good. He will probably be retained as he has a good reputation as a hitter.

Funeral services over the remains of Joseph Marenick took place yesterday. Interment was in Plainfield.

"Klondike" is shut down again for a few days. It is said that this close out will not last long.

The Presbyterian excursion took a large crowd from here to Asbury this morning.

Mrs. John Herbert, of Dunellen avenue, is recovering from a slight illness.

Clement Dixon is still at Muhlenberg under treatment for his broken leg.

Miss Mattie Barret, of New York, is spending her vacation in town.

Miss Elsie Donovan, of New Brunswick, is visiting in town.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The borough Council at its meeting held last night in the borough rooms, orderd warrants drawn for all delinquent taxes due on real estate in the borough. The borough has but few delinquents and in this respect is more fortunate than the township. This is due to the work of Borough Collector Charles Sobelen. When taxes are due he makes a business of collecting them or asking for the authority of the law to aid him. The result is when the borough report is issued the taxpayers do not find a list of delinquents being carried year after year.

Mrs. C. A. Bettman, whose domestic troubles have been stirring the village and borough for the past two weeks, left yesterday for her mother's home at Galveston, Texas. Mrs. Bettman was given possession of her child as agreed to by all interested parties at the conference held Sunday.

Several from town attended the clam bake held at New Market last night.

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace P. E. church, said he had not followed up the facts, having just returned from his vacation, but it did not surprise him as he was aware that Bishop Potter has been working along this line for several years. His idea, he said, is but a copy of the Gothenburg plan in Europe which has been tried with varying results and which was once attempted in North Carolina. He also referred to the efforts of Rev. Dr. Rainsford, rector of St. George's Episcopal church, New York, along the same lines.

Proposal for Addition to Somerset St. School Building.

An adjourned meeting of the Board of Education of North Plainfield will be held at the Somerset street schoolhouse Friday evening, August 12, at 8 o'clock, at which time and place said Board of Education will receive sealed proposals for furnishing all labor and materials and constructing the additions and alterations to Somerset street school building, according to the modified plans and specifications now on file in the office of said building.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals at the time and place specified, the Board will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents and make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board. It is proposed to allot the work under the following separate contracts: Carpenters, Masons, Painting, Plumbing, Electrical, Heating. All proposals are to be sealed, properly endorsed and delivered to the district clerk.

In order to insure uniformity and prevent misunderstanding, the bid must be made out in the form of proposal furnished by the architect, and no other proposal will be considered.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check of amount stated below, to be forfeited on conditions named in the proposals: Carpenters' contract, $250; masons' contract, $250; painters' contract, $150; plumbers' contract, $150; electrical contract, $150; heating contract, $150.

The Board reserves the right to accept any or to reject any or all proposals presented.

ROBERT M. FOUNTAIN,
District Clerk.

HEN WITH A RECORD

VERMONT BIDDY HATCHES A BROOD OF EAGLES.

Bessie Found Deserted Aerie and Encamped on Two Speckled Eggs —Didn't Like Result of Her Labor.

Wilmer Eaton, of Shrewsbury, Vt., is willing to bet anything he owns that he has the prize setting hen of Vermont, or of any other state. The last setting adventure of Bessie (that's the Plymouth Rock's name) was startling, and there are no takers, and the town generally agrees with Eaton.

Bessie has never hatched out any chicks of her own, as she has never been able to lay eggs that would hatch, but she has mothered the eggs of nearly every other kind of barn fowl that exists, and has brought up families of bantams, geese, ducks and even pigeon. So strong are her maternal instincts that it makes little difference to her what she has in her nest or where her nest is, so long as she can sit undisturbed and hatch something.

Like Emily, the chronic setting hen in Owen Wister's novel, "The Virginian," Bessie's family instincts are abnormally developed, and when she isn't engaged in roosting on eggs she is rushing around in search of something on which to sit. She has even been known to rake together a lot of uncooked potatoes and keep them warm for a week, and has adopted kittens, mice and one litter of motherless flying squirrels.

Whenever a farmer hereabout has a setting of eggs he is particular about he takes them to the Eaton farm and turns them over to Bessie, for no matter what the season or how good the feeding happens to be, the hen will cluck with delight and immediately spread herself over the eggs. Once a man named Turner brought up some Leghorn eggs and left them in the back of an old buggy in Eaton's carriage barn. Eaton was not about, so he told Mrs. Eaton. She forgot where Turner had left the eggs and her husband hitched up his mare to the old buggy to drive over to Turner's place and find out. "I left 'em in the back of the buggy you're settin' in," chuckled Turner. And when they looked there were the eggs with Bessie encamped on them.

But, says the New York World, all former accomplishments paled into insignificance last week when Bessie was found contentedly sitting on a pair of bald eagle's eggs high up the side of a cliff a half mile back of the farm. The eagles have nested in some dead wood on the face of the cliff for several years and have come to be looked for every spring. This year they had nested as usual, when a couple of city chaps, encamped on the shores of Cold river, took it into their heads to shoot the birds. They had little difficulty, but found it impossible to get at the eggs. They made two attempts, and on the second were astonished to look down upon the coveted nest and find a hen calmly sitting on the eggs. It had been easy enough for the fowl to get there, but the reason she did it was baffling.

The boys had never heard of Bessie, but a neighbor of Eaton's to whom they told the story had, and he communicated with Eaton. The later feared that Bessie would starve this time and so he investigated. He found his prize hen keeping the eggs warm and tried to lasso her, but couldn't, and compromised by lowering a box of feed in front of her noose. This was done several times until the young eagles were hatched.

Just what to do with the youngsters puzzled the hen, as they didn't take kindly to grain. She was in a great stew when one of the boys volunteered to be lowered over the cliff and rescue the entire family. When the nest was brought up, the youngsters were carried to the farm, where they were put in a cage and fed. Bessie visited them regularly until the young eagles turned on her one day and scratched out some of her feathers. At this she deserted, went into the pantry and an hour later was found sitting on a bowl of china eggs.

Small Farms in Denmark.

Most of the farms in Denmark are from five to 25 acres, and are owned by the peasantry. About half of the land is in oats, hay, pasture and root crops for the horses, milch cows and sheep. In proportion to her size. Denmark has more cattle than any other country in Europe.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Aug. 7: "God's Guiding Hand In Our Lives."—1 Chron. xxix, 10-12; Luke xii, 1-7.

Some people find it difficult to realize that God has any particular influence or interest in their lives. They never see any visions, have no special manifestations made to them, but matters seem to move in a very matter of fact and natural manner. They have had to rely on their own exertions for what they have had and usually have had to work hard.

Many others have been taught to say thanks to God for the good things received and to believe that in some way not understood God does have some sort of influence in the matter, so much so that to omit to say thanks would be to run the risk of losing the good things. It is all mechanical, but necessary, in their opinion. David had a different view and so had Christ.

David was interested to have a temple built worthy of his God. He was a busy man, almost continually engaged in war to protect his people against invading enemies. But in all his campaigning he had uppermost in mind the thought that Jehovah was the king and he was only a servant to execute the will of God in the rulership of the people. This was far more and far higher than the rulership of God in nature by mechanical forces. It was the presence of God in human society ruling by moral power and in the individual soul leading into all truth and right dealing.

He had no consciousness that God's activities in any way interfered with or made less necessary his own exertion. God prompted him to act and accomplished His purposes through the doings of men. God will have a temple. So David is moved to prepare material for it. He gets so deeply interested in the project that he carefully reserves the part of the spoils of war which by custom belongs to the tribal gods in all nations of that time. He is so filled with the matter that of his own personal share he gives unstintedly. Then he interests the princes and nobles and all the common people. He prepares "with all his might," he declares. Yet, after he has done all he possibly could, he says, as naturally as can be imagined, "But who am I, and what is my people, that we should be able to offer so willingly after this sort?"

He realizes, and his words voice the deep heart consciousness, that all power of getting and doing comes directly from God. The impulse of the heart stirring the will to generous gifts is also from the Lord, the result of contact of His Spirit with the human spirit.

The power of man to shape matter into forms he desires to produce is not more real than the influence of God on the hearts of men fashioning them according to His purposes. God guides men who will be guided by Him.

"All things come of Thee and of Thine own have we given Thee."

This lesson we need to learn at the present time. We are to work with all our might. But the plans and materials and impulse and strength must come from God.

"Unless the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it."

"With the Lord."

The charm of heaven will be the Lord's presence. "Where I am, ye shall be also." We shall see His face and be forever with Him. What would not men give if some old manuscripts might turn up with new stories of His wondrous life, new parables as charming as those of the good shepherd and the prodigal son, new beatitudes, new discourses like that on the vine? God might have permitted this. But what would it be in comparison with all that lies before! The past has lost much, but the future holds infinitely more. We shall see new gospels enacted before our eyes, behold Christ as a real visible person in the glory of divine manhood, hear Him speak to us as His friends and shall know what He meant when He promised to give Himself and come forth to serve His servants.—Rev. F. B. Meyer.

The Divine Carpenter.

We are all placed in this world to do a work very like that which the Lord did. If we would live a religious life, we are to follow the Lord in the regeneration. Thus we are to be spiritual carpenters as He was the Divine Carpenter. We are, with the Lord's help—help that He will so gladly give us—to rear up a life, to form a character, in which He can dwell with us. And in the building of this life, this truly religious life, we must always carry with us the Divine Carpenter's rule, the rule that is brought down to our hands in the two great commandments and to our very finger ends in the Ten Commandments.—Rev. William H. Mayhew in Helper.

The Immortal Life.

The immortal life may be said to suround us perpetually. Some beams of its glory shine upon us in whatever is lovely, heroic and virtuously happy in ourselves or in others. Heaven is in truth revealed to us in every pure affection of the human heart and in every wise and beneficent action that uplifts the soul in adoration and gratitude. The pure mind carries heaven within itself, and manifests that heaven to all around.—Channing.

At Our Right Hand.

The secret of a quiet heart is to keep ever near God. Stayed on Him, we shall not be shaken, and our "hearts shall be fixed, trusting in the Lord." We get above the fogs when we soar to God, and circumstances in their wildest whirl will not suck us into the vortex if we are holding by Him and knowing that He is at our right hand. —Alexander McLaren.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 7.

Topic.—God's guiding hand in our lives. —1 Chron. xxix, 10-12; Luke xii, 1-7. (Experience meeting.)

The subject of God's providence needs to be emphasized today. "Fate" and "chance" are words that are being too frequently heard in explanation of the events of life today. "Blind fate and not the enemy defeated us" was the explanation of a Russian defeat several months ago. "I'll take my chances" is the creed of too many in reference to the existence of a God and a future life. Hence we need to emphasize the great truth that God is over all and above all and that He guides the lives of men. "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, * * * Both riches and honor come of Thee, and Thou reignest over all." "The very hairs of your head are numbered." God and not fate or chance rules in the universe which He has created, and the lives of His children who love and serve Him are the special objects of His love and care. "The lot is cast into the lap, but the whole disposing thereof is of the Lord."

God's guidance is not only general, but special and individual. Many believe in a general providence. They will say, "Of course I believe that God directs the great things of the universe, such as the planets and stars and the great events of human history, but that He guides individual lives and their special events is absurd." And yet this absurdity is true and is no absurdity. God could only direct large events by directing the smaller ones. Washington's life in the nation was only made possible by God's care over him in the wilds of western Pennsylvania, in protecting him when expert Indian riflemen made him in vain the mark of their deadly bullets. Egypt's national life at a certain important period could only have been what it was by God's guiding hand in the life of Joseph as an individual in the years before. God's providence is particular and individual. His guiding hand is in your life, though it may be one of obscurity and humbleness. His banner over you is love, and He guides you with His eye.

"But I cannot always see the hand of God," says some one. But that does not prove that it is not there. Some days the sun is hidden behind the clouds, but no one argues that there is no sun because it cannot be seen. "God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform." The way may be mysterious, but God moves and performs His wonders all the same. Don't doubt it, child of God. When you can see His purposes in your life, rejoice for the light that you have, but when you cannot see or understand rejoice that you can trust God even if now and here you cannot understand Him.

Endeavor In Unexpected Places.

God has been showing us that in unexpected ways and unusual places on sea and shore He has a use for Christian Endeavor principles. On the ships of war and on the peaceful vessels of the merchant marines He has established our cause. In a score of American prisons men who wear the stripes have come worthily to wear the badge of Christian Endeavor and have learned, even behind prison bars, the true liberty wherewith Christ makes us free. In the old soldiers' homes in Virginia and Kansas and elsewhere the veterans not only "shoulder a crutch and show how fields were won," but take their Bibles and show how souls are won.

In a postoffice of northern Japan the clerks have formed themselves into a Christian Endeavor society to win their Buddhist companions to Christ. A group of firemen in one of our large cities have not failed for many years to hold each week a Christian Endeavor meeting. The Christian policemen of another city hold a similar meeting. In many outlying schoolhouse districts little groups of people have established helpful means of grace by organizing themselves into a Christian Endeavor society, loyal to Christ and tributary to some church. In busy factories and business offices and department stores other young people have thus banded themselves together, "trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength."—Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark.

Dr. Clark In Australia.

On one evening of the five days' convention in Melbourne the audience that greeted Dr. Clark numbered over 10,000 people. The convention committee issued a souvenir programme of views and music, on the cover of which was the latest photograph of the founder of Christian Endeavor. The large sacrifice that Dr. Clark willingly makes for the cause is shown by the enormous work he has done on this around the world journey. He has had public addresses in four or five meetings each day and interviews and conferences that rarely give him any leisure till midnight. He has also wielded a busy pen in the preparation of nearly two-score of newspaper and magazine articles that are having a large reading in this country and England.

Organization With a Definite End.

We hear much senseless talk about too much organization. What we really need in all our churches is more organization, but organization with a definite end in view. The church in its ministry to the community's needs is like a great department store or like a great university. Study the organization of either of these and you have a fine model for the administration of a church.—William Shaw, Treasurer United Society.

AT A DANCE.

What a Girl Should Do and What She Should Avoid Doing.

The girl who attends few dances is apt to find the etiquette of the occasion trying. There are certain things no girl should do unless she wants to lay herself open to the suspicion of not being well bred, and the most important of these is going to a dance alone with a young man when she does not know any older married woman there who is willing to chaperon her. This is not purely a question of convention, but one of convenience. The man she goes with cannot dance all the time with her, and she cannot be left by herself in the intervals of her dances. After a dance is over, unless a girl is invited to take refreshments or to walk, she should be taken back to her chaperon, never under any circumstance should she sit by herself even for a minute in a ballroom.

It goes without saying that she should introduce her partners to her chaperon, but I have seen even this courtesy ignored, although when she had no one to talk to or dance with a girl found this same chaperon very useful to stay by.

Three times is all a man should be a girl's partner at a dance, unless he wants to make her conspicuous. As a matter of fact it is rather bad form for a man, after being introduced to a girl, to ask for more than two dances during the evening.

A girl should be careful how she refuses to dance with a man. If she dislikes him she may simply say she does not care to dance that particular number, and, if he is a gentleman, he will not insist.

To the thoughtless girl I want to say: Don't cross the room alone. It is very awkward and looks badly. Don't sit out dances in corners unless you want your hostess to have a very bad opinion of your ideas of propriety. There are other equally enjoyable and less conspicuous ways of flirting.

Don't be afraid of introducing your partners to your girl friends.

Wear a pretty gown by all means, but not a loud one that makes you the observed of observers from one end of the hall to the other; and don't by your blandishments detain a man in conversation when he is engaged for a dance with another girl.

Before I close I want to add also that invitations to a large dance should be sent two weeks ahead of the time, and those to a small dance ten days in advance. In either case an answer should be sent at once.

QUAINT BEDROOMS.

Attractive Sheraton Apartment For Country or City Home.

The bedroom nowadays is anything but a commonplace room. It receives quite as much care in the designing as the more pretentious parts of the house. The illustration shows a charming model room which is being exhibited at the St. Louis exposition. The furniture is Sheraton. The floor, to harmonize with this, is laid in a tiled pattern of woodwork. The bed has a medallion on its footboard. The irregular outlines of the wall allow for outer closets, the panels being decorated also with medallions. The French windows are hung with pale green draperies. In front of the window there is a dressing table with quaint silver candlesticks and a triple looking glass of the old fashioned description.

R. DE LA BAUME

MARRIED PRISONERS.

REAL ROMANCES THAT ARE AS STRANGE AS FICTION.

New York Policeman Fell in Love with Girl He Had Arrested for Murder — English "Cop" Weds Shop Lifter.

Some years ago a well known author wrote an interesting "shilling shocker" in which the beautiful heroine is accused of murder. The official who arrests her falls desperately in love with his pretty prisoner, and later the young lady had been found guilty, sentenced to death, reprieved at the last moment, and finally, through the timely remorse and confession of the real culprit, is set free "without a stain on her character," the courteous detective (really a man of high family who has joined the "force" as a cure for ennui) pops the question, is accepted, and the two are made one in the last paragraph. This delightful romance has recently had its prototype in real life, proving the correctness of the old adage that truth, minus the embroidery, is every bit as strange as fiction.

The lady in the present instance is, or rather was, Miss Lilian Thomasch, of New York, who last July had a terrible experience in the Bronx, outlying district of the city. She was walking one evening near One Hundred and Sixty-third street with Mr. Charles Roxbury, whom she had known for 15 years, when a negro stole up behind them and, with a heavy club, felled Mr. Roxbury to the ground. Miss Thomasch fled screaming and sought refuge in a house three streets away.

As soon as the murder became known Luke F. Gordon, a policeman attached to the Tremont station, was sent to arrest Miss Thomasch, and during the week following he kept the young lady under surveillance, taking her many times to court to give evidence before the coroner and District Attorney Jerome. Gordon appears to have been immediately struck by Miss Thomasch's refinement.

When ultimately Jackson, the negro who had assaulted Mr. Roxbury, was caught, Gordon was again chosen as the one to conduct Miss Thomasch to and from the court house for the purpose of giving further evidence. Jackson was found guilty, sentenced to death, and finally electrocuted at Sing Sing. At the time of the murder Gordon's wife was living, but she died soon after the trial and subsequently the policeman proposed to Miss Thomasch and was accepted.

Mrs. Gordon was "interviewed" soon after the wedding, when she informed a reporter that until she met her husband she had always disliked policemen. "I never had a high opinion of police officers," she said, "and, in fact, was more or less prejudiced against them. Mr. Gordon was the most polite policeman I ever met, and he treated me with such unusual courtesy that I naturally fell in love with him, and now we are very happy."

There is at the present time in the British police force in the north an officer who first met his wife under circumstances which one would hardly expect to lead to the altar. This official was one day on duty outside a big department store, when a salesman dashed out and informed him that his presence was required in a case of shop-lifting. The young officer entered the shop, where he was commanded to arrest a modestly-attired young woman, who was accused of stealing a small piece of lace. She had been searched and the property found on her, so there was nothing to be done but take her to the station. She looked so very young, and appeared so frightened that the officer kindly dispatched a messenger for a cab, and into this he quietly bundled the young woman and conveyed her to the police court, where she was duly "charged." It was conclusively proved that she had undoubtedly stolen the lace; indeed, she pleaded "guilty," but as it was a first offense she was given the "option" of a fine of £2 or a week's imprisonment. As the money was not forthcoming the girl was taken below, but half an hour later it was paid and the girl liberated with a caution.

It afterwards transpired that the policeman who had arrested her had paid the money, and as soon as the girl discovered this she made inquiries, found out where he lived, wrote him a letter of grateful thanks, and returned the money. In this way the acquaintance, begun under such adverse circumstances, ripened into friendship, and in less than three months the two were married—the alliance proving an unusually happy one.

ROBS TO HELP HIS MOTHER

Four Children Were Starving and Tommy Could Get Support in No Other Way.

Tommy Clifford, at ten years, is next to the eldest of a family of eight children, who live with their mother in three little rooms at No. 555 Eleventh avenue, New York. Tommy sells papers, and Mary, who is 14, works in a soap factory at four dollars a week.

It wasn't a hard matter for Tommy to overcome his scruples early the other morning when he saw a chance to get into a printing shop at No. 565 Eleventh avenue. He carried off $30 worth of lead and brass and was driving a bargain with a junk dealer when the police took him to the West Forty-seventh street station as a bold, bad burglar.

"Mother just had a baby and can't work," was the only explanation of Tommy, and Detectives Tunny and Hayes went around to see if he was telling the truth.

These old detectives were deeply touched when they went back to the station house and told all about it. There was Mrs. Clifford in bed, caring for a baby two days old and trying to give attention to another 16 months old. In the room, all weak from hunger and in rags, were the other children, three, four, six and eight years old. There wasn't a morsel of food in the house. The mother had no medical attendance.

Capt. Hayes dropped a five-dollar bill into his hat. In five minutes there was $50 in it. Tunny and Hayes told Tommy they were going to play a trick on him. They bought groceries and clothing and got Dr. William E. Young, of No. 46 West Sixty-fifth street, to go to the house with them.

The mother cried, and all the children ate and ate. The detectives turned housekeepers and slicked up the poor furniture, brought in flowers, and then went away chuckling.

WITNESS HAD GOOD MEMORY

Story of a Fresh Philadelphia Lawyer Who Didn't Know When to Stop an Examination.

A story is told by the Philadelphia Ledger of an eminent lawyer receiving a severe reprimand from a witness whom he was trying to browbeat. It was an important issue, and in order to save his cause from defeat it was necessary that the lawyer should impeach the witness. He endeavored to do so on the ground of age, in the following manner:

"How old are you?" asked the lawyer.

"Seventy-two years," replied the witness.

"Your memory, of course, is not so brilliant and vivid as it was 20 years ago, is it?" asked the lawyer.

"HE HAS NEVER PAID ME."

"I do not know but it is," answered the witness.

"State some circumstance which occurred, say 12 years ago," said the lawyer, "and we shall be able to see how well you can remember."

"I appeal to your honor," said the witness, "if I am to be interrogated in this manner; it is insolent!"

"You had better answer the question," replied the judge.

"Yes, sir, if you compel me to do it, I will. About 12 years ago you studied in Judge ——'s office, did you not?"

"Yes," answered the lawyer.

"Well, sir, I remember your father coming into my office and saying to me: 'Mr. D——, my son is to be examined tomorrow, and I wish you would lend me $15 to buy him a suit of clothes.' I remember, also, that from that day to this he has never paid me that sum. That, sir, I remember as though it were yesterday."

An Ideal Location

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible

14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

LOOMIS MYSTERY.

Body Arrives in New York on the St. Paul.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The body of F. Kent Loomis, who is supposed to have lost his life from the steamer Wilhelm II. off the English coast on June 19th last, was brought here on the American line steamer St. Paul, which arrived from Southampton and Cherbourg last night. Francis B. Loomis, assistant secretary of state, a brother of the dead man, took charge of the body and will remove it to Parkersburg, W. Va. for interment.

The officers of the St. Paul stated positively that Mrs. Maybrick was not on board as rumored.

Monument to Lewis and Clarke.

FORT CALHOUN, Neb., Aug. 4.—The one hundredth anniversary of the arrival on Nebraska soil of the famous Lewis and Clarke expedition was celebrated by 2,000 Nebraskans here, who dedicated a monument to the memory of the dead explorers. The United States government was represented by General Theodore Wint, in command of the Omaha division of the department of the Missouri. A battalion of the Thirteenth infantry also took part in the exercises. The guests of honor included Governor Mickey and staff and a number of prominent old settlers and descendants of the explorers.

Ferris Nominated For Governor.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Aug. 4.—After it had been generally conceded that Justus S. Stearns of Ludington would be nominated for governor by the Democratic state convention, following Mr. Stearns' statement that he had bolted the Republican party and would support the Democratic ticket, both national and state, the convention nominated for governor on the first ballot Woodbridge N. Ferris of Big Rapids. Mr. Stearns was three times a prominent candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

Donnelly Says Tie Up Everywhere.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 4.—National President Donnelly addressed the striking packing house employees at Shawnee park in Kansas City, Kan. Previous to the mass meeting, which was attended by several thousand persons, the strike leader was met at the state line by over 2,000 union men of different crafts, who paraded to the park. President Donnelly reiterated the statement that the strikers would win. He expressed satisfaction with the situation and said it was a case of tie up everywhere.

Lanham For Governor of Texas.

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 4.—The state Democratic convention was brought to a close last night, the following ticket having been nominated: Governor, S. W. T. Lanham; lieutenant governor, George D. Neal; attorney general, D. V. Davidson; comptroller, John W. Stevens; treasurer, John W. Dobbins.

WAS IT TELEPATHY?

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER CONVERSE IN THOUGHT WAVES.

Bond of Sympathy Is So Strong Between Them That Distance and Other Obstacles Are Annihilated Completely.

"Of course I believe in telepathy," said the psychic woman to a New York Sun reporter. "Let me tell you about my little girl.

"Some five or six years ago we were thrown on the world together, two waifs. I came to New York to work and left her in the south at a boarding school. I used to watch the postman coming around the corner, thinking, 'Now, he has a letter for me from Cis. She wants shoes or something.' And sure enough up the stoop he would come, bringing me such a letter.

"Later I took her abroad. In London she met a young Englishman who fell desperately in love with her. As she was only a little over 16 and he was quite as desperately fond of card playing, I took her to Paris.

"Like magnets his letters drew her back to him. In London she had a girl friend who had asked her to visit her. She begged me to let her go, which I did. It was a disastrous thing to do. In three weeks she wrote me that she was married.

"Before the waning of the moon she came wandering into my dreams, walking about in them with tears thick on her dear eyelashes. Then one night she came and sat by my bed and said to me:

" 'I am miserable.'

"What mattered water and distance. She had telegraphed her unhappiness to me across land and sea as if she had opened the door out of the next room and whispered it to me.

"A stranger thing happened. In my unhappiness and anxiety I thought aloud as I sometimes, though not frequently do, it being generally considered a sign of insanity. As I wrote to her I said aloud:

"OH! CIS! CIS!"

" 'Oh, Cis! Cis!'

"That was four o'clock of a Friday afternoon. On the following day I had this letter her:

" 'What were you doing yesterday afternoon at four o'clock, dearest,' she asked. 'I was sitting in my room reading when I heard you call me. "Oh, Cis! Cis!" you said, and your voice was sad as sad could be. Oh, I was so glad to hear you call me! I threw down my book and ran from the room to the head of the stairs, thinking every moment to see you rush up and hold out your arms for me. And you were not there!'

"In another day I held her in my arms. I took her from him for a time and brought her back home with me to America.

"We had no sooner arrived than letters came imploring her to return. At length they became so urgent that even I began to suspect them of containing a spark of truth. And to Cis, they were all truth. By and by, as I knew she would, she put in a plea to be sent back to him, and I consented to let her go.

"I shall not speak of the agony I endured when the gangplank swung from the dock.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

There is a rumor about that Christy Mathewson may pitch for Westfield on Saturday against Alls, but it cannot be confirmed. Those connected with the Westfield Baseball Association have assured the fans that Waller would pitch.

The Trenton Y. M. C. A. with Egner in the box, shut out Central Islip at Trenton on Tuesday, 3 to 0. Cusick played second base for the visitors, having two outs and two assists. Sam. Hope, formerly of Alls, pitched for Central Islip, and his brother caught. Daley, short-stop, got the only hit off Egner. Last week Egner shut out Westfield 3 to 0 and defeated Hoboken on Saturday

At the request of many old fans and because of the location of the grounds, Manager Chester A. Cawley, of the Somerville's new baseball association and other members of the same, have decided to change the name of he team from the Somersets to the West Ends, after the club that was so famous there years ago. Accordingly next Saturday the team will play under the new name. The opponents then will be the New Brunswick nine, which is now managed by John Harkins, who, in the old West End-Crescent times, was an idol of the local baseball public. Bradley and Francis will be the battery for the visitors and Montross and Allen wil be in the points for the West Ends. Manager Cawley has signed Dailey, formerly with the Summits, for the balance of the season. He will be played at short-stop in place of Alberts.

ROD AND GUN.

Elvin VanName, who spent yesterday at Seawaren, returned last night with seventeen fine weakfish.

P. A. McVoy and John Linbarger, of East Front street, spent Tuesday fishing in the brook back of Dunellen.

Frank Hedden, of Fourth street, is spending the day fishing at Barnegat with a party of friends from New York.

Councilmen Robert L. Lee and Stephen Higham and Overseer Alex. Ayers are spending today fishing off Perth Amboy.

Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, J. H. Case, Andrew Lutkins and H. C. Reynolds, of the borough, are fishing at Seawaren, today.

Harry Dreier and Isaac Vail were among the successful angelrs who fished off Sewaren yesterday. They landed fourteen nice weakfish.

Local fishermen say that most of the weakfish that are being taken at Seawaren and Amboy bite at the last of the ebb tide or at the beginning of the flood.

'Gene Reilly and Adam Blair, who spent yesterday at Amboy fishing, came back with twenty-two weakfish and one big bluefish. 'Gene would have increased the number had it not been for the fact that he was beset, below water, by a man eating shark, which eventually got away with his entire rig, leaving him as a witness to the sport for the remainder of the outing.

The reports of good catches of weakfish at Seawaren led several local fishermen to spend the day there yesterday. The fish proved to be biting well and full baskets were the rule on the homeward trip. Harry Dreier and Isaac Vail returned with seventeen as a result of the day's sport. The fish baskets of Frank Langhorne and Dennis Gavett, who spent the day in a boat together, showed their catch to consist of nineteen good-sized weakfish. "Pop" Thorn, who made the trip with a party of friends, got seven weakfish, a fluke, and a big turtle.

—Fifty cents a basket for the finest Jersey tomatoes is one of the specials at Neuman Brothers. The quality is unsurpassed and there is a large lot to select from.

Real Estate
His Benefactor.

A few years ago, a working man in one of our factories, bought a property, knowing that it was good value, but little dreaming that it would start him on the road to wealth, which it afterward proved. He recently sold his property for nearly double the amount he paid for it, he then reinvested the whole sum in other good real estate, as he considered it as safe as a bank, and knew it would yield a greater revenue than 3 per cent compound interest.

The opportunity for you too is open to make money in real estate.

We show the way to beautiful homes—properties that can be purchased so low, there's a substantial profit for you in their rapidly increasing value.

Now is the time to buy—come in and see us about it.

IN COUNCILMANIC CORRIDORS

GOSSIP ABOUT THE CITY FATHERS AND THEIR DOINGS.

Councilman L. M. Daniel is especially watchful of the proceedings at each Common Council meeting, as was shown Monday night. On several occasions there were little irregularities in the proceedings and his training in legal matters made him quick to correct them. If there is one thing that Mr. Daniel contends for it is that the business of the city shall be conducted strictly in accordance with the rules and the law.

That the majority of people of the city care very little about the business transacted by the Council, is shown by the small attendance at the meetings. Unless there is something special there is never more than a dozen persons in the lobby and some times not that many. There seems to be an opinion that the Council can be trusted to do what is right, and this feeling no doubt has much to do with citizens keeping away from the meeting.

The petition presented to the Council Monday night by Dr. J. B. Probasco and other residents in the vicinity of East Front street and Watchung avenue, regarding the speedy autos and trolley cars which pass that corner, and the open cellar on the Durlach property, called forth a few remarks from Street Commissioner Gavett. He thought the city might be liable if the open cellar was filled in by it without the consent of the owner. Mr. Gavett said that the Durlachs have been written to about the danger attending this opening and a reply is awaited. Part of the opening is on the Durlach property and part in the street. There is no doubt but what the corner is a dangerous one in regard to those things mentioned. Automobilists at times are bold in running their machines and they do not appear to realize how fast they are traveling. Residents living near the corner mentioned are anxious that all necessary precautions be taken to prevent any accidents, and no doubt the city will heed their request for an arc light and proper restrictions on trolleys and autos.

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

Choir practise, which has been discontinued during the summer months at St. Stephen's church, will be resumed early in September.

An important meeting of the Sunday-school teachers of St. Stephen's church will be held Saturday evening at 7:30 in the church rooms.

The Junior Club, of St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, will hold a regular weekly meeting at the church rooms Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The regular monthly meeting of Mr. Neuman's bible class at the Monroe Avenue church, scheduled for this evening has been postponed until further notice.

¶ The members of the Cherryville Baptist church, of which Rev. A. E. Finn, of this city, was the pastor, has extended a unanimous call to Rev. John Hulshart, of Farmingdale, Hunterdon county, to become the pastor of the church. Until recently he has been instructor in theology in Marshall College.

Foolhardy Boys.

A dozen small boys had the attention of a host of commuters at the North Avenue Station, this morning, while they were practicing the trick of jumping on moving trains. Some of the lads had narrow escapes from being thrown under the wheels, but even this did not deter them from persisting in the dangerous practice.

Wrangle Over Newspaper Business.

The case of Samuel Turnansky against Louis Goldstein, whom he charges with the theft of newspapers while serving as delivery boy for him, was brought up this morning in Justice Hand's court. By the consent of the parties, the hearing was postponed until tomorrow afternoon. At the same time, Turnansky is to bring action against Louis' brother Max on charges of embezzlement. W. S. Angleman, Esq., is counsel for the Goldsteins, and William Newcorn, Esq., will represent Turnansky.

Trolley Schedule.

The Public Service Corporation has posted a large bulletin at the New Brunswick trolley waiting room, giving the time of the departure of cars for South Amboy, Metuchen and Bound Brook. The time is also given of the departure of cars from these three places for New Brunswick. The South Amboy cars leave at 10 minutes after and 20 minutes of the hour; the Bound Brook cars at 7 minutes after and 23 minutes of the hour; and the Metuchen cars at 8 minutes of the hour and 22 minutes after.

Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman and daughter, Miss Maud Honeyman, are sojourning in Maine.

The County Republican Committee meets Tuesday evening.

Secretary Wm. K. Devereux has issued a call for a meeting of the New Jersey Democratic State Committee for next Saturday at the Coleman House, Asbury Park.

Announcement has been unofficially made that former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., has been selected as a member of the Democratic national executive committee, which will consist of seven men of wide national reputation, and which will practically direct Judge Parker's Presidential campaign. Mr. Smith does not confirm this announcement, although he admits he has been asked to serve on the committee, other members of which, it is said, will include William F. Sheehan, August Belmont, Colonel James W. Guffey and John R. McLean, the first-named being chairman. The announcement that Mr. Sheehan will be chairman was officially made at Indianapolis today by Thomas Taggart, chairman of the Democratic national committee. "I have been asked by Mr. Sheehan to accept a place on the committee, with the assurance that Judge Parker desired it," said Mr. Smith. "I told Mr. Sheehan, though, that I preferred not to become a member of the committee, and asked him to select some one else who would have more time at his disposal for that character of work than I could give. "Then, again," added Mr. Smith, in mock seriousness, "I learn that I have been elected Governor of New Jersey—or is it just a nomination? I am glad the national convention is over and thas I escaped Presidential honors; but, really, it seems that the honors are coming to me too fast. I am afraid this city may become too small for me if they do not cease, and then I think it would be wise to distribute the honors more."

DICKERING FOR A FRANCHISE?

Elizabeth Aldermen Said to be Considering the Granting of One.

There were mysterious movements in Elizabeth Tuesday night on the part of several Democratic Aldermen, and rumors were afloat that some sort of a deal was on with the Public Service Corporation, which is looking for an important franchise in the western and southwestern parts of that city. The trolley company wants to run its lines through Washington avenue and Bayway so as to connect with its out-of-town service, and does not wish, it is said, to make certain concessions to the city of Elizabeth which the people feel should be compensated for.

One of these concessions is a percentage of the gross earnings of the proposed new branches when constructed and in operation. Certain Aldermen were very much in evidence Tuesday night, and it is alleged that a secret confab was held in the private room of a well-known hotel, at which emissaries from the trolley company were present. The result of such a conference would be partly disclosed, it is claimed, at the public hearing which is to be given on the matter this month.

Mayor Smalley No Quitter.

Mayor N. B. Smalley has rented his present residence on Mercer avenue to a Bayonne family and will move shortly. He denies the report that he is to come over in to the city. In a statement to a Daily Press reporter today he declared his interests were in North Plainfild and he proposed to remain there. He has rented the B. M. Day property on Rockview avenue, from E. J. Hooley.

Lawn Social Tonight.

The twice-postponed lawn social of the Trinity church Willing Workers will be given this evening on the premises of Horace J. Martin on Marion avenue. In the event of cloudy weather or dampness it will take place in Mr. Martin's home.

The "Atlas" Here.

The special car Atlas, of the New Jersey Central, paid a short visit to the North Avenue station, yesterday. It was a special run to Plainfield and came only to get the receipts of the communtation ticket sale for the month of August.

F. C. Lounsbury and son, Jesse, of Plainfield avenue, enjoyed a carriage drive to Lake Hopatcong, which they took on Monday, returning yesterday.

AS TO COURT HOUSE GROUNDS

FREEHOLDERS DECIDE TO CARRY OUT ORIGINAL PLANS.

The Court House Commission acting for the Union County Board of Freeholders, having failed to induce the Elizabeth city fathers to approve of the plan which the rest of the county favored, to beautify and enlarge the grounds surrounding the new court house, will now go ahead with the work on the original plans. Although a suggestion was made in the Elizabeth Common Council on Monday night that a modified plan might be acceptable to the city authorities, no such suggestion has been made to the Board of Freeholders.

At the meeting of the freeholders this afternoon the attention of the board may be brought to the rejection of the plans for the improvement of the site. The Court House Commission, composed of Director J. Frank Hubbard, of this city, ex-Freeholder John Farrell and Freeholder Jacob Brucklacher, is much disappointed because the project did not receive the sanction of the councilmen.

STREET SPRINKLING AT NIGHT

NEW SCHEME BEING TRIED IN NORTH PLAINFIELD.

The street committee of the borough Council is trying the experiment of sprinkling the streets at night. One wagon was kept going all last evening and more are to be put on tonight. Later on the men will work all night and put in no time during the day.

It is claimed that by sprinkling the streets at night that the water has time to sink in the roadbed instead of being absorbed by the sun as is the case in the day time. If the experiment proves a success it will be continued all season.

HAPPENINGS OF THE LOCAL FRATERNAL ORDERS.

Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., will meet tonight.

At the regular meeting of Iona Council, No. 14, D. of P., last evening, one initiate was adopted and one elected. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the business meeting.

E. W. VAIL MARRIED.

Miss Katherine Riegel the Bride at Ceremony Last Evening.

Miss Katherine Riegel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Riegel, of South avenue, was married last evening, to Edward Walter Vail, of Duer street. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis and was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends. Following the ceremony a reception was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Vail will make their home on Richmond street. The former is in the employ of D. W. Littell and is well known in the city and borough.

PERSONAL.

Dr. G. W. Endicott, the attending physician, reports that W. R. Cook, of East Fifth street, who is ill with typhoid fever, is doing nicely, with no complications likely.

Captain George D. Morrison, of Plainfield avenue, who is very ill with typhoid fever, is now passing through a relapse of the disease. Dr. Zeglio is the attending physician.

Death From Poisoning.

Miss Nellie Tyler, of 312 East Thirty-fourth street, New York, died last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coons, of Somerset street, where she had been spending her vacation. She had been a sufferer from an internal poisoning. She was in her twenty-third year and leaves a brother and sister, both in New York. The body was sent to the Metropolis today.

Funeral of Young Son.

Funeral services were held this morning over the remains of Joseph McGauley, the young son of Bernard McGauley, of Prospect avenue. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

STAINED GLASS EFFECTS.

How They May Be Procured at Home with Slight Expense and Trouble.

All who would have stained glass in town or country home have not thus far been able to gratify their desires. Now comes a substitute that admirably meets all the requirements in nine cases out of ten of the regulation article, says the Brooklyn Eagle. This substitute is a decorative material that costs but a few cents a yard and can be applied to an ordinary window pane by any woman who has sufficient knack to properly paste the material.

All the colorings and combinations peculiar to stained glass, and many more, are to be found in this new material, which is particularly well adapted to dining rooms, bath rooms, bed rooms, halls and, in fact, anywhere that it is desired to introduce a charming bit of color or to shut out some particular view.

Unless one starts out deliberately to be inartistic, it is difficult to achieve any but artistic results with this substitute, for the colorings are soft and bright, as taste or inclindation demands, and the designs suit any and all schemes of decoration. If the effect of frosted or etched glass is desired, there is a lace-like pattern that just suits, and it may be brightened by a border in pale amber or in any other color. On the other hand, if some bright combination for a dark corner or a den is required, there are vivid greens, bright scarlet and blues, yellows, purples,, in fact, all the shades on nature's color card, and in patterns geometric, floral or heraldic, so that a question of right choice is simply a matter of selection.

The direction for the use of the material are simple and direct: After the fabric, which resembles wax paper, has been cut to fit, it is soaked in water, preferably luke-warm, for at least 30 minutes. Ordinary wall paperer's paste, thinned to the consistency of cream, is strained through a piece of linen or cheesecloth to remove the lumps, and is then applied to the glossy or printed side of the material and the decoration put on the window. A piece of soft cloth or chamois leather is wrapped around a piece of cardboard, and, beginning in the center, the stained glass material is carfully pressed into place in the same way that a photograph is mounted; not an air bubble must remain, or the work is spoiled. When the decorative square or panel has been applied it is wiped perfectly dry and given a coat of varnish. Unless in a bathroom, where the steam may have some effect, it will not be found necessary to revarnish oftener than once a year.

The work is so simple that any girl or woman can do it successfully, and so far as appearance goes, the difference between this decoration and real stained glass is not detected except upon examination. For a bright dash of color there is a fleur de lis pattern in green, with a vermilion background; sometimes the background is in leaded effect, thus adding to the suggestion of genuine stained glass. There are lovely blue and white patterns admirable for a Dutch room, or in carrying out some special line of decoration and combinations of floral, heraldic and geometric patterns that are certain to find a host of admirers. Tones gay or yellow, designs large or small, it matters not what may be desired in this imported material, it is pretty certain to be found. And, better yet, the woman with a special design in mind and the artistic ability necessary to work it out, will find it an easy and fascinating task to blend and arrange the regulation designs so as to produce the special pattern desired. In borders there is as pronounced variety as in centers, and some of the borders serve admirably for panels outlined in self or contrasting colorings. For window decoration this material is sold by the yard, but there come also decorative squares, with fanciful figure decorations, which may be utilized for transparencies or ornamental purposes simply, but which do not convey the impression of stained glass in the same degree as the more conventional designs.

In addition to serving as a window glass decoration, this material may be utilized for cabinet doors as a substitute for silken curtains when it is not desired that the contents shall be constantly on view. Thus a decorative touch is imparted to an article of furniture that may heretofore have lacked this note of embellishment. Other possibilities for use are certain to present themselves when householders become better acquainted with this new factor for beauty that has been conspicuously brought to the attention of Brooklynites within the past few weeks.

Pineapple Snowballs.

Cover one-third of a boxful of granulated gelatine with cold water and let soak for an hour. When soft add boiling water to make a little more than a pint, and strain it on a platter. When cool break into it the whites of three eggs, and beat until it begins to stiffen. Add sugar to sweeten, the juice and rind of one lemon, a pinch of salt, a tablespoonful of vanilla, and one cupful of chopped pineapple which has been sweetened and thoroughly scalded in a double boiler, and reduced to a pulp through a colander. Beat all together until stiff and foamy, then mold in egg cups and set on ice to harden. Serve in a nest of whipped cream colored pink with strawberry juice.—Boston Budget.

EVENTS SCHEDULED HERE FOR TOMORROW

Contests on the Diamond and on the Golf Course of Interest to Plainfielders.

ALIS VS. WESTFIELD

LINEUP OF THE TWO NINES FOR SATURDAY'S BATTLE.

Clinton Avenue to Play Dunellen—Attraction at the Park and Hillside Golf Clubs.

Inasmuch as the Plainfield team defeated Westfield at Recreation Park a week ago, more than usual interest attaches to the contest between these teams scheduled for tomorrow at Crescent Oval. It will be a battle royal. The two aggregations have played together sufficiently to give the fans a good idea of their relative strength. Alis will line up the same as last Saturday, which is as follows:

Cusick, 2b; Bassford, rf; Cregan, lf; Courtney, 3b; Dietrich, cf; Farmer, c; Smith, 1b; Walton, ss.

Manager Denman announces this lineup:

Cotter, c; Waller, p; Rochford, 1b; Hickman, 2b; Battam, ss; Barry, 3b; McManus, lf; Connolly, cf; Seward, rf.

It is possible that Cronin may again pitch for Alis. If not some one equally as good will occupy the points.

Another baseball contest of interest will be between Clinton Avenue and Dunellen. The latter is putting up a great article of ball, having twice defeated the New Market boys. Smith, the clever twirler, will occupy the box for Dunellen and Davis will catch. At Somerville, the West Ends will cross bats with John Harkins' strong aggregation of players. This game is sure to revive the old spirit of rivalry, when Harkins used to pitch wonderful ball for the old West Ends. Montross and Allen will be the battery for the locals.

The events in golf for tomorrow include weekly play for the Golf Committee and Walter Gaston cups and clock golf competition for women at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, all of which is sure to attract a large field. At the Park Golf Club there will be the usual weekly play for the President's and Club cups, handicap and scratch events, while at the Westfield Golf Club there will be a continuation of play in the Governors' competition and ball sweepstakes handicap.

The team matches in the Central Jersey Golf League will be resumed in September when the players return from their vacations. In the meantime the stay-at-homes will have to be content with the regular schedule.

HOSE PUT TO GOOD TEST

NOT EVEN BEING RUN OVER BY A TROLLEY CAR EFFECTS IT.

Proof that Plainfield secured a good quality of hose in the last lot it purchased, was furnished during the Trotter fire, last night. A line was stretched across the car tracks at Berckman and Second streets when an inbound trolley came along at a lively clip. Unaware that he was near the scene of the fire Motorman Kennedy failed to slow up and he was almost upon the line of hose before he saw it. He reversed his car but it was too late and the front trucks went over it with a jump that jolted passengers out of their seats. The rear trucks did not go over and a hurried investigation showed that the hose had not been injured in the least and it was kept in use until the fire was out. Both firemen and railway officials were greatly surprised at its condition as the car is one of the heavy ones and fitted with sharp-flanged wheels.

Mutual Hall Association's Affair.

The Plainfield Mutual Hall Association, incorporated, will hold an entertainment in T. A. B. Hall on Thursday night, August 18. Mr. Vandervere, of Elizabeth, will furnish music. The committee in charge consists of J. C. Connett, chairman; C. C. Irby, secretary; Dr J. C. Anderson, treasurer; E. A. Austin and W. H. Jones

Firemen's Ball Game.

Captain Will Townley, of the firemen's baseball team, received word from Leon DuFlon, captain of the Brooklyn firemen's team, that the game Monday will be played at the St. Alphonsis grounds, Brooklyn, instead of at Prospect Park.

COLONEL OFFERS FINE GOLD MEDAL

Co. K to Compete for Special Prize in Second Regiment's Contest at Sea Girt.

REGIMENTAL TEAM

CONDITIONS OF THE NATIONAL MARKSMAN'S RESERVE MATCH.

Lieut. Col. Clime as Captain of Regimental Team—Co. K to Leave Here Tuesday Morning.

Colonel Dennis F. Collins has offered a gold medal to be awarded to the enlisted man making the highest qualifying score as a marksman during the practise days assigned in the competition for the Regimental Marksmanship trophy. The shooting is done at State expense. Co. K leaves on Tuesday morning for Sea Girt.

Since the Second Regiment belongs to the National Rifle Association of America, Company K is elegible to contest for a special medal given annually to each organization in the association for competition among its members. The medal is an unusually handsome one, mounted in a morocco case. It will be awarded to the man making the highest score on his first string of five shots at the two, three and five hundred yard ranges during the regular practise days and shooting at State expense.

All members of the regiment making fifty per cent. of possible points out of five shots at two, three and five hundred yards in the National marksman's reserve qualification will be given a National marksmen's reserve button by the War Department. A list of those who receive these buttons will be published in the orders of the Adjutant General of the Army.

Every member of the regiment making an average of fours in qualifying for marksmanship will be entitled to compete for a place on the regimental team. The competition for place on this team will be held at Sea Girt, September 1 to 10. Lieutenant-Colonel Joseph F. Clime, of Burlington, N. J., has been detailed as captain of the team and Captain John M. Rogers is adjutant and quartermaster.

Aside from these special competitions, all officers and men who report at the range at their own expense on August 6, 13, 20, 26 and 27 will be permitted to shoot in the classes to which they belong. Also any member of a company who is unable to report for practise on the dates assigned for his company will be furnished ammunition for such practise at the expense of the State if he report at any time after the dates fixed for practise by his organization.

IN HONOR OF GUEST.

Mrs. A. B. Lewis Entertains Twenty Friends at Enjoyable Affair.

In honor of her guest, Miss Alma Weiss, of Stirling, Mrs. A. B. Lewis, of West Fifth street, entertained twenty friends at her home last evening. Progressive games were the feature of the evening and they caused much merriment. The first prizes were awarded Miss Lillian Breakey and Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and the booby prizes, Mrs Arthur McVoy, and Percy McVoy. Neat and attractive tally cards in original designs were extended each player. Refreshments were served and a social hour with vocal and instrumental music brought the affair to a close.

Fencing in Durlach Property.

Street Commissioner Gavett's men are engaged in fixing the sidewalk about the Durlach property at the corner of East Front street and Watchung avenue, in accordance with a request made by Dr. J. B. Probasco and other residents in that vicinity, and as an extra safe-guard a fence is being placed about the property. For some time there has been a cellar opening there and owing to the darkness at the night, the corner not being well-lighted, there has been more or less danger to pedestrians, as well as persons driving or in automobiles. It is quite likely that the city will arrange to have an arc light placed at the corner.

Dog Won't Let Them Sleep.

Residents in the vicinity of West Front street and Washington avenue, are complaining loudly of the discordant howls given out at night by a neighboring dog. As a vocalistic sleep disturber they say his equal is not to be found. The police have been asked to abate the nuisance.

PECULIAR WHIM OF A FAIR DIVORCEE

Mrs. Adele Watt Gives Odd Instructions for Removal of Her Goods.

OFF FOR MARYLAND

INSISTS THAT NO COLORED MEN HANDLE HER FURNITURE.

Orders That Vans be Loaded on Flat Cars—Local Expressman and His Employes to Unload Goods.

Mrs. Adele Watt, of Rockview avenue, who recently gained unpleasant notoriety through her husband's application for divorce, which named a minister and a military officer as co-respondents, has moved from the borough residence to a Maryland town. Possessed of a peculiar whim which she would not explain, her effects were taken South in a novel and costly way.

She requested Captain Hand to superintend the removal but specified that he should not send the goods away in cars and then have them taken out by southern expressmen at the other end. She wanted them sent all the way by vans but when informed that this could not be done she yielded to having them put in cars but demanded that two of Captain Hand's vans be sent with them. He attempted to show her the needlessness of this but she was firm and it had to be done. The goods were accordingly loaded on freight cars and with two huge vans on flat cars behind they were sent South over the Pennsylvania railroad.

Captain Hand and several of his employes left for Maryland yesterday at Mrs. Watt's request to superintend the work and see that the furniture was not handled at any time by colored men. They will unload it, place it in their vans and deliver it at Mrs. Watt's new home.

This last demand is thought to be the explanation of Mrs. Watt's whim as she is said to be a Southerner and has great antipathy for colored people. Possibly she was afraid that colored men or vans belonging to colored men would be used in hauling the goods to her home and she sought to prevent it by having the Northern vehicles sent down.

Major Truman left town at the same time for the South.

WAND ISSUES NEW DIRECTORY

WORK OF AN EXCEPTIONALLY HIGH ORDER PUT ON THE MARKET.

Wand's directory for 1904 has just made its appearance and it is about as complete a volume as is to be found anywhere. In fact, a perusal of the book leads one to wonder how it pays to publish so thorough and accurate a directory in the limited territory it covers. Directory men generally who have examined the books issued by Wand during the last few years declare that Plainfield has a publication of a kind not equalled in any part of the State. In addition to the names of all members of the household, it contains the business places and occupations of every male resident. In addition to this the book gives the names of all lodges, churches, and other organizations with a lot of information about them. The municipal government and incorporated companies are covered in an exceptional manner and under separate classifications are to be found those engaged in particular occupations.

While it is known as the Plainfield directory, the volume includes North Plainfield, Westfield, Mountainside, Dunellen, Fanwood and Scotch Plains. Five years ago, the H. H. Baker Plainfield directory of about 200 pages with paper and cover and no reference to the business end, was the only book of reference of the kind that this city had. The directory issued by Wand is really an encyclopedia of local information, thoroughly up-to-date and handily arranged.

Must Keep the Peace.

William Robinson, the fifteen-year-old colored boy accused by Abram Kunzman, the West Third street grocer, of brutally pummeling his ten-year-old son, Isador Kunzman, was placed under $50 bonds to keep the peace at his hearing before Justice Hezekiah Hand this morning. William G. DeMeza, Esq., was the counsel for Robinson and William Newcorn was the State attorney.

MEAT NOT SCARCE HERE

MANAGER OF LOCAL BEEF HOUSE TELLS OF SITUATION.

In speaking about the present trouble among the meat packers and striking butchers, R. I. Teiles, manager of one of the local beef houses, said today, that he believed the difficulties would be adjusted within a short time.

When questioned about Plainfield's supply of meat he said that there is no danger of a famine. The beef houses are well stocked and he believes that the strike will be over before the present supply is exhausted.

Mr. Teiles said that while some of the butchers have been handling home-dressed beef, he had decided not to use it until compelled to do so. In his opinion the home-dressed beef does not give as good satisfaction.

ENCOURAGING RIFLE PRACTICE

WAR DEPARTMENT LENDS SANCTION TO NEW JERSEY'S PLAN.

Members of Co. K will be glad to learn that the plans of General Bird W. Spencer, inspector-general of rifle practice of New Jersey, having in view the encouragement of rifle shooting in the United States, have received the official approval and sanction of the officials of the War Department. As a result of this action there will be a match at the meeting of the National Rifle Association in September open to members of the National Rifle Association or affiliated organizations, and all who shoot in the match and make a total score of 50 points at all ranges will become a member of the National Marksmen's Reserve, and receive a button.

The national board for the promotion of rifle practice, which submitted the plan of General Spencer to the War Department officials, has also outlined further work with a view to encouraging rifle practise in the State militia or National Guard, where necessary; the encouragement of rifle practise in military and other schools, and the encouragement of rifle practise among those individuals who may be called upon to serve in time of war.

As a result of recent inquiry it has been ascertained that there are a number of States that have no State ranges for use of the National Guard for rifle practise. New Jersey leads in this matter, having five State ranges and three private ranges, a total of eight, which can be used by the National Guard. Illinois, New York, Ohio and Wisconsin have two ranges each, while seven other States each have a single range.

In connection with the encouragement of rifle practise in the National Guard it is recommended that more shooting galleries in regimental armories be established, and it is shown that in States where such armories exist, as in New Jersey, the percentage of marksmen in the National Guard is greater than in States where the men do not have an opportunity to become familiar with the rifle which they use on the outdoor ranges.

The suggestion is made that rifle practise in schools should be encouraged by providing indoor shooting galleries and field ranges, and the Krag carbines, which will soon be discarded by the cavalry, might be purchased in small numbers for the rifle practise. In this way the boys would become familiar with the mechanism of the Krag-Jorgensen rifle and receive instruction which would be of incalculable benefit in the event of there being a war.

For the benefit of civilians who have a taste for rifle shooting it is also pointed out that it would be a good plan for States to arrange so that civilians might get some practise on the State ranges, both indoor and field ranges. It is pointed out that every civilian who can handle a rifle adds to the effective fighting force should necessity arise for calling on the States for men in the event of a war.

DEMOCRATS AT WAR OVER BEING ASSESSED

Andrew J. Nolan Resigns As a County Committeeman As Result of Bitter Feeling.

CAUSE OF DISRUPTION

TWO DOLLARS PAYMENT FOR EACH ELECTION OFFICER SELECTED.

Plainfield Members Oppose the Scheme — Meeting to be Held at Elizabeth Tonight.

The resolution passed at the last meeting of the Union County Democratic Committee, requesting that $2 be paid for each election officer selected, the sum to go towards a fund to be used for campaign purposes, has caused a storm of protest on the part of the Plainfield members. Andrew J. Nolan has resigned as a member of the committee because of the assessment. It is thought that other local members will do likewise.

The county committee is to hold a meeting in Elizabeth tonight, when it is expected that the members will contribute the assessment. If every one responds there will be $114 to use in furthering the interests of the party in its fight for the election of the ticket in the county.

Other members of the committee here include J. V. F. Dilts, W. T. Banks, Frank Shattle, Frank McInnerney and Michael O'Keefe. It is understood that they seriously object to making such a contribution.

Andrew Nolan, in speaking of the matter today, intimated that he considered the request in the nature of a hold-up and he refuses to be a party to any such scheme. For this reason he tendered his resignation. He is not willing to speak for other members in various parts of the county, but believes that they will make the same opposition to the request.

WILLING WORKERS' SOCIAL

TRINITY CHURCH ORGANIZATION GIVES SUCCESSFUL OUTDOOR AFFAIR.

After two postponements, the open air social of the Trinity Reformed church Willing Workers was given last evening on the lawn surrounding the premises of Horace J. Martin, of Marion avenue. It was well attended and proved successful financially as well as socially, a substantial sum being cleared. It will be applied to the building fund of the church.

The grounds were brilliantly illuminated with paper lanterns and in their light croquet and other games were played. Fancy articles were sold from booths and there were many devices to add to the amusement and swell the proceeds. Musical features were solos given by Miss Florence Bennett and Mrs Coddington; piano selections by Miss Hazel Martin and cornet selections by Edward Young.

The committee which had the affair in charge consisted of Mrs. R. V. Kinney, Mrs. William Lindsay and Miss Sarah Hummer.

Amicable Settlement.

Louis and Max Goldstein, the newspaper carriers accused by Samuel Turnansky of embezzlement, failed to put in an appearance at Justice Hand's court this afternoon at 2 o'clock, the hour set for the hearing. Turnansky appeared with his counsel, William Newcorn, Esq., but the failure of the other parties to put in an appearance caused the dismissal of the case. It is reported that the financial transactions between the parties of the suit have been settled out of court.

In Justice von Minden's Court.

In Justice VonMinden's court papers have been issued in the case of Michael Watson against Patrick Cahill, returnable Tuesday, and in the case of Sarah T. Manning against Robert Winter, returnable Wednesday. The case on contract instituted by Francis J. Blatz, Esq., against S. D. Drake and Miss E. E. Egel has been adjourned for one week.

Miss Titsworth Engaged.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Ella V. Titsworth, daughter of the late Mrs. Emma Titsworth, of Madison avenue, and Herbert B. Putnam, of Rochester, N. Y.

LET A LAMP FALL; DAMAGE WAS $1,000

John Trotter's Residence Escaped Total Destruction by Timely Arrival of Firemen.

BATTLE WITH FLAMES

GAS FUMES INTERFERE WITH WORK OF FIRE LADDIES.

Blazing Oil Runs Down Register and Spreads the Flames to First Floor—Loss on House and Furniture.

Accidentally dropping a lighted lamp which he had been carrying through an upper room, at 12:15 this morning, John Trotter, of 131 Berckman street, narrowly escaped severe burns in the fire which followed and which would have destroyed his home but for the prompt arrival of the city department. He fought the flames for ten minutes before an alarm was sent in and retreated only when he was practically exhausted and scorched about the hands, face and head. The blaze was killed after an hour's hard work on the part of the firemen with a total loss of $1,000, divided evenly between the structure and furniture. Both are covered by insurance.

Trotter had been out during the evening and was about to retire when the accident happened. He had the lamp in his hand when it fell to one side suddenly and dropped to the floor. It landed alongside of an open register leading to the room below and unknown to him blazing oil ran through it and dropped down. Trotter seized rugs and cloths, finally putting out the flames upstairs only to find that a worse fire was raging below. He sought to put this out but was finally forced back. In the meantime his brother-in-law, a young boy, had gone first to Berckman street and South avenue to send in an alarm and failing to secure a key had returned to Richmond and Front streets, where he pulled box 16.

When the department reached the scene the flames had gotten outside of the house and were creeping along the porch and sides. Two streams were laid in and they were soon gotten under control. The structure was badly burned but not gutted and can easily be repaired. Mrs. Trotter was not home at the time, and not an article of clothing or furniture was saved.

Several of the firemen were made very sick while at work by inhaling escaping gas. There is no curb shut-off at the place and the breaking of a pipe filled the house with the deadly fumes. Captain Daley, of No. 1 Hose Company, was partially overcome and made very sick and Chief Doane was twice forced back. Others suffered from the effects until the flow was shut off from the cellar.

Friends Surprise Mrs. Rottberg.

In honor of her return from Muhlenberg Hospital, Mrs. Kalman Rottberg, of West Third street, was given a surprise last night by her daughter and a few friends. Three plays were given, the first being entitled "Uncle Sammy." This was presented by the Misses Lilly Shrager, Sadie Goldstein, Esther Wolfe and Lilly Rothstein. The other plays entitled "Washerwoman," and "Biddie Brothers" were given by the Misses Amelia and Rose Carbone, Sadie Goldstein, Esther Wolfe and Dora Rothstein. After the entertainment refreshments were served and the rest of the evening was spent in playing games and singing.

Accident at Newark.

An empty hay wagon, drawn by a team of horses and driven by James Burke, of Plainfield avenue, was struck by a rapidly moving trolley on Frelinghuysen avenue, Newark, Wednesday afternoon. Burke was driving along on the track when, without any warning that he heard, a trolley car struck the rear of the wagon, throwing the horses to their knees and shattering the rear of the wagon. Both the horses were cut about the knees, one so seriously that it is still lame, but the damage to the rig was so slight that Burke was able to drive home.

Excursionists' Enjoyable Time.

The First Presbyterian, Congregation and Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-schools, and the Presbyterian church Sunday-school, of Dunellen, had a pleasant day at Asbury Park yesterday. The outing was a successful one from a financial standpoint.

ACCOMMODATIONS FOR CENTRAL'S COACHES

Arrangements Being Made to Provide for Passenger Car Storage at Dunellen.

OTHER IMPROVEMENTS

SWITCH TOWERS AND ADDITIONAL TRACKAGE.

Dunellen a Railroad Man's Town—Somerville Terminus Receiving Attention at This Time.

The New Jersey Central is preparing to provide greater facilities for caring for passenger coaches at Dunellen, and has a number of other improvements in contemplation. The company recently acquired an additional strip of land at Dunellen, the present accommodations for coaches being too small. A switching tower will soon be erected at that point and another one near the freight house in this city.

Improvement are also being made at Roselle, the terminus for the Roselle, Newark and New York trains. The turntable is being repaired and additional trackage will be laid. The Somerville terminus for certain trains is also receiving attention.

The trains running between Roselle and Newark and New York take care of a certain class of commuters, giving them quick service and frequent trains, an advantage over the Pennsylvania.

The same is true of the trains running between Dunellen and Somerville and New York. They all serve their own particular purpose in a way that would not be possible if the company was obliged to have but one or two such terminals. It is for this reason that the company is spending considerable money at these terminal points with a view to making them as efficient as possible.

This arrangement permits the crews to make their homes in these suburban towns, away from the noise and inconvenience of other larger towns or cities. In nearly every case the employes own their homes and take special pride in them. Not only that but they frequently become identified with the interests of the towns, take a hand in the government of them and are not infrequently elected to office, where they serve their constituents faithfully.

This is especially true at Dunellen, where on several occasions railroad men have held positions as Councilmen. These employes are of the better class of mechanics and they are most desirable in any town. They patronize home trade and generally work for those things which tend to advance the best interests of the communities in which they live.

CAMPERS' GRUESOME FIND

PLAINFIELDERS DISCOVERED BODY OF NEWARK MAN WASHED ASHORE.

A camping party at Princess Bay, S. I., composed of Edward Nelson, Ralph and Joseph Harkins, of this city, broke up yesterday as the result of a gruesome find which one of them made early Tuesday morning. In stepping out of the tent he almost fell over the unclad body of a man which had been cast up by the tide and had been within a few feet of them all night. The others were awakened and the police of Tottenville were summoned. On investigation they found the body to be that of Reinhard Guenther, a Newark baker, who accompanied an excursion to Tottenville Saturday and who was found missing when the boat returned. He was drowned while in bathing.

The young men were left in depressed spirits after the body had been removed and Joseph Harkins, who fainted when he first saw it, was taken quite ill. None of them felt much like merrymaking and after a consultation a gloomy trio of campers and an outfit landed back in Plainfield several days ago ahead of schedule time.

Rifle Competition.

The riflemen of Company K are especially interested in the recent announcement of competitions to take place at Sea Girt this month. As rifle shooting has aroused such interest among the men of the company since the winning of the Marksmanship Trophy at Sea Girt last year, it is probable that several members of the company will compete in these competitions.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

READY REFERENCES FOR THE LOCAL BARGAIN SEEKERS.

Try Hoagland's express when you again want anything moved. Trucking and jobs promptly attended to. Trunks taken and delivered.

A. H. Enander, of Park avenue, is ready at all times to repair your furnace or doing sanitary plumbing of any kind. His work is the best and his charge most reasonable.

The specialty of W. H. Kirch is building. He is ready at any and all times to furnish estimates and undertake contracts for the erection of any style of house or similar structure.

Automobiling is popular but carriage riding is just as delightful and not so costly. J. D. Frazer, the Somerset street liveryman, has the right kind of rigs at the right kind of prices.

Don't wait too long before putting in your winter supply of coal, but leave your order with Boice, Runyon & Co., of Park avenue, at once. You will get good clean anthracite, the kind that gives the best satisfaction.

A most complete line of white goods can always be found at Peck's West Front street store. Light weight dress and waist material in plain white or colors is daily attracting women buyers to the store. Exclusive designs, first quality goods.

When in search of a refreshing, cool drink of soda water, drop in at Schreiner's pharmacy. The soda list is large and the syrups are from pure fruit juices. Proprietor Schreiner exercises personal supervision of his prescription department.

Ask any of the local physicians about the medicinal qualities of Watchung spring water. You can't drink anything better during the summer weather, and, in fact, it may be just what you need. Call and order a sample case of it and use it in your home.

For pure, rich milk and cream, fresh eggs and butter go to Marchant Brothers on North avenue. You will always have the best and it will cost you no more than what you pay for the inferior quality. Everything is produced under strict sanitar conditions.

No matter if you havn't a lot of money to start a bank account with. Take what you have to the Plainfield Trust Company at once and let that be drawing interest while you are earning some more to put with it. Three per cent. intreset is paid on all accounts of five dollars or more.

Those summer suits on sale at the Surprise store on West Front street won't last long if the present rate of sale continues. Already the wise men of this town have gone there and got thier summer suit, and they have got it at just about half price, too, because they noticed at once that the suits were good. You're next, but you must hurry.

Hill & Shupp are making a specialty just now of satchels, telescopes, dress suit cases and trunks, all at low prices. The firm is also making a big drive on King collar buttons, all guaranteed. Before going on your summer outing you will surely need a trunk or suit case and by trading here you will get the best and much less than the regular price.

Believing that a pleased customer is among their best advertisements, Neuman Brothers in their many years of establishment in Plainfield as first class grocers, have always sought to give the best of satisfaction. It has resulted in their becoming firmly intrenched and the same methods are pursued today. All goods are carefully selected, honest prices are charged and one of the best delivery systems in the city is maintained. In summer time Neuman Brothers' display of fruit and vegetables cannot be equalled by retailers and even through the winter they carry a large line.

AMUSEMENTS.

B. C. Whitney's "Isle of Spice" has been selected to open the Majestic Theatre, New York, for the season of 1904-1905, the date being set for Tuesday, August 23. Mr. Flaherty has naturally been anxious to secure an attraction that would run through the season as did "The Wizard of Oz" and "Babes in Toyland," and believes that in the piquant, musical mixture in three acts the "Isle of Spice" he has secured just what the patrons of the Majestic Theatre will be pleased with. The "Isle of Spice" was first produced in Chicago where it enjoyed a tremendous degree of success, running for twenty-three weeks to crowded houses. It probably would have been there yet but for the reason that Mr. Whitney bought it and wished to bring it East.

—A. C. Hoagland, formerly of this city, is now with S. P. Dunham & Co., dry goods merchants, of Trenton.

—Letter-carrier J. J. Hines returned yesterday from Atlantic City, where he has been spending a portion of his vacation.

Cyrus Townsend Brady's Best Story

That is what the literary critics say of our next serial story, entitled:

Little France

A ROMANCE OF THE DAYS WHEN THE GREAT LORD HAWKE was KING of the SEAS

Here is what the New York Tribune says of this most remarkable of Mr. Brady's stories:

Cyrus Townsend Brady in many thrilling stories has mixed love and war, history and romance, but in none is the skill of his hand more evident than in "Little France." It is a story of the time when "The Great Lord Hawke" ruled the seas to the glory of England and the sorrow of France. Wolfe's land battle at Quebec, of which every American schoolboy knows something, and the sea fight of Quiberon Bay, of which less has been written, are the historical events about which the story revolves. The battles are vigorously described, and the jargon of the sea runs through the pages.

"Stand by to take in the light sails and the foresail! Man the royal and the to'gallant clewlines, the flying jib and the stuns'l downhauls; overhaul the sheets and halliards! Man the fore clew garnets and buntlines."

Now, the average reader has not faintest idea of what all this means. The following out of such a string of orders might put the ship on her beams' end for all he knows, but it sounds like the sea, there is no hesitancy about it, and it pleases. Interest in the fate of the nations involved is almost entirely subordinated to interest in the fighting hero and the woman who goes with him. One cares not a jot whether England whips France or France whips England, so long as brave Philip Grafton, the American officer in the English navy, and the little Countess de Rohan, daughter of an American mother, overcome the obstacles which keep them apart.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

One of the many perplexing problems that have confronted the Public Service Corporation in the operation of trolley cars is what is turned the "dog nuisance". Nearly every day patrons of the lines get aboard cars carrying with them pet dogs and complaints have been received by the score.

The company has finally decided to take a stand in the matter and in the future owners of dogs desiring to ride on trolley cars with their canines must secure a permit for the privilege. It has been decreed that lap dogs can be carried by the passengers in their laps while on the cars, provided they have a permit, but larger dogs must be put on the rear platform. Another rule is that all dogs must have a leash attached to the collar.

Passengers with dogs having no permit can be put off the cars and conductors have been instructed accordingly. Of course, their fare will be returned to them.

"If the fates of life and death are to be relied on with significance to forecast, Parker is to be the successful presidential candidate in the election this fall." So says Michael Armstrong, the plumber. He bases this conclusion on the sudden death of "Theodore Roosevelt," a grey kitten born about the time of Roosevelt's nomination, and who is outlived by "Alton Brooks Parker," a brother kitten of the same litter. At the birth of the two, and for about a fortnight after, "Roosevelt" was the far more active and pugnacious of the offspring of the shop cat, while "Parker," like the Esopus sage, was inclined to be of quite and non-commital bearing. Shortly after the announcement of the Democratic platform containing the gold plank, and during the strike troubles, "Roosevelt" seemed to languish and pine, while his opponent brother waxed strong if not more eloquent. The morning following the renewal of the beef strike "Roosevelt" was found dead in his basket and "Parker" is now ruler of the shop. Armstrong says there is forecast in the incident and that the Democratic leader will surely be successful. "Parker" spends his time now holding a careful inquest preparatory to annihilating the power of the rat trust in the shop.

AMUSEMENTS.

Riverside Park has passed into the possession of Frank Melville, who has bought out the interest of his partner, J. K. Albaugh. Mr. Melville conducts a big summer amusement business, supplying hundreds of parks with talent and is in a position to send the very best shows to Riverside Park. He says that he will begin on Monday with a show that will cost him $1,000 for the week. It certainly contains the names of some of the most prominent people in vaudeville. Webb's seals are underscored as a feature. The education of these seals was a wonderful piece of work and the performance is a marvelous one. Another big feature for this week is George Neville and his company. Neville has been in the Charles Frohman forces and was a headliner in New York vaudeville six times during one year, an unusual record. The Majestic Musical Four, in an amusing skit, will introduce saxaphones, xiyaphones, organ chimes, violins, flutes, cornets, trombones and other instruments. Charles B. Lawlor, the veteran actor, and his talented daughters, have a vocal musical offering that is of a high grade. Mr. Lawlor, who is a song writer, generally sings songs of his own composition. Tom Gillen, "Finnigan's Friend" and the Edison biograph will complete the bill.

They are having a series of farce comedy revivals at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre, where many of the best farces of the past ten years are again being presented. Recent minor changes in the company have resulted in the formation of a particularly clever comedy company, and the revivals will compare more than favorably with the original productions, in many cases the authors declaring the Proctor presentation to be even better than the original. This week a new star is to be seen at the Fifth Avenue Theatre in the person of Donald Brian, who is to be presented at the head of his own company next season in "Myles Aroon," a play in which W. J. Scanlan was most successful, and which served to introduce Andrew Mack as an Irish comedian. Mr. Brian is said to compare very favorably with his predecessors, and his presentation at Mr. Proctor's is a matter of unusual interest.

BELDAME WON THE ALABAMA.

Five of Eight Starters In Steeplechase Fell—Trek Won.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Newton Bennington's Beldame won the Alabama stake here, covering the mile and a furlong in 1:53 3-5 and beating E. R. Thomas' Dimple by four lengths. Beldame was a hot favorite at 1 to 20. Dimple finished four lengths ahead of Ishlana, the only other starter. The start could not have been improved, all three getting away on their toes. The order was Beldame, Dimple, Ishlana throughout the course.

Five of the eight starters in the steeplechase fell. Trek won by seven lengths from Sea Gull, who was some thirty lengths ahead of Dromedary. Woden, the 11 to 5 favorite, fell at the Liverpool the first time around.

Stalwart had no trouble in capturing the first race, and Danseuse had as easy a victory in the third. John Sanford's Burnt Hill, a 10 to 1 shot, took the fifth event by two lengths. Zeala, favorite at 4 to 1 in that event, could do no better than fifth. Molly Brant won the sixth race by two lengths.

Grand Circuit at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Another great crowd gathered at Kenilworth park for the grand circuit racing. The attendance included hundreds of Canadians who came to watch the 2:08 $5,000 pace in particular. The feature was the special against time by Prince Alert. The great pacer was driven by Jack Curry in the effort to reach two minutes, and while he failed he did not run far away from the mark. He was paced by a runner, and his time by quarters follows: :30½, 1:01, 1:30, and the mile in 2:01¼. In the 2:13 pace the winner turned up in Ecstatic, which, although selling in the field at the start, won two straight heats. Doctor N. was the favorite.

Auto Tourists at South Bend.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 5.—The American Automobile party from New York to St. Louis has arrived in this city from Toledo, O. The party is one day ahead of schedule time owing to a double run from Toledo, no overnight stop being made at Waterloo, Ind. Webb Jay of New York was the first to arrive. He was soon followed by the other forty machines composing the party. The tourists will spend the day here and proceed to Chicago tomorrow morning.

Harlem Had Complete Upset.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—The Youngster stakes at Harlem furnished a complete upset in the victory of John Smulski at a long price, which won a nose victory over the added starter, The Mist, while Loretta M. was third. Kurtzmann, the favorite, finished fourth. The verdict was a popular one because of the fact that Jockey Henry, who has been reinstated, had the mount on the winner. The stake was worth $3,450 to the winner.

Red Leaf and Franco Had It Out.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5.—Red Leaf and Franco had it out all through the stretch in the fair grounds feature here, a six furlong handicap for two-year-olds. Red Leaf was driven to the limit and won by a nose on the post. Favorites had a rough time of it, Red Leaf being the only one to win.

Larned Holds Longwood Cup.

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—William A. Larned won permanent possession of the Longwood cup here by defeating Holcombe Ward in the challenge match at the Longwood Cricket club, three sets to one.

Yellow Jack at Vera Cruz.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 5.—Two suspicious cases of yellow fever have been found in Vera Cruz and have been sent to the hospital. Merida has several more suspicious cases.

TAMMANY'S SUPPORT

Nominations of Parker and Davis Ratified.

NATIONAL PLATFORM IS INDORSED

Senator O'Sullivan's Resolution Calling For Enthusiastic, Hearty and United Action Was Carried by a Cheering Assembly.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Tammany Hall ratified the nomination of Parker and Davis last night. The first mention of Parker's name brought forth boisterous cheers from the audience, which about half filled the hall. The name of Davis was also applauded. The resolutions were presented by former State Senator Thomas C. O'Sullivan and were adopted. They indorse the national platform, pledge support to the national ticket, declare that present depression is due to the president's absolute disregard of constitutional limitations, call the president the "man on horseback," denounce protection, oppose monopoly, declare for the independence of the Filipinos and denounce sectionalism. The following are some of the resolutions:

"We pledge our enthusiastic, hearty and united support to that great jurist, upright citizen and incomparable Democrat, Alton B. Parker, as candidate for the presidency of the United States.

"We commend him with his spotless record, his wise, sane and temperate statesmanship, his just appreciation of law and respect for the rights and liberties of all to a people grown weary of strenuous egotism and of meddlesome restlessness.

"It is time that the high office of president should be filled by a man who is not deluded by his own imaginary military splendor, nor swerved from his duty to the nation by his vain pursuit of martial glory.

"Looking beyond the boundaries of Democratic New York to the Democrats of the nation and above every local issue to the triumph of Democratic principles, we pledge ourselves to the election of Alton B. Parker."

DYNAMITE MILL WENT UP.

Not a Vestige of James Douglass' Body Could Be Found.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 5.—By an explosion in the Oliver Dynamite company's plant, controlled by the Dupont-De Nemours company, at Laurel Run, one man was killed and two girls were injured by flying glass.

There were 1,600 pounds of dynamite in the one building, which was totally demolished, the force of the concussion being felt twelve miles away. A hole fifteen feet deep and nearly as wide was torn out under the site of the mill, and not a vestige of the body of the dead man, James Douglass, aged fifty-five years, can be found.

The girls, Nellie Leslie and Irene Labar, who were engaged in filling cartridges in another building several hundred feet away, were badly injured. Douglass was the only person in the destroyed building. The damage to the plant is estimated at $10,000.

Forfeit on the Ohio.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—According to a statement in the Examiner this morning the Union Iron works may forfeit $18,300 to the United States government as a penalty for failure to bring the battleship Ohio up to the stipulated speed requirements. The official corrected time made by the Ohio on her trial trip was 17.817 knots, which is .183 knots below the mark in the contract. The Ohio will be accepted by the government, as she proved herself a perfect fighting machine and met all requirements with the exception of speed.

Giampoli Has an Alibi.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 5.—Gaetano Giampoli, the man identified at Altoona by Superintendent Campbell as one of the highwaymen implicated in the murder of Driver Hays and the serious wounding of Campbell Saturday morning, has been practically cleared. The chief accountant of the Columbia Plate Glass company of Blairsville said the man was one of the company's employees and was at work when Campbell was robbed. The statement is being investigated.

Pattison's Funeral at Overbrook.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—The funeral of former Governor Robert E. Pattison took place from his late home in Overbrook, a suburb. Governor Pennypacker, former Governor William A. Stone and nearly every Democratic politician of prominence in Pennsylvania attended the funeral. Among the numerous floral offerings were beautiful tributes from William Jennings Bryan, former Democratic National Chairman Harrity and James M. Guffey.

Chadwick's Squadron on Long Trip.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—A cable message was received at the navy department announcing the arrival at San Paul de Loando, on the west coast of Africa, of the south Atlantic squadron, consisting of the Brooklyn, Atlanta, Castine and Marietta, commanded by Rear Admiral Chadwick. These vessels were recently at Tangier and are now on their way to Montevideo, Uruguay, by way of Cape Town, South Africa.

General Davis Called Home.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—General Davis, governor of the Panama canal zone, has left Panama for the United States, having been called home on account of the illness of his wife, who has been spending the summer at Big Moose lake, in the Adirondacks. Friends of Mrs. Davis do not consider her condition such as to cause alarm.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 5, 1904.

Illinois Democrats want Mr. Cleveland to take the stump in that State. If the party in Jersey is wise it'll keep him at work making votes for Parker in his own State.

A dispatch from Wakefield, Mass., says that a resident of that place became totally blind while in bathing. There are some people down this way who look as if a bath would be a great shock to them.

Now that the Right Rev. Henry Codman Potter, D.D., LL.D., S. T. D., bishop of New York, member of "a dozen clubs" and rum-advocate-in-extraordinary, has dedicated a tavern, it is in order for him to consecrate a cemetery to hold the bodies of the victims of strong drink. There'll be need for a "Potter's field."

Mayor Smalley's announcement that he has no intention of removing from North Plainfield to Plainfield is not surprising to those who know the man. No matter what his opponents may say of "King Newton the First," that progressive official is not the kind of man who deserts the firing line when his enemies are making a hot attack.

Some foolish criticism has been made of the new tenement house laws and some people in this city imagine that they are detrimental to the interests of Plainfield. A little study will convince anyone that they are the very best that could be devised. The greatest benefit is that it prohibits the erection of flat structures containing dark rooms. Is there anything unreasonable about such a provision? What in the name of common sense is there about the laws in the least objectionable?

This morsel is hot off the Elizabeth Times' griddle:

"Certain Plainfielders think they want a district court. The people of Elizabeth do not object to their having one, in fact, it is not our privilege to object. But it is true, nevertheless, that the local district court can easily accommodate all the business within its jurisdiction which will be done in this county during the next ten years. The tax payers of Elizabeth are now paying for a privilege which those of the entire county enjoy, and they are so liberal not to object to continuing to do so. If Plainfield wishes to share the expense, very well. But we trust that the promoters of the plan in Plainfield, and the newspapers there, will not be so mistaken as to contend that Elizabeth finds fault with their proposition."

Elizabeth find fault with Plainfield's own business? Ha! ha! you clever man in The Times editorial sanctum, don't you know that Elizabeth learned once and for all last fall not to "butt in" on Plainfield's affairs. It is very thoughtful of you to inform us that Elizabeth will not interfere with the scheme to locate a district court here, but do you know that it never occurred to us that Elizabeth would dare to do so.

Manager Johnston's Denial.

Manager George Johnson, of the Alis baseball team, has not signed Ray Egner, the crack pitcher of the Trenton Y. M. C. A. team, according to his own statement made today to a reporter for The Daily Press. Mr. Johnson declared emphatically that he has never seen seen Egner, has not communicated with him and he has not secured him to pitch for Alis against Westfield on Saturday, August 13

Martine His Sponser.

Delancy Nichol, of New York, who has just been appointed vice chairman of the National Democratic Committee, was first brought to fame when Randolph B. Martine, then district attorney of New York, appointed him his assistant. Randolph B. Martine was a cousin of James E. Martine, of this city.

Facts as to Railroads.

Editor, The Daily Press:

People who talk about railroad service in Plainfield fail to realize that the rates are as low here as if three different companies represented the town. The Lehigh Valley Railroad in South Plainfield has the same rate here as we have in Plainfield. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, while it is supposed to be the first in the country, make the same rate at Rahway, which is a less number of miles, as they do at Plainfield. The Central Railroad of New Jersey is a very liberal corporation. In fact the most liberal of any railroad running out of New York city. On the same line if there were three express companies here the rate would be the same. The local express company collects its express free from any part of the city and charges the lowest rate for transportation to any point, delivering the goods free to any part of the city to which they are shipped. The local express company charges the lowest possible rate. The New Jersey Central's commutation is the most liberal of any railroad in the United States. The spur that has been talked of has been agitated for years, but to do that would antagonize not only the interests of the railroad companies but the public at large. There is no man in this city but that can have every accommodation at the lowest rate quoted by our present railroad system.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

"Mac," the popular assistant in Peters' barber shop, took a trip to Coney Island last Sunday and was among the crowd of spectators who saw Bonavita, the animal trainer, torn to pieces by a cage full of enraged lions. Mac says that the sight was a horrible one and that a panic nearly ensued among the crowd.

The boroughites who went on the Presbyterian excursion yesterday, returned home last evening without a mishap to mar the day's pleasure. Among the excursionists was W. L. Stevens, who in spite of his eighty odd years, enjoys thoroughly such occasions.

John McGarrigues, while playing near the railroad station last night, fell and cut his hand quite badly on a broken bottle. Dr. Brakeley was obliged to take a coulpe of stitches to close the wounds.

Miss Mary Opdyke, of Washington avenue, is taking an extended pleasure trip with a party of young women. At present the party is sightseeing in New York.

A considerable amount of money is being wagered on the result of Saturday's ball game. Both sides seem confident and a crack contest should result.

Letters are advertised at the postoffice this week for Antonion Borrelli, Miss Susie Goff, Loveborn King, Philip Sheridan and Peter Wood.

Not much interest has been shown in the presidential campaign by local politicians as yet, but it is only the quiet before the storm.

The through cars to Trenton will in the future run through town every hour. The new schedule started in yesterday.

Dr. Platt and B. J. Gardner will play a match on the courts of the Dunellen Tennis Club this evening.

Mrs. A. N. Randolph is entertaining her sister, Mrs. J. B. Sproul, of Jersey City.

Miss Irene Day will leave shortly for Canada, where she will spend her vacation.

Mrs. Lester Meseroll and children spent yesterday at the seashore.

The Y. M. A. ball team has no game scheduled for Saturday.

Percival Ising is confined in New York city by illness.

Miss Stella Sofield is enjoying a week's vacation.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Some of the boys in town have contracted a new and dangerous fad in which matches and kerosene are the principal factors. The mouth is filled with oil, a match ignited and the oil expectorated on the flame in a spray. The result is the same as that of a flash light used by photographers. So far no serious accidents have happened but this is bound to come if the practice is continued.

A number from town attended Welsh Bros.' circus held at Westfield yesterday. Very few of the travelling shows touch Scotch Plains in making their circuit through the country. It may be just possible that they think the town has "circuses" enough of its own during the course of the year. We certainly get our share.

Interesting events for tomorrow, weather permitting, will be the Twilight F. C.-Orange F. C. game on the local diamond; the Alis-Westfield game at Crescent Oval and the West Ends-New Brunswick game at Somerville. The Alis-Westfield game will no doubt be attended by the largest delegation.

Someone with a poor idea of fun tied a tin can last night to the tail of one of the village dogs. The dog was kept busy for some time chasing up and down the street until the extension was removed by a sympathetic bystander.

Manager Johnston, of the Alis team, intends to make that series with Westfield stand 3 to 2 before Saturday night rolls around.

Adam Gray, who has been visiting his brother, Joseph Gray, of East Front street, has returned to his home in Newark.

The monthly covenant and prayer and teachers' meeting will be held tonight in the parlors of the Baptist church.

A son was born Monday to Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Wharton, of Luray, Va. Mrs. Wharton was formerly Miss Mae Shott.

Miss Isabelle Lyons and sister, of Plainfield, have been visiting their aunt, Mrs. Billings, of Park avenue.

Constable Robert Walpole has returned from a week' visit with his son, Robert, at New Haven, Conn.

Roger Haskard, of Boston, is spending two weeks with his mother, Mrs. John Haskard, of Grand street.

Mrs. James Buckley has returned from a visit with her daughtebr, Mrs. W. S. Terry, of New street.

James B. Medhurst, of The Central has been entertaining his son from New York for a few days.

The weekly meeting of the Amity Club, the village literary society, was held last night.

Rev. G. M. Shott occupies the pulpit at the Seventh-Day Baptist church tomorrow.

The regular, weekly band concert will be held tonight at Concert Park, Plainfield.

Thomas Sellers has taken a position with an Elizabeth steam heating company.

Miss Cora Miller has been entertaining friends from out of town.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The funeral of the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Clark, took place this afternoon at 3 o'clock and was conducted by Rev. J. A. Cubberley at the parents home.

Philip Smith attended an informal gathering at Judge Steele' on Park avenue last evening.

Miss Maude Smith has gone to Larchmont, N. Y., to visit her sister, Mrs. Dorlan.

Mrs. Alfred Thorn and son, of North Plainfield, visited Mrs. Oscar Thorn, yesterday.

Ralph Ecker, of Plainfield, called on friends here last night.

Mrs. W. E. Smith is visiting with friends in Pennsylvania.

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

The Young People's Association, of the First Baptist church, will meet tonight at the usual hour.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of West Seventh street, has gone to Squirrel Island, Me., for the month of August.

The regular communion service will be held at the First Baptist church Sunday morning and Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, pastor-emeritus, will be in charge. In the evening Miss Curry, accompanied by several children from the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, will take part in the service to be held in the interest of the Home.

CONCERT TONIGHT.

Programme for the Weekly Open-Air Musical Feast at Band Concert Park.

The regular weekly open air band concert takes place tonight at Concert Park. This is the programme:

AMONG MEN IN THE SHOPS

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

George Dunavan, of Liberty street, has taken a position with W. W. Warnock, the baker.

James B. Martin, of Manson place, has resigned his position with The Pond Machine Tool Works

Harold Bowman, of the clerical force at the Pond plant, is enjoying his annual vacation at Pleasure Bay.

James W. Tygart, an inventor, residing on South avenue, left yesterday for Pittsburg, Pa., on a business trip.

The Pond Machine Tool Works is engaged in making castings for the Niles-Bement-Pond Works, of Philadelphia

It is reported at The Pond Machine Tool Company's works that the plant will resume full operation about September 1.

Thomas Force, who was injured by a circular saw at The Potter Press Company's works a week ago, is entirely recovered.

George Morton, of the Central Railroad shop at Elizabethport, is detained at his home on West Front street by sickness.

William Whitehead, of The Pond Machine Tool Company's works, has returned to his position after a week's sojourn at Asbury Park.

Williarm Harpence, of The Pond Machine Tool Company's plant, has been transferred from the lathe gang to the erecting department.

George Smith, who recently resigned his position at Galbraith's plumbing shop, has taken a position at The Pond Machine Tool Company's plant.

Fred Vewig, formerly head bookkeeper for Walter Scott, has returned to his position with the Campbell people at Taunton, Mass., after taking an account of the stock that is to be shipped from the plant in this city.

Nearly all of the planers at The Pond Machine Tool Company's plant are being run up on high speed. For an example on machines which have always been running with a nine inch driving pulley have been changed to a sixteen inch drive.

A heavy 72" planer bed is being planed at The Pond Machine Tool Company's works. The casting was cast at Buffalo, N. Y. The casting is one of the largest ever planed at the plant. It will be shipped to the London Machine Company, London, Eng., as soon as it is completed.

PERSONAL.

Miss Belle Vail, of Church street, has been visiting relatives at Quakertown.

Harry Joseph, a clerk at the First National Bank, is enjoying a week's vacation.

Miss Carrie Beiter, of East Front street, has returned from a visit with Newark relatives.

Mrs. David Thomas and family, of Washington Heights, New York, have returned to their home after spending a few days with Mrs. Margaret Sweeney, of Liberty street.

Mrs. George Brush and her two daughters, Misses Emma and Hannah, of Hoboken, have returned home after spending a week with Mrs. Randolph Marsh, of Plainfield avenue.

—Andrew Carnegie has offered a $10,000 library to Westfield on condition that the town provide a site and raise $1,000 yearly for the maintenance of the library. The offer was made through James O. Clark before the Town Council last night. The town already has a site on which it was intended to build a library, and the only question to be settled is the raising of money for running expenses. It was decided to put the whole question to a vote of the residents of the town.

Trolley Crew Changes.

The new arrangement of changing the crews on the Jersey City-Trenton trolleys is now in effect, the men operating the cars only over their own division. A change is made in this city, and the new crew takes the car as far as New Brunswick, where another change is made. The arrangement seems to work satisfactory and does not make the runs so long for the men.

IN THE WRONG BUSINESS.

The Parson Had a Critic Who Spoke Right from the Shoulder of Conviction.

The late Bishop Dudley, of Kentucky, was on a hunting expedition near Louisville during the last few years of his life, and happened to fall in with a local nimrod whose unconcealed admiration for the city man's marksmanship paved the way for further conversation, relates the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"What's your name?" the countryman finally inquired.

"Dudley," was the reply.

After some change of incident and experience, the bishop's interlocutor hazarded,

"Say, Dudley, what business do you follow?"

"I'm a preacher."

"O, get out. What are you giving me?"

"But I am. I preach every Sunday."

"Where?"

"In Louisville."

"Well, well, I never would ha' thought it. You ain't stuck up a bit like most of the preachers down this way."

An invitation to hear this new made acquaintance preach, was accompanied by a scribbled card, and the next Sabbath saw the rustic, in his "Sunday best," ushered into the bishop's own pew, where he listened intently to both service and sermon.

He was manifestly amazed, afterward, to have the orator of the morning come down to greet him as cordially and familarly as in the woods.

He managed to stammer his thanks, and added: "I ain't much of a judge of this kind of thing, parson, but I riz with you and sot with you, and saw the thing through the best I knew how; but all the same, if my opinion is wuth anything to you, the Lord meant you for a shooter!"

NOTES OF THE FASHIONS.

Striking Embellishments of the Costumes Now Attracting Feminine Attention.

For tailored suits glace silk is a favored material, says the Brooklyn Eagle.

A return to black for evening wear is predicted.

The vogue for chestnut and onion shades is increasing.

Linen suits are inset with bands of button embroidery.

Pompadour effects are observable in the new trimmings.

Pastel shades will retain their popularity for evening wear.

Jet will be much worn during the coming fall and winter.

Pompadour effects and colorings will be conspicuous next season.

Coats on the directoire and Louis XV. order are promised for fall wear.

Scarf of guipure or chantilly take the place of the old-time boa.

The vogue of fringe for skirt and waist trimmings is on the increase.

White Venise lace is extensively used for the ornamentation of wash stocks.

Java linen in white and blue shades is a favored material for morning gowns.

High crowns and paradise plume trimming will be characteristics of fall headgear.

Grape color is described as a "red tone like wine when seen in the electric light."

Vanity fair pocketbooks are popular in Paris and are expected to prove equally so here.

A novelty in braid used for edging the seams of a gown gives the appearance of piping.

Allover net, black, white or ecru, is utilized for shoulder scarfs by Parisian dressmakers.

THE VALUE OF ETIQUETTE.

Those Who Ignore the Little Courtesies May Have Cause to Regret the Neglect.

Very homely and apparently coarse is the saying that "honey catches more flies than vinegar." It is, nevertheless, a self-evident truth, and when it is applied as a metaphor to our daily intercourse with our fellow creatures, it proves a marvel of understanding, says a household authority.

The man or woman who goes through life with scornful lip and tilted chin, casting derisive glances, or worse, none at all, upon near and far, is likely to find himself or herself at a loss for a helping hand when it is most needed.

The pleasant salutation; the few moments interchange of remarks anent the weather, or equally general topics, with the passing stranger, hurts no one, not even the most exclusive. And sometimes, many times, it becomes a case of the angel entertained unawares and an acquaintance that is very much "worth while" results.

Quite true is it that courtesy may find itself defeated by the brazen impudence of some detrimental; but, as it is better to be cheated a thousand times when bestowing charity than to let one deserving case suffer, so it is better to be courteous than disagreeable, polite than rude; and one always feels so much the better for the interchange of well-bred greetings than when one has met a well-meant advance with the haughty stare of superiority.

Black Chocolate Cake.

Three-quarters of a cake of unsweetened chocolate, shaved and dissolved in one cupful of boiling water; one cupful of butter, four cupfuls of sugar, four eggs, one cupful of sour milk, three and one-half cupfuls of sifted flour. Add one teaspoonful of soda to a little of the sour milk and add this last. Flavor with one good teaspoonful of vanilla extract. This will make one large cake or two of medium size.—N. Y. Post.

THE OLDEST LIVING THING.

Said to Be a Huge Cypress Tree in Chepultepec 6,260 Years Old.

"The statement recently made that there are yews in England which are the oldest living things on this earth," Mr. Thomas C. Ireland said to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, "is not correct.

"These yews are old, very, very old; there is no doubt about that; some of them were stalwart trees even before Caesar landed on these shores. There is one now standing in the churchyard at Fortingal, in Perthshire, which Decandole, nearly a century ago, proved to the satisfaction of botanists to be over 25 centuries old, and another at Hedsor, in Bucias, which is 3,240 years old. How Decandole arrived at an apparently correct estimate of the enormous age of these living trees is a simple thing, and the principle is doubtless well known to-day to all. The yew, like most other trees, adds one line, about the tenth of an inch, to its circumference each year. He proved this after an investigation extending over several years, and we know now, a hundred years later, that his deductions were correct. The old yew at Hedsor has a trunk 27 feet in diameter, proving its great age, and it is in a flourishing, healthy condition now, like its brother at Fortingal.

"Their years are few, though, compared with those of the trees I had in mind when I made my first assertion that the statement printed about them in a scientific journal was incorrect. In one chapter of his writings Humboldt refers to a gigantic boabab tree in central Africa as the oldest organic monument in the world. This tree has a trunk 29 feet in diameter, and Adanson, by a series of careful measurements, demonstrated conclusively that it had lived for not less than 5,150 years.

"Still it is not the oldest organic manument in the world, as Humboldt declared, for now Mexican scientists have proved that a huge cypress tree, standing in Chepultepec, with a trunk 118 feet and ten inches in circumference, is older than it—older, too, by more than 1,000 years—for it has been shown, as conclusively as these things can be shown, that its age is about 6,260 years. To become impressed with wonder over this, one has only to dwell on that duration for a little while in thought.

"Yet it is not so remarkable when one stops for a moment to remember that, given favorable conditions for its growth and sustenance, the average tree will never die of old age—its death is merely an accident. Other younger and more vigorous trees may spring up near it, and perhaps rob its roots of their proper nourishment; insects may kill it, floods or winds may sweep it away, or its roots may come in contact with rock and become so gnarled and twisted because they have not room to expand in their growth, that they literally throttle the avenues of its sustenance; but these are accidents. If such things do not happen a tree may live on for century after century, still robust, still flourishing, sheltering with its widespreading branches the men and women of age after age.

WOLF LARSEN'S LUCIFER.

He Led a Lost Cause and Was Not Afraid of Heaven's Thunderbolts.

If ever Wolf Larsen attained the summit of living, he attained it then. From time to time I forsook my own thoughts to follow him; and I followed in amaze, mastered for the moment by his remarkable intellect, under the spell of his passion, for he was preaching the passion of revolt, writes Jack London, "The Sea-Wolf," in Century. It was inevitable that Milton's Lucifer should be instanced,, and the keenness with which Wolf Larsen analyzed and depicted the character was a revelation of his stifled genius. It reminded me of Taine, yet I knew the man had never heard of that brilliant though dangerous thinker.

"He led a lost cause, and he was not afraid of God's thunderbolts," Wolf Larsen was saying. 'Hurled into hell, he was unbeaten. A third of God's angels he had led with him, and straightway he incited men to rebel against God and gained for himself and hell the major portion of all the generations of man. Why was he beaten out of heaven? Because he was less brave than God? Less proud? Less aspiring? No! A thousand times no! God was more powerful, as he said, whom thunder hath made greater. But Lucifer was a free spirit. To serve was to suffocate. He preferred suffering in freedom to all the happiness of a comfortable servility. He did not care to serve God. He cared to serve nothing. He was no figurehead. He stood on his own legs. He was an individual."

New Treaty Port of China.

Kongmoon, the new treaty port of China, is on the West river, Sun-Ui district, in the province of Kwangtung, and by the river route is upward of 60 miles distant from Canton. Its population within the walled city is about 20,000. Including the suburbs its population reaches 200,000. There are no foreign residences either in Kongmoon or its immediate vicinity.—London Mail.

UTAH'S NATURAL BRIDGE.

Wonderful Arch Over Three Hundred Feet Wide Spanning a Deep Canyon.

Here, across a canyon measuring 335 feet seven inches from wall to wall, nature has thrown a splendid arch of solid sandstone, 60 feet thick in the central part and 40 feet wide, leaving underneath it a clear opening 357 feet in perpendicular height, writes W. W. Dyars, in "The Colossal Bridges of Utah," in Century. The lateral walls of the arch rise perpendicularly nearly to the top of the bridge, when they flare suddenly outward, giving the effect of an immense coping or cornice overhanging the main structure 15 or 20 feet on each side, and extending with the greatest regularity and symmetry the whole length of the bridge. A large rounded butte at the edge of the canyon wall seems partly to obstruct the approach to the bridge at one end.

Here again the curving walls of the canyon and the impossibility of bringing the whole of the great structure into the narrow field of the camera, except from distant points of view, render the photographs unsatisfactory. But the lightness and grace of the arch is brought out by the partial view which Long obtained by climbing far up the canyon wall and at some risk crawling out on an overhanging shelf. The majestic proportions of this bridge, however, may be partly realized by a few comparisons. Thus its height is more than twice and its span more than three times as great as those of the famous natural bridge of Virginia. Its buttresses are 118 feet farther apart than those of the celebrated masonry arch in the District of Columbia, known as Cabin John Bridge, a few miles from Washington city, which has the greatest span of any masonry bridge on this continent. This bridge would overspan the capitol at Washington and clear the top of the dome by 51 feet. And if the loftiest tree in the Calaveras grove of giant sequoit in California stood in the bottom of the canyon, its topmost bough would lack 32 feet of reaching the under side of the arch.

The bridge is of white or very light sandstone, and, as in the case of the Caroline, filaments of green and orange-tinted lichens run here and there over the mighty buttresses and along the sheltered crevices under the lofty cornice, giving warmth and color to the wonderful picture.

TICKLISH "ANIMAL FOOD."

Old Negro Could Do Justice to Corn and Oats, But Hay Stopped Him.

An ancient colored man who used to work for Dr. G. Frank Lydston called upon his former employer a short time ago, complaining of being "powerful weak." The doctor asked him something about what he generally ate and discovered that the venerable darkey had not been sufficiently nourished with good food, and suspecting that it was because he was not financially able to have better, the doctor gave him some money and told him that he should eat more animal food, relates a Chicago exchange.

Gratefully the old negro departed, promising to return in a week and report his condition.

The end of the specified time brought "Uncle" Cato back to the doctor's office, looking almost pale in the ashiness of his chocolate complexion.

"Well, how do you feel now, Uncle Cato?" the doctor asked.

Uncle Cato, huskily and with evident embarrassment, for he much disliked to reflect upon the professional ability of Dr. Lydston, for whom he had great respect, replied:

"Hit sorter 'pears lak, Marse Lisstun, dat dar animal food whut you done tole me to tek ain' reachin' lak hit orter."

"What have you been eating?" the doctor asked.

"Well, suh, de fac' is I tuk de cawn en oats right smart chance every day, but w'en hit come to de hay, Marse Lisstun, hit tickle me in de face, suh, ya'as suh, hit tickle me in de face, en Ah doan see how dem animals kin eat hit. Ah doan b'lieve, Marse Lisstun, dat Ah's done jestice by dat hay."

When the doctor had recovered sufficiently to hold his face straight the old ebon philosopher said:

"Ya-as suh, hit wuz ticklish, dat is er fac'."

Uncle Cato has been set on the right track. His diet has been changed from "animal food" to good every-day "grub," and the old man is looking less ashy, to say the least.

Wanted a New Phrase.

One of the men who write essays on the financial situation was trying the other day to find a new phrase to describe the dullness which has becalmed the waters of Wall street. He turned to his assistant, who was drowsily dreaming in his chair. The sleepy adviser roused himself sufficiently to suggest that the words "nothin' doin'" would most accurately and succinctly describe the condition of things when a visitor who had dropped in for a quiet chat with an armchair, and who had been awakened by the editor's question, objected:

"No," he said, "that is too long; just write 'Nix.'"—N. Y. Times.

Coincidence of Death.

A curious and fatal coincidence occurred lately at Lassa-Patak, in Hungary. A woodcutter named Jassa was crushed to death under a tree, leaving his wife and children destitute. Finding no other work, the widow joined the woodcutters and was killed in exactly the same manner as her husband had been a few days previously. The superstitious population refuse to fell any more trees.—London Express.

The New Woman

Women Swimmers Serve as Official Life Guards

THIS summer Coney Island is notable for something new—the presence of two young ladies in uniform who are hired to serve as life savers during the season. The two girls are Miss May Raymond and Miss Sally Dunne. They wear pretty blue uniforms with the Red Cross badge upon the left sleeve. Miss Raymond has been a swimmer ever since she was a child. Her family lived at Far Rockaway, one of the noted bathing beaches near New York, and there the girl swam, summer after summer, till her friends used to ask her if she wasn't webfooted. Once she swam five miles without stopping. Miss Raymond holds two long distance racing records. These girls are the first women life savers employed at any of the New York beaches, but Miss Dunne has served in that capacity already at Revere Beach, near Boston. While there she saved several lives. She asserts that her one talent is to be useful in the water, where most women are helpless. Miss Raymond says she does hope to save a man from drowning, as she never expects to be able to save one any other way. The young ladies are employed by the proprietors of one of the largest of the Coney Island beach shows. Their entertainment is much patronized by women and children. It is women and children who usually drown, if anybody does, and among these the work of Misses Dunne and Raymond chiefly lies. Women are often foolishly timid about going into the water, and in consequence their children may not go in. The life saving girls take charge of whole flocks of little ones in the bracing, electric salt water, while their mothers sit on the beach and watch the youngsters having fun. The two young ladies are entirely fearless in the water and splendidly strong and skillful. There is something glorious in knowing how to swim, anyhow.

That gifted American woman, Mrs. T. P. O'Connor, has become editor of the London Chic. Mrs. O'Connor has done more than anybody else to build up her husband's paper, M. A. P. She was a successful actress when T. P. O'Connor, then in America as a newspaper writer, met her in Washington. Mrs. O'Connor is one of the most brilliant and popular of the London literary social set.

The only members of the feminine sex who enjoy personal liberty are old maids and widows without children.

Crime, disease and poverty, these three, must be abolished, and they will be abolished as the race evolves from barbarism into civilization. Do not let us make the mistake of believing we are already civilized. Statistics show that of 1,000 persons only one dies a natural death—that is, from old age. Disease or accident cuts off all the other 999 before their time. This is an appalling waste of human life. Science, intelligence and human will power must combine to stop the waste and stamp out all disease. It is not natural; it is criminal. We can do much to keep ourselves in good health by making up our minds we are going to keep well and sticking to it.

The next meeting of the National American Woman Suffrage association will be in Portland, Ore.

When a woman is too stupid to shine in public life or in society she usually tells people that the home and the domestic circle are woman's true sphere, out of which none of the sex should ever step. That is how the stupid woman excuses her stupidity. But she is awfully tiresome, all the same.

Sometimes it seems a pity the human race ever learned to talk.

Here is an observation from the Hayfield Mower, especially commended to those ladies whose time is chiefly occupied in wrestling with what they shall wear: "If clothes made the man the tailor would be the greatest work of creation."

I am more than ever persuaded of what I have always believed, that the happiest mortal existence is that led by refined, well to do farm people.

Have you noted that while the Republican national convention had four women as alternate delegates, one of whom actually voted in the absence of her principal, not one woman was appointed even as alternate to the Democratic national convention from any of the four full suffrage states? There is a call for our Democratic friends to rise and explain this fact.

If we only knew it, the people whom we ridicule most bitterly are oftentimes far wiser than we are.

Always make your statements exactly accurate, but if constitutionally unable to do that, remember that understatement is better than overstatement.

MOTOR CAR HELD UP

Tourist Party Robbed Near Willow Grove, Pa.

HIGHWAYMAN RODE MOTOR CYCLE

New York Autoists Lost a Thousand Dollars and Their Jewelry—The Outlaw Disabled Their Machine to Stop Pursuit.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—A. C. Hall of New York, with a party in an automobile, while en route on old York road late in the evening was held up at the point of a pistol and robbed by a daring highwayman who rode a motor cycle. The highwayman secured $1,000 in money and jewelry and made his escape, leaving no possible clew. In the automobile with Mr. Hall were Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Arthur L. Jackson and Mrs. Thomas C. Walton.

They were on their way to the Delaware Water Gap. Stranded in the dark, lonely highway, the quartet were compelled to walk two miles to a tollgate. Rousing the keeper, they were driven to Doylestown. The automobile, which had been rendered useless by a command of the robber, was left in the roadway.

Mr. Hall and his party left Philadelphia at 4:30 o'clock for the Delaware Water Gap. They had just come up from Atlantic City. Arriving at Willow Grove, the party took supper in the Casino at the park there and stayed until 9 p. m., listening to the music of the band. Leaving Willow Grove in the big red double cylinder touring car, the party started for Easton by way of Doylestown.

All went well until a heavy grade four and a half miles from Willow Grove was reached. Mr. Hall slowed up to take the steep hill. As he neared the crossroads at the summit he heard the toot of an auto horn and thought another machine was approaching. Then in the light of his own headlight Mr. Hall discerned a motor cyclist fifty feet away. He rode up to the automobile and pulling out a pistol called:

"Get out of that machine — quick—hurry now!"

"Why, what do you mean!" gasped the astonished Mr. Hall.

"I mean just what I say, and be quick," replied the highwayman.

At that Mr. Hall got down to the ground, assisting the frightened women to alight after him. The highwayman then searched all four, taking Mr. Hall's money and the jewels from the women. He then commanded Mr. Hall to empty his gasoline tank into the road, disconnect his batteries and let the air out of his tires. This the helpless Mr. Hall did while the desperado held his gun poised at his head.

Senator Bailey at Rosemount.

ESOPUS, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Almost all of Judge Parker's visitors at Rosemount were from south of Mason and Dixon's line. United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas was one of the first to arrive. He was accompanied by Mrs. Bailey and their son and left Rosemount with expressions of the most cordial admiration for Judge Parker and of hopefulness as to the outcome of the campaign. Governor A. J. Montague of Virginia came down from Lake George, where for several days he has been visiting George Foster Peabody, the newly appointed treasurer of the national committee. National Committeeman H. D. Clayton, Colonel E. L. Russell, with his daughter, and H. Hatcher of Alabama constituted the remainder of the southern delegation.

Cooper Has Given Up Hope.

ARCADIA, Fla., Aug. 5.—After desperate efforts to save his life Isaiah E. Cooper will be hanged here today for the murder of City Marshal Bowman of Punta Gorda, Jan. 22, 1903. Attorneys have done everything in their power to save Cooper's neck, one going to such length that he was disbarred and forced to leave the state. Strong pressure is still being brought to bear on the pardoning board, and some of Cooper's friends hope for a reprieve at the eleventh hour. Cooper proclaims his innocence, but has given up hope.

Racing at Hudson River Park.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 5.—There was a poor show for favorites in the meeting at the Hudson River Driving park. Hetty G. in the 2:05 pace was the only favorite that won. Texas, strong favorite for the 2:25 trot, was distanced in the first heat through breaking. Delijah, favorite for the 2:17 pace, got only third money after winning the first heat and was nearly distanced in the second. Dariel paced an exhibition mile in 2:03¼, failing to break the track record of 2:02½.

Are Champions of the World.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 5.—At the state firemen's tournament at Spencer, this state, the world's record in grab reel races of 100 yards, in twenty seconds, was lowered one second by Spencer, which now gives her the championship of the world. This team will enter the international contests at St. Louis on the 25th inst.

Ames Will Run For Congress.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 5.—Dr. A. A. Ames, former mayor of Minneapolis and convicted in the district court here of accepting a bribe, the case having been sent back for a new trial on appeal, filed notice of his intention to run for congress on the Republican ticket.

Populist Notifications.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The Populist committee has decided to have the nominees of their party for president and vice president notified at Cooper Union, this city, on Aug. 18.

RIOT AT PORT AU PRINCE.

American Minister's Action Stopped Disorder and Mob Violence.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Aug. 5.—The city of Port au Prince is in a state of great disorder. Bands of soldiers throwing stones prevent the Syrian traders from reopening their stores. American citizens have hoisted the stars and stripes over their residences, and a number of them have sought refuge in the American legation, driving there in carriages flying the American flag and pursued by the populace throwing stones.

Hearing of the disorders, Mr. Powell, the American minister, went to the palace and demanded of President Nord that the government should take immediate action to stop the disorders and to protect all foreigners and their property, demanding especially that American interests be protected.

The president sent for the minister of the interior and the military governor and ordered them to take immediate steps to stop the disorders and for this purpose to send troops and police to the disturbed districts.

President Nord assured Minister Powell that the lives and property of foreigners would be protected and said he would see that their business did not suffer damage.

After the interview at the palace Minister Powell, Alexander Battiste, the American deputy consul, and General Carrie, the military governor, visited the disturbed districts and personally saw that protection was given to the houses of foreigners.

The energetic and prompt action of Minister Powell has no doubt saved not only the property, but the lives of foreigners and prevented greater disturbances.

Owing to the energetic remonstrances of Mr. Powell the government has decided to take strong measures to protect the peaceable inhabitants, and patrols of police have been sent to protect the Syrian stores.

HAWAIIAN COLONY A FAILURE.

Governor Carter Says the Islands Are Poor Under Annexation.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 5.—In an interview here Governor G. C. Carter of the Hawaiian Islands said:

"The annexation of the islands to the United States has not been a commercial success so far as the islands are concerned. Since we have been United States territory we have not made great progress. One reason for this is because the laws by which we are governed are not suited to the country. For instance, we have to obey the United States land laws and cannot rent government land for a period of for more than five years at a time.

"As it takes from two to four years to raise a crop in our climate, we cannot find anybody that will rent land for such a short period as five years. Thus we are deprived of a big income from government lands.

"Since we have been annexed congress has never dredged our harbor. It is filling up and thus prevents the landing of the largest vessels.

"As a result of this our traffic is falling off. We have dredged the harbor at our own expense since we have been annexed, but unless it is dredged again we will lose much of our traffic.

"Annexation has cut off all our internal revenue. On the other hand, from Uncle Sam's point of view annexation has been a decided success. Over $6,250,000 has been paid into the United States treasury from the islands. The whole cost of annexation was only $4,000."

White Supremacy Kept Out.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 5.—The Democratic state convention has nominated State Senator John Cornwell for governor and indorsed Colonel John T. McGraw for United States senator to succeed Nathan B. Scott. The proceedings throughout appeared to be in accordance with the wishes of Henry G. Davis, the Democratic candidate for vice president. There is no question about the convention being almost unanimously in favor of the "white supremacy" proposition, and yet at the request of Mr. Davis it was kept out of the platform.

Ask Welcome For Redmond.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The Irish parliamentary party met here and renewed the expression of confidence in its leader, John Redmond. A resolution was passed approving Mr. Redmond's forthcoming visit to the United States and bespeaking for him and his colleagues "a warm and generous welcome as the duly accredited envoys of United Ireland to the organized forces of our race in the United States."

Train Robber Suspect Held.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5.—The man arrested as one of the Chicago train robber suspects here gave the name of John Duff. He is held because he displayed a gold watch and chain and a gold ring, set with a cameo, and hinted that he could tell something about where he got them that would be interesting.

Duchess of Marlborough's Condition.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The following bulletin has been issued at Blenheim castle: "The Duchess of Marlborough, who was thrown from her horse Monday evening last in Blenheim park and was considerably bruised and shaken, is not progressing favorably and has still to keep very quiet."

Fatal Wreck at Royersville.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Aug. 5.—Brakeman Baer has been killed, Conductor Martin probably fatally injured, and several passengers badly hurt by the derailing of a passenger coach on the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railroad at Royersville, near Ironton.

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,

14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

A FAKE COMPANY.

Official of the North American Trust Arrested at Boston.

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—John Marshall Barry and Francis C. Webster, officials of an organization known as the North American Trust, were arrested here by United States officers on a charge of conspiring to defraud the public. They are also accused of conducting a business in violation of the antilottery laws. The concern has branch offices in New Bedford, Lowell, Providence, Portland, Fall River and other cities. A warrant has also been issued for the arrest of a third official who has not been found.

In June the state authorities instituted proceedings against the concern, and the supreme court appointed Burton P. Gray as receiver for the money on hand.

Recently the United States authorities investigated the concern, with the result that its mail matter was held up. The company has been in operation about eight months, during which time about 600 persons have become members, they having paid a small fee for the privilege of purchasing homes and furniture on easy terms. The United States officials claim that the business is a lottery and is also fraudulent.

HANGED IN PATERSON.

John Lyons, Convicted of Murder, Paid Death Penalty.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 5.—John Lyons, convicted of the murder of John Christian, watchman in a silk mill, three years ago, has paid the death penalty in the Passaic county jail. The extraordinary efforts made by his lawyers to save him from the gallows were of no avail.

The lawyers had all the necessary papers prepared to serve notice on the sheriff of an appeal to the United States court, which would have acted as a stay in case Judge Pitney took any action on the application made to him.

Lyons left the following note addressed to Sheriff Bergen: "I trust you will forgive me for writing you these few lines, Sheriff, I don't know how to thank you for your kindness to me since I have been in your charge, and I wish you every success in your undertakings."

Strikers Attack Employees.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Aug. 5.—Manhave complained to the police of sevhave complained to the police of several attacks upon employees. Manager R. E. Conway of Armour & Co. reported that some of his men were attacked while changing cars at St. Clair avenue and the Vandalia tracks by a crowd of 200 men. Mr. Conway says that twelve men were beaten, one so severely that he was unable to return to work. Other cases reported from the Swift and Nelson-Morris plants were less serious.

Boatload of Tourists Drowned.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 5.—A special from Digby, N. S., says that a sailboat containing eight or ten American tourists capsized and sank off Smith's cove, near Digby, last night, and that all on board were drowned. Tugs and boats with grapplings and doctors have left Digby for the scene of the accident.

KUROPATKIN AT BAY

Russian Army Surrounded by Masses of Victorious Japs.

IN THE LAST DITCH AT PORT ARTHUR

Victors Occupy Haicheng and Newchwang, With Oyama in Supreme Command—Russia Lost a Thousand Men and Six Guns.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Advices from Newchwang say that General Kuroki, with 100,000 men, is now behind the Russian forces; General Oku, with an army of 50,000 men, is on their front, while flanking them on the left is General Nodzu, with his division of 50,000 men.

If General Kuropatkin is defeated in this battle he must either move westward or surrender.

The foreign military attaches are with the second army en route for the front to witness the battle.

Japanese troop ships are expected here with re-enforcements for General Kuroki.

The Russian troops at Port Arthur have been driven back to the last line of their defenses. The Japanese attacking force has 350 guns in action.

General Oku has reported to Tokyo that the enemy is retreating continually.

The Japanese army has occupied Haicheng and Newchwang, situated thirty miles northeast of the open port of the same name.

A dispatch from Anshanshan, half way between Haicheng and Liaoyang, says that the Japanese advance is being continued with great energy against the southern army. The Russian main forces continue their retirement, but the cavalry has checked the Japanese flank movement.

General Sacharoff has reported to St. Petersburg that twenty-nine officers and over a thousand men were killed or wounded and that six guns were captured by the Japanese in the engagements at Simoucheng and Haicheng.

Tokyo reports say that Field Marshal Oyama, who has taken over command of the Japanese forces in Manchuria, and General Kodama, his chief of staff, have left Kaichow and established headquarters in the field with the army.

General Yuen, the Chinese commander in Manchuria, who has his headquarters in Mukden, has sent dispatches to his officers in charge of the Chinese troops west of the Liao rivet instructing them to prevent the Russians, in the least offensive manner possible, from violating the neutrality of Chinese territory by crossing the river, in case they should be driven back by the Japanese from their present positions.

General Kuroki's right is within twenty miles of Liaoyang on the northeast. His advance guard is in action with the Russians daily.

It is reported that 20,000 Japanese troops have landed at Yinkow, the port of Newchwang, and are advancing rapidly in the direction of Liaoyang.

Marching from Yinkow, they would take the Russians on the right flank.

The suggestion that General Kuropatkin may relinquish the idea of seriously defending even Liaoyang, where enormous stores have accumulated, receives support from the latest reports, which say that a large number of troops have evacuated Liaoyang and are retiring on Mukden.

A rumor is current at St. Petersburg that a great battle is in progress north of Haicheng.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

Sebring, the crack fielder, has jumped his contract with the Pittsburg National League team, and is now at his own in Scranton, Pa. He says he intends playing independent ball.

"Jack" Auten, of the Hotel Kensington, one of the baseball fans, predicts that Westfield will win tomorrow's contest with Alis. He announced this morning that it was the result of a dream he had last night.

Malay, who for two seasons played with the Scotch Plains ball team, at the close of his season in the A. J. & G. League in New York State, has jumped his team and is now on the blacklist. It is supposed he will play independent ball.

The deciding baseball contest between the teams from the New Jersey Central of Jersey City and Philadelphia, will be played at Eastern League grounds, Bayonne, some time this month. Each team has a victory to its credit and the next game will decide the championship. The grounds were selected by the Jersey City captain winning the toss.

Egner, the twirler for the Trenton Y. M. C. A. team, has many friends in this city, and these comments about him will be of interest: "Shut out Westfield and Central Islip and beat Hoboken all in six days. Pretty fair record for a pitcher. * * * Egner was offered $50 and expenses to pitch Saturday for Westfield against Plainfield, but had to refuse. Westfield knew Egner, for he has shut out that team twice. * * * Egner has a flattering offer to pitch for the Providence team of the Eastern League. He will not accept. * * * With three men on base in the second inning Egner struck out the side.

When not playing for the Alis Club, few persons know the occupation of the members composing the team. They are all pretty busy men, but find time to play the National game and thus get needed exercise. Captain Fred Smith, the first baseman, is one of the city surveyors in New York. "Pop" Dietrich, center-fielder, lives in New York and is an expert diamond cutter. Cusick, second baseman, and Bassford, right-fielder, both hold clerical jobs in New York, as does also "Al." Farmer, the catcher. "Pete" Cregan, left-fielder, has an excellent position at Fleischmann's yeast plant at Peekskill, N. Y. "Kid" Walton, short-stop, is a machinist, having just completed his time.

The Somerset Messenger says "that Manager Cawley, of the West Ends, should at once secure a series of games with that over-rated nine, Alis, of Plainfield, and thereby revive the rivalry between the "Crescent City" and Somerville that was evidenced in the olden times, when the Crescents and the West Ends battled for supremacy. With Montross in the box the West Ends need have no fear of the Alis." If the Somerville baseball man will recall the "olden times" he will remember that the Crescents "trimmed" the West Ends "good and proper," and as for the present overrated team, it would not be necessary to arrange a series. One contest would be the proof of the pudding.

BALL PLAYERS WHEREABOUTS

WHERE SOME OLD FAVORITES ARE TO BE FOUND.

During the past two years many ball players, of more or less prominence, have been identified with teams in this city and vicinity, and the fans will, no doubt, be interested to know where they are playing at present. A number of them have been members of the Alis Club team, last season and this, and those who follow the sport can easily pick them out.

Myers, third base and left field for Maujer A. C., and Parkville, N. Y.; Westlake, catcher for Paterson; Kavanaugh, short-stop for Central Islip; Worthley, third base for Visitation Lyceum and Brighton A. C.; Hemminger, left field for Long Island A. C., and Original Empires, of Brooklyn; Gastmeyer, left field for Far Rockaway, Long Island League; Dove, catcher for Marquettes, of Brooklyn; Skeggs, right field for Brighton A. C.; Goldberg, center field for Amsterdams; Flannery, center field and Brogan, catcher for St. Michael's C. C., of Brooklyn; Seaman, left field for Brighton A. C., and Ontario Field Club, of Brooklyn; Jones, short-stop for St. Michael's C. C., of Brooklyn; Hollywood, catcher for All-Hoboken; Speer, pitcher for Paterson; Samuel Hope, right field and pitcher; J. Hope, catcher for Central Islip; Battam, short-stop and pitcher for Visitation Lyceum, of Brooklyn.

Ghormley, catcher for the St. John's, of Jersey City; Reilly, third base for Pacific A. C., of Brooklyn; Jacklitsch, catcher for Woodhaven, of Jamaica, L. I.; Freedburg, catcher for Summit A. C.; Hartman, left field for Mt. Loresto, N. Y., Ontario Field Club and Roselle; Hopper, pitcher and center field for Summit A. C., Brown, second base for Englewood Field Club; Hoffner, right field for Perth Amboy and Irvington A. C.; Supple, third base for Atlantic Highlands; Ameli, first base for Red Bank; E. P. TO PROTECT HIS ESTATE

PROCEEDINGS AGAINST WILLIAM A. WHEELER BEFORE COMMISSIONERS.

To have him declared an habitual drunkard in order to protect his estate, William A. Wheeler, of East Seventh street, was arraigned before a jury in the city court, this morning. The proceedings were viewed by Dr. O. B. Fufburrow and William A. Coddington, Esq., who sat as commissioners appointed by the Court of Chancery. Many witnesses were examined and the jury after a brief deliberation returned with a verdict of "habitual drunkenness."

Wheeler was formerly a stationer with a large business in New York city but through excessive indulgence in intoxicants he became incompetent to manage it or to take care of his estate. Two months ago he was sent to the State Hospital at Morris Plains but according to law he still had charge of his estate. By having him declared a drunkard proceedings can be taken to have it placed in the care of others and this will now be done.

The members of the jury were the following: Floyd T. Woodhull, John J. Kenney, James F. Buckle, J. F. MacDonald, James O. Pope, U. B. Crane, D. W. Tittell, Cornelius van Herwerden, Frank H. Smith, Harry W. Marshall, Dr. Pocock and J. Hervey Doane.

HAPPENINGS OF THE LOCAL FRATERNAL ORDERS.

Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will visit Bloomfield Lodge, Jr. O. U. A. M., on Tuesday night. The trip will be made by trolley.

Important business is to be transacted at the regular meeting of the Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., at the lodge rooms tonight.

TAKEN TO ASYLUM.

Fred M. Slater's Condition Compelled His Removal to Hospital.

Fred M. Slater, of the borough, was this morning taken to the State Hospital at Trenton after being examined by Drs. Dundon and Hughes. For several weeks he has not been in his right mind and while in that condition at times he has threatened bodily harm to members of his family. He was unusually demonstrative yesterday and it was deemed best to have him taken in charge by the authorities.

The result of the examination showed Mr. Slater's trouble to be but temporary and it is thought that rest and seclusion for a short time will fully restore him to mental and physical health. The family have the sympathy of the entire community, and it is hoped the unfortunate man will soon be all right again.

HOSPITAL NOTES.

Albert I. Littell, of North avenue, who sometime ago fell and fractured his leg, is steadily improving at the hospital. The broken bones continue to mend and Mr. Littell is now very comfortable.

No change in the condition of John Dilts, the trolley employe, who fractured his skull a few weeks ago, is noticed by those in charge of him at the hospital. He is conscious all the time, suffers but little, yet his chances for recovery are no brighter than at the time he was injured.

Borough Exempts Active.

At a special meeting of the Borough Exempt Firemen's Association last evening, the members voted to rent the lower part of the building they occupy, situated at Somerset street and Manning avenue. The pool tables will be moved into it and it will be fitted up with various conveniences. The present quarters on the second floor will be used only as parlors and for social functions. At the meeting next Tuesday, twenty applications will be acted upon.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Neuman Brothers are offering nice Jersey tomatoes at fifty cents a basket. A new lot will be on sale tomorrow morning; make early selections.

—Papers have been issued in the contract case of Browning, King & Co. against Louis I. VanAlstyne. The case is returnable before Justice V. W. Nash on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. N. Douglass Drake, Esq., represents Browning, King & Co.

—In erecting the kind of a building proposed by L. L. Manning at the corner of West Front street and Central avenue, it is necessary for him to submit his plans to the New Jersey State Tenement House Commissioner at Newark. This he will do before filing them with Building Inspector T. O. Doane.

Mr. and Mrs. Fairchild, of West Fifth street, are planning to spend their vacation in New York State.

Chairman George B. Cortelyou, of the Republican National Committee, has appointed Gov. Franklin Murphy a member of the Eastern executive committee, with headquarters in New York. This is practically the committee which will have charge of the Republican campaign on this side of the Allegheny Mountains, and the appointment to membership upon it is considered a position of much honor and responsibility.

State Treasurer Frank O. Briggs was unanimously chosen chairman of the Republican state committee at a very largely attended meeting of that body held in the rooms of the Republican club in Trenton, Tuesday afternoon. Former Senator E. C. Stokes was re-elected vice chairman, which position he has occupied for several years; J. Herbert Potts, of Hudson county, formerly of Trenton, was made secretary, and Winton C. Garrison, chief of the state labor bureau, was named as treasurer.

Robert A. Haggerty, of Jersey City, has announced himself as a candidate for the post of sergeant-at-arms of the Democratic State Committee, on its reorganization subsequent to the coming State convention. The position has been held for a number of years by Abram deA. Naar, but it is understood that a new appointment is to be made. Haggerty has had wide experience in politics, having been active in Democratic affairs for half a century. "Abe" Naar has been the Democratic State Committee's sergeant-at-arms for a quarter of a century, and he was supposed to have a life job.

Thomas Taggart, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, has announced the names of the officers of the national committee and the member of the executive committee as follows: National Committee—De Lancey Nicoll, of New York, vice chairman; George Foster Peabody, of New York, treasurer. Executive Committee—W. F. Sheehan, chairman, New York; John R. McLean, Ohio; Thomas S. Martin, United States Senator, Scottsville, Va.; Colonel J. M. Guffey, Pittsburg, Pa.; James Smith, Jr., Newark, N. J.; Timothy E. Ryan, Waukesha, Wis.

Former Senator James Smith, Jr., announced yesterday that he would accept appointment as a member of the executive committee of the Democratic National Committee. Mr. Smith said that he had received a telegram from Chairman Thomas Taggart, of the National Committee, tendering the post on the executive body. "While I did not desire the appointment," said the former Senator, "and indeed had asked that I be not appointed, I feel, inasmuch as I had been selected, that it was my duty as a Democratic to accept the honor and to do all in my power to bring about the election of Judge Parker and Mr. Davis." Newark and New Jersey Democrats generally are greatly pleased with the selection of Mr. Smith for the executive committee. They feel that the former Senator's experience in matters political will be of great assistance to his colleagues on the committee, while his selection will have an important bearing on the fight in this State in particular.

Notices have been issued by William H. Parry, secretary of the State Republican League, pursuant to the call made by President F. F. Meyer, Jr., to all the Republican clubs affiliated with the organization, to send delegates to attend the convention of the league at Asbury Park, Friday, September 2.

Governor Murphy has sent to Wm. B. Gourley, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, the formal notification required by the election law that, owing to his absence from the country, Leonord Kalisch could not qualify as a member of the Essex County Election Board, and requesting Mr. Gourley to send him the name of a man to be appointed in Mr. Kalisch's place.

The election in this State this fall will include not only the President and Vice President of the United States, a Governor, ten Congressmen and sixty members of the House of Assembly, but will include as well State Senators from the counties of Atlantic, Bergen, Cumberland, Hudson, Mercer, Morris and Ocean, and sheriffs, county clerks and surrogates, as follows: Bergen County, sheriff to succeed Charles R. Soley, Republican; Burlington County, a county clerk to succeed Charles R. Warrick, Republican; Camden County, a sheriff to succeed Herbert W. Johnson, Republican; Cape May County, a sheriff to succeed Samuel E. Ewing, Democrat; Cumberland County, a county clerk to succeed George W. Letchner, Democrat; Essex County, a surrogate to succeed Joseph W. Kilor, Republican; Hunterdon County, a surrogate to succeed Paul A. Queen, Democrat; Mercer County, a surrogate to succeed John W. Carnell, Republican; Middlesex County, a county clerk to succeed John H. Conger, Republican; Monmouth County, a county clerk to succeed Joseph McDermott, Democrat; Salem County, a county clerk to succeed S. Luther Richmond, Republican; Somerset County, a sheriff to succeed Calvin C. McMurray, Democrat; Union County, a county clerk to succeed William Howard, Republican; Warren County, a surrogate to succeed Charles L. Sharp, Democrat.

BOROUGH TAX RATE MAY DROP TEN POINTS

Agreeable Condition of Affairs Revealed in Making Up Budget for the Year.

$21,300 IS NEEDED

OTHER BUSINESS TRANSACTED BY THE COUNCILMEN.

Spencer Heirs Suit to be Fought With Expert Testimony—Vacations for Marshals and New Special Appointed.

Through the make-up of the borough tax budget at the meeting of the Council, last evening, it was made apparent that the tax rate for the municipality this year will be about ten points lower than at present. The fact was an agreeable surprise to Mayor Smalley and the members and the former called the "antis" attention to it.

Councilman Arnold announced that a total of $21,300 would be needed for the coming year's expenses, an increase of $500, and it would be divided as follows: Police, $3,000; fire, $3,000; streets, $6,000; lights, $5,000; water, $1,300; poor, $1,000; incidentals, $1,000; bonds and interest, $1,000. Mayor Smalley stated that the increase in tax valuations would be $1,500 and that an additional $1,200 would come from the non-exemption of firemen and others. While the exact tax rate was not fixed, Mayor Smalley expressed himself as being well pleased with the condition of affairs inasmuch as it bore out statements he had made earlier in the year when the paid fire department was installed.

Acting on a resolution introduced by Mr. Humble, the Council voted to engage all necessary witnesses and expert testimony needed in order to fight the proceedings instituted by the estate of H. Newton Spencer, against the borough, to recover $3,500 alleged to have been paid in excess by him when the collectorship accounts became entangled. The matter is to come up in the September term of court and the borough has determined to resist all effort at collection, claiming that no over-payment was made.

The report of Chairman VanArsdale, of the police committee, showed that thirty-four arrests had been made during July and that a total of $289 had been collected in fines. At Mr. VanArsdale's request, the regular marshals were granted a week's vacation. He also moved for the placing of a fire hydrant on Chatham street, opposite the silk mill, and it was passed with the stipulation that the mains be extended from Watchung avenue to Westervelt. The clerk was authorized to secure bids for installing a heating system in the new fire house and J. W. Klein was appointed a special marshal.

George Hummer's bill of $142, held over from the previous meeting, was ordered paid and adjournment was taken until Tuesday evening when the assessors' books will be examined as required by law.

Asbury Park Trains.

Dr. A. E. Ballard states that the negotiations tending to the stopping of Sunday trains at North Asbury Park are under way between representatives of the railroads and the Ocean Grove association. He says that there only remained a few legal matters to be considered in the agreement, and that if these points could be amicably settled by tonight trains would stop tomorrow at North Asbury Park. He stated that he had been in New York regarding the matter and that he and Senator W. H. Skirm would go there again on the same business. Dr. Ballard stated that the Sunday train question was settled and that there only remained legal detail to be considered by both sides—the railroads and the association.

Band Concert Postponed.

The postponement of the band concert last night marks the second time in nine years that Benjamin LaVere has been obliged to give up his concert because of rain. In this respect Mr. LaVere has been very fortunate. Another date for the concert scheduled for last night, will be announced soon.

Election Board Officers.

The Union County Election Board has been organized by the election of John L. Crowell, of Rahway, as chairman; J. W. Murray, of this city, secretary; S. R. Ryno, of Rahway, clerk; and Oliver Conlon, of Elizabeth, sergeant-at-arms.

LINEMAN SURVIVES A TERRIBLE ORDEAL

Michael Caffray Helpless High in the Air While Heavy Voltage Passes Through Him.

AN HEROIC RESCUE

VICTIM UNCONSCIOUS FROM HORRIBLE SUFFERINGS.

James Ellis, a Fellow Workman, Risks His Own Life to Save Caffray—His Fingers and Thumbs Badly Burned—Will Recover.

Held high in the air by a net-work of wires while hundreds of volts of electricity coursed through his body and burned his flesh to the bone, was the terrible experience through which Michael Caffray, of Watchung avenue, a Public Service lineman, passed through this morning. For several minutes his fellow-workmen looked on helplessly and it seemed impossible to save his life until the arrival of James Ellis, one of the most experienced linemen in the city. Hastily securing a rope he climbed the pole where Caffray hung and at great risk to himself, passed it about his form and over one of the cross arms. Then with the assistance of Thomas O'Gorman, of the city police patrol, who climbed to the top of a ladder, he was lowered to the ground and despite the time he had been subject to the heavy current, he soon regained consciousness. After being treated by Dr. Buchanan he was taken to his home in the police ambulance and though badly burned will recover.

Caffray had been working on top of the pole situated at Rockview avenue and Rockview Terrace and was about to descend when his head struck a wire which had been bared of insulation. It was heavily charged and the shock threw him backward only to be caught on other wires with his right hand resting on another bared spot. The successive shocks caused him to lose consciousness and he hung in this position while methods were being devised to get him down.

One of the first to witness the accident was Henry Nischwitz, of the borough. Leaving the linemen he ran to the nearest telephone and summoned the borough fire department, requesting a long ladder, the city ambulance and a doctor. All three arrived in remarkably short time and just as Ellis' plan brought Caffray down.

He was greatly weakened by the ordeal but the only injury otherwise was a deep burn across his fingers and thumbs. He was placed on the ambulance stretcher and on reaching home took to his bed, where it is believed he will be for several days.

DAMAGE BY OVERFLOWING DAM

COUNCIL TAKES ACTION AS RESULT OF DESTRUCTION OF SOMERSET STREET.

Because of the great damage occurring on upper Somerset street after the storm, yesterday afternoon, the Borough Council took up the matter last night and attributed the greater part of it to be due to Dr. J. H. Cooley's dam, maintained in Stony brook in front of his retreat.

Councilman Arnold, chairman of the street committee, declared the damage in that section would total $1,000, half of which must be borne by the borough. This section has suffered in this way many times before, he said, and it was due to the water being backed up by the Cooley dam. On a previous occasion Dr. Cooley had promised to remedy the trouble but it had never been done and so long as the dam remains the borough and property owners will suffer during heavy rains.

Mr. Arnold then introduced a resolution to the effect that the borough take legal action against Dr. Cooley to recover the amount of the damage, but he was afterward prevailed upon to withdraw it. After a lengthy discussion it was agreed to place the matter in Mr. Arnold's hand and let him confer with Dr. Cooley before proceeding further. He will submit a report at the next meeting of the Council.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Edith Blanche Clark, daughter of Mrs. C. H. Clark, of Grove street, to William McD. Coriell, of West Fifth street. The wedding will take place in the fall.

WHY COMMON COUNCIL VETOED WOOD PAVE

Result of Experiments Some Years Ago in Other Cities Influenced the Majority.

CLAIMS OF EXPERTS

AUTHORITIES HAVE DECLARED WOOD TO BE PREFERABLE.

Street Commissioner Gavett to Superintend the Work—Preliminary Work of the P. S. C.

Now that the city has decided to pave Watchung avenue, between North avenue and Second street, with brick, instead of wood, preparations will be made to commence the work early in September, or as soon after the ordinance is passed as possible. While several officials still believe that the wooden pavement is the better and that it would give the greater wear on Watchung avenue, they do not want to obstruct the improvement if the majority prefers brick.

A member of the Common Council in speaking of the decision in favor of brick, said that he was sorry that wood was turned down. He declared that considerable opposition to wood pave comes from the experience had a number of years ago, when the art of putting down that kind of pavement was not so well advanced. He cited instances in New York and Baltimore, where wooden pavement was laid alongside that of asphalt and brick and after each had had about the same amount of wear, it was found that wood stood the test much better than the other kinds.

Experts today claim that the wooden pavement is the best and that brick comes next. Inasmuch as the city's expense of putting the brick pavement down will be $200 less than with wood, there is naturally a preference for the brick. Those who favor wood say it is practically noiseless, while with brick there is considerable racket, even more than with asphalt.

As Street Commissioner Gavett thoroughly understanding the work of laying brick pavement he will undoubtedly superintend this job, thereby saving the city money. The Public Service Corporation is to stand one-half of the expense, but no work is to be done until the company deposits $1,100 with the city treasurer. This will be done at the proper time as the people are as anxious to have the improvement made as are city officials.

In the meantime while the city is waiting for the time to adopt the ordinance on the last reading, some preliminary work will be done. The trolley company has secured permission to change the rails on Watchung avenue and this work will be done within a short time. The company wants to put in a heavier rail and before the permanent pavement is laid will have a good opportunity to do so.

According to those who know something of this kind of work, it will not take long to lay the brick pavement and there is no doubt but what it can be done before frost comes. If that pavement gives satisfaction, there is reason to believe that other streets may be similarly improved. Once a start is made in this direction toward a permanent pavement, the Common Council will probably continue the work in the business section of the city, at least.

Pictures of Soldier Boys.

Private William Bond, of Co. K, has finished twenty-nine photographs of scenes in camp life at Sea Girt. Among these are views of the company street, the company, and various groups of chums in their tents and on the bench. Two of the pictures were snapped just as out-numbered unfortunates were being put under the pump. In the collection is an excellent photograph of Captain William B. Martin, taken in his automobile.

Dinner-Dances.

An enjoyable attraction for the stay-at-homes has been the dinner-dances held at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, on Saturday nights during July. The feature will continue through August. Last Saturday night forty persons remained for dinner and there were over seventy-five attending the dance. The success of these affairs being assured, the house committee feels justified in continuing them for the present.

HAVOC WROUGHT BY SMALL CLOUD BURST

Thousands of Dollars Damage Results From Terrific Downpour of Rain.

BROOKS OVERFLOWING

BUILDINGS, FENCES AND TREES ARE CARRIED AWAY.

Factory Suspends Work and Railroad Train Held up—Borough Residents Among the Heavy Losers.

Succeeding a harmless shower which passed over in a few moments, the city and borough was visited yesterday afternoon, by a miniature cloudburst which caused thousands of dollars damage and left streets, farms and gardens in a state of ruin. Rain fell in blinding torrents, swelling small streams to raging torrents that leaped out of their course and tore away fences and small buildings and flooded lowlands and buildings. In the city the trolley cars were blocked, telephone and fire alarm wires were crippled and many of the streets resembled rivers. The down-pour lasted about two hours and in that time a total of 2.82 inches of rainfall was recorded. The total for the day was 3.07.

While the storm was at its height and for several hours afterward the rushing water did great damage, especially along the course of Stony brook, leading from Watchung through the borough, and Green brook from West End avenue through to Bound Brook. The banks were washed away and the foundations of several bridges were weakened. The factory of the Levering & Garrigues' Company at West Dunellen was forced to shut down as the water put out the engine fires and a passenger train on the Lehigh Valley road was held up for an hour.

Upper Somerset street was washed bare of macadam, the stones being deposited on lawns, and the damage opposite Dr. Cooley's retreat will foot up to $1,000. Dr. Cooley himself is a heavy loser, while the damage done Former Mayor Wilson's grounds at "Tunlaw" is the worst he has ever known. His fencing was torn away, shrubbery uprooted and even flagstones lifted from the walks and carried a great distance. The foundation of August Wolf's barn at Grove street and Greenbrook road was washed out and the structure tilted part way over. All the small buildings bordering Stony brook from Greenbrook road to West End avenue were carried away and hundreds of chickens were drowned. One of the heaviest losers in this respect is Charles Faber, of Rockview avenue, who lost 200 Orpington fowls, these being one of the most valuable breeds. A large hole was washed out of the bank adjoining the Rockview Terrace bridge and of the many beautiful gardens in that section but few are left.

West Front street, Grant and West End avenues and parts of South Second street near the Potter Press Works were completely submerged during the storm in some places to a depth of four feet. Near the West End avenue bridge, the street and sidewalks suffered badly and the macadam will have to be relaid. At Grant avenue and Front street the water carried sand and gravel into the railway switches and several cars were derailed. Along Cedar brook the lowlands were flooded but the damage was not heavy. At Prospect avenue and East Ninth street, a deep gully was washed in the roadway and further on near Randolph road a few fences were carried off.

Up in Watchung the ruin was widespread, nearly every resident sustaining some damage. The bridge near Demler's place was covered by eighteen inches of water and it was all but carried away. A valuable cow belonging to a farmer named Faber, in the Notch, was drowned early in the storm. The animal was grazing in a field and becoming alarmed rushed into deep water. It was carried several hundred feet along Stony brook and was dead when pulled out.

At 1:40, shortly after the start of the downpour, a single tap was recorded at fire headquarters. After this there was no communications between headquarters and the West End of the city on account of the crossing of wires. Linemen found the trouble and the necessary repairs were made, so that at 5 o'clock the entire system was in condition again.

ELIZABETH'S COUNCIL SLIGHTS FREEHOLDERS

Director J. F. Hubbard is Surprised at Discourteous Treatment in Court House Matter.

WANT MACADAM ROADS

UNION'S BOARD BORROWS $100,000 FOR CURRENT EXPENSES.

No Application Filed by Traction Company for a Franchise—Bills Amounting to $1,600 Paid.

The Union County Board of Freeholders at its monthly meeting in Elizabeth Thursday afternoon felt slighted at an alleged snub given to the board by Elizabeth's aldermen, who failed to send any communication to the freeholders relative to the action of the aldermen on Monday night in refusing the county legislators to change the line of Rahway avenue, where that thoroughfare runs along by the new county courthouse. Director J. Frank Hubbard, of this city, declared he was surprised at this discourteous treatment and could not understand why nothing official had been received from Elizabeth's aldermen. The subject was so painful that it was then dropped. The aldermen refused, by a vote of twenty to three, to approve of the plan for altering Rahway avenue, as proposed by the freeholders.

It was expected the Morris County Traction Company would apply to the Union freeholders Thursday for a franchise allowng it to lay its tracks along Morris avenue through Springfield and Union townships to the Elizabeth city line. The application, however, was not forthcoming, but it is understood will be presented at the September meeting of the board.

The freeholders resolved to borrow $100,000 in anticipation of the payment of county taxes.

It was voted to build a bridge across the Rahway River on Roselle avenue, in Roselle Park Borough, at a cost of $250; also another at Seven Bridges, in Springfield, at a cost of $1,300. A bridge will also be constructed on Stimson street, Linden, where it crosses Meadow Brook, this structure to cost $1,600.

A petition was received asking that a new macadam county road be constructed to run through portions of Westfield, Cranford, Mountainside Borough and Springfield to Summit Township line. This road, it was stated to the freeholders by Mr. Pierson, of Westfield, who appeared for the petitioners, would be about two and three-fourth miles long. He said the communication was signed by people who owned seventy-five per cent. of the property along the line of the proposed county road, and that each of the signers to the petition had set down opposite his or her name the exact number of feet of land controlled by them. The board, however, did not take very kindly to this scheme to saddle more expense on the county and unanimously voted that the document be simply received and placed on file.

After ordering bills paid aggregating $ 16,000, the board adjourned.

"Maneater" Wins Again.

"Maneater" Mullen's Nationals distributed the whitewash to the Safe Works Juniors good and plenty yesterday, the final score showing them to be fifteen runs ahead of their opponents, who had not yet begun to score. The Nationals won their own game by heavy hitting, tearing off two baggers and singles almost at will. "Maneater" was right in it with the stick, and he and Porter lined 'em out every time they came to bat. Foreman and Gray were the battery for the Safe Works while Sheller and Mullen were the puzzling pair that kept the Juniors from tallying. The game was played on the West End grounds.

NEW YORK STRIKE CLOSES LOCAL SHOP

Levering & Garrigues' Company Compelled to Shut Down Today.

140 EMPLOYES OUT

CONTRACTORS CANNOT HANDLE IRON WORK IN NEW YORK.

Company Regrets It's Action and Hopes to Resume Within a Very Short Time.

As a result of the extensive labor troubles in New York, the Levering & Garrigues' Company, manufacturers of structural iron, was forced to close their plant today for an indefinite time. As much as the company regrets to shut down, it is the only course left, but it is hoped that work can be resumed before long. There are 140 mechanics affected by the company's action.

The company has been engaged in filling contracts for New York concerns, and as the men in the city are on a strike, it is impossible for them to handle the iron, even if it is shipped. Rather than have the iron stalled on the railroad or piled up in the works, the company decided this morning to close the plant until the strike is over in New York.

A representative of the company in speaking to a reporter for The Daily Press today, said that the company regrets exceedingly its action and the plant would be started at the earliest possible time.

ELIZABETH WANTS CONVENTION

DEMOCRATS MAKE A BID FOR MEETING TO NOMINATE A CONGRESSMAN.

It was decided at the meeting of the Union County Democratic Committee, held at Elizabeth, last night, to recommend that the Congressional convention be held in Elizabeth in September, and Col. D. F. Collins, R. H. McAdams and Frederick Zior were appointed a committee to confer with representatives from Morris and Warren Counties, with a view to selecting the place of meeting. There will also be a meeting of the executive committee of the county committee, the county and Elizabeth city committees to arrange for a ratification mass meeting.

John Mooney, chairman of the county committee, presided last night, and Frederick Zior was secretary pro tem. There was a unanimous endorsement of Parker and Davis and stirring addresses were made by Former City Attorney Connolly, and Charles H. Moore, of Elizabeth, and James E. Martine, of this city. The harmony now existing among local Democrats was referred to and it was a source of gratification to learn that the Hearst and Democrats Clubs are united and will attend the outing to be held soon.

Lineup for Firemen's Game.

Captain William F. Townley, of the firemen's baseball team, has announced the men to play in the game with the Brooklyn fire fighters Monday as follows: Drew and Pool will be in charge of the curve department, the infield points in numerical order will be occupied by Daly, "Captain Bill" and his brother, while Jaegar will be at short. Larew will be in left meadow, Kesselring will gather 'em in at right, the same as he did in the last game, and to the mighty McCabe will be left the task of fielding the intervening space.

Mr. Bowen's Protest.

According to advices received by the State Department at Washington from Mr. Bowen, United States Minister at Caracas, the Venezuelan government now has before it a vigorous protest from the United States in regard to the recent seizure of the property of the New York and Bermudez Asphalt Company. Minister Bowen is a brother of Henry E. Bowen, of Watchung avenue.

SECOND PETITION FOR HIGHER LICENSE FEE

Judge Schenck's Adverse Decision Ignored by the Borough Councilmen.

VOTE IS UNANIMOUS

MAYOR SMALLEY EXPLAINS WHAT HAPPENED TO FIRST REQUEST.

Declares Lawyer Dungan Made Grave Mistake in His Argument—Did Not Seek to Punish Saloon Men.

Ignoring Judge Schenck's decision rendered against the request for a higher liquor license in North Plainfield, the Borough Council last evening, again took up the matter and passed a resolution calling for another petition, this time to the Supreme Court. The vote on it was unanimous, Councilman VanWinkle returning to his seat to cast his.

The resolution was introduced at the request of Mayor Smalley and before the vote was taken he explained why he believed it should be done. The original petition, he said, was addressed to the county court which is presided over by Judge Schenck and Judge Garretson, the latter the Supreme Court judge of the district. When the matter was argued, Garretson was absent and Judge Fort presided in his place. As he was there only for the day, he refused to cast any vote and the petition was left to the decision of Judge Schenck alone, he voting against it. The question has never yet been considered by a Supreme Court judge.

"I am in favor of a higher liquor license," said the Mayor, "and I want everybody to know that I am. When Nelson Y. Dungan, Esq., appeared before the court and argued against an increase, he declared the petition was a scheme of mine to punish the dealers for the part they had taken in the annexation fight, but he made a grave mistake in attributing it to me. The members of this Council asked for the petition and voted for it.

"I believe we should have a higher license fee because it will tend to keep the number of selling places where it is and will also keep down our expense account. Liquor places are a damage to the town; they make us maintain a large police force and besides the borough needs the money. Judge Schenck declared at the Trenton annexation hearing that North Plainfield owed Somerset County money. If the borough is in debt, why did he vote to keep us from getting money to pay up?"

Councilman Lee expressed himself as being heartily in favor of a second petition and moved that the resolution be adopted. Councilman VanWinkle asked that it be laid over in order to give the members time to consider it fully and also because he had to leave the meeting and could not vote intelligently. He was finally prevailed upon to remain and the resolution was passed.

ELIZABETH TO BE LAUNCHED

CENTRAL'S FERRYBOAT TO TAKE DIP AT WILMINGTON YARDS.

The Elizabeth is the name of a new ferryboat that has just been completed at the shipyards of the Harlan & Hollingsworth Company, Wilmington, Delaware, for the Central Railroad of New Jersey. She will be launched on Thursday next, August 11. The hour set for the launching is 11:45 o'clock.

The Elizabeth is a handsome boat which will ply between Communipaw and Liberty street. She is a sister ship to the Plainfield, recently completed at the Crescent shipyards. The Elizabeth would have been constructed in Elizabeth also but for the circumstances that arose compelling the plant to shut down temporarily.

It will be an Elizabeth day in Wilmington, or at least in that vicinity, of the Harlan & Hollingsworth plant, when the Elizabeth will be launched. Elizabeth city officials have been invited to attend the nautical fete, and a large number of local people will be present to witness the maiden plunge of the vessel.

To accommodate those who will go to Wilmington from Elizabeth General Manager Besler has arranged to place a special train at their disposal.

Mayor P. J. Ryan will attend the launching. One hundred persons in all will probaby go to Wilmington from Elizabeth on that day.

It's hard for a man to try and tell what is being offered there; but the women say the hats, bonnets, trimmings, feathers and plumes are of the finest shown in Plainfield. Go there for your summer vacation hat and you will have no trouble getting exclusive styles and trimmings.

Sunday Excursion to Mauch Chunk.

There is no more popular resort for a Sunday than Mauch Chunk, and to reach it entails a delightful rail journey, and at Mauch Chunk there is a diversity of amusements, the chief of which is a ride over the Switchback. This journey occupies more than one hour, and leads over and around the mountains with widely changing scenes at every turn. The Switchback is a gravity road, and the speed attained is close to a mile per minute. Another feature is Flagstaff, the summit of which is reached by trolley, and from its pinnacle point there is a view extending over miles and miles of beautiful country. An interesting spot close at hand is Glen Onoko, a short distance above Mauch Chunk, and, as its name implies, is a beautiful glen, with falls, cataracts, mountain paths leading to cool and delightful places. On August 14 the New Jersey Central is to run a popular excursion to Mauch Chunk from Plainfield by special train leaving at 9:20 a. m. Returning train will leave Mauch Chunk at 5:40 p. m., and the round trip will cost but $1.50. Frequent train service will be in effect between Mauch Chunk and Glen Onoko, and trains on the Switchback run every few minutes. 8 6 7 o

A HARTFORD MURDER

Ex-Police Commissioner Shot by Negro Body Servant.

A BIG MOB SHOUTS, "LYNCH HIM!"

Wildly Excited Crowd a Spectacle Never Before Seen There—Killing Was In Revenge For Discharge of Assassin.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 6.—Henry Osborne, a former police commissioner and one of the leading business men of this city, was murdered by his former negro body servant, Joseph Watson, last night. The negro was found in hiding under a bed in the basement of the Osborne home after a close search for him had been made in all sections of the city. Outside the house at the time the murderer was found were gathered fully a thousand persons, and as Watson, heavily manacled, was conducted down the steps to the police patrol wagon the air resounded with cries of "Kill him!" and "Lynch him!" from the crowd, which surged in toward the officers as if it desired to take the prisoner.

As the wagon started toward the police station the crowd, which was rapidly increasing in size, swarmed after it, a wildly demonstrative mass of humanity presenting a spectacle the like of which has never been seen here before and has hardly been duplicated under like circumstances in New England. At the police station, which is located at the junction of three streets, the scene was even more striking, for people almost fought among themselves to get a glimpse of Watson, and it was only by the greatest effort on the part of many officers that the crowd was kept from forcing its way into the guardroom itself.

Watson is only eighteen years of age and is very unprepossessing in appearance. He did not quail even when face to face with the crowd which seemed so anxious to avenge the murder. When brought into the police station he was asked several questions and without hesitancy answered them. He said he killed Mr. Osborne. "I had it in for him, and I killed him," said Watson. "I am not afraid to die, and I am satisfied now that I killed him." He then described in detail the killing, after which he was locked up and a police officer placed as a guard over him.

Mr. Osborne was deliberately killed by Watson out of revenge for being discharged as valet. He went to the Osborne house to commit the murder and not to rob, as it was first supposed. Mr. Osborne's family were at their summer cottage at Crescent Beach, near New London, but Mr. Osborne slept at home each night. Watson said that he got into the house by a key.

As Watson went upstairs he heard Mr. Osborne stirring about and met him at the bathroom door, firing one shot. Mr. Osborne, who was in his night robe, ran into his bedroom, leaving a trail of blood on the floor. The negro followed and twice more shot Mr. Osborne, both bullets taking effect.

The wounded man must have undergone terrible mental agony, as powder marks on his face and body indicate that the negro stood right over him as he fired the second and third shots. It was just at this point that the first inkling of the tragedy reached the neighbors, for with the pistol shots were heard the words "Save me." The sound of the shots and the dying words of the victim were heard by several persons on the street, and some one ran for an officer.

Sergeant Dietrich was on the street with several officers and on being informed of the suspicious noise rushed to the house and forced an entrance. Mr. Osborne was found stretched full length on the floor of the hall on the second story, a pool of blood being at his side. He was faint, but managed to say to the officer that Joe, the negro, had shot him and that there was no cause for it. Dr. E. C. King, a neighbor, had arrived, and he ordered the removal of the wounded man to the hospital, but Mr. Osborne died just after reaching that institution.

The family of Henry Osborne is among the well known families in this city, where Mr. Osborne had been prominent in social and municipal life. His death is considered a great loss to the city. He is survived by a widow, a son and a daughter, the son being employed in the office of the Dunham Hosiery company, of which Mr. Osborne was secretary.

Mr. Osborne's family have reached Hartford from Crescent Beach, where they were summering.

"Without One Dull Line"

Such has been the verdict of recognized literary critics in speaking of our new serial, entitled:

Little France

A ROMANCE OF THE DAYS WHEN THE GREAT LORD HAWKE WAS KING OF THE SEAS.

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Here is what the Art Amateur, of New York, says of the story: Mr. Brady stands at the head of contemporary writers of sea romances. This is the most picturesque and stirring tale which he has offered to the public. He has opened a fresh field in which readers will meet "the great Lord Hawke" and his picturesque environments for the first time, it is believed, in fiction. Mr. Brady has spent much time in the consideration of his theme, and his local coloring is singularly vivid. His hero, an eighteenth century American serving in the English navy, in English waters and at Quebec, passes through a series of engrossing adventures that culminate in the wonderful conflict on the Brittany coast which showed the power of the Quiberon touch. The gallant fighting on sea and land, so brilliantly sketched, is accompanied and softened by a charming love tale. As a love story alone, this romance exhibits a piquant and fascinating quality that will move the sympathies and interest of readers. As a sea romance, it shows a broader canvas and bolder touch than the author has used before. His sea fights are superb in their graphic power. "Little France" is not only delightful history, but it brings with it the genuine savor of the salt and the very breath of the waves.

The New Small Grand

is the latest art product of our manufacture. Competent judges pronounce it The Most Remarkable Grand Piano of Its Size Ever Made. It occupies but a trifle more space than the upright and supplies a need where economy of room-space must be considered, and at the same time practically possesses all the Tone-power, Sweetness, Purity and Breadth of Melodic Expression that marks the FULL GRAND.

It is unique in design and satisfies the aesthetic sense of the most exacting. It must be seen and heard to be appreciated.

WAR IN THE FAR EAST.

Fall of Port Arthur Within a Week Says Tokyo.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Advices from Tokyo state that there are five Japanese divisions before Port Arthur, part of them within three and a half miles of the fortress, and that there are altogether twenty Japanese divisions in Manchuria. The cablegram says that Tokyo is expecting the fall of Port Arthur within a week and the capitulation of General Kuropatkin on the same day.

A Constantinople dispatch says that the porte insists that Russia shall give a written declaration concerning both flag and cargo before permitting volunteer fleet vessels to traverse the Dardanelles.

General Oku has sent the following additional report concerning the recent fighting:

"Our casualties in the Simoucheng engagement reached 860, of which 194 were killed and 666 wounded. We buried with due honor about 700 of the enemy's dead. We captured six field guns, many rifles, shells and large quantities of flour, barley, ammunition, etc."

General Kuroki has reported that the Japanese casualties in the engagement of Yushulintzu and Yangtzeuling reached 946, including forty officers. The enemy's casualties are estimated at 2,000 at least. Eight officers, 149 men and two field guns were captured.

It is stated on authority that there will be no repetition of the Knight Commander and Thea incidents, as Russia has issued instructions to naval commanders not to sink neutral merchantmen with contraband on board in the future except in cases of direst necessity, but in cases of emergency to send prizes into neutral ports. "Direst necessity" may be regarded as the reservation of a right which Russia does not formally relinquish, but which it is safe to say will not again be exercised during the present war.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

R. G. Dun & Co. Report Crop Outlook Encouraging.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Labor controversies are the most serious drawbacks to recovery in business, most other important factors tending toward improvement. Despite some reduction in the yield of wheat crop prospects are most encouraging, and the loss in quantity of wheat promises to be fully offset by higher prices, so that the agricultural communities will be in position to purchase commodities freely. The course of prices was steadily downward from March 1 to July 1, but during July Dun's Index Number rose from $97,192 to $97,227. Liabilities of commercial failures in July were 48 per cent less than in the same month last year, and many industrial events suggested that the bottom point of the trade depression had been passed. Delayed orders for iron and steel products are being placed, and at woolen mills there is a notable increase in activity.

It will be some weeks before the spring wheat uncertainty is removed, and in the meantime erratic fluctuations may be anticipated. Meanwhile the results in winter wheat states are much more satisfactory than was first indicated. Receipts at primary markets for the week were 5,061,510 bushels against 3,950,951 bushels last year.

Of failures this week in the United States 79 were in the east, 54 south, 62 west and 35 in the Pacific states, and 69 report liabilities of $5,000 or more. Liabilities of commercial failures in the United States reported for July are $8,812,097 against $16,751,245 for the corresponding period last year.

Funeral of F. K. Loomis.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 6.—The funeral of F. Kent Loomis at the First Presbyterian church here was probably the largest ever held in Parkersburg. The services were simple. Rev. Dr. J. W. Francis conducted the service, assisted by Rev. Dr. S. Scolly Moore of Trinity Episcopal church. In his address Dr. Francis referred to the uncertainty of the cause of Loomis' death. He said: "We do not know whether the cause of his death is hidden in the depths of the dark blue sea or in the blackness of a man's heart."

Eight Drowned Near Digby, N. S.

DIGBY, N. S., Aug. 6.—An inquest held here into the most terrible accident in the history of Digby yachting revealed the fact that eight persons lost their lives by the foundering of the tender of the yacht Ouida near the mouth of Bear river, and resulted in a verdict that the accident was due to the overloading of a small boat. The coroner did not indicate the responsibility.

Depositors Cruelly Robbed.

DENVER, Aug. 6.—Judge Samuel L. Carpenter has charged the grand jury to investigate fully the causes of the failure of the Fidelity Savings association, which recently closed its doors owing nearly $1,000,000 to 3,000 depositors. "If reports are true, the depositors of this institution have been most cruelly robbed," said Judge Carpenter.

Convicts Took the Sewer Road.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Aug. 6.—Ira Parker and Ralph Gatewood, convicts in the Indiana reformatory, are either dead in the sewer that runs a mile from the prison into the Ohio river or have escaped. An investigation is being made. The sewer is eighteen inches in diameter. Both men are colored and were sent to prison for burglary.

Warren Drowned at Mirror Lake.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Ralph Warren of Stowe, Vt., aged nineteen, was drowned in Mirror lake, Lake Placid, while bathing. No boats were on the lake at the time to render assistance.

SULTAN MUST REPLY

Minister Leishman Pressing Turkish Government Hard.

FOR OUR RIGHTS IN OTTOMAN EMPIRE

Washington Wants Same Rights as Are Accorded Other Nations, but These Have Been Withheld. Fleet May Persuade.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Secretary Hay's return to the city from his summer home was signalized by consideration at a cabinet meeting of important matters concerning America's foreign relations. The secretary had not completed his vacation but returned to Washington at this time on account of developments in this country's relations with Turkey.

The whole question was considered by the president and his cabinet in the light of information received by cable from Minister Leishman, at Constantinople.

This government has been pressing the porte for an answer to our representations. The sultan promised an answer last Friday, but Minister Leishman did not receive it. He was put off until Thursday last.

He was promised then an answer from the sultan himself as to the rights of Americans to establish schools and other educational institutions in the Turkish empire. Such rights have been accorded other nations, but have been withheld from America.

Secretary Hay laid before the president a cablegram from Minister Leishman to the effect that he had not been able to obtain a satisfactory answer to his representations.

That this government is annoyed at the procrastination of the porte and at what seems to be a studied effort on the part of the sultan to dillydally with the American representations there is no attempt to conceal.

Secretary Hay declined, however, after he left the cabinet meeting to say what, if any, decision had been reached. Secretary Morton's replies to similar inquiries indicated the probability of important action by his department bearing upon the Turkish question.

It has been learned that the situation is regarded as sufficiently grave to warrant some change in the programme that had been formed for the movement of the United States naval vessels in the Mediterranean. While it was not decided to stop the home coming of the fleet of battleships, due at Gibraltar in a day or two, the determination was reached to have Admiral Jewell, commanding the European squadron, which has separated from the battleship squadron and is now at Villefranche, remain in that vicinity until further orders or at least not to come farther westward while the negotiations are pending.

Run on Stockyards Bank.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—A run has begun here on the Drovers' Trust and Savings bank, located at the main entrance of the stockyards. Edward Tilden, vice president of the bank, said: "As long as the depositors come they will get their money. The demand is senseless and is caused by the general excitement at the yards. At one time more than 1,500 clamoring depositors were massed about the institution, while fifty police were at work to keep the throng in order. Meantime the bank had huge piles of greenbacks and silver stacked up on the counters. The officials announced that they would keep the bank open all night if necessary. Vice President Tilden declared that the run was started by a statement made by some irresponsible person that the bank had loaned all its money to the packers for the purpose of beating the strikers.

Operators Plan Labor Peace.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 6.—At the meeting of the anthracite board of conciliation at the request of the miners the operators presented a plan for the settlement of the check weighmen and check docking boss questions, which have caused so much trouble in the upper coal fields. The operators ask that the entire controversy be submitted to Judge George Gray, the chairman of the anthracite coal strike commission, his decision to be final and binding. The miners asked for time to consider the proposition, and action was deferred until the next meeting of the board, which will be held here on Aug. 12.

Port au Prince Stores Open.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Aug. 6.—Stores have been reopened under the protection of police and without any unusual incidents. The military tribunal has condemned to death by default forty exiled persons accused of complicity in the attempted revolution, headed by General Montplaisir, which failed in January last. At Archaries the populace after looting three Syrian shops drove away 100 Syrians who have reached here stripped of everything. More trouble is feared.

Secretary Metcalf Ill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—V. H. Metcalf, secretary of commerce and labor, was taken ill with stomach trouble during the night. The services of a physician were needed, and in the morning he was said to be much better. His illness is not considered serious.

White Star Cut Steerage Rates.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The White Star line has reduced its steerage rates to $10 by all steamers. It is expected that the Cunard line will make a similar reduction.

SPORTS AND ATHLETICS

John T. Brush.

A tour of the world is in store for the New York and Chicago National league ball teams at the end of their present season. John T. Brush and James A. Hart, owners of the two teams, are making arrangements for the trip, and a large part of their itinerary has been worked out. According to plans recently announced the two clubs will travel together and play games at all of the large cities visited, which will include cities of Australia and Europe and possibly Asia. The start will be made from Chicago about October 10. From here the teams will travel west. Stops may be made at Kansas City, Omaha and Denver, but San Francisco will be the western goal. From San Francisco the teams will go to Honolulu, and then to Australia. The direct route of travel after the stop in Australia has not been determined, but it is probable that before they return the cubs and giants will have played in almost every European city of any consequence and in some parts of Africa and Asia. Ten men from each team will comprise the list of players. In addition to these McGraw, Selee, Brush, Hart and several baseball officials will make the journey. Most of the men are enthusiastic over the plans, as the trip will offer them an excellent opportunity to "see the world." It is said that there are a few of the players who do not particularly favor the jaunt. These are the married members of the teams who do not wish to be away from their families for so long a time. The only objection from the fans is that the trip would be likely to make the ball tossers grow stale as a result of too much playing. Six months' steady work on the diamond, it is believed, is about all that a player can stand without losing some of the color of the game. Selee believes there is no danger of staleness, as the plans are not to play every day. The trip has been patterned after the successful tour that A. G. Spalding headed in 1888 to celebrate Chicago's victory in the pennant race. Those who represented Chicago on that memorable trip were A. C. Anson, Mark Sullivan, "Tommy" Burns, John Tenney, "Jimmy" Ryan, Fred Pfeffer, Tom Daly, "Bob" Petit, Eddy Williamson and Marc Baldwin. The all-American team which opposed them consisted of Ward, Manning, Wood, Earl, Crane, Healy, Carroll, Brown and Fogarty.

By his defeat of A. D. Cloutte, of the London Rowing club, at the recent Henley regatta, L. F. Scholes, of the Dan Rowing club, of Toronto, is now the holder of the diamond sculls and for the third time the trophy, which has been in competition since 1857, has been won by an outsider. E. H. Ten Eyck, of Worcester, Mass., carried it away in 1897, while the following year E. B. Howell, another American, who was attending Oxford college at the time, won. Scholes competed in the 1902 Henley, but was defeated early in the trials by Titus, another American. Scholes won the trophy in the final heat, after winning his way there through his victory over F. S. Kelley, who had won the diamond sculls two years in succession and who fought hard to make it three straight. Scholes won by a length and a quarter and created a new time record—eight minutes and 23 seconds—beating the record of B. H. Howell, of New York, in 1898 by six seconds. Scholes is 22 years of age, and first became prominent in rowing circles in 1902, when he defeated C. S. Titus on the Harlem prior to the pair leaving for Henley. This was the first year C. S. Kelly won the diamonds. At the time the English critics were unanimous in the future possibilities of Scholes, but said at that time he was rough and lacked finish. Scholes last year won the association single vase at the national regatta at Worcester, Mass., and the "doubles" with Smith. Scholes comes of a family of athletes. He and his brother, Jack Scholes, who was the amateur featherweight champion of Canada and Great Britain, are the sons of John F. Scholes, at one time champion heavyweight boxer of Canada. The father is now living in Toronto, where he keeps a hotel. L. F. Scholes for a number of years figured prominently in the rowing contests in Canada and later went to Europe and also traveled extensively throughout the United States, competing in rowing events. He is said to be a clever man in his line of sport and his peculiar style of handling the sculls and his endurance have won numerous medals for him. The father when he boxed with Mace was considered one of the best in the business. Harry Gilmore, who, when he was 16 years old, took boxing lessons from Scholes, says that the Canadian could have had the world's championship had he chosen to work harder for it. He was also a runner and jumper and won numerous contests on snow shoes with the Canadian Indians.

CANADIAN HENLEY.

Titus of New York an Easy Winner In Singles.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Aug. 6.—The Canadian Henley regatta has opened here. While many of the finishes were close, there never was much doubt in any of the events as to the ultimate winner. Constance S. Titus of New York was an easy winner in his heat of the single sculls, defeating Fred Fussel of New York by two lengths. Ammon of Buffalo was third. In the second heat Frank Greer took matters easy all the way, spurting at the finish and winning by half a length. Summaries:

Intermediate single sculls—First heat, H. S. Park, Argonauts, Toronto, first; John Coltson, Hamilton, second; E. C. Atherton, Hartford, third. Time, 8 minutes 45 seconds. Second heat, George H. Lloyd, Arlington, Mass., first; J. A. Ten Eyck, Jr., Worcester, Mass., second; J. W. McAllister, Hamilton, third. Time, 8 minutes 50 seconds.

Junion double scull, final—Winnipeg first, Toronto second. Time, 8 minutes 13 4-5 seconds.

Racing at Saratoga.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Six overnight events showed several good fields and some interesting racing. Green Crest, from the stable of T. R. Hitchcock, president of the local racing association, won the third, a mile selling race, by four lengths. Considerable money was taken from the ring in the fourth race, which was won by Woodford Clay's Outcome, who opened at 15 and was played down to 8 to 1. She won by a head in the last few jumps. Flying Ship's victory in the first race was by a scant head.

Noorna Won In Fluky Breeze.

MONTREAL, Aug. 6.—The Canadian yacht Noorna defeated the White Bear 5 minutes and 55 seconds in the first of the series of races for the Seawanhaka cup, sailed on Lake St. Louis between yachts representing the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht club of Montreal and the White Bear Yacht club of St. Paul, Minn. The conditions of wind were suitable to the defender, which also gained whatever advantage there was in a fluky breeze.

Favorites Won at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6.—Lady Charles, Yada, Never Such, Floral Wreath and Woodlands were the winning favorites here. Floral Wreath got the verdict by a head from Frank Bell in the feature event. Yada was given first money because Willowdene, who ran first, fouled him a hundred yards from the wire. Never Such outclassed his field, and Woodlands was much the best in his race.

Clifton Forge Won as He Willed.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—The feature event at Harlem went to Clifton Forge, who gave away weight to everything in the race and won as he pleased with a length to spare. The fight for second place was a vicious one. Brancas trailed his field all the way, but on turning into the stretch he got through on the rail and won second honors by a head from Shawana.

English Lady Champion Won.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 6.—The semifinals in the Wisconsin women's tournament were played here. Interest centered in the singles match, in which Mrs. Speck, the English champion, defeated Miss Wimer of Washington. Mrs. Speck defeated Miss Steever of Chicago. Mrs. Speck will play Miss Neely for the cup this afternoon.

Fall River Strike.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 6.—President Golden of the United Textile Workers has received a letter from President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor assuring the Fall River strikers of his hearty support. Treasurer O'Donnell has reported that Thursday's contributions to the general strike fund amounted to $255.

Dawson Wants a Warship.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Mr. Dawson, American minister to Santo Domingo, in a dispatch to the state department suggests that it would be well to have a warship at Monti Cristi for a short time. It is inferred from this cablegram that another revolutionary movement is impending.

WRECK AT WOODBURY.

Train For Cape May Ran Into Open Switch—Fourteen Hurt.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 6.—While going sixty miles an hour an express train on the West Jersey and Seashore railroad, bound for Cape May, ran into an open switch about six miles south of this city at Woodbury and was badly wrecked. A dozen passengers and several of the crew were injured, the locomotive and all of the cars except the Pullman were overturned, and the baggage car caught fire.

Richard Douth of Glassboro, the engine driver, was scalded about the head, and his condition is serious. The injuries of the passengers are said to be not serious. They were shaken up considerably and cut by flying glass and splinters.

The train consisted of the locomotive, a parlor car, baggage car and three day coaches. It was running at the rate of sixty miles an hour as it approached the station at Woodbury, where it was not scheduled to stop. A short distance from the station there is a switch leading to a siding, where freight trains are shunted to allow passenger trains to go by.

There is a signal tower here, and the engine driver says that the semaphore indicated that everything was all right. He presumed the switch was closed, and not until he got within a few yards of it did he notice that it was not. He shut off the steam and applied the brakes quickly, but the momentum of the train carried it on.

It ran on to the siding and crashed into a freight car. The baggage car was telescoped, and the other cars and the locomotive were overturned, the passengers being pinned in the wreck.

The Woodbury fire department was summoned, and other aid quickly came. The firemen put out the blaze in the baggage car.

JOINED HANDS AND DIED.

Michael Riley and Eight Little Girls Drowned at Alton, Ill.

ALTON, Ill., Aug. 6.—While bathing in the Mississippi river last night Michael Riley, his daughter and seven of the latter's little girl friends were drowned. One child who was in the party was rescued.

Riley lived near the river in the southern part of the city and was accustomed to bathe on the beach in front of his home after his return from work.

His little daughter begged to go with him, and Riley took her and eight of her girl friends to the beach with him.

When they entered the water Riley bade the children join hands, and they all waded into the river and walked along a sand bar which stretches out into the stream at that point.

They had gone some distance from shore when suddenly the whole party disappeared beneath the water, having in the darkness stepped from the sand bar into the deep channel.

Cooper Was Not Hanged.

ARCADIA, Fla., Aug. 6.—Isaiah E. Cooper was not hanged here for the murder of Marshal Bowman as scheduled. Sheriff Fielder had everything in readiness and invited citizens had gathered in the jail yard when a telegram was received from Governor Jennings revoking the death warrant, but ordering Cooper held in jail for further orders.

Attorney Ammon Held Guilty.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 6.—The court of appeals has affirmed the judgment of conviction in the case of Attorney Ammon of Franklin syndicate fame.

Judge Parker Files His Resignation at Albany.

NO LONGER CHIEF JUDGE OF APPEALS

Democratic Nominee Presides Over Special Court Session, Then Retires From His High Position. Successor May Be Cullen.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Judge Parker has resigned as chief justice of the court of appeals.

This was announced after he had conferred here with his colleagues for several hours. The announcement came as a surprise, as it was expected that the news would come from Rosemount.

The Democratic candidate arrived here about 1 o'clock and went at once to the court building. There was a long conference on pending decisions and such matters as needed immediate attention.

Judge Parker's resignation was afterward filed with the secretary of state.

The session of the court was extraordinary only in the sense of being unusual. The adjournment order in June named Oct. 5 as the day for reconvening, but provided especially that an earlier session could be called on motion of a majority of the court or of the chief justice "for consultation or for the handing down of decisions."

The resignation of Judge Parker is dated at Rosemount, Esopus, N. Y., and reads as follows:

"I hereby respectfully resign my office as chief judge of the court of appeals of the state of New York, such resignation to take effect immediately."

The filing of the resignation followed a brief session of the court, at which sixty-six decisions were handed down, and the court immediately adjourned till the third Monday in October.

The announcement that Judge Parker had resigned his position as chief justice of the court of appeals was discussed with great interest by Democratic leaders here, as it means the important place made vacant by the resignation will be filled by election. Had Judge Parker delayed his resignation until after Aug. 8 his successor would have been appointed by Governor Odell to serve until the election in 1905.

While Judge Parker's resignation was expected, few men have been considered as candidates for the chief justiceship. One of those most prominently mentioned is Judge Edgar M. Cullen of the court of appeals.

Judge Cullen is a Democrat, but he has already been indorsed for the position by the bar of Westchester county, regardless of politics.

MRS. PAGET'S INJURIES.

They Turn Out to Be More Serious Than First Thought.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The injuries sustained by Mrs. Arthur Paget, wife of Major General Paget and daughter of the late Mrs. Paran Stevens of New York, who fell down an elevator shaft at her residence Monday night, sustaining a fracture of the thigh, turn out to be even more severe than at first thought. A thorough examination by Sir Frederick Treves, surgeon in ordinary to the king, showed that the right thigh was badly fractured, that her right kneecap was smashed and that she received minor injuries of the left leg, but no internal injuries or other complications.

General Paget informed a representative of the press after the examination that his wife was in good spirits in spite of the severity of her injuries and said she would probably be obliged to remain on her back for three months.

McCarren There to Stay.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The objections which Leader Murphy of Tammany has been making to Patrick H. McCarren as chairman of the state Democratic executive committee will make no difference with the men who are managing the campaign in this state. David B. Hill, William F. Sheehan and some others have said that McCarren is there to stay, and McCarren has told his friends that he will not retire from the position he holds. Sheehan's friends make one little concession by saying that McCarren will manage the campaign "up the state," and Greater New York will be under the direction of the regular organization.

Jury Says Murder In Hays Case.

PORTAGE, Pa., Aug. 6.—The inquest was held in the case of Charles Hays, who was killed while on his way with Paymaster P. F. Campbell of the Puritan Coal company to pay the employees. After hearing a number of witnesses nothing was developed as to the identity of the highwaymen, and the jury found that Hays came to his death by gun and revolver wounds while being held up for the purpose of highway robbery by persons unknown to the jury.

Will Stay Till Parker Is President.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Thomas Taggart, chairman of the Democratic national committee, has returned to this city after a short visit to his home in Indianapolis. He expressed the belief that Indiana's electoral vote will be cast for Parker and Davis. Mr. Taggart was asked how long he expected to remain in New York this time and replied that he should remain until Judge Parker was elected president of the United States.

Senator Vest Cannot Survive.

SWEET SPRINGS, Mo., Aug. 6.—Former United States Senator George G. Vest is failing perceptibly, and it is believed he cannot survive many hours.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 6, 1904.

"Mayor Bill" Smith is not a great man. Still he "famous."

Parker may be a trust man, but the average heeler is a believer in the cash theory.

The Chronicle is read wherever it is seen.—Perth Amboy Chronicle. Wonderful!

This is the time when the Au(s)trologer comes forth with his election prediction.

You won't have to wait long now before some enterprising brewer will introduce "Potter Beer."

A history of the war between Russia and Japan will have to be classed among the works of fiction.

When Judge Parker files his letter of acceptance, it'll be up to the public to decide whether a dissenting opinion shall be given out on election day.

Former Secretary of War Daniel S. Lamont is being boomed by the New York Democrats as a candidate for governor of the Empire State. It appears to be necessary nowadays for the prospective candidate to procure a Grover Cleveland testimonial before submitting his name to a Democratic convention and Dan Lamont will have no difficulty in this respect. He would make a worthy opponent of Former Secretary of War Root, who has the endorsement of Theodore Roosevelt for the Republican nomination.

In one respect the personalities of the men in the Presidential race are exactly the reverse of their predecessors of four years ago. McKinley was inclined to be a quiet, peaceable, conservative man whose every action and bearing portrayed him to be of an executive nature. Bryan was the forceful, strenuous and quick-witted advocate. Roosevelt is the energetic debator, ever ready to enunciate in strong language whatever theory he believes. On the other hand Parker is endowed with a decided judicial turn of mind, slow, deliberate and calm.

The public generally, at least the law-abiding and progressive element, will applaud the decision of the North Plainfield Council to continue its fight for an increase in the retail and wholesale rate for liquor licenses in that borough. Either Judge Schenck does not realize the condition of affairs which prompts the boroughites in this matter, or he is guided by principles which are not to be emulated. There is every reason in the world, why the petition of North Plainfield should be granted. They have been recited time and again in these columns. What sound reason is there for Judge Schenck to refuse to heed the public clamor? If he is swayed by political motives, and we hope not, there will surely be a reckoning.

Whatever one may think of his administration, fair minded people will admit that Grover Cleveland possesses "masterly statesmanship" as the New York Herald says. It is some time now since The Sun recognized in him a man of extraordinary political acumen and statesmanlike qualities, after it had continued to abuse him from the time when its late owner is said to have been "turned down" because Mr. Cleveland would not give him an appointment for a friend who was not qualified for the office. Four years ago it was quite the fashion for newspapers generally to slur the former President, but today among the better class of mediums, including the Republican "organs" the editorial references to the Sage of Princeton are decidedly of a more elevated tone.

—A handsome sign has been placed in position just over the corner entrance to W. L. Smalley & Co.'s meat market on Park avenue and Fourth street.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Yesterday's storm was the severest which the place has experienced in several years. Even the oldest inhabitant can not remember when such an amount of rain has fallen. In spite of the violence of the story very little damage was done outside of the flooding of numerous cellars. At the Levering & Garrigues' factory the rain came in in such quantities that the men were obliged to quit work early in the afternoon. In a number of places the water backed up so that for some time continuous travel was impossible.

Herbert Richardson, of Stamford, Conn., who has been spending a month at the home of James Craig, leaves today to spend his vacation at Lake Minnewaska. He will be accompanied by Sidney Craig.

A number of improvements are contemplated at the Levering & Garrigues factory. They will include a large addition to the main structure and some changes in the side-track.

The Dunellen A. C. will line up as follows today: Giles, ss; Craig, 3b; Fletcher, 2b; Mathews, 1b; Garvey, lf; Alberts, cf; Smith, p; Hill or Graham, rf; Davis, c.

Rev. L. E. Livermore will fill the pulpit of the Presbyterian church, tomorrow, in the absence of Rev. Mr. Casselbury, who is on his vacation.

New Market fans will probably scatter to Dunellen and Plainfield today to witness their favorite sport as the Y. M. A. has no game scheduled.

It is said that the Aluminum Press Company will resume work at their factory shortly, with a larger force than ever

Lewis Churchill has returned home after spending a couple of months with an engineering party in Massachusetts.

Willie Bernard, son of David Bernard, of Front street, is recovering from a slight illness.

Mrs. A. E. Weston, of New York, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. L. B. Nelson.

All the postponed matches of the Dunellen Tennis Club will be played today.

The Logan house on Washington avenue, is rapidly nearing completion.

Percy Abbot and Stephen Kennedy are spending today at Dreamland.

Clarence D. Marlow is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

"Chic" Cruizus, who played shortstop for the local ball team for three years, has been out of the game for several weeks. When the local team disbanded "Chic" donned the Summit team's uniform. In the second game played he was injured by being piked in the arm while sliding to third base. But for this he would have joined the rest of the local team when they went to Somerville.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be as usual: Sunday-school, 9:30 p. m.; morning preaching, 10:45, the pulpit being occupied by a supply; B. Y. P. U. service, 7 p. m.; no evening preaching service. Rev. G. M. Shott will occupy the pulpit at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Plainfield.

But little is heard of the new park which was opened for the colored people several weeks ago. Either the venture is not the success that was anticipated or else the colored people are less noisy than their white brethren nearby.

The condition of Mrs. Frederick Sheelen, of Jerusalem road, who has been seriously ill for several months, remains about the same. Owing to her advanced age her condition is considered critical.

A meeting of the Township Committee will be held in the town rooms tonight. On Tuesday night the committee meets for the purpose of revising and correcting the assessor's duplicate.

The lovers of the game in town have three attractions for this afternoon: The local game, the Alis-Westfield game at Crescent Oval, and the West Ends at Somerville.

The services at the Mary Morgan Fresh Air Home at Netherwood, tomorrow afternoon, will be attended by a number of the local church workers.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Strong, of Boston, Mass., are visiting for a time at the home of Mrs. Strong's sister, Mrs. F. W. Westcott, of the borough.

The Misses Josie, May and Edith Marsh, together with Miss Marion Goodman, leave today for a week's outing at Ocean Grove.

The heavy rain of yesterday did but little damage in town with the exception of washing out the sidewalks in several places.

Roger Haskard, of Grant avenue, has been spending several days with his grandmother, Mrs. John R. Haskard.

Mrs. H. Hand, of East Sixth street, spent yesterday with her sister, Miss Hattie Coles, of East Front street.

The township tool and store house, which has been built on Forest avenue, is about ready for service.

Only about one more month then school reopens, much to the regret of the younger element in town.

Mrs. George Stillger has returned from a week's visit with relatives and friends in New York.

Rev. Warren D. Goons, of the Methodist church, has been spending the week at Asbury Park.

Mrs. Albert Darby, of North Plainfield, spent Friday with her mother, Mrs. John R. Marsh.

No band concert last night. Scotch Plains missed its usual weekly treat.

A photorgapher has located in town. Surely Scotch Plains is growing.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

At the monthly business meeting of the Township Committee the following bills were ordered to be paid: Lewis Harris, roads, $4; John W. Dens, liquors, (poor) $3; L. D. Cook & Co., small bridges, $6.14; Robert Kyle, roads, $3.70; John H. Conger, fees, $1.25; B. DeWitt Giles, fees, $44; S. L. Pyatt, roads and small bridges, $19.10; M. J. Whitford, services, $3; Garretson & Gray, stone, $100.60; Weekly Call, advertising, $15; Abram Giddes, roads, $131.10; Abram Giddes, bridges, $2.50; W. J. Nelson, salary, $250.

There are 46 polling places in this county, the material for which is distributed by the county clerk and the cost to the county for conducting the election is said to be close to $10,000.

A small fire caused by a defective chimney happened in the residence of Jesse Dayton yesterday afternoon. Little damage was done, except the burning of a mantel shelf.

The Christian Endeavor Society will conduct prayer and conference meeting at the Baptist church tomorrow at 7:30 p. m.

A deep washout in the road leading to New Market off Clinton avenue was caused by the rain yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Catharine A. Brantingham returned home yesterday after a two weeks' visit with friends in Plainfield.

—Edwin E. Bates, of Chas. E. Vail's jewelry store, is enjoying a week's vacation.

—Miss Susan Walker, who has been a teacher in Mr. Leal's school on West Front street, has accepted a position to teach for the coming year at Baltimore, Md. Miss Alice Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Thompson, of Rockview terrace, who has been an instructor in the North Plainfield High School, will succeed Miss Walker at Mr. Leal's school.

—James B. Dill, for many years general counsel of the Corporation Trust Company, of Jersey City, has severed his connection with the company. His place has not been filled. Mr. Dill is at present with his daughter touring about Maine in his automobile. His law partnership with ex-United States Attorney General John W. Griggs has also been ended. In future Mr. Dill will practice law alone.

SHOOTING IN INDIA

HUNTING BIG GAME WITH A NATIVE PRINCE.

Sport on the Preserves of H. H. the Maharajah of Rewah—Interesting Amusements of the Natives—On Elephant Back.

A tiger, a leopard, a couple of good sambur, with a possible bear, some black buck and ravine deer if I cared to go after them. This was my dream as I slowly crawled along in an East India railway "express" train in response to a hospitable invitation from H. H. the maharajah of Rewah to spend my Christmas in his preserves. At Sutna Station I found a charming rubber-tired victoria, with a fine pair of Australian horses and a smart gold-laced coachman, awaiting me; also a conveyance which reminded me of a diligence in some very out-of-the-way part of Switzerland, with a cage fixed on top of it; the former for my servants, the latter for my baggage. Relays of horses were posted every six miles, and the little afternoon's drive of 36 miles was done under the four hours.

Govinghur was my destination, and here I found an imposing camp, as the agent to the governor general for the central provinces was paying his official visit to Rewah. Christmas day was devoted to sports, which the maharajah personally conducted on horseback, and the event of the day was an elephant race. The pace at which these unwieldly-looking creatures lumbered along was considerable. They were urged by the yells and prods of the mahout, and also by men on foot with long spears. The beasts evidently quite understood what was going on, and their furious dashes at each other could hardly have escaped being classed as foul riding.

Hawking is one of the favorite amusements in Rewah, and amongst the spectators at the sports there were several with hawks on their arm. I photographed one, giving him as a companion one of the men who acted as "whipper-in" to the elephants during the race. Next day the private preserves were driven. The various passes up which game is expected to go are each commanded by a comfortable stone-built stand. The beaters on foot were over 1,000, and besides these there were a troop of Rewah cavalry and about 30 elephants. Much was expected, and my hopes rose as I heard heavy firing on my right; but nothing came my way except some "lady" sambuck, accompanied by one stag too small to shoot. I used my camera instead of my rifle. The total bag only consisted of two sambur stags. One bear was missed, and two leopards were said to have broken back, besides many sambur.

After the departure of the maharajah and the officials, I betook myself to the jungles in search of big game. One morning we were very close on a large tiger; his pugs were so fresh that the sand was falling in at the edges, but he turned into the thick jungle, where tracking was beyond my powers, and the men I had with me either could not or would not—the latter, I think—follow him up. On the way back to camp, late, when the light was failing, a curious gray thing ambled in sight, which caused considerable excitement amongst my followers. I did not know it by the name they gave it, but understood that its desruction was desired. A .577 bullet effected this, and I found it was a hyena, the first I had seen, though many a time I have been disturbed by them in camp at night. Next day they collected a curious band of men and boys, about 300 in all, aged from ten to 70, who beat large slices of the huge jungles where sambur were. One fine stag came my way.

On the way back to camp, a long shot in the dusk brought down a fairly good black buck, and next morning I struck camp and went into Rewah city.

"OBSCURE" PRESIDENTS.

It Is Hard to Pick Out Any That Were Really Such When Nominated.

Polk was the first "dark horse" to be chosen; but neither Hayes nor Benjamin Harrison can fairly be regarded as having won a nomination by any conspicuous acts of statesmanship, says the Providence Journal.

Doubtless Pierce's reputation has suffered by the disputes over slavery which did so much to wreck his administration. Yet even so he was a candidate for renomination, and received 122 votes to Buchanan's 135 votes on the first ballot in the democratic convention of 1856. His nomination four years earlier had been very well received—much better than that of his opponent Gen. Scott.

Pierce had entered politics within two years after his admission to the bar, had served in the New Hampshire legislature, had been sent to congress at the age of 29, and at 33 had been elected United States senator, being then the youngest member of that body. Resigning his seat after five years, he returned to the practice of law. But he certainly did not relapse into obscurity, for in the interval between 1842 and 1856 he had declined a nomination for governor of New Hampshire, had refused an appointment to the senate and the offer of a place in Polk's cabinet as attorney general, and had won considerable military reputation as a brigadier general in the Mexican war.

Hayes was unquestionably less well known than Pierce when he was nominated to the presidency. He had been in congress two years and he had a good war record. But at the time of his nomination he was governor of Ohio, and he was no more prominent nationally than a dozen governors of states are at any time.

Benjamin Harrison, too, was by no means one of the most eminent of public men at the time of his nomination. His name was in his favor, and the caricaturists of the day represented him as almost hidden under "grandfather's hat." He too, had seen service in the war, had been in both houses of congress, and had declined a cabinet appointment; but he had been defeated for reelection to the senate and had returned to the practice of law. He was a compromise candidate for the presidency and was chosen in the convention of 1888 after the success of Sherman or Gresham was seen to be impossible. Indeed, there are several points of comparison between Pierce and Harrison, and it would be hard to show that one was more obscure than the other.

CAPTIVE TURKEY-VULTURE.

Eminent Naturalist Narrates an Interesting Experience with the Bird.

In the Woman's Home Companion Ernest Harold Baynes writes as follows of a captive vulture:

"When the young vulture was about seven weeks old I visited its home again, and the change which had taken place in its outward appearance was remarkable. Glossy black feathers covered the large wings, and these hid from view most of the down, which still formed the covering for the rest of the body. The down upon the neck and thighs, however, was still in full view and in marked contrast to the sable wings. At this stage the bird was really very handsome in appearance, but its disposition was less beautiful than ever, as I discovered when I approached. With lowered head, and growling angrily, he waddled off into the bushes, and when I followed him he made me forget all about the beauty of his plumage by opening his mouth and disgorging the contents of his stomach, a habit common to all turkey-buzzards when they are angered or afraid. The object of it I don't know, unless it is to give a glutonous bird a chance to immediately rid himself of a load which would in many cases prevent him from flying away quickly enough to save his life. If it is for the purpose of so disgusting the enemy that the bird is left in peace, it did not answer on this occasion. Disgusted I was, but I wanted the bird to study at home, and promptly took him by one of his lifted wings. Here he had another suprise in store for me. He seized one of my fingers in his hooked bill, and with a quick turn of his head he bit out a piece before there was time even to object. I hastily cauterized the wound, and again advanced on the young bird, which was 'game' enough to satisfy any one, and came to the attack with open bill. Of course, he was not in the least dangerout but for a fledgling his grip was astonishing. However, I picked him up and took him to my home in Massachusetts, where he was tethered in the garden with a strap around one leg. His appetite was not remarkable for a young bird; still it was not bad, and Pete—for so I called him—continued to grow rapidly. He preferred carrion, and this I gave him when it was convenient. At other times he would eat all kinds of fresh meat, including fish. He did not jerk his food back into his throat as hawks do, but drew it back apparently with his tongue, which was somewhat spoon-shaped and edged with spines which pointed backward. He also drunk a good deal of water."

OOM PAUL'S UNLUCKY GEM

Remarkable History of Famous Diamond Owned by the Boer Leader.

When Kruger went to Europe he took with him a famous diamond, which was said to have brought misfortune and death to all its possessors. It had a curious history, says the Baltimore Sun.

The diamond originally belonged to Meshhesh, a Basuto chief, from whom it was extorted by T'Chaka, the Zulu king. T'Chaka's brother killed him and stole the stone. The brother came to grief, and the gem passed into the possession of a Zulu chief, who soon afterward was assassinated. The natives say that no less than 16 of the successive possessors of the diamond either were killed or driven out of the country for the sake of the gem.

The diamond was then seen by white men, who sought to possess it. A party of whites attacked the natives who had the stone in their possession and a fierce fight ensued, in which 300 lives, mostly native, were lost.

Memela, a native chief, took the gem and concealed it in a wound which he had received in the battle. Afterward Memela was caught by the Boers and set to work as a slave. Kruger, hearing his story, released him, and in gratitude Memela gave the stone to his liberator. Some years passed, and then Kruger met misfortune.

Where the fatal diamond is now is not certain, though it is certain that the ex-president of the Transvaal parted with it. Some say that it is in the coffers of the vatican, and some that it was sold to the emperor of Austria, and is now among the crown jewels of Vienna.

The stone is said to be 200 carats in weight, but is not perfect.

RAPID BRIDGE-BUILDING.

Great Spans That Have Been Constructed in Remarkably Short Time.

Wherever the demand is made, the engineer must make the face of the earth fit his purpose. In the wilds of the Andes he must throw his structure of steel across a torrential ravine from a precipice on one side to the mouth of a tunnel on the other. At distances of thousands of miles from the place of manufacture the parts of the bridge must fit like watchworks when put together in the finished structure, says Woman's Home Companion.

Five years ago the Pencoyd Bridge company of Philadelphia manufactured for the English government the famous Atbara bridge in seven spans of 150 feet each, weighing 1,500,000 pounds, in 29 working-days. The metal was shipped to Egypt, and carried more than 1,000 miles up the Nile valley into the Soudan. After arriving at its destination it was put together on its piers, ready for railway traffic within 60 days, without using any timber staging and with absolute accuracy of fit in all its parts. This bridge was imperative for the success of the plans of Lord Kitchener in the campaign that made his fame and fortune.

In 1900 the Pennsylvania Steel company built the Gokteik double-track railroad viaduct to cross a ravine in Burma. This viaduct is nearly half a mile long and 320 feet high in its highest portion, and the weight of manufactured metal was about 3,500,000 pounds. This structure was shipped from the place of manufacture just about half way around the globe, and then transported several hundred miles inland, and rapidly erected, with every bolt and rivet fitted accurately in its place.

BULLFROGS SHAKE HANDS.

Two at New York Aquarium Manifest a Sociable Disposition.

The bullfrog, as every small boy knows, commonly jumps, and jumps far, at the approach of any humankind; but there are two bullfrogs at the Aquarium, reports the New York Sun, one a big fellow that would measure extended about a foot in length, and the other not much smaller, measuring about ten inches, which, so far from jumping when approached, will permit their hands to be shaken.

As these two big bullfrogs sit, placidly, each on a rock in their tank, the man who looks after them approaches and, bending down over the tank, says to the bigger one:

"Now, will you shake hands to-day?"

And reaching down he takes the big bullfrog's right forward foot and shakes it gently, the bullfrog sitting meanwhile perfectly quiet and apparently in no wise disturbed. Perhaps it does not really understand about the hand shaking at all, but it is so tame that it permits it, anyway.

Then the man shakes hands with the other big bullfrog in like manner, this second one submitting to the handshake with the same calm gravity of demeanor that had marked the first.

It is not uncommon for fishes in captivity to become, with uniformly gentle treatment, so tame that they will feed from the hand; but tame bullfrogs are something new in New York.

EARLY FALL FASHIONS.

New Shapes of Skirts Make Larger Bustles Necessary.

The summer is over as far as the making of new garments is concerned, and all the factories are busily at work making up the things for early fall, and among them, what do you think of bustles? These are made almost necessary by the newest shapes and styles in skirts, which are to be wide and fully flounced so that much more cloth goes into them than heretofore for many seasons.

The shapes of the skirts being cut so tight and narrow made it necessary for the manufacturers to invent thin and slimsy silks and other stuffs so that even a woman in very moderate circumstances could get a new dress oftener than she could when the materials were better. Then she did not need to get them so often, for when she bought a good Cheney silk it could be transformed at least twice and still remain new. The silks for the fall season are exceedingly handsome and rich, and the American silks particularly are close, firm and fine, the plain ones being apparently devised so as to possess the closeness of taffeta, the richness of gros grain and the fruity bloom of peau de cygne, which all women know is not only beautiful but valuable for all purposes. The firm texture of our American silks makes them much more valuable than those from abroad.

The black silks, from taffeta to peau de cygne, are now being made into tailor suits, where there is much white stitching on straps, bands and all kinds of arrangements. Flounces have rows on rows of very fine white stitching.

I notice in the different places where thousands of dresses are making that ribbon is going to be one of the favorite trimmings on handsome garments. It is particularly well adapted to the flounced dresses, where they are edged by one or more rows of narrow or wide ribbon. Sashes are also "in" again for all kinds of home and evening gowns, and they make a rich showing with any costume. One fancy is to have several very narrow ruffles at the foot of the skirt, sometimes in different shades and as often in black or the actual color of the dress.

I saw a new fall walking suit recently and it was pretty and stylish enough to have special mention. The material was a very close and fine gray cravenette, the admixture of threads giving the color. The warp was white and the woof black, which was not dyed at all, as only natural black sheeps' wool was used. This gave a close pepper and salt effect and a rich luster. It was also rain proof, being thus an ideal outdoor suit. The skirt was cut so that it had a slot seam on the front breadth, and the rest of the skirt had flat plaits, each turned forward and stitched down to the knees. From there it was loose, forming an agreeable fullness. The waist had three plaits which lay forward on the shoulders, throwing the fullness into a blouse effect. There was a belt all around, but in the front, where the blouse opened, there was a white vest, the point of which came down over the belt. A lace chemisette and stock collar finished the neck.

I saw some new cheviot waists making in one big house, and they were very handsome and stylish. They were checked, plaid and striped, and all were cut on the bias, and had ornaments in the shape of handsome white pearl buttons, with loops and frogs of white corset cord. Collars to match were made separate. These or the high white lined turndown can be adopted, whichever is the most becoming. They all have the regulation sleeve with buttoned cuffs.

Pongee also will survive the advent of cold weather, when warmth will be afforded by underwear. Pongee is so very useful, can be washed in ten minutes, and does not have to be starched, only just shaken out.

I present in the illustration a black silk gown, trimmed with narrow ribbon and chenille, and a Monte Carlo coat of cream broadcloth, trimmed with application of renaissance lace and hand embroidery. These coats are much liked and will be seen in great numbers. Each will have something a little different from the others to make it individual.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

POINTS ABOUT COW MILKING

Not an Easy Task for the Inexperienced as This Youngster Soon Learned.

"Most city persons," said a millionaire amateur farmer, according to the New York Press, "labor under the impression that to milk a cow is easy. There could be no greater mistake. Milking requires a peculiar movement of the wrist, which, if not learned in one's youth, seldom is learned afterward. Some cows are more easily milked than others, but even in the case of the easy ones it has to be done in a certain way or not at all. I have known some inexperienced persons to acquire the movement after a few trials, but they found it imposed such an unnatural strain on the muscles of the wrist that they seldom essayed a second attempt.

"I had a young fellow from the city out at my place one summer who had the idea that it was as easy to get milk as it was to drink it. As a usual thing we don't let an inexperienced person try to milk a cow, for there is nothing that will dry her up quicker than to be made the subject of experiments; but this young fellow was so dead certain that he knew all about it that I took him out to the shed one evening after the cows had been stanchioned and were placidly munching their grain, and told him to go ahead and see what he could do.

"When he looked at the long line of animals, and saw them switching their tails and now and then kicking at a fly, his heart seemed to fail him.

" 'I can't sit down in here at the beginning,' he protested; 'can't we take one of them outside?'

"In order to humor him I chased an easy milker out into the yard, and then handed him a stool and a pail. He stood gazing at the cow thoughtfully.

" 'Well?' I finally asked.

" 'Well?' said he.

"He looked very unhappy. 'To tell you the truth,' he at last blurted out, 'I am—er—person of some—er—that is—delicacy, and on such short acquaintance, you know, I—I don't like to take—' He came to a dead stop.

" 'Bah!' I said.

"That apparently stung him into action, for he sat down on the stool like a man who seats himself in an electric chair. Then he closed his eyes and started in. A few seconds later he opened his eyes, and you never saw a man so bewildered. There was nothing doing. He looked up at me in piteous appeal.

" 'She—she—er—doesn't seem to have any,' he said.

"At that I laughed outright, and he got up as mad as a wet hen.

" 'Now, don't get excited,' I said, soothingly. 'Let me show you how to do it.'

"Well, after I illustrated to him how easy it was he tried it again. He toiled valiantly for ten minutes without result, and then, chancing to look up, he saw he was providing entertainment for the entire population of the farm. At that he arose, kicked the pail against the fence and hurried into the house to bathe his wrists with witch hazel."

DECREASE IN FOREIGN BORN

Births Among Aliens Fall Off 12 Per Cent.—Pacific Coast Best for Marriageable Women.

That there has been a steady decrease in the foreign born population of the United States in the last ten years is one of the interesting things shown in an abstract of the tenth census which has just been published by the department of commerce. In the ten years covered by the report the native born births increased 22 per cent., while the foreign born births increased only 12 per cent.

The actual number of English, Irish, German, and French residents of the United States has decreased in this period, while the Poles, Russians, and Italians have increased by a large per cent.

Hard times is the principal cause given for the comparative decrease in the foreign born population.

In view of the immense throngs of immigrants that settle in New York one of the surprising facts of the statistics is that the per cent. of increase of the native born in the ten years slightly exceeds the per cent. of increase of the foreign born. The showing is contrary to nearly every other populous eastern state.

The statistics show that the average number of persons to a family in the United States is 4.7.

In 1900 the percentage of married among all persons 15 years and older was 55.5 per cent., of single 36, of widowed almost eight per cent., and of divorced four-tenths of one per cent.

Judged from the statistics, the Pacific coast states are the best for marriageable women, 60 per cent. being wives, against 59 in the central west, and 54 in the east. In the matter of contrast, the Pacific coast states show the smallest percentage of married men, 45 per cent., against a general average of 55 in the east and middle west.

She Did It After All.

"I remember you once said to me that Miss Muggs would never catch any man that had a thimbleful of brains."

"I believe I did make some such remark quite a while ago."

"Of course you did—ha-ha-ha! Now that you have met her as my wife, what have you got to say, eh?"

"Why—er—I was mistaken. She caught him all right."

"You bet she did!—ha-ha-ha!—but hold on—say, confound you, what do you mean?"—Kansas City Journal.

NOT OF THE IDLE RICH.

Notable Sons of Wealthy Americans Who Do Not Fritter Away Their Time.

Not all scions of wealthy families give themselves over to the frivolities presumed to be the trade-mark of the "400," says the Atlanta Constitution.

John Jacob Astor, for instance, spends most of his spare time in studying and experimenting in electrical science. With a fortune approximating $100,000,000 he finds no time for idleness. He has developed a system of marine turbines which old engineers say are destined to be of great practical value; and while he has taken out patents on these inventions, he has declared that all the benefits of his discovery are to be freely given to the world.

Cornelius Vanderbuilt insisted upon learning the trade of locomotive building by working in the shops of the Vanderbilt railroads. He has invented a fire box which is said to have practically revolutionized the freight locomotive, and now this is being used on a number of the principal railroads of the country.

J. Pierpont Morgan's only son, who is named after him, worked for several years as a clerk in the different departments of the great Morgan banking house before he was taken into his father's office to learn the elements of higher finance. He is a serious and hard-working business man, and is now the practical head of the London house.

George Gould is looked upon as one of the best business men in America. He was given absolute control of the Gould fortune upon his father's death, and has doubled it. He is in every sense a man of affairs, and he takes no more time for loafing than his father did. Howard Gould is, like his elder brother, a serious business man not given to frivolity.

Peter Cooper Hewitt inherited a fortune from his father, Abram S. Hewitt, but he has devoted himself to the study of electrical science with magnificent results. His Cooper Hewitt mercury lamp is not only a practical but a commercial success. He is devoting himself now to the problems of electrical power transmission and to wireless telegraphy.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Harry Payne Whitney, John D. Spreckles, Clarence Mackay, George Crocker, John R. Drexel and James H. Hyde are cited as other illustrations of the way the sons of very rich Americans are fully meeting the responsibilities placed upon them. Each in his particular sphere has demonstrated that he is fully capable of holding his own place in the lists of captains of industry.

Such men are good citizens. Their careers put to shame the many feather-brained and pinheaded sons of noveau riche fathers who seem to think that idleness and frivolity are synonymous with gentility.

CORSETS FOR THE NOSE.

Form of Facial Beautifier Much in Demand in London Society at Present.

The "smart" set in society—and their followers in humble life—will do almost anything, says the London Daily News, to "improve" their personal appearance. Cutting dimples has been quite the rage for some time past, and the writer knows that "dimple cutters" in the West End have been doing quite big business during the present season. Ladies who never dreamed of having dimples before have now got what they think admirable specimens upon the face and neck. What will happen when dimples go out of fashion it is difficult to surmise, but no doubt the "beauty doctors" will be able to make the necessary repairs.

Our contemporary, the Medical Press and Circular, in its current issue deals with another of the latest novelties in this direction. It emanates—like other things of the kind—from Paris and is a "special corset for the nose." It is readily conceivable that prolonged and severe pressure for the correction of a supposed malformation may be most injurious under certain circumstances; while it is questionable if mere alteration in position would have the slightest effect in removing a "bottle" nose or in overcoming a chronic rosacca. To the practice our medical contemporary applies this sledge-hammer denunciation:

"To lower the art of surgery to the level of mere facial beautification may be sometimes undignified, but to tamper with the anatomical outlines of the human countenance is one of the most insidious forms of quackery when undertaken by unskilled hands, and for the sake of pampering a foolish vanity."

Boy Is Drowned by a Fish.

Arthur Langrige, son of a business man at Corpus Christi, Tex., was drowned in Corpus Christi, in an unusual manner. The boy, about eight years old, was seated on a wharf fishing. A violent movement showed that a large fish had attacked the bait and the boy attempted to haul it from the water. He was pulled off the wharf into nine feet of water and sank. The body was found after three hours' search. The fishing tackle was taken out into the Gulf of Mexico by whatever had attacked the bait.

Danger in Mosquitoes.

The houses of the laborers who are improving the harbor of Rio de Janeiro have been covered with screens in order to minimize the chances of nocturnal damage by mosquitoes infected with the germs of yellow fever.

Silk in Servia.

Silk cocoon cultivation is becoming one of Servia's national industries. Last year there were collected in that kingdom 345,000 pounds of silk cocoon. The government is distributing free of charge the eggs of the silk worm.

An Ideal Location

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark, 14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

GETTING AND SPENDING.

Americans as a Rule Make Considerable Money, But Do Not Hoard It.

We are glad to learn from an intelligent foreigner, Dr. Emil Reich, that we are not a dollar-grabbing people, says the Brooklyn Eagle. He has lived with us for five years, has studied our ways, and he reports to his fellow-Germans that our faults have been exaggerated. He says that while ours is a country where the most money is earned by the individual, it is also the land where the least value is attached to it. We hope that this is so. We had grown so accustomed to seeing ourselves in European cartoons as too intent on stuffing our pockets to notice where our morals were straying to that we had almost begun to believe that we needed missionaries from abroad.

The doctor is both wrong and right. A conspicuous but hardly representative element does devote itself to making money, and little more. It is not identified with anything that makes a nation better of greater. It is not active in science, scholarship, research or art; it is not useful in industry; it does not set any desirable precedents in fashion and observance; it is not religious; it is never satisfied with its material gains, but ever greedy, and never a whit ashamed of its greed, reaching after millions which it can never use as eagerly as if there were not another dollar in the world. But we have, withal, our generous millionaires, who are more generous than the rich men of any other country, and we have among the common people a respect for thrift, yet a willingness to spend that makes them different from Europeans of the same rank who take up their abode with us.

And in that tendency the doctor has reported rightly. We make more than others, but we spend both carelessly and for advantage. The American mechanic's home is brightened by pictures; well-made furniture, carpets and tableware are for his use; he has books on the shelf; has a parlor organ, or even a piano; he goes to the play once in awhile, and expects a few holidays in the summer, when he can visit some crowded seashore. The American professional man lives in his own house or comfortable apartments, and dresses and lives nearly up to his income, no matter what it is. He is never averse to receiving large fees, but he is averse to storing them away in vaults. And this easy-getting and free-spending give to us a larger view of life than can obtain among peoples who are forever counting the pennies and trying to minimize expenditures. Such people will have few of the wholesome pleasures that we enjoy, and their lives will lack range and variety. The individual who works for $10 a week and saves $9 of it is your true type of money-maker, but he is not an American.

JAP HUMBLE NO LONGER.

Since His Countrymen Have Beaten the Russians Servant Becomes Proud.

"We have a Jap servant at my house," said Berswiggle, relates the New York World, "and he's a hit. When my wife hired him he was as meek and lowly as you could ask for, but since his compatriots began to swat the bear he has lost that humility, and now is so puffed up that I can't stand for him. If Japan continues to beat Russia our Jap will finally boss us around, I imagine, if we keep him till then.

"Just to show you. The other night my wife went out into the kitchen to fix a salad for dinner, as the Jap isn't much on fancy things. The little fellow is scrupulously clean, and to keep the kitchen floor from spots generally has a newspaper spread in front of the stove and the sink.

"As my wife went in the kitchen she took a newspaper off the set tubs and threw it, spread open, on the floor, to walk on.

"He smiled as she put the paper down, but suddenly he made a dive for it and nearly tipped my wife over as he grabbed the paper from the floor and began to brush it off against his coat.

" 'Why,' said my wife, noticing with astonishment the little heathen's excitement and wondering what she had done to occasion it, 'what's the matter?'

"For reply the saffron youth exhibited the newspaper on which she had been walking, and on the first page of which was a picture of the mikado of Japan. Pointing to this picture, he said, in a voice tearful with pride:

" 'My king!'

"Then he put the paper carefully away and spread another on the floor."

Extreme of Politeness.

"The car was entirely empty, with the exception of one man, and his condition was exactly the reverse," said Miss Myra Kelly. "As I entered, he rose, made me an unsteady but magnificent bow, and said: 'Madam, pleashe be kind 'nough to asshept thish plashe.' There was nothing else for me to do, so I thanked him and sat down. And for 20 blocks that idiot hung from a strap, swaying in the breeze, with not a soul in the car but ourselves. Occasionally I have been taken for other women, but I never before had anyone think that I was a car-full."—San Francisco Argonaut.

From Paving Blocks.

An ingenious use has been found for the discarded wood blocks with which the London streets are paved. Several toy manufacturers now purchase all these blocks which are not damaged in the process of being torn up, for the purpose of making cheap toys out of them. Owing to the fact that the raw material is purchased so cheaply, the home manufacturers are in a position to undersell their foreign competitors.—Tit-Bits.

MINERS ARE TO MEET

ANNUAL GATHERING OF AMERICAN MINING CONGRESS.

Lyman A. Sisley, Editor of the Mining World, Chicago, Writes of the Interesting Programme of the Occasion.

The next annual meeting of the American Mining Congress will be held at Portland, Ore., beginning August 22 and continuing six days. At this assembly many questions of pressing interest to the mining industry in all its phases will be considered. Many gentlemen of national and international reputation will deliver addresses on national questions affecting mining and kindred interests, and those who can attend should certainly do so.

This coming session will be liberalized on a broader review of the mining industry than ever before. It is expected that every state and territory in the United States, Canada and Mexico will present reports on the geological and mineral resources, 26 of which have already taken up the work of preparing their reports, and so notified the secretary, Mr. Irwin Mahon.

HON. J. H. RICHARDS.
President American Mining Congress.

It is more than likely from the great interest that is being manifested all over the country in the coming assembly that the attendance will be very large, and that the views of the congress will be definitely crystallized into form that will prove the basis for future federal legislation. Its importance when viewed in this light can scarcely be overestimated, and the mining industry will be benefitted by its wisdom to a degree that can hardly be realized in advance.

One of the important functions of this congress will be a federal department of mines and mining, with a secretary at its head, who shall be a cabinet officer. A measure of this character, of infinite importance to the industry, can acquire momentum only through the action of a mining congress representative of the interests of the mining men generally. Through such a medium it has a political significance that will entitle it to the serious consideration of the law makers who wish to conserve the best interests of a great industrial factor of the country.

Aside from the formation of a code of laws for the approval of congress, and taking such steps as are possible toward the creation of a mining department, the forthcoming meeting promises to exercise no little influence in securing concessions of great value to the industry.

The mining industry embraces not merely mining for the precious metals, and for iron, and coal, but it also includes the production of oil and stone in all their various forms. It covers the entire union, for there is not a single state in which mining in some form is not conducted. It represents the interest, the welfare and the hopes of millions of men and women. Second only to agriculture, if even to it in real importance, mining is the corner stone of the nation's prosperity and wealth. Through the production of its iron and coal mines, the United States has become the chief manufacturer of steel and steel products in the world, and its supremacy in foreign markets would never have been achieved had it not been for the wealth which nature stored in the mines, whether of gold, silver, copper, lead, coal or iron.

IRWIN MAHON.
Secretary American Mining Congress.

To refuse to establish a department of mines and mining, when already we have one of war, of the navy, of foreign affairs, of commerce and labor, and of agriculture, is to neglect an industry which is more to this country than the maintenance of either the army or the navy, for without it we would be dependent in both those branches of public service upon foreign countries. It is more to us than our diplomatic relations, and yields first place only to the cultivation of the soil.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

If the Plainfield team wins today from Westfield it will be the first victory over the Mt. Ararat aggregation in this city.

Happy" Bligh, who umpired some of the games at Crescent Oval last season, is now serving time in Elmira Reformatory.

Donlin, the crack fielder, who was suspended by tee Cincinnati team management on a charge of intoxication, has been traded to the New York Nationals.

The remarkable improvement in the work of George Wiltse, the Somerville lad, who is pitching for the New York Nationals, is pleasing. He is now rated among the leaders and is taking his regular turn in the box.

Badgley, formerly of Alis, but now pitching for the Washington, Warren county team, received a few bumps in his last game against Bangor. The Pennsylvania boys touched him up in lively fashion through the whole contest.

"Dummy" Taylor, of the pitching staff of the New York Nationals, has taught the other members of the team the deaf and dumb language and in this way they can converse with him readily. This method of communication is also advantageous in the game for signal work.

It is quite likely that a number of the National League ball players will refuse to take the proposed around-the-world trip at the close of the season. Jack Dunn, of the New York team, voices the sentiment of many players when he says that after being away from his family more or less all summer he prefers to spend the winter at home.

Christy Mathewson, although having a little hard luck at the beginning of the season, is now showing his true worth by his masterly pitching for the New York Nationals. A strong finish is predicted for him by his many admirers. Matty is just as popular as ever with the New York fans, and in every game he pitches he gets no end of applause.

Mr. Johnston went to Trenton on Wednesday for the purpose of seeing Egner with a view to signing him for the local team, but he did not see the pitcher, according to his statement. Upon his arrival at Trenton he learned that Egner had gone to Belmar to spend several days and was therefore unable to do any business with the player. The Plainfield manager says he was much disappointed with the showing made by the Trenton. He witnessed the contest that day with the Orange A. C., the latter winning by a score of 3 to 1. He believes that the Mercer County team is vastly inferior to the local team, and thinks its remarkable showing this season must be due to the pitching of Egner, who evidently holds down the opposing team. A determined effort is being made to land a first-class twirler for the locals for the remainder of the season, but as yet nothing definite has been done.

ROD AND GUN.

F. C. Langhorne and Den. Gavin have returned from a successful fishing trip to Sewaren.

C. S. Nicholson and George Ball, of this city; H. Campbell, Stelle Manning and Mr. Eggart, of Metuchen and three New York friends, left this morning for a weeks' cruise in the vicinity of the Shrewsbury river and Raritan Bay. The time will be spent on the sloop yacht "Annie," which has been chartered by the party for the occasion. The party, several of whom have taken fishing tackle along, will embark at Perth Amboy and spend the week in fishing and sailing.

AFTER SALOONKEEPERS.

Rahway People to Compel Enforcement of Excise Laws.

The temperance people of Rahway, assisted by a number of citizens not strictly "cold waterites," have resolved to take steps toward compelling saloonmen to live more strictly up to the requirements of the excise law, as they believe that it is high time that something was done in that direction.

The law strictly forbids the selling of intoxicants to minors, and, it is claimed, that this offense is being committed daily. In addition to the above, the law under which licenses in Rahway are granted insists that on Sunday the saloon shall not only be closed, but that all shades be raised and window blinds open so that the general public shall have a clear and unobstructed view of the interior.

From what can be ascertained, hereafter all who fail to strictly observe the above rules as well as several other requirements almost equally important will be reported and action taken toward bringing about a revocation of license.

Red Men Give Up Field Day.

The discussion as to the possibilites and advisability of the big field day planned by the Indians of this county, came to conclusion last evening at the meeting of the Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men. The committee in charge of the affair decided that the meet could not be effected on the scale planned because of the necessarily great financial expenditure. Discussion followed and it was finally decided to call the meet off entirely. Accordingly the committee in charge of arrangements was dissolved. Three propositions were received.

Satisfactory Settlement.

By the decision of Justice Hezekiah Hand this morning, Miss Elizabeth Reilly, who brought action against Morris Abrams, the shoe merchant, for the recovery of a pair of shoes left there for repair, will receive $4 for the lost articles. Louis Clements, Esq., was the attorney for Miss Reilly, and William Newcorn, Esq., appeared for Abrams.

Smith Was Drunk.

Charged by John Leech, of West Third street, with being drunk and starting a fire in his barn, Frank Smith was arraigned in the city court today. He admitted being very drunk and was given a suspension of sentence on promising to leave town.

Real Estate His Benefactor.

A few years ago, a working man in one of our factories, bought a property, knowing that it was good value, but little dreaming that it would start him on the road to wealth, which it afterward proved. He recently sold his property for nearly double the amount he paid for it, he then reinvested the whole sum in other good real estate, as he considered it as safe as a bank, and knew it would yield a greater revenue than 3 per cent compound interest.

The opportunity for you too is open to make money in real estate.

We show the way to beautiful homes—properties that can be purchased so low, there's a substantial profit for you in their rapidly increasing value.

Now is the time to buy—come in and see us about it.

ORDERS FOR COMPANY K

PLAINFIELD MILITARY TO LEAVE EARLY TUESDAY MORNING.

Anxious to keep the regimental marksmanship trophy in Plainfield, the members of Company K have been doing regular practise shooting at their shortened range in the armory. Last evening sixteen men reported and the work showed big improvement, all the targets being scored to a good percentage of hits and those of several of the company having such high scores that the men feel that the chances are good for the company to retain the trophy this year. Tonight there will be further practise shooting at the armory.

The regimental marksmanship trophy, which was awarded to Company K last year for the highest qualification in the company shoot at Sea Girt, will be contested for again this season. It is a solid bronze statue of a French soldier holding his musket at charge bayonets, while underneath on the pedestal are the words "Qui Vive." The committee appointed to revise the rules governing the competition this year has agreed to award the trophy this year to the company which qualifies the largest number of marksmen during the rifle practise season. These are broader terms than those of last year, for then it was ruled that all shooting be done in the competition at the State's expense, whereas now a limit has been removed.

According to company orders made public last evening, Company K will assemble at the armory on West Front street at 7 o'clock sharp, Tuesday morning, wearing their khaki uniforms. From there they will proceed to Sea Girt on the 7:28 train to take part in the competitive shoot. No separate transportation will be allowed for any other day than the company's practise day. All boucrary members desiring to enter the contest are elegible but must pay their own transportation to Sea Girt. Co. M, of Somerville, will shoot for the trophy on the same day, Tuesday.

PLAINFIELD WHITEWASHES WESTFIELD AGAIN

The Mt. Aarat Aggregation's Second Shut Out, Score 6 to 0.

GARVIN'S FINE WORK

BROOKLYN TWIRLER STRIKES OUT TWELVE MEN.

Alis Plays an Almost Errorless Game—Waller Receives Poor Support—The Contest in Detail.

For the second time this season, Alis shut Westfield out on Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon, the score being 6 to 0. A week ago the Mt. Aarat bunch was whitewashed 3 to 0. In consequence the local fans are happy. It now begins to look as though Alis would have a peep at the county championship. The team played an almost errorless game, and gave the best support to Garvin, the pitcher. The latter had Westfield at his mercy and not a man reached second base. He struck out twelve men and allowed but one scratch hit. Barry made this, beating a bunt ball to first.

There were only three men up in each inning, except the third and ninth and then four men faced Garvin, a total of twenty-nine going to the bat for Westfield. On the other hand Waller, while pitching a good game, allowed nine safeties. It gave the supporters of Alis considerable satisfaction to see the defeat of Westfield and they cheered the home team generously.

The whole left field was submerged with water, the result of Friday's rain, and the left fielder on each team was obliged to play directly back of short-stop. Nine boys, barefooted, occupied positions in the water and looked after the few balls batted there. Only one base was allowed on a hit to the lake. The general play, with a few exceptions on the part of Westfield, was sharp.

The detailed score:

RAISING CAMPAIGN BANNERS

CEREMONIES AT ELIZABETH AND MORRISTOWN TOMORROW.

The largest campaign banner in New Jersey, if not in the United States, will be flung to the breeze at Morristown tomorrow. The banner is now being made at Laggren Brothers, in Elizabeth, and is almost completed. It is an oil painted, net banner and contains 1,200 square feet of surface, being 30 by 40 feet. It will cost almost $300.

The same firm is also working on a banner for the Union County Republican Committee. It is an oil-painted net banner, but is a little smaller than the one being made for Morristown. The committee's orders were to have as large a banner as could be swung, but the narrowness of Broad street in front of the Republican headquarters at Elizabeth, and the multiplicity of wires would not allow Union county to have as large a one as Morris.

Elizabeth's banner will contain 900 square feet, being 30 feet by 30 feet. This is a special size, the largest regular size being but 20 feet by 30.

The Elizabeth banner will be raised in the afternoon. The banner will be the handsomest ever raised in that city and will cost over $300.

R. S. SWACKHAMER DEAD

FATHER OF NORTH PLAINFIELD'S ASSEMBLYMAN PASSES AWAY.

Ruliff S. Swackhamer, one of the most prominent residents of Whitehouse, and father of Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer, passed away at his home yesterday morning, after a long illness. He was born in 1816 on the old Swackhamer homestead in that vicinity. He secured an excellent education, principally by his own efforts, and began teaching school at an early age, following this vocation at intervals for many years.

In 1853 Mr. Swackhamer received an appointment to a Government position, under President Pierce's administration, and with his family removed to New York. He was assistant to his brother, the late Conrad Swackhamer, who was the superintendent of the Custom House in New York. When Buchanan was elected President the deceased returned to Whitehouse and settled on his farm, where he has since resided.

Mr. Swackhamer held several minor offices in Hunterdon County. He was at different times Township Superintendent of Schools, Justice of the Peace and Assistant County Examiner of Schools. In 1876 he received the appointment of County Superintendent of Schools in Hunterdon and held the office for two terms. It was wholly due to his efforts that an appropriation was made to purchase Bibles for use in the public schools. He always took an active part in public life and no one in his time was better known as a speaker and debater.

A widow and nine children survive, as follows: Mrs. W. C. Williams, of Arkansas; Mrs. Emma F. DuBois, Mrs. George W. Dufford, Mrs. Alfred Emmons, Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer and Frank L. Swackhamer, of Plainfield; Judge Austin H. Swackhamer, of Woodbury and Mrs. George W. Lunger and Miss Bertha Swackhamer, of Whitehouse.

The funeral services will be held at the house tomorrow at 2:30 p. m., Rev. P. M. Doolittle, pastor of the Reformed church at North Branch, will officiate, assisted by Rev. S. D. Decker, of the M. E. church, of Whitehouse. Interment will be in Rural Hill Cemetery, Whitehouse.

THE WEST END'S VICTORIOUS

DEFEAT NEW BRUNSWICKS BY A SCORE OF 8 TO 2.

"Smiling Jimmie" Montross twirled his second game, which was also a victory, for the new team at Somerville Saturday afternoon. New Brunswick was the victim and the score was 8 to 2. Montross fanned ten, made a hit that brought in two runs, and gave no passes to first on balls. Allen and Bradley also played good ball.

John Harkins, the old-time idol of the Somerville fans, was on the bench and is manager of the New Brunswick team. His son played third base and put up almost as good a game as his "pater" did years ago, although he did not make the home runs his sire used to.

Score by innings:

West Ends	4	0	0	0	2	0	0	2	x	—8

Batteries — Montross and Allen; Bradley and Francis.

NOCTURNAL SPOONERS DISTURBED BY SHOTGUN

Judge Coddington Mistakes Them for Burglars and He Blazes Away With Weapon.

RESIDENTS AROUSED

THE ENTIRE NEIGHBORHOOD LOOKS ON WHILE COPS INVESTIGATE.

Evidence That Lovers Had Taken Possession of Porch—Made Hasty Departure When Shotgun Was Discharged.

East Second street in the vicinity of Richmond street was wrapped in slumber at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, when two reports from a shotgun rang out with startling loudness. Instantly the aspect changed and after the banging of windows had ceased and each open space was occupied by a white-robed figure, a policeman arrived on the scene to learn the cause of the racket.

Investigation led him to the home of Former Judge William H. Coddington where the genial counsellor was found pacing the floor with a double-barrelled gun grasped in his hands and on the alert to fire again if the occasion demanded. In a few hurried words he explained that burglars had been making an attempt to enter the home of William Rockwood directly next door and that he had discharged the gun to frighten them off and bring the police. The officer hurried out and with Patrolman Higgins, who had been sent from headquarters in response to a telephone call, looked over the adjoining premises.

On the porch of the Rockwood house was found two handkerchiefs and a quantity of cigarette papers, their positions indicating that the late owners had made a hasty departure. There was no evidence of any attempt having been made to enter the house and with the arrival of neighbors the mystery of the occurrence was cleared up. Instead of burglars, the intruders who had roused Judge Coddington from his beauty sleep and led to the awakening of the neighborhood, were evidently a couple of nocturnal spooners who had taken possession of the porch chairs for a quiet talk that was not quiet enough. One resident who jumped to his window the moment the shots were fired saw a man hurrying up East Second street toward Richmond, while a woman was hurrying in the opposite direction. The handkerchiefs, both dainty lace affairs which bore out his statement, were confiscated by the police and they wended their respective ways. Judge Coddington placed the shot-gun in the corner, a dozen heads withdrew while as many windows went down with a bang, and the incident closed for the night except where some unfortunate troubled with insomnia expressed himself on lovers in general and the absurdity of midnight strolls.

FIRE LADDIES PLAY BALL.

Local Team Will Meet Brooklyn Firemen This Afternoon.

Heeled by a small delegation of lusty rooters from fire headquarters, Captain Townley's firemen ball players left town on the 12:09 train this afternoon to do battle on the diamond with the champion Brooklyn firemen. The game will played at St. Alphonsis Park, in Brooklyn, and the practise the firemen have had, together with the strong team Captain Townley has planned to put in the field, ought to tend to make the game at least a closer one than when the Brooklyn boys played here two weeks ago.

The team will take the field as follows: Drew, p; Poole, c; Daly, 1b; W. F. Townley, 2b; Jaeger, ss; F. Townley, 3b; Larew, lf; McCabe, cf; Kesselring, rf.

At the conclusion of the game, the Plainfield boys will be entertained by the Brooklyn firemen and enjoy a trip to Dreamland, escorted by Captain W. F. Townley, who is spending his vacation there.

George Thatcher Leaves Vaudeville.

George Thatcher, the well known minstrel man and former Plainfielder, has signed with the "County Chairman" company for the coming season, leaving vaudeville for the first time in many years. He will play the one darky character in the play, created last year by Willis Sweatnam, and which is considered one of the most important in the cast.

Patrolman Peter Hamilton has commenced a ten days' vacation. It will be spent with relatives in Perth Amboy and other places.

NEW MARKET BOY'S TALE OF ADVENTURE

Mystery of Raymond Smith's Disappearance Cleared Up in Letter Received by Parents.

CARRIED OF BY TRAIN

LOCKED IN FREIGHT CAR AND RELEASED AT CARLISLE, PA.

Says Stranger Invited Him to Ride and They Were Made Prisoners—Well Supplied With Money When He Left.

The mysterious disappearance of Raymond Smith, the fourteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, of New Market, which has been agitating the village for a week, was cleared up by the parents of the boy receiving a letter from him Saturday. It was dated at Carlisle, Pa., and stated that he had been carried to that city on a freight train, the door of which had been locked while he was inside.

Raymond left his home week ago yesterday intending to visit a relative at Lincoln. According to the letter he stood at a crossing in Dunellen waiting for a freight train to pull out when a man on it asked where he was going and on being informed said "jump in, you can get off at the Tanks." The boy clambered into a freight car with the fellow but when the Tanks were reached the train passed on at high speed and he was unable to jump off. He rode a great distance and then fell asleep, as did the stranger, and while slumbering the door of the car was shoved to and locked. On discovering their plight they shouted when stops were made but without avail until Carlisle was reached when trainmen heard their cries and let them out.

The letter goes on to say that it was then Tuesday afternoon and that for the first time since Sunday he got something to eat. He closed by saying he would get home as soon as possible and this lends more mystery to the affair as the boy had $30 when he left. His parents believe the stranger he speaks of has gotten him under his control and has taken the money from him, otherwise he could have returned home immediately by train. Mr. Smith would have started at once for Carlisle but believing that the boy had left there, he is now anxiously awaiting his appearance.

OBTAINED GOODS FALSELY.

Strange Woman Uses Names of Prominent People.

An unprincipled woman who has been acting in the capacity of servant in several households about town, and who has been in the habit of obtaining goods at local stores under an assumed name, was cornered yesterday by Westley Messersmith, a clerk in the employ of Dudley S. Miller, the druggist.

For some time the woman had been purchasing goods of Mr. Miller and having them charged to W. W. Moore, of West Seventh street. Mr. Moore complained of the practice and yesterday when another attempt was made, Mr. Miller was on his guard and sent Messersmith to watch the offender. The young man followed her to Grant and Stelle avenues, and there met Mr. Moore.

Both men questioned the woman and as the result of the interview, she was warned that if discovered in any attempt to charge goods again she would be immediately arrested. The police were informed of the affair and a full description of the culprit was furnished. A careful watch will be kept in order to prevent a repetition of the offense.

Fraternal Visit of Juniors.

Arrangements have been completed for the trip to be made by Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., Thursday evening, when the Juniors will make a fraternal visit to Bloomfield Council at Bloomfield. The trip will be made by trolley, a special car having been chartered. The members, probably about eighty in number, will be accompanied by the New Market Band, and the car will be decorated with bunting. The start from this city will be at 7 o'clock in the evening and a late return is expected. The Somersets will attend their brothers' meeting and will be guests at a banquet and smoker to follow.

Watermelon Feast.

At the conclusion of the meeting of the North Plainfield Exempt Firemens' Association, tomorrow night, the members will enjoy a watermelon feast and a general good time.

AUTHORITIES STOP DANCING AT THE PARK

Notice Served on Management of Place Puts Quietus to Sunday Desecration.

COUNSEL CONSULTED

PROPRIETOR INCLINED TO RESENT, BUT COMMAND IS OBEYED.

Regulars May Form a Social Organization to Evade the Law—Action Due to Committeeman Nichol.

Crowds from this city and other places flocked to Galvin's Park as usual, yesterday afternoon and evening, but for the first time in many months they found little to amuse them. There was no dancing, no pool playing, and about the only thing that seemed to have life was the merry-go-round. Even this felt the depression and its usually noisy organ emitted a few muffled, mournful notes from beneath a blanket which had been wrapped about it.

The change was due to a notice served upon the management Saturday afternoon, by the Scotch Plains Township Committee, in which it was stated if the usual Sunday violations were allowed to continue, arrests would follow. It caused consternation among the park attaches and some were inclined to resent the command but better judgment prevailed. To see that the notice was obeyed to the letter, Township Clerk Edward L. Hand and Officer Guerrier went to the place yesterday afternoon.

When they reached the entranceway, the pool room was open for business, but before they were inside the gate the place was closed and presented an innocent appearance. A few of the booths on the midway from which refreshments and others things are sold, were open but their attendants did not seem overjoyed at the prospect of business. The men in charge assured the officers that dancing and pool playing would not be allowed and accordingly no action was taken.

Following the receipt of the Township's notice Saturday, the proprietor of the place consulted counsel and an effort was made to evade the law by organizing an "association." It was believed if a social club could be formed that dancing on Sunday could be conducted under its auspices and the authorities could not stop it. A paper was circulated, to which many of the "regulars" signed their names, and a meeting was called for yesterday afternoon but so far as known it was not held.

The residents of Scotch Plains and those directly near the Park are greatly elated at the authorities' action and they attribute it mainly to Township Committeeman Thomas J. Nichol, who was appealed to upon his return from a vacation. While he was away the other committeemen did not care to act and the Westfield police could do nothing as it is out of their jurisdiction.

THE THISTLE CLUB'S OUTING

SCOTCH ORGANIZATION SPENDS SATURDAY AT CHIMNEY ROCK.

Accompanied by their wives and many friends, the members of the Scotch Thistle Club journeyed in stages to Chimney Rock, Saturday afternoon, where the organization's annual picnic was held. They took possession of a small grove and while the children enjoyed swings and similar amusements, the adults engaged in athletic contests and competitive games of Scottish origin. Among them were quoit pitching, hammer throwing and pole vaulting. Late in the afternoon cloths were spread beneath the trees and dinner was served by a committee of women. The return to Plainfield was made early in the evening with everyone thoroughly tired but pleased with the success of the outing.

The affair was arranged and directly in charge of a committee composed of Councilman and Mrs. William Gleak and Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson.

Caught Without a Light.

John Schenck was arrested Saturday night for riding his wheel without a lamp. He and another offender whose name is not known, but who was ordered to appear for the same misdemeanor, will be given a hearing before Recorder Doud this evening.

FIRE DESTROYS BARBER SHOP

MYSTERIOUS BLAZE RESULTS IN $500 DAMAGE TO WEST END BUILDING.

A one-story frame building on South Second street, near Pond place, occupied by Charles Paglucca as a barber shop and residence, was practically destroyed by a fire which broke out in the front part at 11 o'clock last night. No one was in the place at the time and the blaze was under full headway when discovered by Patrolman Arthur McGinley who turned in an alarm from box 47. Two adjoining buildings were in danger until the arrival of the department, but with its appearance the flames were quickly killed.

The loss will foot up to $500, the greater part being on the building which is owned by V. W. Nash, Sr. It is the one erected by him on Park avenue near the present Trueli Inn and afterward moved to South Second street. The loss is covered by insurance.

Paglucca was in New York last evening and Chief Doane's investigation did not throw any light on the cause of the blaze. There was no lamp burning or fire in the shop and the only theory arrived at is the inevitable "mice and matches."

DUNELLEN'S FIRST DEFEAT

CLINTON AVENUE TEAM VICTORS BY A SCORE OF 9 TO 4.

The Dunellen A. C. team met its first defeat of the season on Saturday, when it crossed bats with the Clinton Avenue team on the grounds of the former. The score was 9 to 4. Features of the contest were the fielding of Magee, B. Martin and Barnes and the batting of O'Loughlin, for Clinton Avenue, and the fielding of Miller and Garver for Dunellen.

The detailed score:

REINHART'S GREAT WORK

HE LOWERS THE AMATEUR AND PROFESSIONAL RECORD.

Frank O. Reinhart, of this city, broke both the amateur and professional records on the Cranford Golf Club course Thursday afternoon. He was playing with W. L. Glenney and Robert Abbott, all three making very good scores. The professional records for the course are 38 for nine holes and 80 for eighteen. Reinhart lowered both by scoring a 37 and a 41. Glenney made an 83 and Abbott an 84, which comes near the amateur record of 83 for the course.

The Cranford course is the longest nine hole course in the country, but its excellent condition makes up for its length.

Munroe H. Long, of Park avenue, left Saturday for the Shrewsbury River where he will join his friends Harold C. Fenno and Theodore Gavett, who are cruising on the river.

GUS FABER WINS FIRST HONORS AT PARK CLUB

He Returns Best Score in Competition for the Two Trophies.

VERY FEW GOOD CARDS

H. F. FOX ANE A. L. OTTERSON DIVIDE HONORS AT HILLSIDE.

Harold Robert Gets Three Points for Gaston Cup—G. E. Cruse and H. W. Gladwin Qualify at Westfield.

Gus. W. Faber captured first honors for the President's and the Park Golf Club cups at the Park Golf Club, on Saturday, for the third consecutive time this season. While the course, as a result of the heavy rain on Friday, made it very soft, Faber's score of 87 was considered good. Owing to the weather condition the number of contestants on the course was small, besides many are away on their vacations.

There was an abundance of water in some places, as many players discovered during the early part of the day. It was not to be wondered that the scores were high. Morgan T. Townsend, who played with Gus. Faber, met with considerable trouble and failed to complete the eighteen holes. Raymond B. Carroll, another good player, returned a score far above his usual.

The rain on Friday considerably damaged the road leading from Mountain avenue to the club and the road leading down the hill also suffered.

Charles L. Nichols and J. L. Watson won second and third honors for the handicap cup, while Raymond B. Carroll and L. W. Hallock captured the second and third honors for the club cup.

These scores were returned for the two cups:

Gus. W. Faber, 87, 0—87; Charles L. Nichols, 112, 22—90; J. L. Watson, 123, 30—93; L. W. Hallock, 109, 15—94; R. E. Hallock, 122, 15—97; Raymond B. Carroll, 104, 4—100; Nelson A. Miller, 117, 14—103

Owing to the hilly condition of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course, the rain on Friday did not affect it as badly as at the Park Golf Club. There was a good field out on Saturday to compete in the several events. H. F. Fox and A. L. Otterson were tie for first honors for the Golf Committee cup, with a net score of 75, and Robert Abbott finished second with a net score of 76. A number of the scores were low and the play was about up to the usual standard.

These scores were posted for the Golf Committee cup:

H. F. Fox, 92, 17—75; A. L. Otterson, 100, 25—75; Robert Abbott, 75, plus 1—76; W. L. Glenney, 76, plus 1—77; Frank O. Reinhart, 74, plus 4—78; Willard Wadsworth, 78, 0—78; Dudley H. Barrows, 84, 4—80; George T. VanBoskerck, 89, 9—80; T. W. T. Maxwell, 105, 22—83; L. B. Taylor, 99, 10—89.

In the play for the Gaston cup, Harold Robert, T. W. T. Maxwell and G. F. Earl won the honors with these scores:

Harold Robert, 103, 1—102; T. W. T. Maxwell, 105, 2—103; G. F. Earl, 117, 1—116.

Scores in the clock golf tournament at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club on Saturday afternoon, were very poor, owing to the condition of the greens. The wet weather made the ground soggy and uneven, the whole surface being lumpy and soft. Miss Martha Robert won the handsome loving-cup, offered by Mrs. T. W. T. Maxwell, with a score of 24. There were about a dozen entries in all.

Two events attracted a number of golf enthusiasts to the Westfield Golf Club on Saturday. The first, a ball sweepstakes, was won by H. W. Gladwin and W. J. Bogert, while G. E. Cruse and H. W. Gladwin qualified in the Governors' competition. These scores were returned in the competition:

G. E. Cruse, 97, 21—76; H. W. Gladwin, 104, 26—78; F. P. Condit, 93, 14—79; C. P. Worth, 111, 30—81; W. J. Bogert, Jr., 94, 12—82; A. D. Tuttle, 96, 12—84; R. I. Townley, 94, 10—84; S. A. Trevvett, 97, 10—87; J. W. Woodward, 97, 10—87; R. K. Taylor, 108, 18—90; A. E. Keller, 110, 18—92.

Has Not Resigned His Position.

Henry Stephany, of 108 Summit avenue, says he has not resigned his position with the New Jersey Central, as reported.

Sunday Excursion to Mauch Chunk.

There is no more popular resort for a Sunday than Mauch Chunk, and to reach it entails a delightful rail journey, and at Mauch Chunk there is a diversity of amusements, the chief of which is a ride over the Switchback. This journey occupies more than one hour, and leads over and around the mountains with widely changing scenes at every turn. The Switchback is a gravity road, and the speed attained is close to a mile per minute. Another feature is Flagstaff, the summit of which is reached by trolley, and from its pinnacle point there is a view extending over miles and miles of beautiful country. An interesting spot close at hand is Glen Onoko, a short distance above Mauch Chunk, and, as its name implies, is a beautiful glen, with falls, cataracts, mountain paths leading to cool and delightful places. On August 14 the New Jersey Central is to run a popular excursion to Mauch Chunk from Plainfield by special train leaving at 9:20 a. m. Returning train will leave Mauch Chunk at 5:40 p. m., and the round trip will cost but $1.50. Frequent train service will be in effect between Mauch Chunk and Glen Onoko, and trains on the Switchback run every few minutes. 8 6 7 o

TRAIN ROBBERY LOOT.

Outlaw Reveals Cache of Jewels and Money Worth $50,000.

MISSOULA, Mont., Aug. 8. — Fifty thousand dollars' worth of securities, cash and diamonds, which had formed part of the loot of the Bear Mouth train robbery, has been recovered. John Christie, arrested in Hope, N. D., guided Special Agent McFettridge to the place where the cache was made, eight miles below the scene of the robbery and on the same side of the river. The securities filled a flour sack. They had been thrown into the willows twenty feet from the river bank.

Three miles farther up the hill Christie led the officers to where $170,000 in silver and bills had been hidden under a stone. One package of money had been torn in two and thrown away as worthless. One hundred and five small diamonds were found where the package containing them had been torn in two by the robbers and spilled in the sand. Two of the drafts aggregated $40,000. Christie has been taken to Phillipsburg, where he will remain until his trial.

AT ESOPUS.

W. S. Rodie and Wife and W. F. Sheehan Guests at Parker Home.

ESOPUS, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Preparations for the coming to Rosemount of the notification committee occupied the attention of Judge Parker. Mr. and Mrs. William S. Rodie of New York were his guests. Mr. Rodie is a member of the New York Democratic state executive committee and expects to take an active part in the campaign in New York state. He will be in charge of the steamer Sagamore, which will bring the committee from New York on Wednesday.

William F. Sheehan, chairman of the national executive committee, called on Judge Parker yesterday afternoon. He will return to New York today, when the committee will hold its first meeting. Judge George Gray of Delaware and former Secretary Daniel S. Lamont, who had arranged to visit Rosemount, were unable to make connections.

Col. Robt. M. Thompson, president of the Naval Academy Alumni of New York, after reading "Little France," said: "It carries with it the very air of the sea. I have not been able to lay it down until it was finished."

The Utica, N. Y., Observer, says: "Those who have read and enjoyed some of Mr. Brady's former productions will not fail to be charmed by this story of the sea in the days of the 'great Lord Hawke' of the British navy. The plot is laid in the close of the eighteenth century and the narrative is full of stirring action. The quality of Mr. Brady's work is too well known to need comment here. There is much to suggest in tone, not form, his former story 'When Blades Are Out and Love's Afield.' 'Little France' will doubtless add much to Mr. Brady's reputation as a writer of semi-historical literature."

The above are characteristic comments of the press on our new serial, entitled:

Little France

A ROMANCE OF THE DAYS WHEN THE GREAT LORD HAWKE WAS KING OF THE SEAS.

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

We trust that none of our readers will miss this literary treat which we have prepared for them. It is just the sort of a story that will interest all classes—clean, interesting, exciting, historical, and by an author who needs no introduction to American readers. The hero of the story is an American, the heroine the daughter of an American mother. The historical incidents on which the story is founded were of vital interest to the struggling American colonies. All of these things make the story of special interest, and we know that our readers will appreciate every line of it.

SAILED FOR SMYRNA

Leishman at Turkish Capital Will Be Backed by Fleet.

GRAND NAVAL DISPLAY FOR SULTAN

Presence of Two Squadrons In Eastern Waters May Make Things More Easy For Our Representative.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The American European squadron, commanded by Rear Admiral C. T. Jewell, sailed from Villefranche, France, for Smyrna yesterday morning to back up the endeavors of Minister Leishman in behalf of American citizens in the sultan's domains. The squadron will await instructions at Smyrna. The trip will take about three days.

Not only have these decisive orders been given the European squadron, but it is expected the battleship squadron, which is due at Gibraltar today, will be detained in that vicinity. If necessary it will be sent to the eastern Mediterranean to reenforce the cruiser squadron.

Secretary Hay suggested the advisability of sending a squadron to Turkish waters at the cabinet meeting. He had then just received word of the failure of Minister Leishman to obtain satisfaction from the sultan in answer to the American demands. The cabinet concluded the situation had reached a stage that called for a naval demonstration. President Roosevelt was fully in accord with the idea of sending the squadron to the east.

It is probable the battleship squadron would have been sent had it not been at sea and out of reach of cable. Under the circumstances it was felt that no time was to be lost, and orders were given the European squadron.

The battleship squadron consists of the modern battleships Kearsarge, Alabama, Iowa, Illinois, Maine and Missouri. It is commanded by Rear Admiral Barker and is the most powerful fleet of the navy. The European squadron consists of the protected cruisers Olympia, Baltimore and Cleveland. The cruiser Des Moines, a sister ship to the Cleveland and a new vessel, has been added to the European quadron and will start across the Atlantic on Aug. 20.

The Olympia, which was Admiral Dewey's flagship at Manila, is now the flagship of Rear Admiral Jewell. She has a displacement of 5,870 tons and a battery of fourteen guns. The Baltimore was also in the engagement of Manila bay and has a displacement of 4,413 tons and twelve guns in her main battery. The Cleveland is a new cruiser, with a main battery of ten guns and 3,100 tons displacement.

Owing to the unsatisfactory procedure of the porte in meeting the requests of the American government, matters have gradually approached a climax. The dispatches from Mr. Leishman, the American minister at Constantinople, are of the same tenor for many months past—that he was unable to obtain an audience with the sultan in which he could put before him the earnest request of Mr. Hay, the secretary of state, that American citizens and institutions be given the same guarantees and privileges accorded to France, Germany, Russia and Italy in the Ottoman empire.

Blind Comedian Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8.—Max Arnold Hess, known in the theatrical profession as Max Arnold, the blind comedian, is dead in a sanitarium after an illness of several months. He was forty-three years old. He was at various times associated with Harrigan and Hart and Tony Pastor and subsequently made his appearance in comic opera. About thirteen years ago his eyesight began to fail, and he eventually became totally blind. Despite his affliction he was popular as an entertainer.

Will Not Deport Bacon.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Aug. 8.—Word has been received here from J. H. Bacon, harbor engineer and hydrographic surveyor of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway company, stationed at Port Arthur, Ont., to the effect that his case will be dropped by the government. Mr. Bacon is in Montreal, where he is present to contest a warrant for his arrest and deportation under the alien act.

Convicts Found a Way Out.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Aug. 8.—The authorities of the Indiana reformatory have discovered that Parker and Gatewood, escaped prisoners, whose absence was noted and who were thought to be dead, crawled 300 yards through an eighteen inch sewer which leads to the Ohio river and then cut their way out. Their shirts were found in a cornfield.

Warship For Santo Domingo.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Complying with the request of the state department, Admiral Sigsbee at San Juan has been directed to dispatch a war vessel to Monte Christi, Santo Domingo. This was done at the suggestion of Mr. Dawson, the American minister to Santo Domingo, and the inference is that trouble is impending in that country.

Went a Thousand Miles For Arrest.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Returning from Elmira, N. Y., to see his wife, George Wheadon, a traveling salesman for a Minneapolis yeast company, has been placed under arrest here on a charge of bigamy. The complaint was made by a woman whom Wheadon traveled nearly a thousand miles to see.

Hay Dined With President.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Secretary Hay dined with the president at the White House last night and remained there until 11 o'clock.

NO MIRACLE.

Scientists Give an Explanation of Parker Crucifix Image.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Several scientific authorities who were questioned as to the possibility of lightning having impressed an image on the back of Abbott Parker were inclined to credit the story in all its marvelous details. The body of a human being struck by lightning becomes, they said, to all practical purposes a negative, and in this state the flesh is very apt to assume forms or figures of any objects near by at the time of exposure.

In this case the young man's coat and underclothing were probably not removed until he was taken to the hospital. His back was at that time sensitive and subject to the impression of any object held near it. It is not unlikely, it is thought, that a sister of charity, the hospital being a Catholic institution, was standing near, with a crucifix around her neck, as is their custom. In this way it is not at all improbable that as soon as the young man's back was exposed the crucifixion was photographed upon his skin.

Many cases quite as remarkable as this, experts say, have been reported before, and to students of the subject the phenomenon is not at all perplexing.

Modern electrical experts say an image might be formed not only at the time of the stroke, but even some time after the stroke. There was no cross anywhere in the vicinity so far as known, but it was still daylight when the unconscious young man was removed to the hospital, and as his back was exposed in a light room it is very likely that the flesh was still sensitized to the extent that it could still receive the impression of a crucifix from either a cross around a nurse's neck or from a painting on a nearby wall.

Six Year Term For President.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Congressman Joseph C. Sibley of Pennsylvania, who is serving his sixth term in congress and will stand for re-election this fall, was a returning passenger on the Cunard liner Campania. In speaking of the political situation Congressman Sibley declared himself absolutely opposed to the plan of allowing any man to hold the office of president twice. He said that at the next session he would introduce a bill to lengthen the president's term of office to six years and make it impossible for one man to serve more than one term.

A Big Hockey League.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 8. — A meeting will be held at Detroit during the week of Aug. 14 for the purpose of forming a league of hockey clubs similar to the National Baseball league. Pittsburg, Houghton, Sault Ste. Marie and Calumet clubs are behind the project. A circuit will be formed and a schedule adopted for next winter, when championship intercity games will be played. New York and Brooklyn have been invited to send representatives to the meeting.

James Riley Drowned Near Vestal.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 8.—James Riley of Vestal has been drowned in the Susquehanna river four miles below that place. Riley was fishing with Patrick O'Hara of Lestershire when their boat was capsized. Riley called to O'Hara, "Pull for the shore." O'Hara swam to shore, supposing Riley was close behind him. When he reached shore nothing was to be seen of Riley, who was a good swimmer. It is supposed he had cramps.

Election Against the Government.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Aug. 8.—The general election has resulted in a victory for the opposition party, which advocated reform in extravagance of administration. It is expected that the cabinet will resign. The features of the election were the great exercise of the franchise by women, to whom it was only recently granted, and a large accession to the strength of the labor party.

Yacht Race Won by Yankee.

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., Aug. 8.—The race of the Mackinac Island Yacht club was won by Yankee of that club. Alice of the Chicago Yacht club was second and Vencedor third, beating out Siren by a boat's length. Naiad of Chicago beat Nahma in the yawl class. The race was sailed over a nine mile course in a light wind, ending in a heavy squall.

Chicago Played Wild Game.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8. — The Philadelphia Americans won the game on Smith's wildness and errors by Donohue. Four bases on balls, two errors and three timely singles and a wild pitch scored all of their runs. Waddell was at his best and, although hit hard at times, was always master of the situation, striking out eleven men. Score: Chicago, 2; Philadelphia, 5.

Stahl Made Record Home Run.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 8.—The Washington Americans defeated St. Louis here in easy fashion. With Wolf on base in the fifth inning, Stahl of Washington knocked the ball over the left field fence, clearing the bleachers and establishing the record for the longest hit ever made at the local American League park. Score: Washington, 7; St. Louis, 2.

Our Famous August Sales!

WE will make this month famous with our Furniture Sales, the first of which is the "Widdicomb," now in progress and meeting with popular favor. We have the "sounding brass and tinkling symbal" of the New York stores to contend with, but they strike no terror into us. We are selling the same character of furniture---perhaps a little better, than they, for less money. Place our goods side by side with theirs and you will take ours.

Furniture Sales with us this month mean a lively tilt with New York prices. We have bested them in the past, and will do it again, now. The New York houses buy in Grand Rapids. So do we, and we sell the same goods at lower prices. The reason for the exalted figures in New York is the simple fact that people there are willing to pay them. If these knew about our handsome stocks, just as great and varied as in New York, they would come here; as it is, we have many patrons in Greater New York, and their number is increasing, because one tells the other of the great saving in buying furniture (and other goods) at our store. Shopping is very comfortable in our large, airy and splendidly lighted store.

Every Department in Our Store is Bargainized.

In August we have the greatest clearing out, closing out and cleaning out time of the year, for we must make early preparations for the reception and placing of Fall and Winter goods; hence, an unavoidable reduction of thousands of prices to move them out before September. Come now, and look around our spacious store for the very articles you want. They are here at prices that cannot fail to please you.

LABOR INDORSES IT

Chicago Stockyards Strike Has Federation's Support.

THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND TO HELP

Each Member of Labor Unions Will Contribute a Small Sum, Thus Aggregating Thousands a Week. Donnelly Sure of Victory.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—All the labor unions in Chicago have indorsed the stockyards' strike. After listening to the strikers' side of the controversy, which was presented to them by Michael J. Donnelly, president of the striking Butchers' union, the Chicago Federation of Labor, which is composed of every labor organization in Chicago and has a membership of nearly 300,000, adopted resolutions last night pledging the moral and financial support of the federated body as long as the strike continues. Each member of the central body will be assessed a small sum per week, and the whole amount will be turned over to the striking unions to help in the support of the strikers and their families during the struggle with the packers. The total sum will be well up in the thousands each week.

After a fight which lasted for nearly four weeks a settlement of the stockyards strike seems to be as remote as at any time since the struggle began. Neither side to the conflict during all this time has shown any sign of weakening.

The packers, while claiming that they will soon have their affairs in normal condition again, so successful have they been in securing nonunion men, yet admit that so far they have been able to get but 550 of their old employees back and that the majority of these men are unskilled workers. In the last statement given out by the packers it was said that nearly half as many men were at work now as before the strike began. These men have been brought to Chicago from all parts of the country, the majority of them having never seen a meat packing plant before coming here. With these men the packers have succeeded in accomplishing a great deal of work, but according to the striker every animal that has been slaughtered since the strike was called has been at a financial loss to the packers, as in the majority of cases a lack of skilled workmen has made it impossible to operate the byproducts department, and this source of revenue, which under normal conditions is a clear profit to the packers, has been allowed to go to waste.

Last week the packers were figuring on a break in the ranks of the strikers when work was resumed this morning, but there was nothing that would indicate that the men were even considering such a step or that they had any idea of surrendering. According to Michael J. Donnelly, president of the Butchers' union, the organization which precipitated the strike, the strikers are in a better position than they were on July 12, the day the original strike was called.

"During the four weeks that the strike has been in force," said Mr. Donnelly, "there have been less than 200 desertions from the various unions whose members have joined the struggle for living wages, and not one of these workmen who have gone back to the packers is a skilled workman. To offset these desertions our men have secured at least twice that number of new recruits from the men the packers have brought to Chicago to take the strikers' places. From a dispute between the packers and butcher workmen the strike has spread into a struggle between organized capital and labor, but there are not enough men and women on this continent to break this strike despite the assertions of the packers that they have nearly all the workmen they require and that their business is about back to its normal basis. I have received assurances from the most powerful labor organizations throughout the United States that they are with us in this fight and are only waiting to have representatives from our unions sent before them and make the request when contributions to our financial support will be freely made. Under these circumstances there is nothing for us to fear, as the victory will be with us in the end no matter how long that may be."

Davis In His Deer Park.

ELKINS, W. Va., Aug. 8.—In keeping with his usual custom ex-Senator Henry G. Davis attended Davis Memorial Presbyterian church both morning and evening yesterday. After dinner he took a walk about the grounds, visiting his deer park, in which are a dozen West Virginia mountain deer, and other interesting scenes about his beautiful farm.

Bishop Ludden Laid Cornerstone.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Bishop Patrick J. Ludden officiated yesterday at the exercises of laying the cornerstone for the large new church building for St. Paul's Catholic church of this city.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 8, 1904.

Cortelyou is firmly convinced that Wall Street is not "safe and sane."

The strikes before election and those on election day are of two different sorts. The politician worries over the latter kind.

In resigning from the bench, Mr. Parker has done the right thing. The idea of Senator Fairbanks holding on to his office does not inspire confidence in Republican success.

Judge Parker has no doubt learned from his experience on the bench that the peacemaker generally gets the worst of it and is willing to let Murphy and McCarren fight it out.

It looks very much as if some of the men of the cloth who are berating Bishop Potter have missed their calling. They exhibit qualities essential to make yellow journal editors.

His recently published pictures portray David J. Carney clad in an overcoat, but this is no indication that he expects to be frozen out in the shrievalty campaign in old Somerset.

Word comes from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., that a man roused suddenly from sleep shot his wife in mistake for a burglar. We had supposed all married men knew enough to put their trousers in a safe place at night.

In addition to a safe majority during the recent campaigns to bank on, the Republican party in New Jersey has a thoroughly organized State machine and the Democrats will have an uphill fight in their effort to win in the present fight.

Assemblyman Samuel Stansbury Swackhamer, the Somerset sinuosity, says this is not a good year for Democratic candidates, or words to that effect, and he will not be a candidate for anything this time.—Jersey City Journal.

Peace be with thee, brother, and may truth be not absent from thy virtues. Verily Samuel hath not declareth himself thus save that he will not lead the hosts to victory.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.

Two Cases Occupy the Attention of the Borough Court.

Among the drunk and disorderly arrests made by Chief Weiss in the borough Saturday night was an unruly Irish woman, who is still held under guard. The woman at the time of her arrest was physically unable to give her name, and has since refused to speak. She will be given a hearing this evening.

Sheridan Jones, colored, was arrested Saturday night in the borough for drunk and disorderly conduct. Sentience was suspended and the culprit discharged.

Speakers at Fresh Air Home.

The nightly services at the Mary Morgan Fresh Air Home this week will be conducted by various local speakers and by Christian Endeavor societies from Dunellen and Elizabeth. The hour of service is 8 o'clock. Rev. Lewis Bond, who addressed the meeting at the home yesterday afternoon, will be in charge of the services tonight, assisted by his wife. On Tuesday evening, George Bolsterle will be in charge of the services, and Henry R. Phillips will conduct the meeting on the following evening. The Epworth League from St. John's church, Elizabeth, will be in charge Thursday evening, and Friday's meeting will be in charge of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Dunellen Presbyterian church. On Saturday afternoon, the Warren Chapel Christian Endeavor Society will visit the camp and the time will be spent in the playing of games, singing and music. Refreshments will be served to the children. Rev. F. H. Jacobs, the singing evangelist, will be at the camp next Sunday afternoon.

PERSONAL.

Miss Reba Kline, of Somerset street, is visiting friends in Hunterdon Co.

James D. Bailey, formerly manager of the Park Avenue Hotel, was in town on Saturday calling on friends.

Miss Annie Ryan, of Somerset street, sailed Saturday on the steamer Umbria for her old home in Cork, Ireland. A party of friends from Plainfield accompanied her to New York.

Rev. Abram Duryea, who occupied the pulpit at Trinity Reformed Church yesterday in the absence of Rev. Cornelius Schnek, was the guest of F. E. Smith, of West Fourth street, while in town.

Mrs. Nellie Randell, and daughters Marjorie and Dorothy, of Meriden, Conn., returned home yesterday, after a pleasant visit at the home of Mrs. Randell's brother, Frand Webster, of Duer street.

Miss Molly Brower, formerly of Truell Court, sailed on the Red Star Liner, "Kroonland," on Saturday, for Germany. A party of friends, including a number of Plaidfielders, were at the pier to wish Miss Brower bon voyage.

Services at Fresh Air Home.

Rev. Lewis Bond, for some time an active missionary in Turkey, gave an interesting talk at the Mary Morgan Fresh Air Home, at Netherwood, yesterday afternoon at the regular Sunday afternoon service at the Home. Dr. Bond illustrated his remarks by drawings on the blackboard with colored crayons. George E. Hall was leader of the meeting and George V. Taylor conducted the singing. Rev. Gideon M. Shott, of the Baptist church at Scotch Plains, made brief supplementary remarks at the conclusion of Dr. Bond's address. Miss Florence Bennett sang two soprano solos: "Saviour Divine" and "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." There are now 275 children at the Home, about a score of whom are accompanied by their mothers. A new delegation will be received today.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The Sunday-schools of the Seventh-Day Baptist and First Baptist churches will go on an excursion to Bellewood, the new resort of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, tomorrow, in company with the Sunday-schools of Bound Brook and South Plainfield. A feature of the day will be a game of ball between the Y. M. A. and an up country team. Smith, of the Dunellen A. C., will twirl for the locals and Abe Nelson will catch.

Rev. L. E. Livermore, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church yesterday morning, in the absence of the regular pastor, Rev. W. W. Casselbury, who is on his vacation, and preached to a large congregation. In the evening Mr. Livermore was obliged to omit the usual services owing to an indisposition, so that only Young People's meeting was held.

Michael Moyhihan, of the borough, is making plans for a trip to the West next fall. He will spend the winter there, purely on pleasure.

Dr. Herman Coffers, of New York, who spent several summers recently on the Maltby place, visited Hazelwood Craig yesterday.

Rev. S. K. Doolittle and family will leave today for Mt. Tabor, where they will remain during Mr. Doolittle's vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton and family, of Westfield, spent yesterday with the family of W. J. Hamilton.

Miss Ann Sheppard, of California, is spending the summer with the Misses Sheppard, of Front street.

Mrs. Amy Davis, of Front street, is entertaining her mother, Mrs. Arnot, of Short Hills, and her sister.

The borough Council will hold a special meeting this evening to go over the assessors' books.

William Dealaman and Charles Corlell spent yesterday at Sewaren, making the trip by wagon.

Mrs. Joseph Kissam, of New York, spent Sunday at the home of her sister, Mrs. James Craig.

Mrs. R. A. Meeker, of Plainfield, visited Mrs. Frank Wynkoop yesterday.

Clarence D. Marlow is spending a two weeks' vacation in Atlantic City.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Rev. Lewis Bond, a returned Samarian missionary, occupied the pulpit at the Baptist church Sunday morning. Mr. Bond illustrated his sermon with the aid of a blackboard and crayon. In the afternoon he gave a blackboard talk at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home. Rev. Mr. Shott occupied the pulpit at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Plainfield.

Louis A. Goodenough, superintendent of the Paterson, N. J., schools, died suddenly at Belleville, Jefferson County, N. Y., on Saturday. Mr. Goodenough was a former popular principal of the local school and had a host of friends in town who were shocked to hear of his sudden death.

The Township Committee met in the town rooms Saturday night, and only the regular routine business was transacted. Tomorrow night the committee meets for the purpose of revising and correcting the assessor's duplicate.

The young people of the Baptist church held their weekly meeting as usual in the church parlors last night. This is the only Sunday evening service being held during the month of August.

Miss Susie L. Parse, who has been spending a month with her sister, Mrs. Francis Wight, among the Berkshire Hills at Holland, Mass., returned home yesterday.

Mrs. Thomas J. Nichol and daughters, who have been spending several weeks at Keithville Lake, in the Catskill Mountains, returned home on Saturday.

Frank Palmer, a prominent worker in the North Baptist church, of New York, Rev. G. M. Shott's former pastorate, spent Saturday at The Manse.

John Haskard and children, of Grant avenue, spent Sunday with Mr. Haskard's mother, Mrs. John R. Haskard, of Grand street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Uhler, of the borough, have been entertaining friends from New York over Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carpenter, of Plainfield, were the guests yesterday of William C. Stanbery, of Mountain avenue.

Miss Marion Goodman and the Misses Marsh, of Park avenue, left Saturday for a week's stay at Asbury Park.

The weekly meeting of the Epworth League was held in the class rooms of the Methodist church last night.

The gypsy encampmpent, corner of the trolley and Terrill road, was the attraction for many on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ritter, of the borough, are entertaining their nieces from New York for a week.

Charles Clark and family, of New York, are spending August at The Homestead, in the borough.

A number of the borough boys held a straw ride Saturday night, their destination being Roselle.

The Misses Shackleton, of Park avenue, have been entertaining out of town friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Hand entertained friends from New York over Sunday.

Miss Minnie Hosinger is taking her annual two weeks' vacation.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Miss Bertha P. Manning, of 647 East Seventh street, is spending a week with her grandpa, S. R. Manning.

Miss Gladys Thorne has returned after a visit with her uncle, Alfred Thorne, of North Plainfield.

Wilroy Voorhees, of Asbury Park, was a guest over Sunday at the home of W. B. Manning.

F. L. C. Martin and Mr. Scott, of Plainfield, were guests at Brookside yesterday.

A large turtle was taken below the dam Saturday. A shot gun did the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred LaTourette are sojourning for a week at Fire Island.

The excursion to Bellewood Park tomorrow will leave at 8:55 a. m..

W. E. Smith spent yesterday in Philadelphia.

WEDDED AT HIGH NOON.

Miss Buena Vista Vreeland Weds Dr. George R. Boston.

A quiet wedding took place at noon today at the home of Nathan Titsworth, of Madison avenue, when Miss Buena Vista Vreeland became the wife of Dr. George R. Boston. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace Episcopal church. The maid of honor was Miss Ella Titsworth and the best man Nathan Titsworth. There were no cards and only the immediate relatives and a few friends of the bride and groom were present.

Miss Curry at the First Baptist.

A special meeting in the interest of the Mary Morgan Fresh Air Home was held last night at the First Baptist Church. David M. Torrey, of the Home, led the meeting, and Miss Sarah Curry gave a talk on the work this summer, and also of the work accomplished during the winter months in New York City through "The Little Missionary's Day Nursery" on Eighth street, of which the Mary Morgan Home is a branch. Mr. Torrey also addressed the meeting and related many interesting facts pertaining to the good work going on at the Home. A number of children from the Home were present and sang and recited. At the close of the meeting, Miss Curry held an informal reception, at which time many of the audience availed themselves of the opportunity to speak personally with her and the children.

Herbert Hetfield, of Worcester, Mass., returned home yesterday after a three weeks' visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hetfield, of East Front street.

S. H. Springer Dies Suddenly.

Samuel H. Springer, father of Alfred Springer, of Duer street, and for several years a well known shoe merchant in this city, died suddenly Friday at his home on Gordon street, Perth Amboy. His death was caused by paralysis of the brain and he was first taken with the attack late Thursday night. The interment was at Englewood yesterday afternoon. About 56 years of age, Mr. Springer is survived by his wife and three children, two sons and a daughter. The other son, Edward, resides with his mother at Perth Amboy, and the married daughter lives elsewhere.

Will Lead Metropolitan Orchestra.

Martin A. Korff, of Watchung avenue, has accepted the position of leader in the orchestra at the Twenty-third street branch Y. M. C. A., of New York city. Mr. Korff was very successful as the leader of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra in this city last winter and should make good use of the material at hand in New York. It is understood that he will return to this city in time for the re-organization of the orchestra here for the winter season.

Children Enjoy a Straw Ride.

Through the kindness of David Hand, of Netherwood, 135 of the campers at the Mary Morgan Fresh Air Home, accompanied by Miss Sara Curry and David M. Torrey, of the Home, enjoyed a straw ride through Netherwood and the vicinity Saturday afternoon. A heavy two-horse hay wagon, filled with hay, was used, and Mr. Hand himself did the driving. The outing was a pleasant one.

JAPS DRIVEN BACK

Port Arthur's Defenders Inflict Enormous Loss.

MUKDEN AND LIAOYANG MENACED

General Stoessel Reports All Attacks on His Post Defeated—Claims Japanese Lost Ten Thousand Men.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—A special from St. Petersburg says that Lieutenant General Stoessel, commanding the Russian military forces at Port Arthur, in an undated dispatch to the emperor reports as follows:

"I am happy to state that the Russian troops repulsed all the Japanese attacks of July 26, 27 and 28, with enormous losses.

"The garrison's enthusiasm was extraordinary.

"The fleet assisted in the defense by bombarding the Japanese flank.

"Our losses during the three days were about 1,500 men and forty officers killed or wounded.

"According to statements of Chinese and prisoners, the Japanese lost as many as 10,000.

"Their losses were so great that the enemy has not had time to remove the dead and wounded."

A Liaoyang dispatch says that the Japanese are advancing on Mukden, and it is probable that a simultaneous attack will be made on Mukden and Liaoyang, in which case a decisive battle is assured. Liaoyang is in no immediate danger, though the Russians have been compelled to fall back owing to the superior numbers of the Japanese.

A Russian cavalry division has been in constant contact with the enemy south of Anshanshan.

The Japanese did not capture any rolling stock at Haicheng.

It is rumored here that the Japanese are changing their base to Newchwang.

The Russians have set fire to the village of Henchuantsa, thirteen miles northeast of Newchwang, from which a small force of Japanese fled, leaving their transport animals.

Advices from Tokyo say that General Kuroki reports he buried the bodies of 512 Russians on the battlefields of Yushulikzu and Yangtzuling. In these actions he reports the capture of 268 Russians, eight of whom were officers. One hundred and fifteen of the prisoners were wounded.

The Japanese intend to follow up the Russians and to gain ground east and south by an attack on Anshanshan, midway between Haicheng and Liaoyang.

It is reported that the Japanese are advancing on the west, and exciting rumors are current.

Though apparently beaten at every point and though the Japanese have advanced well on the Russian flank, the Russians in council of war have determined to defend all their positions as heretofore.

All the foreign attaches and newspaper correspondents are hurrying to the lines.

A Tokyo dispatch says that General Kuropatkin's success in extricating his army from the Liautong peninsula without disaster has elicited much praise from the Japanese. The concentrating of his army at Kaiochau at one time seemed certain to involve it in disaster. He was forced to abandon or destroy valuable stores and munitions of war when the transportation was almost the most serious problem to the Russians. He also impaired the morale of his army, but he preserved his men and guns.

The unexpected loss of the Russian left at Tashichao and the appearance of the Japanese Takushan army on the flank forced the abandonment and surrender, without a fight, of Yinkow, Haicheng and Newchwang. It is generally believed that the crisis will come shortly at Liaoyang and that Kuropatkin will be forced to give battle whatever his purpose may be.

General Oku's and the Takushan armies are pressing northward, and General Kuroki is close at hand, ready to take any part necessary in the general Japanese play.

Our Attitude on Contraband.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The statement has been made in high official circles that contrary to the reports from abroad the United States has not been sounding the European governments with a view to ascertaining their views of what should be considered contraband in the present struggle between Russia and Japan. This government is determining for itself what classes of merchandise it considers contraband without suggestions from any other power, and when a decision has been reached its attitude on the subject will be made public.

A Sensational Race in War.

GENERAL KUROKI'S HEADQUARTERS IN THE FIELD, Via Fusan, Aug. 8.—A sensational feature of the war occurred at Chobaide pass, ten miles from the Motien pass. A brigade constituting a center column raced with two Russian regiments for the possession of the summit commanding the Russian flank. The Japanese fired as they ascended, dislodging the Russians from the rocks and killing or wounding 1,000 in a very few minutes. The Japanese sustained twelve casualties.

Dr. Nevin's Sight Restored.

ROME, Aug. 8.—The Rev. Dr. Nevin, rector of St. Paul's, the American church in Rome, has returned from Wiesbaden and officiated at his church. Dr. Nevin recently underwent an operation, as a result of which his eyesight is being restored.

Home Health Club

By DAVID H. READER, Ph. D., M. D. La Porte, Ind.

"All that a man hath will he give for his life," is a true saying that is older than the Bible. In speaking of "all," a person naturally understands that worldly possessions or money is meant and in that sense it is true. There are other things, however, which some people will not give up, even though they can know with considerable accuracy that continuous indulgence will ultimately mean death. In many, yes, the majority of cases it is ignorance which causes people to do, or neglect to do, those things which will give a reasonable insurance of continuous good health for many years.

The mission of the Home Health club, as declared by me many years ago, is to teach the natural laws of health, overcome superstition with simple, practical, helpful knowledge. Teaching how the many little ills of the family or of the individual may be overcome or cured by the naural remedies supplied by an allwise Creator and nearly always at hand.

One of the most powerful and effective therapeutic agents known to medical sciences is water. It is always at hand, and even a rudimentary knowledge of how to apply it in the treatment of diseases is one of the most valuable kinds of information that could be taught in our public schools, and yet there are many physicians who know but little of the wonders which may be performed by its use.

A few days ago I received a letter from a lady, telling about a neighbor who had suffered for a long time with a diseased jawbone. A number of able physicians had failed to give relief, and finally the surgeons were called. They decided to remove the man's jaw in order to save his life. The operation was to be performed in a week. The woman who wrote me was a life-member of the Home Health club, and she mustered up courage to tell him of a lecture I had written upon the subject of curing diseased bones by the simple, practical application of hot fomentations, and she gave him the lecture to read. He lost no time in applying the treatment, and when the time came to operate the surgeons found such a decided improvement and healing process going on that they were astonished. The operation was not necessary and the man has been perfectly well for several months.

Another woman tells of how she nursed her two granddaughters through smallpox and saved the balance of the family from having it, although all of them lived in the same house, during the entire sickness, and all by the simple means of which I had told in one of these lectures. All of the means for prevention as well as the successful treatment for the smallpox are at hand in almost every home in the land, and by a practical knowledge of their use the dangers of vaccination are avoided and the horror and dread of the disease is forever removed.

Mosquito Bites.

During the summer months we are in no danger of frost bites, although I recently received a letter asking for the Home Health club method of treatment for that annoying and painful condition. Instead of frost bites we have mosquito bites, and in many cases the sting of bees and other insects, which are not only painful, but in some cases quite dangerous. There are many people who seem to be immune and the poison of insects or even of poison oak, sumach or ivy has no effect upon them. I think the question of the purity of the blood and the character of the circulation, as well as the condition of the skin, are all factors to be considered in determining the susceptibility of anyone. As for myself, the sting of honey bees, hornets, or even bumble bees do not leave so much pain or swelling as a common mosquito bite will have upon many others. I have had patients upon whom a mosquito bite would cause a hard and painful swelling almost as large as half a hazel nut, and they would remain to itch and burn for two or three weeks. Almost instant relief can be had by anyone, from the effects of such bites and stings, by briskly rubbing the spot for a few moments with smart weed, a common plant which grows in nearly all parts of America, and is too well known to need description. When the smart weed is not at hand or cannot readily be secured, plantain leaves will act with almost equal satisfaction. Indeed, a poultice of bruised plantain leaves is said to counteract the poison of many snake bites and is a most excellent remedy for bruises and burns. The common plantain which grows in the dooryard and by the roadside is the kind to use. A letter received this morning from a lady who lives in this state says that plantain leaves well bruised and laid on a boil is the best treatment that can be given. And that the seed stalk of plantain used as an infusion is an excellent remedy for dysentery, and that an infusion or tea made from blackberry leaves will give relief from hemorrhage of the bowels in cases of typhoid fever. These remedies are always at hand and can safely be used by any one.

Another remedy equally safe is given by the same lady, to counteract the dangerous lockjaw which is liable to follow hurts by rusty nails or iron. Two tablespoonfuls of wood ashes (if very strong, half the quantity), scald with a cupful of boiling water, thicken with cornmeal and apply when nearly cold as a plaster.

Whenever one receives an injury with a rusty nail which penetrates the flesh beneath the skin, great care should be taken to see that the hurt does not heal upon the outside before it does upon the inside, in other words, the wound must be kept open and made to heal from the inside, then there will be no danger of lockjaw.

Club Notes.

Brunswick, Ga.—Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind.—Dear Doctor: I was greatly interested in one of your recent lectures regarding the effect of the mind upon the body, and the effect of cheerfulness and the will in curing disease. I will not undertake to answer your son's question as to "what makes the heart beat faster when one is scared," but will be pleased to read the reply from yourself and others. Will give some of my personal experience in regard to the effect of the mind over the body in the battle of Gettysburg, Pa., July 2, 1863. I was severely wounded by a minnie ball, crashing through the bone of the left knee, lacerating muscles and tendons. In this condition I lay on the ground without surgical attention for twenty-two (22) days before arriving at the David's Island, New York, hospital, where I received treatment from the best army surgeons (Dr. Priestly and others). Being so long without surgical attention, my wounds were so much inflamed and congested that a palliative treatment to merely keep me alive was about all that could be done. After eight months' treatment my wound was pronounced hopeless—incurable, and they would send me back home, as I could never be of any service again in the southern army. These learned surgeons, supposed to know all that human skill and science could learn about the human body, all with one accord did not hesitate to say that I would never walk on that leg. While I stood trembling on one foot, supported by two crutches, my lame leg suspended by a bandage from my neck, ignorant of the physiology of man, not knowing the importance of the parts lacerated and destroyed, in total ignorance of the restorative powers of nature, in the face of all this evidence against me, I boldly asserted my belief that I would again walk on that crippled leg. They sent me out on a litter, two years more of suffering in southern hospitals, with hard and poor treatment. At the end of 28 months from the time I was wounded, the last splinter of fractured bone came out. Then the wound was healed. The limb, even then, perished away and was crooked and useless. Still I had faith. I went to work pulling and stretching on the muscles and in less than two years I had it down so I could walk on my toes with the help of a walking cane, and in another year I had left the cane. That was about 35 years ago. My left leg is still about one inch short, but I make the difference in my hips, so that I do not limp, and people seeing me walk the streets would not suspect that anything had ever been the matter with my legs—that is a case of the effect of the mind over the body. "For of the soul the body form doth take, for soul is the form and doth the body make." (Science of Health.) When I was quite a young man I went from the rocky hills of Georgia to the rich swamp lands of Mississippi. Had never had a chill, and was rather inclined to laugh at my friends shaking with swamp chills. They told me I would have them after awhile. So in about two years I began to have the shakes. When I first took them, or rather they took me, the people were very kind, gave me nice hot tea, wrapped me up in a big soft feather bed with hot rocks to my feet and back, but finally it became necessary to change boarding houses. At the new place I was treated quite differently. A hard cold bed, no fire, hot teas or any comforts whatever. It made me real angry, which cured me of the chills and fever, and my health was splendid as long as I remained in that part of the country. That was a case of anger stimulating and bringing about reaction in the system which all the chill tonics and specifics had failed to do.

I once had a friend, if I met him downtown and had a chat with him, he would tell me all his troubles, domestic and financial. I would be sure to go home with a sick headache—that was a case of sympathy.

The ignoramus knows that these things exist, but it remains for science to explain them and tell us "why one's heart beats so much faster when one is scared." Sincerely yours,

H. T. J.

The above is only one of the many letters I received from various parts of the world in answer to a question asked by my son when he was about six years old. My own answer to the question, together with those of several others, will be given at another time.

All communications for this department should inclose four cents in postage and should be addressed to DR. DAVID H. REEDER, Laporte Ind.

Motley Cakes.

Beat a pound of sugar and a half pound of flour to a cream and add the well-beaten yolks of a dozen eggs. To this stir in three cups of sifted flour and beat vigorously; add the stiffly beaten whites, and put half the batter into another bowl; color one-half with cochineal to a pretty pink, and flavor the other half with peach extract. Drop the two batters by alternate spoonfuls into a well-greased cake pan and bake at least three-quarters to an hour in a moderate oven.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Historic Alamo

Texas Ladies Save It From Destruction

It is a pity the people of this country are not more minutely acquainted with the history of the noble state of Texas. Even Texans themselves are so busy developing the matchless resources of their state and getting rich that historic Alamo was in danger of being destroyed till the women of the state took up its cause.

In the Lone Star State is an organization of patriotic women called the Daughters of the Republic of Texas. It is their aim to preserve throughout all the vast Texan domain objects of historic and natural interest.

Hardly any state in this Union is in all respects so interesting as Texas. With its old Spanish missions and forts and its up to date oil wells and real estate boomers it is more of a link between today and four centuries ago than almost any other state. The most famous of old Texan landmarks is the Alamo mission at San Antonio. The Daughters of the Republic of Texas have recently bought the old Alamo buildings for $75,000, and now are working as only women can work to raise money to pay the sum. The society is pledged to pay $10,000 on each Feb. 10 till the debt is wiped out. We may hope rich Americans all over the Union will "Remember the Alamo" financially and aid the patriotic ladies in their object.

The Alamo mission, called the "Mission San Antonio de Valezo," was founded by Spanish priests from Mexico back in the 1600's. Their design was at once to convert Indians to Christianity and possess the land for Spain against all other nations. For this reason the Alamo buildings were quite as much fort as church. They covered some three acres, were in the form of a rectangle and had around them a wall in some parts four feet thick. The only entrance was through the granary, which was a regular arsenal, and the whole site was protected by earthworks, cannon and a moat. The church militant in those days was more important than the gospel of the Prince of Peace.

During the fight of Texas to be free from Mexico in 1835-36 a body of Texans took refuge in the Alamo and refused to surrender to a force of a dozen times their number. They placed upon the outer walls a notice to Santa Ana to come and take them if he could. Santa Ana did, March 5, 1836, and massacred every one of them. That massacre Texans have not forgotten to this day, and from it arose the war cry, "Remember the Alamo"—a cry heard on all sides at the battle of San Jacinto, April 21, 1836, where the Texans, under General Sam Houston, finally defeated the Mexicans.

Following the achieving of independence came the republic of Texas with its lone star flag. The republic presently honored the United States by offering to become a member of its sisterhood and the offer was gratefully accepted. The man who designed the beautiful lone star flag was General de Zavala, a fighter for Texan independence and the young republic's first vice president. Today his granddaughter, Adina de Zavala, is president of the San Antonio chapter of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas. It is named for her, the De Zavala chapter. Miss de Zavala has been intensely earnest and energetic in her efforts to save the old Alamo. The word "Alamo" means in Spanish "popiar tree." The whole structure will be turned into a museum and hall of fame by the women's organization. It will contain pictures, sculpture and historic objects. It was in the upper stories that the heroic Texans made their last stand. These upper floors will be converted into art galleries. The lower part will contain historic relics and books.

All the women of the United States must sympathize with the Daughters of the Republic of Texas in their effort. Miss de Zavala is calling the attention of Texan clubwomen to the enterprise. At the recent meeting of the state federation of women's clubs she read an eloquent paper appealing to all to aid in the important work undertaken. Already the Daughters have caused to be replaced on the Alamo chapel the famous old bell, "San Antonio," which had been removed. The date of this bell is 1722. The Alamo building, in which the Texans made their last stand, adjoins the Alamo chapel.

A ROMANCE OF THE DAYS WHEN "THE GREAT LORD HAWKE" WAS KING OF THE SEA

CHAPTER I.

IN THE FOG OFF USHANT.

FOR two days H. B. M. brig-of-war Boxer had been groping about in a thick fog off the island of Ushant on the Breton littoral. At least, in default of astronomical observation, that is where Lieut. Philip Grafton, her commander, imagined his ship to be. The Boxer was bound in for Portsmouth, England, with dispatches from Admiral Boscawen, then commanding at Gibraltar. She had made a quick passage from the Straits and had met with no bad luck or misfortune until she had run into the fog near Belle Isle, since which time she had been slowly working her way northward, as the fitful breezes and mist-hidden seas permitted. The dispatches she bore were of grave importance, and haste in their delivery had been enjoined upon the young commander. Therefore, he chafed under the vexatious delays with all the impatience of a sailor to whose progress fogs and calms are obstacles well-nigh insurmountable by his sea-philosophy.

To his impatience was added a vivid consciousness of probable and imminent danger, for the Boxer was drifting about within easy striking distance of the great French naval depot of Brest, which was filled with the capital ships and cruisers of the enemy; and the narrow seas, in the absence of any English fleet nearer than Gibraltar, swarmed with men-of-war coming and going. At that time no English blockade had been established on the French seaboard, and the ships of the "well beloved" king ran in and out of Brest at their pleasure.

So long as the fog held, the English brig was safe from observation and the danger of capture by a ship of superior force was minimized; it amounted to almost nothing in fact. But when the fog lifted—unless it were accompanied by a good breeze, which would scarcely be likely at that season of the year—the Boxer would be at the mercy of anything of sufficient size that happened along. Though young in the service, Lieut. Grafton had earned a well-deserved reputation for daring and skill, and gladly would he have welcomed an opportunity for a brush with a cruiser of a force equal to, or even somewhat greater than, his own. English ships then were accustomed to giving odds; indeed, unless there was some preponderance in force in favor of the French, they took but little credit for a victory. But a vessel which would at all match his own was not likely to appear.

Grafton was one of the few American provincials in the royal naval service. His father had been in command of one of the armed vessels of the squadron of the colony of Massachusetts which had done remarkably good work in Pepperell's successful campaign against Louisburg in 1745. As a reward for his services on that occasion—services by no means inconsiderable—stout old John Grafton had been given a commission in the king's navy, and was now a rear-admiral, retired, living in the enjoyment of his honors in his ancestral home in Massachusetts. His son, who had followed his father's profession, also enjoyed the royal favor and had risen rapidly through the various grades of the naval service to the rank of lieutenant. He had, in his brief career, given evidence of superior ability, and it was thought with his influence that he would eventually obtain high rank in the service.

On the morning of the 3d of July, 1754, the young captain was restlessly pacing the weather side of the small quarter-deck of his brig in close consultation with his first lieutenant, a kindred spirit, named Stanhope.

"Dash me, John!" he exclaimed impatiently, dropping the quarter-deck for the nonce, as they were out of hearing of everybody except an old seaman at the wheel, who had sailed with Grafton's father from boyhood and had, naturally, attached himself to the fortunes of the son. "Dash me, but this is vexing! Here we lie tossing about like an empty bottle in these beastly swells and not a thing to tell us where we are or where we are drifting!"

"True, Capt. Grafton," answered the lieutenant, giving his superior his courtesy title, "the fog's so thick you could almost cut it. I can't even see the heel of the bowsprit forward. 'Tis most annoying."

"Hark! what's that?" cried Grafton, stopping short and catching his subordinate by the arm. "There!" pointing aft, "didn't you hear it? A ship's bell!"

As he spoke the sound of a bell struck, in couplets, four times, came faintly toward them through the gray mist-laden air of the morning.

"Ay, surely, I heard it," answered Stanhope, turning about, lifting his hand to his ear as he spoke, and concentrating his attention in the direction of the sound.

"Where do you make it to come from?"

"Why, about there, dead astern, I should say, sir," replied the other, pointing aft.

"Right O, Mr. Stanhope. Pass the word quietly forward for the men to make no noise," said the captain, turning to the midshipman on watch. "It's ten chances to one yon's a French ship."

Many of the crew had heard the sound of the bell, and they stood listening with eager intentness in various attitudes about the deck. In obedience to their captain's direction, all of them remained still and quiet, waiting his further orders. Presently a little puff of air fanned the cheek of the watchful commander.

"The breeze is coming, I trust," he said to Stanhope. "See! The fog thins yonder! 'Tis lightening surely! Get the men to their quarters without the drum, Mr. Stanhope; cast loose the batteries and load with a round shot and a stand of grape. Bear a hand! Lively, but be quiet with it all! We may have need to show our teeth in a moment. Ay, it clears!"

In a moment, as the lieutenant ran forward giving the order, the deck of the brig was filled with silent confusion. The men sprang like big cats to their stations. The little guns of the vessel were soon cast loose and provided, and, having been double-shotted, were run out again and a good turn taken with the side-tackles to hold them. The wind was coming stronger now, but still in fitful puffs, from the southwest. Singularly enough, the fog seemed to be rising against the wind.

Presently, by the watchful young commander's direction, the sail-trimmers braced about the yards to take advantage of the rising breeze, and the Boxer began slowly to forge through the water. It was the first time in several days that she had enjoyed good steerage way, and all hands watched her travel with feelings of great relief. Before she had gathered much way, however, they heard again the sound which had awakened them to action. Five bells this time came floating up from the southward as before. On this occasion the sound was clearer and more distinct, showing that the approaching vessel had drawn nearer. The deep quality of the tones denoted that the bell was a large one.

"By gad, Stanhope, that bell doesn't swing on anything under a heavy frigate," said Grafton; "we're in for it this time unless we can make some distance with this brisking breeze while the fog holds. What's she making?"

"About two knots, I think, sir," answered Stanhope, looking over the side at the sluggish water slowly drawing past; "maybe two and a half, no more."

"'Tis a cursed slow boat; but British ships are not built for running, they leave that for t'other fellows. I wish now the fog would hold a little longer. Keep your weather eye lifting there, Jabez," continued Grafton, turning to old Slocum, who still stood at the wheel; "don't lose a bit of it."

"Ay, ay, sir!" replied the old Yankee, shifting his quid as he gave a careful squint at the top-sails, which the wind was scarcely strong enough to fill. "I won't lose none o't, yer honor."

For a few anxious moments the brig held on. Presently, in spite of their desires, the two officers perceived that the fog was indeed going. However, there was nothing to be done. It was still too thick to see anything distinctly, so they held on steadily. At 11 o'clock, from the other ship, they heard again the sound of the bell, which now rang six times. She, too, had been feeling the wind, and was evidently edging along in their wake, which was pure chance, for they had given her no sign of their presence.

"Confound the luck!" said Grafton; "whatever she is, she's right after us. By the sound, I should say we haven't gained a fathom!"

"Lost, rather," suggested Stanhope. "This brig's no goer at all in this sort of breeze, and it's so fitful no one can tell——"

"By heaven, the wind has shifted again! We're aback! Shift the helm there! All hands to the lee braces!" cried Grafton, as the wind suddenly swung about and took the ship aback.

Fortunately it was not blowing strong enough to do any damage, although the wind was increasing in force with every moment. But before the Boxer paid off, the fog suddenly lifted. It was brushed away from them as if it had been swept aside by a gigantic hand. The gray mist in front of them gave place to radiant golden light. The tossing white-capped waves, instead of showing the sickly leaden color of the past few days, were thrown into brilliant blue by the irradiating sun. The brightness was almost dazzling. There did not seem to be a single cloud above them.

"Land ho!" shouted one of the men on the forecastle, as the mist disappeared.

There before them, and scarcely a mile away, rose the grim cliffs of the forbidding island of Ushant. They could see the breakers crashing and churning in sheets of foam about its feet.

"All hands to the lee braces!" cried Grafton, promptly. "Starboard your helm! Flow the head-sheets, there! Haul over that spanker-sheet. We must get away from that, Stanhope!"

"Sail ho!" cried one of the afterguard at the same instant, as the handy little brig spun around on her heel and thrust her blunt nose up toward the wind on the port tack.

There, scarcely two cables' length away from them, they saw the bows of an immense ship, ghostlike, come shoving through the fog, which still enshrouded that quarter of the sea.

CHAPTER II.

THE SMASHING OF THE BRIG.

"'TIS a ship of the line!" shouted Stanhope, who immediately caught sight of it.

Grafton slewed himself about on his heel and rapidly took in the situation.

"And a Frenchman, by heaven!" he roared. "No English ship has bows like that! Break out the stuns'ls, Mr. Stanhope, we may need them presently."

At the same instant they were seen from the ship of the line.

"Ship ahoy! What ship is that?" came up the wind from the French vessel.

"We'll soon show you," said Grafton, under his breath. "Man the port battery, lads! Jump lively! We must escape if we can!"

The two ships were sailing at right angles to each other now, one going free and the other just coming by the wind on the port tack. They were so near each other that the men clustered forward on the top-gallant forecastle of the French ship could easily be made out. The fog was going as if by magic.

"Stand by!" roared Grafton, as they passed squarely across the Frenchman's bow. "Fire!"

The eight six-pounders on the port side of the brig saluted the liner with an impudent broadside.

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,

14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL, IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

BRITISH IN TIBET.

Colonel Younghusband's Force Encamped Near the Capital.

LASSA, Tibet, Aug. 8.—The British expedition is encamped a mile from the sacred mountain of Potala, on which is situated the dalai lama's palace and in the immediate vicinity of the dalai lama's private gardens.

The dalai lama fled to a monastery eighteen miles distant. It is reported that he has shut himself up in strict seclusion, refusing to see even the highest state officers and declaring that he will remain secluded for three years.

Colonel Younghusband has received a ceremonial visit from the amban, who promised to assist in arriving at a settlement and made gifts of food to the British troops.

The appearance of the city shows the descriptions of explorers to be extremely accurate. The surroundings are very fertile, and the whole place gives evidence of great prosperity.

A brilliantly costumed group watched the approach of the expedition from the roof of one of the structures on Potala mountain.

Must Not Fish In Private Park.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 8.—The Still Water club has won a suit brought against Elon Bent of Stockholm for trespassing on their private park in the township of Clare. The defendant admitted fishing in a stream flowing through the club's land, but claimed that no park existed, that the stream was state property and that he had a right to fish therein. The court found that a park existed and rendered judgment for 6 cents, as no damages had been sustained. The defendant had offered to accept judgment of 6 cents and costs, so that the trial costs now fall on the plaintiff. The case will be appealed. A similar action against Frank Eastman of Stockholm will be tried on Aug. 16.

Trolley Men Get Wage Increase.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 8.—The employees of the Consolidated Railway company have voted to accept the proposition of the company made in response to the trolley men's demands for an increase in wages, recognition of the union and new regulations regarding extra men and pay for overtime work. The action of the meeting was enthusiastic, and it closed with a cheer for the management. By the terms of the reply all regular men will receive 21 cents an hour in place of 20 cents, which has been the rate in force. The men asked for 22½ cents an hour. The request for recognition of the union was refused.

Taft and Dewey Will Be There.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 8.—All the details have been completed for the celebration of Philippine day next Saturday. Originally the day was to be observed as Liberal Arts day, but owing to the fact it was desired to celebrate the sixth anniversary of the surrender of Manila on that day Liberal Arts day has been postponed until Aug. 27. Philippine day will be characterized by the presence of Secretary of War Taft, Admiral Dewey, General Chaffee, General Wesley Merritt, General Otis, General Charles King and other distinguished guests.

Wages Did Not Rise In Proportion.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Chairman Cowherd of the Democratic congressional campaign committee has issued a statement in refutation of the recently published tables from the bureau of labor relative to the increase in wages and the cost of living. Mr. Cowherd says that Dun's table of prices shows from July, 1897, the low point, to March, 1904, the highest point, that the cost of living increased 43 per cent. The most skillful juggler could not show such a rise in wages.

Boy Burglars Confessed.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 8.—As a result of the work of George S. Brinkerhoff, nineteen years old, a son of Chief of Police J. D. Brinkerhoff, Percy Dow, Roy Martin and Henry Brewster, aged eleven, twelve and thirteen years respectively, have been arrested here for burglary and have confessed that they and others were implicated in over thirty-five burglaries and attempted burglaries in this city during the past few months and that they had also planned to commit arson.

Suffers From an Old Wound.

SOUTHAMPTON, Aug. 8. — The statement published in the United States that Vice Commodore Morton F. Plant of the Larchmont Yacht club is ill probably had its origin in the fact that he had to be assisted in and out of the yacht club at Cowes. Mr. Plant is suffering from an old wound in his leg, but is improving. He has been advised to rest the injured member, but has not done so.

Valuable Stock Barns Burned.

POMFRET, Conn., Aug. 8.—The stock barns of Thomas S. Harrison, ex-consul general to Egypt, were destroyed by fire, causing a loss of $25,000. Three barns, eighty tons of hay and a number of horses, among which were four trotting horses, valued at about $1,000 each, were burned. The property was fully insured.

Miss Hanna Married.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 8.—Miss Grace Muller Hanna of Rochester, N. Y., and Mr. Ralph Wilson Brameslee of Denver were married in this city yesterday in the presence of a small circle of friends.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

The National A. C. will play the West End Colored Giants on Crescent Oval tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Two teams composed of the married and single men in the membership of the Timbo Social Club, have been picked out to play a baseball game within the next two weeks. It will take place near Sebring's Mills and the losers will have to stand the cost of a dinner for the eighteen players, umpire and scorer.

The Westfield baseball management has given permission to the Newark and Paterson policemen to use Recreation Park for a baseball game at any week-day date desired, and has also offered the officers the use of the bats. Chief O'Neill arranged matters for the police of the nearby cities, who have not as yet decided definitely when they will go to Westfield.

The Orange F. C. of this city was defeated by the Twilight F. C. at Scotch Plains, Saturday, by a score of 6 to 2. Sherwin was in the box for the Plainfield team and did good work, while Johnston did the twirling for the Twilights. The game was interesting throughout, the few hits made being widely scattered. Frentz, of the Plains team made the longest hit of the season, driving the ball over the center field fence.

ROD AND GUN.

Carl Sprins, of Brooklyn, and Edward Goldberg, of Philadelphia, both of whom are visiting in this city, spent yesterday at Sewaren and returned with a fine mess of weakfish.

About a dozen local fishermen visited Sewaren and Perth Amboy yesterday and the fish-basket at their return showed that the fish had been biting well. Some excellent catches were reported.

ST. STEPHEN'S SOCIAL CLUB.

Young Men Organize to Promote Manliness.

The "N. B. A.," a social club recently formed among the young men of St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, convened Saturday afternoon for the election of officers. By the consent of the boys, Rev. Arthur S. Peck, rector in charge of the church, was elected director of the club. Frederick Crook was elected president; John King, vice pesidrent; George Bowe, treasurer, and Geeorge Bobbs, secretary. The object of the club is to promote manliness among its members, and arrangements are being made to hire special club rooms where the weekly meetings can be held.

The "N. B. A. Juniors," composed of the smaller boys of the parish, are to hold their meetings on Friday afternoons. At the meeting on Friday, Fred Bowe was elected president; Bergen Moore, vice president; George Mattox, treasurer, and Harry Christianson, secretary. The average age of the members of this organization is ten years. The rector is also in charge of these boys.

Democrats Set Date for Convention.

Nineteen of the twenty-five members of the New Jersey Democratic State Committee, met at Asbury Park on Saturday and fixed Thursday, September 15, as the date for the State convention. It will be held in the State street theatre, Trenton, and the electors for President and Vice President will be nominated the same day. It was decided that each borough in the State should have a delegate and he should be entitled to a full vote in the convention. It is believed that James E. Martine will represent Plainfield.

Dr. and Mrs. M. B. Long, of Park avenue, entertained out-of-town relatives yesterday.

Mrs. John Farquaharson, who has been visiting Mrs. G. Messersmith, of Central avenue, has left for a short stay at Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

POLICE DEPARTMENT NEWS

George Shea, Fred August and Joseph Doyle, arrested by Patrolmen Overbaugh and Officer O'Gorman for disorderly conduct on the Watchung avenue bridge, were fined $5 each in the city court this morning. They couldn't raise the money and took twenty days instead. William Kenna, arrested by Patrolman Kelly for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, had sentence suspended.

A telephone message was received at headquarters at 1:50 this morning, stating that burglars were prowling about the residence of George Ruff at 319 East Fifth street. Policemen were sent to the place, but discovered nothing to bear out the statement.

In response to a call, Officer O'Gorman went to 513 Madison avenue, yesterday, and shot a mad dog. It is not known to whom the animal belonged.

George Voehl, of West Front street, reported to headquarters that a horse had been stolen from his stable early this morning. Later on an animal was taken to Cole's livery, which proved to be the missing one. It had been fed by employes who had neglected to tie it and it wandered off.

EXPRESS WRECKED.

Many Persons Killed on the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Pueblo, Col., Aug. 8—Between thirty and fifty persons are believed to have lost their lives last night when the Missouri Pacific Express, over the Denver and Rio Grande Railway, went through the high bridge at Fountain Creek, south of this city.

The train was composed of a locomotive and five cars, four passenger cars and a baggage car. It is thought that between eighty and 100 passengers were on the train.

Mrs. Baxter Pronounced Insane.

After wandering about the West End for the past few days, Mrs. Jane Baxter, who is better known as Mrs. Jane Fairweather, was arrested at the Fourth street car barns early this morning by Patrolman O'Keefe. When taken to headquarters she was found to be mentally incompetent and when examined by Drs. Lufburrow and Currie today they pronounced her insane. Papers were made out and she will be taken to the State Hospital at Morris Plains this afternoon.

Bridges Partially Destroyed.

Reports of the damage caused by Friday's storm still continue to be heard, especially from the vicinity of New Market. There the postoffice was flooded and the houses owned by Mayor Smith were also flooded. About fifteen bridges, some small and some large, were partially destroyed. The rain was almost incessant for nearly two hours, flooding the road between Dunellen and New Market for a distance of twenty rods in about two feet of water.

A Union Meeting.

A large delegation of members from Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, attended a union meeting of the order held at Elizabeth Saturday evening. Many of the State officers were present, including Deputy State Councilor G. B. Allen, of this city. Candidates were initiated, speeches were enjoyed and refreshments were served at the close.

He Did Resign.

Andrew Nolen confirms the statement that he resigned from the Democratic County Committee at a meeting held Friday night. Action was not taken on the resignation, as the regular secretary to whom it was sent was not present.

—Two suggestions for dinner—Jersey sweet corn and Jersey tomatoes. Both can be found at Neuman Bros', received fresh every day.

John Daley, of Central avenue, left yesterday to commence the advance work for the "Why Girls Leave Home" Company with which he has signed for the coming season.

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

In the absence of Miss Carroll, the organist of Grace M. E. Church, Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan presided at the organ very acceptably.

Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, pastor-emeritus, officiated at the communion service at the First Baptist church yesterday morning. There were no accessions.

Rev. Abram Duryea, of Cherry Hill, was the preacher at Trinity Reformed Church yesterday morning. "How to spend the vacation rest" was the subject of his discourse.

In the absence of Rev. John Sheridan Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, who is on his vacation, Rev. P. Theodore Pookman, pastor of the Reformed church at New Brunswick, occupied the pulpit both morning and evening. The offering at both services was for the benefit of Lincoln University.

Miss Sally Boss, of this city is the guest of relatives at Washington.

Miss Mamie Carney spent yesterday in Bound Brook, where she was the guest of Frank Mangeot.

Miss Ethel Lorton, of Watchung avenue, is visiting relatives at Centerville, Hunterdon County.

Paul R. Collier will shortly leave for Asbury Park, where he will spend a few days visiting relatives.

We Are PREPARED to put up the best awnings at most reasonable prices. A good awning properly put up will last for years. Let us estimate on yours.

We have specially interesting prices on Carpets, Mattings and Window Shades.

PAYS $1,000 TO STRING WIRES IN TOWNSHIP

Telephone and Telegraph Co. Agrees to Terms Made by Fanwood Authorities.

TWENTY YEARS LEASE

WANTED PRIVILEGE FOR NINETY-NINE YEARS, BUT WAS REFUSED.

Second Time Township Committee Has Profited in Granting Franchise—Dictated to Street Railway Company.

For the privilege of stringing its wires through the lower end of Fanwood Township, the Northeastern Telegraph and Telephone Company has paid the Township Committee $1,000. The terms were only recently agreed upon after the concern had found that the only way it could complete its big trunk line was to pay the amount asked. No other township in the State has received as high an amount for such a franchise and the Fanwood officials have been highly commended for their tact in forcing the corporation to accept the conditions.

An erecting gang in the employ of the company has been working through North Jersey for several months building the trunk line and when the Fanwood township line was reached, the committee was applied to for permission to set up poles and string wires along Raritan road, which runs from the Westfield line to the Middlesex county line near Alton. It was stated that no local business was to be sought and that in other places the necessary permission had been granted free. This did not suit the committee, however, and the applicants were informed that the necessary privilege would cost $1,000.

The company declined to pay a cent but after suspending work awhile and finding that there was no way out of it, the committee was informed that $1,000 would be paid for a ninety-nine year lease. The committee would only agree to a twenty year permit and this was the franchise eventually given. For Fanwood township, the papers were signed by a committee composed of Chairman Thomas J. Nichol, Theodore Bruchman and Ivan Goodman.

This is the second time that the township has gained in giving out franchises. When the Westfield and Elizabeth Railway Company, now the Public Service Corporation, asked permission to lay tracks through its confines, the terms were not suitable to the committee and were rejected. Meeting after meeting was held and although the residents were anxious for the road to go through, their representatives were not until the company paid for the valuable franchise and they finally won out. An agreement was drawn up that was acceptable to both sides and it was passed, since then the terms having been copied by municipalities throughout the State.

Celebrate Their Golden Wedding.

The home of Dr. F. S. Weeks, of Grant avenue, was the scene of the golden wedding celebration of Mrs. Weeks' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Draper, of DeRuyter, N. Y., Wednesday afternoon. Many old friends who knew the couple in their young married days fifty years ago were present at the celebration. Many handsome and valuable gifts were received by the old people, who are still hale and hearty in their old age.

A Pet Dog Poisoned.

A small white dog, which has been for some time a pet in the family of John H. Stevens, of Watchung avenue, was deliberately poisoned by some malicious person on Saturday night, and died Sunday morning in great pain. The animal had never been complained of by by any of the neighbors, but had always been a trusty pet of the family. Stevens is convinced that the poisoning was done maliciously.

Miss Thompson's Fifth Birthday.

In honor of the fifth anniversary of her birthday, Miss Helen Thompson, of East Third street, entertained a party of her little friends, yesterday afternoon. Everyone had a good time playing games and then supper was served, a feature of the "spread" being a large birthday cake. The little hostess received many presents which will remind her of the pleasant occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ayers, of Harmony street, are happy over the arrival of a ten-pound baby boy.

LOCATES HER IN THE BOROUGH AT THE HOME OF A FRIEND.

Philip Swick, of Danville, was married to a young woman named Sargeant, of Mt. Bethel, on October 6, of last year by the Rev. Mr. Harris, of Oxford and neighbors who were intimate with them believe that they had been living happily ever since then.

This knowledge makes all the more mysterious an affair which happened last week. Swick went out of his house one morning to his regular employment and when he came back his wife was missing and the breakfast dishes were upon the table unwashed.

Swick had some inside information and started off on a hunt for his wife. He located her stopping with a friend at 26 Chatham street, Plainfield, but the husband was able to get an interview with her only through the aid of a policeman.

It looks as though Mrs Swick had left her husband for good and the acquaintances of both are in the dark as to the causes. Swick claims that he does not know why his wife left him. —Washington Star.

THE BISHOP AND THE SALOON

REV. DR. WHITNEY VIEWS THE QUESTION FROM CHRISTIAN STANDPOINT.

In reference to Bishop Potter's recent action in dedicating a saloon in New York, Rev. Dr. George H. Whitney, of this city, has this to say:

"The design of the Christian religion is to elevate manhood and womanhood to the highest possible mode of life. Jesus Christ came to earth not only to die for man, but to set him an example of what this life means. The Master sent his disciples into 'all the world' to 'preach,' to 'teach' this gospel of high and pure living. This is the gospel minister's sole mission. He cannot degrade this mission in anywise without being recreant to his high trust. There are 'clergymen, ministers, Bishops' in this exalted work. Whenever a Bishop dedicates a Christian church he receives the approval of all men. When he sends a clergyman to be pastor of the church to preach the gospel of Christ, the world approves. If the Bishop goes into that pulpit, takes the place of the pastor, preaching this same gospel of the all-perfect Jesus, again the world approves his work. This universal approval of the minister and the Bishop comes to them because, in America pre-eminently, the Christian religion is recognized as having the highest elevation of men and women as its sole mission.

"The Christian religion is from God. The liquor saloon is not from God. Nothing is more fully established in this country than that the liquor saloon is a curse to the human race. Millions lie in drunkards' graves whose degraded lives and death were due to the saloon. While we may have no right to question a man's motives, we form opinions of men's actions. While the Bishop's motives may have been sincere his action was most unfortunate indeed for a minister of Christ.

"From the gospel standpoint, only evil and that continually flows from a liquor saloon, whether it be gilded or ragged, whether it be dedicated by a tramp, an infidel or a Bishop."

MASONIC HOME DEDICATION.

New Orphanage Will be Completed in October.

Early in October the Masonic members of the State will be called upon to take part in the dedication ceremonies of the new orphanage at the Masonic home in Burlington County.

The new orphanage will be entirely finished by the time of dedication.

There are now sixty-two inmates in the home, of whom sixteen are orphans. There was one death during July and two additional inmates were received.

The beautiful grounds of the home, which are not excelled in this State, look immensely well just now, owing to the frequent rains.

The home is prosperous and the officers who made an inspection last Friday are highly pleased with the condition of affairs.

Borough Court News.

William Gallaway appeared before Recorder Doud last evening on the charge of drunkenness. He was fined $5. Two hours later he was arrested by Chief of Police Weiss on the same charge. John Schenck, who was arrested Saturday night for riding his wheel without a lamp, was brought before Recorder Doud last evening. He was dismissed after a warning.

LOCAL FIRE LADDIES MEET SECOND DEFEAT

Brooklyn Ball Tossers Win Easily by a Score of 11 to 2.

A COMEDY OF ERRORS

FIREMEN ROYALLY ENTERTAINED IN CITY OF CHURCHES.

Chief Doane and City Judge Runyon Responds to Toasts at a Banquet—Captain DuFlon Congratulated.

Down in Brooklyn yesterday, the Plainfield firemen scored their regular two runs and held their opponents down to eleven runs, six runs less than were piled up against them in town two weeks ago. As in the last game, the Plainfielders made but two runs, in the fifth and eighth inning, but they did better with the stick, making six hits off the Brooklyn twirler and playing with fewer errors in the field. There was also big improvement in base running.

On account of a severely split thumb, Poole, who was to catch for the Plainfielders was incapitated and did not go with the players. His assistant being thus out of the game, Drew, who was to pitch, also stayed in town. Ferris and Baxter, a battery offered by the visitors, were put in and did good service, though allowing twelve hits. "Whitey" Daly was at first, Captain "Bill" Townley at second and Ed Townley commenced the game at third, but subsequently changed places with McCabe and went to centre field. Jaeger put up a snappy game on short. Kesselring at right field, and Larew at left field completed the Plainfield nine. The game was played at St. Michael's grounds on Second avenue and was umpired by "Matty" Matthews, the pugilist.

The game will be soon forgotten by the firemen, but they will long remember the "blow-out" and the good time tendered by the home team. It sweetened the defeat to the extent of making it merely an attending necessity to what followed. At the conclusion of the contest, the players adjourned to the house of H. & L. Truck 64 and "spruced up." At about seven, all players and the small bunch of local rooters who heeled the team, went to Asher's Hotel to partake of the banquet supplied by their opponents. The banquet board was spread in a big dining room, beautifully decorated with flowers, bunting and green; at each plate was a bouquet of flowers.

After the appetites had been satisfied, toasts and speeches were in order. As chairman and toastmaster, the formal speech of welcome came from Captain Langdon, of Truck 64. Replying to this, Chief Doane made a few remarks and after him City Judge William N. Runyon and Captain William F. Townley, of the team, responded to toasts. Captain DuFlon, of the Brooklyn firemen and the battalion chief at the house were other speakers. Music and entertainment were supplied by a string orchestra and a quartete of singers, and several of the Brooklynites gave recitations and songs. Satisfied in every way with the hospitality and good fellowship of Captain DuFlon's players and of the men of Truck 64 in general, the Plainfielders finally bade all a farewell and returned to this city on a late train.

Barber Carried No Insurance.

Charles Pagliucca, the proprietor of the barber shop on South Second street, destroyed by fire Sunday night, reached home from New York last evening and learned of the blaze for the first time. He stated today that his loss will reach $500, and that he did not have a cent of insurance. This will bring the total loss up to $1,000, though the owner of the building, V. W. Nash, Sr., had it insured for its full value.

Purchased a New Home.

Julius Williams, of Central avenue, has purchased the desirable property on the corner of Plainfield avenue and West Front street, which was formerly owned by Alburtus Swalm. The purchaser is having some improvements made on the grounds and about the house, and will probably occupy the house about the first of September.

Letter-Carriers to Meet in Newark.

Final arrangements have been made for the State letter-carriers' convention to be held in Newark on Labor Day. It is expected that the gathering will be one of the largest in the history of the association, and Plainfield will be well represented.

MRS. SCHENCK ACCEPTS CALL

WILL TAKE IMMEDIATE CHARGE OF AFFAIRS AT MARCONNIER CHAPEL.

Responding to a call extended her by the consistory of Trinity Reformed church, Mrs. J. W. Schenck, sister-in-law to Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, has decided to accept charge of affairs at Marconnier chapel at Oak Tree. She will remove to the latter place at once, making her home at the residence of William VanCourt, near the chapel, and will assume all the duties usually incumbent upon the minister of a small congregation, beginning today.

Mrs. Schenck was for several years a missionary in North Japan where she worked faithfully until her health began to fail her. She was prevailed upon by the Board to take a vacation and decided to come to Plainfield. She has been living with her husband's brother's family and since recovering her strength fully, has been longing to renew her efforts for the cause of Christ. The vacancy at Marconnier chapel has existed since the resignation of H. W. Marshall and the consistory of Trinity church eventually decided to call Mrs. Schenck in the same manner as they would a clergyman.

She has had the matter under prayerful consideration for some time and yesterday accepted the call. The members of Trinity Reformed church are greatly pleased with her decision and it is thought that with her superintendency and advice the Marconnier congregation will enjoy a speedy and healthy growth. She is thoroughly competent because of her long experience in other fields and enters upon the work confident of success.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY.

William Polon Pleads Guilty to Charge of Petty Larceny.

William Polon, driver for Roth & Co., the East Front street butchers, who was summoned before Justice Hand this morning for petty larceny on the complaint of Jacob Judas, manager of the meat firm, pleaded guilty to Judas' charge that he had appropriated collections to the amount of $2.28 on C. O. D. orders. Justice Hand placed him under $50 bonds on his own recognizance to await the action of the Grand Jury at Elizabeth. Fred J. Huff, Esq., represented the State in the case.

Later in the day it was learned that Polon, who is 22 year of age, had secured work with another firm and will start in tomorrow to replace the money he took from Roth & Co.

GIRL CONFESSES CUILT.

She Had Been Obtaining Good Under False Pretences.

Through information furnished by merchants who had been swindled, the young woman who has been going about getting articles from various stores and having them charged to prominent people, was caught by the police yesterday afternoon. She confessed at headquarters and spent the night in a cell. When arraigned in court today several persons interested themselves in her case and assured Judge Runyon that they would take care of her if released.

The girl comes of a respectable family and in order to give her another chance, she was released on her own recognizance but will be in charge of the county probation officer.

BURGLARY AT WESTFIELD.

Home of Joseph Bray Robbed While the Family Was Asleep.

While the family of Joseph Bray was sound asleep at their home on Westfield avenue, Westfield, last night, burglars effected an entrance to the house through a kitchen window and proceeding to Mr. Bray's bed-room picked up his gold watch and $160 in money. A check for a large amount was close by, but not discovered by the thieves. The burglary was reported to the Westfield police this morning, but there is no clew. Mr. Bray is a New York business man.

Merry Sailors.

Allen Vanderhoef and Clarence Smalley have purchased a sixteen foot canvas canoe from Fred Haynes, of New Market. The canoe is now on New Market pond and the owners are enjoying the use of it daily. The boat is equipped with oar-locks and can be used for rowing or paddling. The young men intend to furnish the canoe with sailing rigging soon.

LOCAL BANKING HOUSE GETS THE SCHOOL BONDS

Borough Board of Education Awards $36,000 Issue to Plainfield Trust Co.

THREE OTHER BIDDERS

WILL BE READY FOR DELIVERY ABOUT SEPTEMBER 5.

Contract For Erection of Building to be Given Out Friday Evening—Plans Will Meet Appropriation.

A special meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Education was held last evening for the purpose of receiving bids for $36,000 of four per cent. school bonds. They were allotted the Plainfield Trust Company, which offered to take them for $36,540 with accrued interest. There were three other bids as follows: Burlington Loan and Trust Company, $36,355; Kountz Brothers, New York, $36,097.56; H. L. Crawford & Company, New York, $36,407.78.

A certified check accompanied each bid and all were returned with the exception of the Trust Company's. The bonds are now in the hands of printers and will be ready for delivery September 5.

Although the amount secured was not as high in proportion as the amount bid for the Plainfield school bonds, the members of the Board expressed themselves greatly pleased with the result. They were also pleased that they had been secured by a local concern as it will lessen the work of the finance committee in completing the details in transfer.

The only item of business transacted at the meeting was the passing of a resolution to purchase modelling clay from the Trenton Pottery Company and a check was drawn for payment of the first shipment. Adjournment was taken until next Friday evening when new bids will be opened for the erection of the new school building. It is thought they will be passed this time as the plans have been altered and many new contractors have looked them over and declared they will be covered by the appropriation.

A COMMUNITY OF INTERESTS

E. S. HOOLEY TELLS WHY THE LEHIGH IS NOT LIKELY TO COME HERE.

Much has been said recently about the advisability of the Lehigh Valley Railroad entering this city by way of a spur from South Plainfield, thus giving the town competition in passenger, as well as freight traffic. It has been argued that another railroad would be of advantage to the city. However, it seems to be a question in the minds of many whether the service now being given by the New Jersey Central could be improved upon, but the following letter from one well-versed in railroad matters is of especial interest and opportune:

"Editor of Daily Press:

In regard to the agitation now going on in which editorials and letters have been written commenting on the advisability of a spur being built to connect the Lehigh Valley Railroad with Plainfield, would say: The Lehigh Valley Railroad and Central Railroad of New Jersey are owned and controlled by the same people, George F. Baer, George F. Baker and Charles Steele are directors in each company.

"Besides being a director in each company George F. Baer is president of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. 'Nuff said.'"

Truly yours,
Edwin S. Hooley.

A Contemptible Act.

Burglary of the meanest sort was perpetrated in Grace M. E. church, Friday morning, when someone effected an entrance through a basement window and smashed the missionary collection box. The contents, consisting of the usual collection taken Wednesday evening, were taken but nothing else in the place was disturbed. An effort has been made to learn the identity of the thief, but so far without success.

Extensive Improvements.

The entire front of Harry Werner's store on West Front street has been torn out, and a new glass front will be put in similar to those in the metropolitan stores. It is expected that the work will be finished about the last of next week.

P. S. C. DECLARED UNFAIR

STATE ASSOCIATION OF PLUMBERS HAVE GRIEVANCES.

The Public Service Corporation has come under the ban of the State Association of Journeymen Plumbers, being declared on the unfair list at a meeting of the association held in Trenton, yesterday. Resolutions were passed that each local union make an effort to have every union man in each city take out the gas meters and dispense with all gas ranges belonging to the company.

The trouble is over the gas stove connections. The corporation has had employed in this work men whom it pays 25 cents an hour and who are not plumbers. The plumbers believe that they should be given the bulk of this work. The plumbers see that these men who pipe houses and make connections soon get expert at the work. The plumbers scale of wages is 41 cents an hour.

The plumbers say that the corporation refused to grant them a conference or to talk over the matter.

The convention was attended by forty-two delegates, representing almost every city in the State.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR CONCLAVE

MANY DISTINGUISHED MASONS TO MEET IN SAN FRANCISCO.

The Knights Templar parade to be held in San Francisco on September 6, promises to be the greatest in the history of the organization and elaborate arrangements are being made for the gathering of Knights.

The line is to be four miles in length with not less than 10,000 swords in line. Many distinguished persons from all parts of the United States and Canada, and from across the Atlantic will be in the imposing pageant. The highest Masonic bodies of England and Wales, and a delegation representing King Edward and the Duke of Connaught, headed by the Earl of Euston, will be the special guests. The Sir Knights of California are preparing a gift to King Edward as a souvenir of the conclave which he has honored by sending a delegation as his personal representatives.

The gift is to be a printed volume, which is to contain a complete and accurate record of the conclave, the cover of the book to be entirely of handwrought silver, worked into a rich, yet simple scheme of fourteenth century bands, graceful scrolls and silver studding. On the top cover there is to be a figure of a golden knight, backed by a crimson cross, and on the reverse cover a centre plate, on which is engraved the seal of California. The Masonic fraternity throughout the world are interested in this great gathering and the pilgrimages to the Golden Gate have already begun.

STARVED ANIMAL SHOT.

Metuchen Farmer Has Troubles in This City.

A family of the name of Lambert, returning to their home in Metuchen, were interrupted in their journey Saturday evening by the inability of their horse to go on any further The horse was one of the thinest specimens which has been seen in the vicinity for a long time. It showed signs of starvation.

The weary animal refused to move and lay down at Park avenue and Fifth street. A crowd soon gathered to assist in raising the animal, but all efforts were in vain. Policemen Higgins and Frederickson were summoned and after examining the beast informed the owner that either the horse must be shot or the driver arrested for cruelty to animals. After much argument on the part of the owner, and a consultation with Dr. Knott regarding the possibility of the horse's recovery, he decided that he would rather part with the horse than pay the fine for driving it. The beast was finally shot by Roundsman Higgins.

Death of a Well-Known Railroader.

Michael Kirk, the New Jersey Central's oldest train despatcher, died suddenly yesterday at his home in Elizabeth from gangrene of the foot. Kirk had pared a corn several weeks ago and the poisoning thus brought about set in several days ago with a fatal result. Seventy-four years of age he had been in the employ of the Central Railroad for fifty-two years and was one of Elizabeth's pioneer Catholics. A wife, two daughters and three sons survive. The sons are all in the employ of the railroad. There are also thirty-one grandchildren and six great grandchildren. One of the daughters is Mrs. John J. Goff, of West Fourth street.

ELABORATE PROGRAMME FOR K. OF P. FIELD DAY

Annual Event Will be Held at Somerville on Labor Day, September 5.

MANY VALUABLE PRIZES

LOCAL KNIGHTS WILL HAVE A LARGE REPRESENTATION.

Churches, Societies and Fire Companies Will Unite in Entertaining Pythians From All Parts of the State.

Since it has been definitely decided that the annual field day of the New Jersey Knights of Pythias is to be held at Somerville on Labor Day, the Plainfield members have become greatly interested in the plans and are aiding Lodge of the Castle, No. 82, in arranging the details. The combined membership of Perseverance and Unity lodges in this city is 450 and the majority of them contemplate being in line. Crescent Company, No. 13, U. R. K. of P., contemplates having its full personnel at the exercises and being so near the scene of the meet, stands a good chance of winning one of the prizes.

A committee from Lodge of the Castle visited Perseverance lodge at its last meeting and stated that a sufficient amount of money had already been subscribed to meet the expenses. Churches, societies and fire companies have promised their support to make the affair a distinct success and all visitors will be welcomed to the town. Lodge of the Castle and the Somerville citizens each appointed a committee and these have organized as follows: President, D. N. Messler; secretary, William D. Quick; treasurer, James Fitzga. This is the first time in many years that the field day has been held away from the sea coast and for that reason the officials are working with double energy to demonstrate that an inland town is capable of conducting the affair.

It has always been the custom to offer various prizes at the meet and these have been announced by Lodge of the Castle as follows:

Lodge having the largest number of members in line, $25 in gold.

Lodge having the second largest number of members in line, $10 in gold.

Lodge with the largest percentage of membership in line, $25 in gold.

Lodge having the second largest percentage of membership in line, $10 in gold.

Lodge that comes the longest distance by the nearest route, $25 in gold.

Lodge presenting the finest appearance in line of march, $15 in gold.

CRUISERS ON THE SHREWSBURY.

Plainfielders Enjoy Sailing Trip From Amboy to Little Silver.

Word has been received to the effect that the sixteen-foot cat-boat, manned by H. C. Fenno and T. O. Gavett, has completed a safe voyage from Perth Amboy to Little Silver, on the Shrewsbury river. Those interested in the cruisers will remember that they left town about two weeks ago with the cat-boat, which is of their own construction, for Raritan Bay. The water was found to be too rough for the boat there, and the crew decided to remove to the Shrewsbury river.

The trip was made Saturday morning under the most favorable circumstances, as there was a strong wind but not a heavy sea. The boys sailed from the southwestern side of Staten Island inside the Hook to the mouth of the river, a distance of about fifteen miles, without encountering any misfortune.

Celebrated His Fourth Anniversary.

Charles W. Hewitt, son of Charles H. Hewitt, of Fritz place, celebrated his fourth birthday yesterday by entertaining fifteen of his companions. With the aid of his mother, the young host provided an excellent time and the guests were kept busy playing games for several hours. The affair terminated with the serving of refreshments.

Accident to Auto.

While running his automobile Saturday afternoon, E. A. Laing had occasion to suddenly reverse a lever and in so doing the gearing refused to work smoothly so that two cog wheels became jammed and eight cogs were wrenched from one of them. The damage is such that a new wheel is necessary, and the machine is now at Lougbead's garage.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

READY REFERENCES FOR THE LOCAL BARGAIN SEEKERS.

J. W. VanSickle is advertising an especially fine line of fresh and salted meats. Philadelphia scrapple and game are specialties this week.

Dr. and Mrs. Fred Heinecke have one of the most excellent manicuring establishments in the city. Both are graduate chiropodists. Office hours, 9 to 12 a. m.; 1 to 6 p. m.

Electrical wiring put in by W. H. Pope, of North avenue, can be relied upon. No getting out of order, no trouble of any kind. He undertakes contracts whether they be large or small.

Those who are fond of potcheese can satisfy their craving by calling up 451 J, William Lindsay's dairy. Try some of Lindsary's buttermilk. It is the best that can be obtained in any creamery in the city.

Before you award the contract for the painting of your house, let Charles Conover & Co., the Elmwood place painters, figure on the job. The fact that only the best paints are used will guarantee the work to be first class.

Cigars are so often misrepresented the smoker is at his wits end to know where to get his favorites. Henry Eggerding, of Park avenue, makes all his own and guarantees everyone. Everything for the smoker at his store.

Of course you admire photographs; everybody does. Why not become a photographer yourself? Begin this summer by taking a camera with you on your vacation. Frank VanWinkle, of North avenue, has a full line of cameras and does developing for amateurs.

C. M. Nagle has the reputation of selling the best five-cent ice cream soda in the city. Try them once and you will never pay ten cents again. Mr. Nagle has recently put on the market an egg emulsion of cod liver oil which is just the medicine for building up a "nervous wreck."

Expert watch and clock repairing at Doane's Park avenue jewelry store. Don't trust your good watch to a poor watch repairer. It'll never be the same again if you do. Doane does watch repairing with the understanding brought about by many years of experience with good time-pieces.

Do you need any additional jars before you begin your summer perserving? If so, you can find them, quarts and pints, at the Gayle Hardware Co., at the corner of Park avenue and Front street. All kinds of kitchen necessities, pots, pans and kettles at this up-to-date store. Good quality and fair prices.

The system of credit established by the People's Credit Clothing Company, of East Front street, is the one that has proven popular everywhere and which enables a worthy patron to secure an outfit at his own terms. No security is required and the systems is devoid of all the unpleasant features which have made other credit schemes so unpopular. Drop in and see Manager Adelberg at any time.

If you've ever tried any meat from Roth & Co., you are using meat from that butcher shop every day; but if you haven't, call there and get a sample order, as it were, and you'll become a customer. Look in their ad today and you'll see prices on meat that you haven't seen since the beef strike began. They can sell at fair prices because they're a big firm. Fish is cheap, plentiful and always fresh when you buy it there.

I. H. Boehm, the popular West Front street dry goods merchant, has inaugurated his great summer white goods sale. Thousands of yards of white madras and fancy pique mercerized duck are being offered at less than half the usual prices. Since the sale began last week it has been largely patronized by prudent buyers who know what a bargain is when they see it. The entire stock of summer millinery is now being sold out below cost.

Men's hot weather clothing can be found in great assortment and latest styles at Weinberger's West Front street clothing store. The big clearance sale of light suits and odd trousers is still going on, and there is still a good assortment to make your your selection from. The prices, as you can read in their ad today, are cut in half, and are really less than they seem because of the excellent quality of the cloth that goes into the clothing. See the assortment and get right in line for a new suit.

Sunday Excursion to Mauch Chunk.

There is no more popular resort for a Sunday than Mauch Chunk, and to reach it entails a delightful rail journey, and at Mauch Chunk there is a diversity of amusements, the chief of which is a ride over the Switchback. This journey occupies more than one hour, and leads over and around the mountains with widely changing scenes at every turn. The Switchback is a gravity road, and the speed attained is close to a mile per minute. Another feature is Flagstaff, the summit of which is reached by trolley, and from its pinnacle point there is a view extending over miles and miles of beautiful country. An interesting spot close at hand is Glen Onoko, a short distance above Mauch Chunk, and, as its name implies, is a beautiful glen, with falls, cataracts, mountain paths leading to cool and delightful places. On August 14 the New Jersey Central is to run a popular excursion to Mauch Chunk from Plainfield by special train leaving at 9:20 a. m. Returning train will leave Mauch Chunk at 5:40 p. m., and the round trip will cost but $1.50. Frequent train service will be in effect between Mauch Chunk and Glen Onoko, and trains on the Switchback run every few minutes. 8 6 7 o

UNCOMMON WISDOM.

Some Plainfield People Profit by Neighbors' Experience.

It's a wise man who profits by the experience of his friends and neighbors. Here is a chance to do it and every man, woman or child in Plainfield who knows the misery of a bad back, the nervousness and restlessness caused by kidney complaint will show uncommon wisdom to profit by this citizen's advice.

S. J. Conklin, traveling salesman for a New York confectionery house, 134 West Front street, says: "I was subject to pain in the back and hips which at times I felt in my side. I tried different kinds of kidney cures but received little or no relief. I read a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills and I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. I took three boxes altogether and was wonderfully improved. Doan's Kidney Pills are a good remedy and accomplish all that is claimed for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

SULTAN FEARS FLEET.

Leishman Has Been Promised a Favorable Reply to Demands.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 9. — The announcement of the dispatch of the American European squadron to Smyrna has perturbed the porte and will doubtless hasten the solution of the questions at issue between the United States and Turkey in a manner satisfactory to the former.

The porte promised American Minister Leishman that a reply favorable to the American demand for the same favored treatment in the matter of schools, hospitals and charitable institutions as is accorded to other powers would be given Aug. 2. The giving of the answer was then postponed to Aug. 4, but up to the present time no answer has been received.

The porte recognized the demand in principle, but thus far has failed to execute the necessary measures, and the American legation has now sent a communication to the porte, pointedly demanding a speedy and final settlement, the issuance of the necessary orders and the official acknowledgment by Turkey of the American demands. There are no monetary claims.

BATTLESHIPS AT GIBRALTAR.

Will Be Held at Lisbon Ready to Reenforce Jewell.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Rear Admiral Barker, commander in chief of the north Atlantic fleet, cabled the navy department from Gibraltar announcing the arrival of the battleship squadron at that port.

Orders have been issued to the collier Hannibal, at Lisbon, to proceed from there to Smyrna in order that Rear Admiral Jewell's squadron on its arrival there may be well supplied with coal. The Hannibal has left Lisbon.

The battleship squadron will take on a supply of coal at Gibraltar, which will involve a stay of two or three days at that port. The ships will then proceed to Lisbon in order to afford the sailors shore leave and recreation. Admiral Barker will remain at Lisbon until he receives orders from the navy department to proceed westward, the purpose being to second the efforts of the state department in Turkey, and if need be the big ships can be turned back into the eastern Mediterranean to re-enforce Admiral Jewell's squadron.

HUDSON BAY DISCOVERIES.

Major Moodie Said to Have Important News of the Gold Fields.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 9.—It was reported here that there was serious friction between the members of the Canadian official expedition on board the steamer Neptune in Hudson bay, sent for the purpose of annexing territory there, and that this friction considerably impaired the work of the expedition, preventing any exploration last winter.

Major Moodie, governor of Hudson bay, who has returned on the sealing steamer Erik, is now on the way to Ottawa. It is understood that he brought information of great value to Canada concerning reported gold finds in Repulse inlet. Major Moodie vigorously enforced the Canadian laws against whalers from the United States, stopping the export of 500 musk ox skins. The whalers, it is said, had induced the natives to kill the animals for their hides alone. Major Moodie has prohibited the killing of the musk ox in the future except for purposes of food.

FAIR FLIER WRECK

Denver and Rio Grande Express Falls Into River.

OVER SIXTY BODIES RECOVERED

Bridge Went Down Under Weight of Train.

TORRENT TOOK CARS FOUR MILES

Estimated That a Hundred Persons, Mostly For St. Louis Exposition, Went Down With the Train and Were Swept Away by the Current Raging Through Dry Creek—Fireman Saved by Miracle.

PUEBLO, Colo., Aug. 9.—The world's fair flier, the fastest train sent out of Denver by the Denver and Rio Grande Railway company, crashed through a bridge over Dry creek, an arroyo near Eden, on the main line, about eight miles from Pueblo, at 8 o'clock at night.

It is estimated that of the 125 passengers on board the ill fated train fully 100 lost their lives, either under the waters of a raging torrent due to a cloudburst or beneath the wreckage.

Two carloads of human freight plunged into the raging torrent that destroyed the trestle. Two sleeping cars and the dining car stopped at the brink of the hungry chasm filled with a boiling, seething current that quickly snuffed out probably a hundred lives. So quietly had the catastrophe been enacted that the occupants of the three cars remaining on the track did not realize that an accident had occurred until they alighted from the train. Then they were utterly powerless to render assistance to the victims who had disappeared in the rushing waters.

The wreck proves to have been one of the greatest railroad disasters in the history of the country. Two crowded passenger cars and a baggage car were engulfed in the torrent that tore out the trestle spanning Steele's hollow, otherwise known as Dry creek, and so far as known only three of the occupants of these cars escaped death.

How many perished probably never will be definitely ascertained, for the treacherous sands are drifting over the bodies.

Latest reports from the scene of the wreck say that sixty-three bodies have been recogered and that no more are now in sight. The search continues, and bodies will in all probability be taken out farther down the stream, where they were washed and covered by the mud and sand.

At 10 a. m. twenty-two dead bodies had been brought to Pueblo, nearly all unidentified. Bodies are being brought in hourly, but the condition of the remains renders recognition almost impossible.

At noon thirty bodies had been recovered.

About 1:45 o'clock yesterday morning the relief train returned to the city, bringing those who had escaped with their lives, numbering about two dozen, all, so far as known, who had not fallen victims of the disaster.

A cloudburst had filled Dry creek, and water was flowing over the trestle when the train started across.

The bridge went down under the weight of the train, and baggage car, smoker and chair cars were precipitated into the torrent. The engine got almost across, but fell back into the water. The body of Engineer Hinman was found 200 feet down the river.

All the cars were washed down the stream. The express car was found not far away, with the safe open and its contents gone. The chair car was half a mile from the scene of the accident half filled with sand, in which were buried the bodies of many passengers.

The smoker was washed still farther down stream and was not located until several hours after the time of the accident.

When Division Superintendent Bowren reached the scene of the wreck, the missing cars had not been located, and the passengers and train hands who accompanied him organized searching parties to follow the course of the river. The three cars were found close to the shore in Fountain creek, of which Dry creek is a tributary and which in turn flows into the Arkansas river.

Most of the dead were in the cars buried under the debris. The bodies of three young women were washed up on the bank of the river three-quarters of a mile below the scene of the wreck.

The disaster was the worst that has ever occurred on the Denver and Rio Grande railroad. Dry creek is one of the most dangerous points on the road. It is not far from Butte, where two years ago washouts occurred which crippled the service of the line, but caused no loss of life.

It is close to the foothills, which by reason of repeated cloudbursts and washouts have been slowly closing in the bed of the creek continually becoming deeper until it has reached a depth of about twenty-five feet.

Whether the engine and the torrent of water from the cloudburst struck the bridge simultaneously or whether the torrent had already undermined the structure is not known. Reports made to the Denver office of the road say that the air brake was turned on and that this saved the diner and sleepers from being precipitated into the creek.

If the water was at a high mark the depth ranged from twenty to twenty-five feet and the current was irresistible.

When the baggage car, smoker and chair car left the tracks and plunged into the stream they were swept down by the current and the trucks torn off. This lightened them, and the volume of water can be understood when it was reported by Superintendent Bowren that they were carried four miles before they ran ashore. The three cars were found near each other.

The Rio Grande officials have not yet made an official statement and explain that they cannot furnish a list of the dead.

The great locomotive, the boiler free of the trucks, the cab and tank gone, lies where it fell.

A quarter of a mile to the east, where this gorge of death debouched into the Fountain, lay the chair car, windows gone, three-fourths filled with mud and sand. A hundred feet farther on was the smoker, bottom up against a sand bar. A hundred and fifty feet farther on in the bed of the Fountain was the coal tender of the engine, and from that point on for four or five miles vestiges of the coaches, the engine and tender stuck up from the bed of the stream or lay along the shore or on the islands. Red plush seats of the smoker were strewn all along the stream. Brass rails from the coaches were found in the sand a half mile from the bridge, and pieces of the baggage car stuck out of the water in several places.

Fireman Mayfield, upon his arrival here, was the first person to give any details of the awful wreck. He was dazed by the awful ordeal he passed through, yet each incident is fixed so firmly in his mind that he will remember it until his dying day.

"It had been raining all evening," he said, "and we had a hard time to keep steam up in order to run on schedule time. A little while before we reached the bridge that crosses Dry creek I began firing up. Just as I was putting in the second shovelful of coal the engine gave a sudden lurch upward. I lost my balance and was thrown from the train on the bank of the creek. I must have struck partly on my head, as I was dazed and did not know what happened for several minutes. When I came to I saw the Pullman cars standing near me, but could not see the engine or the rest of the train. I went up and down the stream looking for my engineer, Charles Hindman.

"I did not notice whether water was running over the trestle as we approached the bridge, but when I was thrown out the water was much higher than the tracks.

"After a long time I met some men who told me Hindman was dead and that his body was found near Eden.

"We did not expect anything at all. We were going along at a good speed all the time and never dreamed that anything was wrong. We thought that if there was any kind of a flood near Eden the operator there would know and that he would flag us. We passed there, but saw no signals of any kind and never for an instant felt any danger. It is only a mile from Eden to the bridge that went down."

NEW YORK STATE CONVENTION.

Chairman of Executive Says It Will Be Held at Saratoga Sept. 14.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Although the Republican state committee will meet on Thursday to issue the call for the state convention, it was announced last night that the convention would meet Sept. 14 at Saratoga.

William Barnes, Jr., chairman of the executive committee, made the statement to a delegation which met in his room to discuss preliminary arrangements for celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the Republican party.

Eight men who were at the first meeting fifty years ago and who participated in the Fremont campaign of 1856 were present. They were General Benjamin F. Tracy, New York; Frederick W. Seward, Montrose, N. Y.; William Barnes, Sr., Albany; Ellis H. Roberts, Washington; Theodore M. Pomeroy, Auburn, N. Y.; William Bristol, Warsaw, N. Y.; J. Owen Moore, New York, and Hanson C. Gibson, New York. Mr. Bristol, the eldest of the delegates, presided.

Those present, with others hereafter to be added, were constituted a committee to make arrangements for the celebration, which will take place on the evening of Sept. 14 at Saratoga.

Body Found In Cistern.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Aug. 9.—The body of Jacob Kind, the keeper of an illicit liquor shop, who has been missing since last Thursday, has been found floating in the cistern on his premises. There was a great gash in the throat, several stabs in the breast, and the body was in a frightful state of decomposition. His clerk, Edward Kennedy, alias Grant, who has been conducting the "blind tiger" since Kind's disappearance, left Charleston with considerable money, and every effort is being made to capture him.

Chicago's Great Strike.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—The union teamsters are to be the principal weapon which the labor leaders propose to use to win the stockyards strike. Orders have been issued to drivers of ice wagons to deliver no more ice to butchers who buy of the big packers or to any branch houses of the packing plants where the men are now on strike.

Good Time Made by Airship.

PARIS, Aug. 9.—M. Lebaudy, who made a successful trip with his airship here, and the engineer who steered it, say that the machine covered about twelve and a half miles during its flight of fifteen minutes.

METROPOLITAN CIRCUIT.

Season Opens at Empire City Track, New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The Metropolitan grand circuit season began here at the Empire City track. A thunderstorm in the early morning made the track heavy, yet the time made was fast. The opening event was a dash at a mile and one-eighth for trotters eligible to the 2:18 class. The bay gelding Aristo was the choice at even money against the field. He made his own race, taking the lead and keeping it to the wire and winning easily by a length, with Alex Campbell second. In the 2:17 pace, a dash of half a mile, Florence Wilton was made a favorite at 2 to 1, but at the word Winnie King took the lead and looked all over a winner to the distance, when Gordon Prince came with a lightning rush and won by half a length.

The big event of the day was the $5,000 purse for the 2:10 trotters, for which the gray gelding Dr. Strong ruled the favorite at even money. In the first heat John Taylor rushed off with the lead and held it to the three-quarters' pole, where Consuelo S. went to the front and won by half a length. In the second heat the favorite went to the front at the head of the stretch and won cleverly by a length. He landed the third and deciding heat in the most impressive style.

Ascension Won the Catskill.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Close finishes marked the racing here. The Catskill, the day's feature, was won by Ascension in a head and head finish with Old England. The first four in this race were only heads apart under the wire. Old England was the pacemaker, and he was not headed until well into the stretch. Gay Boy was first choice. Stalwart won the first event by a neck from Jocund, the favorite, in a drive. The steeplechase went to Trek in a head and head finish with Malden.

Commodore at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 9.—Commodore gave evidence of returning to form when he won the feature of the fair grounds card by five lengths from Blissful, third choice. Bas d'Or, the favorite, could never get up. The Missourian was the only favorite to win. Light Opera, favorite in the fifth race, bled while leading the field into the stretch and was pulled up.

Noorna Again Victor.

MONTREAL, Aug. 9. — Noorna defeated White Bear in the third race of the series for the Seawanhaka cup sailed on Lake St. Louis and has now won two contests, White Bear scoring one. The difference at the finish was three minutes and forty-five seconds. The race was sailed over a course of two miles to windward and return three times over.

Ananias at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Leading all the way, Ananias, after being practically backed off the boards, won the Riverside selling stakes, the third and feature event at Harlem. Sweetie was second, while Gold Mineral was third, a head in front of Dell Leath. Spencerian was the only other starter. The stake was worth $2,260 to the winner.

French Motor Boat Won.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The first international motor boat race has been sailed from Calais to Dover and was won by the French boat Mercedes IV. in 1 hour 5 minutes. An English boat was second and one from Belgium third. There were twenty-two competitors.

Winnebago Amused Himself.

PENDER, Neb., Aug. 9.—George Fourcloud, a full blooded Winnebago, aged twenty-five, has been held for the murder of Cora Elk, also a Winnebago, the fourth girl he has killed in two years. He had no reason for killing any of them, but apparently amused himself when intoxicated by murdering young girls.

AUDIENCE IN PANIC

Buffalo Academy Theater Has Narrow Escape.

FIRE ADJOINING COST $500,000.

Glenny Building In Flames Caused Big Scare In Playhouse, and Wild Scramble For Exits Ensued.

BUFFALO, Aug. 9.—While a matinee was in progress yesterday afternoon in the Academy theater a fierce fire, which caused damage estimated at $500,000, started in an adjoining building. Patrons of the playhouse were thrown into a panic, and so rapidly did the flames spread that 150 of them, the majority of them women and children, were forced to make their way out over the fire escapes.

In the Glenny building, where the fire started, the flames gained headway rapidly, and despite the fact that all the available fire fighting apparatus in the city was called out by extra alarms the firemen could not gain the mastery.

It was in this structure that, Chief Murphy fears, lives may have been lost.

From the stage of the Academy theater it was announced that there was a fire in the vicinity and that, although there was no danger, it was advisable that the audience leave the building.

The remembrance of the terrible Iroquois fire, however, threw the more timid in a panic, and for a time it seemed that there would be a repetition of the awful scenes enacted at the Iroquois.

Men, women and children began a rush for the doors and exits, but the police and firemen on duty partially succeeded in calming them. Many were persuaded to file out of the fire escapes, but many women were panic stricken.

Women fainted, and children screamed in fright. In the street so great a crowd, made up of persons who had fled out of buildings in the neighborhood, blocked the exits that there was a wild struggle at the doors.

When Chief Murphy saw that the fire in the Glenny building was beyond control, he devoted all his energies to keeping the flames from communicating to the adjoining structures. At one time it seemed that two other buildings were doomed, but at 5 o'clock the chief announced that the fire was under control.

Chief Murphy said at that time that he had been unable to ascertain whether there was any loss of life.

American Navy Will Lead.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Captain Thomas Allnutt Brassey, editor of the Naval Annual, speaking at Catfield, said he was convinced that within ten years the command of the seas would have passed from Great Britain to the United States. The latter country, he declared, is now building more battleships than England is, and its resources are greater than are those of Great Britain, whose only hope of maintaining her supremacy on the sea was a federation through which the colonies would aid in the building up and maintenance of the navy of the mother country.

Igorrotes Will Wear Clothes.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The following statement is made at the war department: "The visit of the chiefs of the Moros and chiefs of the Igorrotes to the president is made at the request of these chiefs. The department has advised the president to receive them on the ground that there were in the Philippines about 400,000 Moros and about 50,000 Igorrotes. The Igorrotes in their natural state wear very little clothing, but whenever they visit the governor in Manila or attend upon the governor when he visits them in their own province they wear ordinary clothing, and they will do so when they visit the White House."

Attempt to Wreck Express.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 9.—An attempt was made to wreck the Atlantic express on the Union Pacific railroad near Ahsay station. John Utley, station agent at Ahsay, noticing that the lights of the switch were turned in the wrong way, started to fix them, when he was fired at from the dark and wounded in the arm. Utley fell to the ground, and the would be train wreckers fled. Utley managed to get to the station and called up Wilkins, the next station west. The Atlantic express was flagged there, and the wreck and probable holdup was thus prevented.

Dubuque Cannot Send a Lady.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Secretary Morton has received a letter from Mr. Berg, mayor of Dubuque, Ia., saying that, although he has made diligent inquiry, he has been unable to find a lady in that city willing to undertake the journey to New York to christen the gunboat Dubuque, which is to be launched at Morris heights, New York, within a few weeks.

Two Drowned at Canada Lake.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Canada lake, a nearby summer resort, was the scene of another sad drowning accident yesterday afternoon, when a sailboat containing Raymond Soule of this city and William Furbeck of St. Johnsville was capsized and both lost their lives. They were camping at the lake with a party of friends.

Killed at Owl's Head.

MALONE, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Lyman Glazier, seventy-nine years old, was instantly killed at Owl's Head while attempting to cross the New York Central tracks between freight cars that were being shifted there. He was very deaf.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 9, 1904.

There's trouble somewhere. We haven't heard of Port Arthur falling in two days.

A Michigan man comes to the front with a method for swimming without getting wet. Now if he would only go further and fix it so water would not be necessary for the boys' afternoon swim we might dispose of that public bath question that has been agitated for so long.

Good and sufficient reasons why the Lehigh Valley Railroad is not likely to build a spur from South Plainfield to this city, are given in another column by Edwin S. Hooley. Besides, the New Jersey Central service is of such a character that it would be difficult to improve it.

A shoe dealer who had been in business at a small Pennsylvania town, says the Philadelphia Record, removed to New York in 1880, opened a store and put a considerable part of his capital into newspaper advertising. At that time shoe dealers did not advertise regularly or systematically, and as he alone took what was then regarded as a large space in the dailies he soon built up a fashionable trade. He kept up his advertising (newspaper exclusively), and a few years ago he retired, a rich man.

In a first page article yesterday the Elizabeth Times says: "Owing to the slackness of work in the Plainfield shops there is likely to be a stampede of machinists from that city after September 1." You are right, Brother, but the stampede will be confined to the Elizabeth men who come here when the Crescent Ship Yards, the Townsend-Downey plant and other county seat concerns send a surfeit of machine hands around the country. The Plainfield shops are known far and wide for their steadiness and stability and Plainfield workmen have never yet had occasion to get the "stampede" habit which has prevailed in Elizabeth.

Sunday dancing, Sunday pool playing and kindred amusements have been prohibited at Galvin's Park, situated in the lower end of Scotch Plains township, and law-abiding, respectable citizens of this community will applaud the action. The place is frequented by Plainfielders in numbers larger than from anywhere else and the continuance of the practice meant the establishment of a precedent that would lead to further desecration of the Sabbath in other directions. Young girls barely out of their teens flocked to the resort when it became known that the dancing floor was open on the Sabbath and the influences surrounding them were anything but the best. Plainfield has hitherto been free from such attractions and thanks are due the Scotch Plains Township Committee with Chairman Nichol in particular for the stepit has taken.

INSTALLING AN ETECTRIC PLANT.

Y. M. C. A. Building Soon to be Lighted by Its Own System.

It is expected that the new dynamo which has been put in the Y. M. C. A. building, will be ready for use about the middle of the month

Some time ago the Board of Directors decided to put in their own lighting apparatus and it is expected that the new engine will be a great saving in the expenses to the association. The dynamo is to be run by a twenty-horse power oil engine, manufactured by the De la Vergne Machine Company. Charles Hockburg, an employe of the company, is superintending the work, and reports that the machine will soon be ready to connect with the lighting system.

—A new side walk of heavy stone is being put in on the corner of Park avenue and Second street, in front of Schreiner's drug store.

BEHIND CLOSED PORTALS

HAPPENINGS OF THE LOCAL FRATERNAL ORDERS.

Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold its regular meeting Friday night.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. Elks, will hold its regular monthly meeting tomorow night. Several candidates will be initiated.

The return of the Jerseys has not robbed the Elks and their friends of their interest in the rubber game that will determine the championship in the Elks' series which is now approaching the third heat. This will be played at Eastern Park, Bayonne, next Saturday, between the crack ball tossers of Jersey City Lodge and those of Bayonne. The Bayonne Elks were the winners in the first setto, but the Jersey City nine tied them up in the second game, and now with the result an even one the teams will fight it out for the victory this week, which will carry with it the premier position on the diamond. It will be a great game and the friends of the players and their backers are getting in shape to root.

August Furniture Sale

The annual August Sale of furniture, a regular event at Woodhull & Martin's for five years past, begins today to continue through August. These sales have grown in popularity each year and always offer special bargains.

The Second Week of The

Opens With A Big Sale of Couches.

Daily Press, Aug. 2, '04.

Big Furniture Sale

The great semi-annual August furniture sale is now going on at Woodhull & Martin's. It was inaugurated by the firm five years ago and has gained in popularity each time, and is still increasing. Everything is marked down and there are scores of good bargains to select from.

At the close of the recent Furniture Exposition held in New York City we purchased from a large Couch Manufacturer his entire line of samples at about one-third off the usual prices, and have placed them on sale at the same reductions, which means a big saving to you if you have a couch to buy. Please remember that if you don't want your purchases delivered 'till later on, you can, by paying a small deposit, have them stored free of charge and delivered whenever you say.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

A tournament has been started on the courts of the W. O. D. B. E. tennis club to determine the best player in the club. The only match which was finished yesterday was won by Paul Brakeley from Laurice Opdyke. Several other matches were started but could not be finished owing to darkness.

The home run which O'Loughlin, of Clinton Avenue, got in Saturday's game, was a piece of luck. He singled back of third and the ball was lost in the grass, allowing him to get all the way around.

Miller, the new center fielder for the locals, played a strong game on Saturday and showed that he will be a valuable man. His batting will improve as he has a reputation as a hitter.

Quite a large number went on the excursion to Bellewood this morning in expectation of spending an enjoyable day. The baseball game will undoubtedly be the feature of the day.

The shut down at Levering & Garrigues' will make hard times in town if it lasts long enough as the factory employs a large number of men.

A Newark automobilist got stalled on the Stelton road yesterday and had to have his machine towed to a shop in Plainfield.

Last Saturday saw the largest number out on the lake this season. In spite of the high water all the boats were out.

O. D. Boice, Jr., has returned after a two weeks' vacation which was spent in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Fredrick visited friends in Plainfield yesterday.

Fred and William VanKps, of Plainfield, are visiting Mrs. J. B. Lane.

Joseph Maier is recovering from a severe attack of rheumatism.

Mrs. Paul Reusch is entertaining her niece from New York.

The young son of John Tinsman is quite severely ill.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

With the dancing and pool playing out out on Sunday at the Park, there is hardly anyone in town who could find any fault with the resort. It is just the same as many other pleasure places, with these two objectionable features out out.

Two christenings were held in town on Sunday, one at the home of William Fields on Front street, the other happy event being the naming of Charles Joerg, Jr., at his parents' home on Cook avenue.

During the heavy shower early Monday morning lightning struck a large pear tree in William B. Noble's yard. The crash was distinctly felt all over the town.

The Borough Council and Township Committee both meet in their rooms tonight for the purpose of revising and correcting the Assessor's duplicates.

John Schendan, who has been spending several days with his family, who are enjoying the summer at Glenside, has returned to his home in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Oliver, who have been visiting Mrs. Oliver's sister, Mrs. Ann Dobbins, have returned to their home in Kearney, N. J.

The Twilight F. C. go to Dunellen Saturday afternoon of this week, so no game will be played on the local diamond.

Henry Alberts, "Moke" Gillotti and Charles Machen have returned from a "wonder" trip to Coney Island.

Scotch Plains and Sterling defeated the Gillett team Sunday afternoon in a game at Sterling, the score being 10 to 2.

The Misses Hayes, of the borough, are spending August enjoying the cooling breezes along the Maine Coast.

Mrs. Frank Hosinger has been spending a week with relatives and friends in New York.

Miss Pauline Buckley, of Park avenue, has been visiting relatives and friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meyers have returned from a short stay at Manhattan Beach.

Fanwood Council, R. A., meets in weekly session in the library rooms tonight.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Miss Crystal MacMurray, of Jersey City and Miss Luella Derby, of Perth Amboy, are being entertained by Miss Mabelle Cubberley.

Mrs. William Hamilton and family, of this place, are spending some time at Sugar Notch, Pa.

Rev. J. A. Cubberley has returned from a short visit at Hamilton Square.

FOR THE CITY CHAMPIONSHIP

CRESCENT A. C. DEFEAT EAST END F. C. IN THE FIRST CONTEST.

In the first game for the amateur championship of Plainfield, the Crescent Athletic Club defeated the East End Field Club on Crescent Oval yesterday afternoon, by the score of 6 to 5. The game undoubtedly was one of the best amateur exhibitions ever seen in this city. Both pitchers were hit hard, but by excellent fielding the score was held down. Moran, McIntyre, Wallace and Davis made fine plays for the Crescents, while Nolan, Huff and Conklin excelled for the East Ends. Moran won the game for the Crescents in the ninth inning, with the score a tie, by a home run into the ditch in right field.

The detailed score:

ENGLAND'S MONEY WORSHIP

The Avowed Religion of a Large Section of Great Britain's Upper Classes.

"How is it that on his arrival in London, apparently a poor, if not a penniless, man he could in a few years reconstruct his fortunes, build a palace in Surrey, acquire a mansion in Park Lane, fare delicately, lie soft, and warm both hands before the fire of life as the associate of smart society, and the subsidizer of statesmen, as the patron of privy councilors, exercising despotism over dukes, earls and marquises, and dispensing favors to financiers of standing and to leaders of public opinion in the press and society? How is it no voice was raised by those who knew his character, to warn the public and society against him?" So asks Mr. Arnold White in his article on "The Whitaker Wright Case," in Pearson's.

"The answer is—because the worship of money to-day in England has become the avowed religion of a large section of its upper classes. The origin of money is immaterial; its possession everything. The man who can impart an effervescent value to worthless stock is worshiped and pursued by the votaries of pleasure as magicians, philosophers and saints were pursued in former times. Whitaker Wright pursued his course unchecked. He ruined thousands, degraded the most honored names in the land, and was aided and abetted in his sceheme by men guiltier than himself, by a corrupted press, and by those who knew the unsoundness of his methods, but profited by their knowledge."

AS TO RAILWAY ACCIDENTS.

Increase in Casualties Traceable to Physical Deficiencies and Too Long Hours.

Railroad accidents are increasing every month. During the months of July, August and September last there were 280 persons killed and 3,582 injured in train accidents. Other accidents not due to train collisions make the total number of killed and injured 15,187. This is an increase of 181 over the number of accidents in the preceding quarter, i. e., April, May and June last year. This quarter showed, also, an increase of 50 over the quarter immediately preceding.

The constant increase in the number of fatalities and accidents on our railroads, says Medical Talk for the Home, certainly requires investigation. In spite of all the precautions and scientific additions for the safety of men, the destruction of men continues to increase every year.

Traced to the bottom it will be found, we doubt not, that this increase in casualties is due to the physical condition of the men employed. We do not think that any moral delinquency explains it. We believe it to be partly due to the long hours of work, and partly due to original physical deficiencies. A railroad man ought to be a man who has regular hours of sleep, a man of good habits, a man whose physical condition is such as to give him complete possession of his body, steadiness of nerve and coolness of judgment in all cases of emergency.

Willing to Be Tempted.

Berger—We are all of us inclined to one set of morals for other people and another for ourselves. Do you believe, now, if you were trusted implicitly with a hundred thousand dollars, you could resist temptation any more than hundreds of others?

Crimmins—Of course I could; I'm not like other men, I suppose. By the way, on the quiet, now, do you know of anybody who's willing to tempt me in that way?—Boston Transcript.

A Future for Him.

Mrs. Skemer—Willie's teacher says Willie never gets his arithmetic sums right at all.

Mr. Skemer—Mebbe it'll be all for the best. He may turn out to be an expert short change artist.—Philadelphia Press.

—They are large, luscious and of choice flavor, those Georgia peaches at Neuman Brothers'. Fresh consignments every day.

Mrs. Lucy Hooley, of Sycamore avenue, has gone to North Water Gap, Pa.

POLITICS IN GOTHAM

GOSSIP OF CANDIDATES AND POLITICAL CONDITIONS.

ATHLETICS ARE THE THING

Strenuousness Is Demanded of the Nominees — Devery's Campaign for Leadership—Gambling in New York—Other Gossip.

NEW YORK.—Of course this is a season whose temperature is supposed to dictate a quiet life, an unstrenuous life, a cooling life, but it is also a political summer and it is all but astonishing to note how much is expected of the candidates. I am not speaking of straight campaigning, of exacting interviews, correspondence, acceptances, and so on. I am speaking of the personal habits of the men who are honored by the nominations.

There was a time when it was enough to be a statesman. Now, it seems, the candidate must prove that he is something of an athlete. It is expected of him. People want to know when and how Judge Parker swims. Also how long he rides each day. President Roosevelt has been especially devoted to tennis since he came home for the summer vacation. What sort of a game he plays is a matter of grave importance, one would suppose. That the president will ride, fish, and camp is taken for granted.

The popular passion for athletics and physical culture goes further than to make inquiries about the presidential candidates. Mr. Davis, the democratic candidate for vice president, hardly had been half an hour in New York—this was on his way to see Judge Parker—when the interviewers wanted to know what sort of exercise he took. It was not enough that Mr. Davis threw out a hint concerning his labors on the farm at home. What sort of work did he do? Did he ride? Did he think walking a good exercise? How many hours a day did he work on the farm?

There was no occasion to question Senator Fairbanks. No one can be ignorant of the fact that he is a very active man, with a hustling walk—a long stride. He has told the interviewers that his natural activities give him all the exercise, and by inference, all the physical culture he wants.

The Return of Big Bill.

BIG BILL DEVERY is back at the pump, hot weather and all. I don't say that Big Bill is there every night as in a more temperate season, or as he was before his political downfall. But he is there; the Pump is reestablished as a political headquarters.

The other night the Deverites spread a Parker and Davis banner with appropriate ceremonies. Under the portraits of the national candidates appears a large portrait of the large Devery with the legend: "Our choice for leader, William S. Devery." This tells the story.

Big Bill is not interested in national issues. He has begun a fight to regain the leadership of his district. To be a district leader is to be a great power in New York, and Devery covets the lost honor and profit. The ex-chief of police declared to his lieutenants that this is to be his greatest fight and that they would "win in a walk." Inevitably Devery paid his respects to the man who has stolen the district from him and now sits in the councils of Tammany. In a vigorous speech he said: "Goin' back to our old friend, the Ice Pitcher, who has been handed to you well greased and pushed down your throats, he's got only two jobs for this district from the present administration. One of these nets $6,000 a year and Goodwin copped that for himself. The other pays $3,000 a year and it was passed to young Noonon, whose dad is a millionaire. If I'm elected leader of this district I'll take the steel hoop off that feller and he'll run out on the sidewalk."

Big Bill remains one of the most picturesque characters in New York. It is claimed that his type of politician is soon to become obsolete in the metropolis. But I doubt it. There are many of Bill's type among the politicians of New York as among the politicians of other of our large cities. He is very American, Bill is, after all.

The Gamblers.

REGGIE VANDERBILT continues to be listed among the exiles of New York. He cannot come back until District Attorney Jerome ceases to desire his attendance in the investigation of that other exile, Gambler Canfield. Young Vanderbilt has, indeed, stolen into the metropolis and out again. Yet he can scarcely have enjoyed the experiment.

Mr. Jerome is the thorn in the flesh of the gamblers—and of a great many others. "Al" Adams has been trying to secure his own release from Sing Sing, at this writing, without success. Reason: Jerome. The Western Union Telegraph company shut down on its race track service at the threat of Jerome. The pool rooms—race track gambling quarters—are supposed to be closed, and the police have just indulged in a spectacular trick in an effort to prove that there are some left: and that the Western Union gives them a preferred service.

When racing began at one of the tracks a batch of plain clothes detectives lined up at the telegraph office with hundreds of telegrams prepared in advance and addressed to various persons in New York, and thereby held the wires until all the races were over. The result was a day's disaster to the pool rooms, much annoyance to the newspapers, who got no racing news until very late, and no particular proof against the telegraph company.

Despite all the crusading there is, of course, gambling everywhere in New York. There are not so many gilded halls at this hour, except those of an exceedingly secluded and exclusive kind. But race track gambling flourishes much the same as ever, and gambling games large and small are in nightly progress for the benefit of those who know how to reach them.

Recent court decisions having frowned upon the use of violence by the police, axe assaults upon suspicious doors are likely to go out of fashion, and the new gilded halls will be safer from one sort of attack than immediately hitherto. Yet it must be remembered that Brother Jerome is still at his post. Jerome is a law unto himself, and it may be taken as an axiom—and I am not making a pun—that Jerome will find a way.

The Girl Who Wins.

ONE of the saddest phases of life in New York is that which shows the tragic failure of a large proportion of the students who come here to take up music, art, literature or the stage. Happily we have had some "success" stories lately, and some of these point to one fact, which may or may not be taken as a good sign. If the girl struggler is pretty she occasionally emerges from the fight triumphantly. This is notorious enough with regard to the stage. But it is true also with regard to other groups of students. Certainly it is true among the singers. It is even true among the writers. Young geniuses, if they be feminine and have good looks, actually have the better chance.

The other day a girl artist wrote to describe her success at the art schools and in illustrating. Her picture accompanied the article and she was very pretty. Miss Boyd Dillon, who has carried off the gold medal at Cooper Union is still prettier. But Miss Dillon, who comes from Kentucky, is more than pretty, and her beauty had nothing to do with her success in this instance. She is a genius in draughtsmanship.

The point I wished to make is that the pretty girl has a great chance in the big city, just as she has in the small city. So far as the stage is concerned there are not half enough to go round. To look well in the picture papers—and picture papers multiply—is to be profusely advertised. And to be advertised is to be desired, regardless, to a great extent, of merit. All the more creditable, therefore, is the success of the plain girl when it happens.

Automobile Tragedies and Comedies.

IT would scarcely be an exaggeration to say that, despite politics, business, weather and foreign war, the automobile is the dominant topic in New York. The number of recent accidents would of itself be sufficient to attract and hold attention to the devil wagons. At grade crossings near the city there have been a tragic series of fatalities. In the streets the mishaps have been varied. Sometimes the auto is killing people. Sometimes the auto is being smashed by trolleys and its occupants mutilated. Then again, there are the riots over the machine among the slum populations. These have been renewed and though they have not turned out seriously they indicate the bitterness which has been occasioned by fast driving in the city streets.

The bitterness extends beyond the slums. How far it extends may be judged from the fact that there is almost no popular sympathy for automobilisits, whatever form their troubles may take. Terrific driving continues on all the suburban roads, with the same surly or jocular defiance of local authority. One of the city magistrates the other day declared, in a moment of supreme irritation over the conduct of automobilists who broke the laws and defied the authorities, that police officials would be abundantly justified in shooting at such offenders. As a result of this dictum a constable has fired three shots at a machine, bringing its occupants to terms. Two of the bullets struck the touring car in question and there was an uproar of protest from the automobilists, but there is by no means a general condemnation of the constable.

DISOBEDIENCE OF HEROES.

Intrepid Seamen Who Have Been Almost Insubordinate in Their Fearlessness.

The officers and men in the navy are always ready to face danger, and sometimes come near actual insubordination in their desire for heroic action, states Youth's Companion. A seaman of the revolution, on being rebuked for taking it upon himself to lead a party of boarders on the enemy's deck, said: "I—I—jes' couldn't help it, sir!" In "Moses Brown, Capt. U. S. N.," Mr. Maclay gives other instances where men, in their enthusiasm, have risked the disapproval of their superior officers.

We turn with pride to the episode of the slender Philadelphia youth, who, against the sternest commands, smuggled himself aboard the ketch Intrepid, when she started on her mission of extreme peril into the harbor of Tripoli. His explanation was, "merely because I wished to see the parts."

We remember the bold act of Capt. Isaac Hull, who sailed out of Boston in 1812 without the orders of the secretary of the navy, an act for which he might easily have been shot, and began that series of brilliant victories on the high seas which made American naval prowess feared and respected the world over.

Farragut's determination to run his frail wooden ships past the confederate forts below New Orleans and the barriers that stretched across the river in the dead of night was against the urgent advice of some of his highest officers and in utter defiance of all recognized rules of naval warfare. Had that extraordinary venture terminated disastrously, Farragut undoubtedly would have been summarily removed from command, to await severer handling. Farragut's dash over the fatal line of torpedoes in Mobile bay, two years later, was against all rules of propriety and professional caution.

It was Collingwood who, while leading the second line of the British fleet at Trafalgar, at a moment when his life was in imminent peril, exultantly exclaimed: "What would Nelson give to be here!" At the same moment Nelson remarked: "See how that noble fellow, Collingwood, carries his ship into action!" Each was reveling in the opportunity for action then within grasp.

JAPANESE AS CHEMISTS.

Have Gained High Standing in the Literature of the Learned Profession.

Probably no eastern nation is more strongly represented than are the Japanese in the English annals of science and more particularly in literature on chemistry, says the London Lancet. They possess an undoubtedly strong faculty for original research and they combine this faculty with a sharp-sightedness as to the possibilities of practical application of the fruits of research. The Japanese chemist, in fact, unites the power of originality of the English chemist and the practical intuition of the German. At the University of Tokio practical study is very much favored and splendid facilities for work are provided in the laboratories and workshops. There are several distinguished Japanese chemists who are fellows of the English Chemical society and who were elected to the fellowship on account of the excellence of their contributions to original science. Many elaborate papers involving long and patient laboratory investigation are printed in full in the transactions of the society. The Japanese chemists discuss with a freedom which astonishes the western chemist all the modern abstruse theories bearing upon the atomic theory, the constitution of matter, the theory of dissociation, and so forth. They write powerful dissertations on the views advanced by such esteemed thinkers as Ostwald, Arrhenius, Van 'tHoff, Kelvin, Thomson, Lodge, Crookes, Ramyas and others, and have offered valuable criticisms on the methods of systematizing and compiling atomic weights adopted by western chemists. Chemistry, of course, is a powerful weapon in war, and there can be little doubt that among other things which have so far contributed to Japanese successes is a sound knowledge of explosives, their composition, action and behavior under a variety of conditions. When there is no longer any need for the implements of battle, and may that soon be, we may be pretty sure that the same subtle insight which is so marked a feature of the Japanese intellect will turn with equal success to the application of science to peaceful pursuits.

What Is Radium?

The word radium is daily becoming more familiar, but in certain parts of the country there is still some diversity of opinion as to what the substance is. We hear of one man who thought it was a breakfast food.

"That is," he remarked, recently, to a friend, "I thought so till Bob Bimler said it was some new sort of stove polish."

"Did Bob say that?" the friend said. "I thought Bob usually knew what he was talking about."

"Well, what is it, then?"

"Why, Bill Staples told me that it was a kind of knit goods for pyjamas that is specially light and warm."—San Francisco Star.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Feminine Mail Carriers In the Rural Districts.

Scores of women and girls are now earning their living as mail carriers in the rural districts of the country. One young woman in a rough and hilly region of Pennsylvania rises at 4 in the morning, milks the cows and feeds the hungry farm animals, gets breakfast for the family, then harnesses her horse to the mail cart and starts on a run of fifteen miles to the railway station. She also takes passengers and parcels. She has done this for several years without missing a day. Most women who undertake occupations generally followed by men are at a disadvantage. While the woman stands up to what popular prejudice looks on as "man's work," she is nevertheless not at all excused from fulfilling the duties this same prejudice classes as within woman's sphere. If that Pennsylvania woman mail carrier were a man, would she have to get up and milk the cows and feed the live stock and then come in and get breakfast for the family and after that harness her own horse? Well, not much! If she had been a man the women folk of that family would have milked the cows and fed them, too, and would have hustled around lively to get for the favored masculine creature just the nicest hot breakfast cellar and pantry afforded and then would have petted and pitied him if it happened to be a cold or wet morning and gone out to see him and his mail wagon off in state. No such favors for the brave girl mail wagon driver who steers her vehicle over rough and stony roads, through light and darkness, cold and heat, rain and thunder and lightning. However, she stands up to the work and needs no pity. Ohio has at least one woman mail contractor who carries parcels, passengers and mails over a route thirty-five miles long. Her district covers five towns. She, too, is a young lady.

Mountaineer folk are not apt to get into the newspapers, else it would have been widely known years ago that in the coal region of West Virginia is a woman, now a great-grandmother, who for more than thirty years has carried the United States mail bags in and out and up and down over stony mountain paths that are difficult for a horse to tread; for a wagon, impossible. Yet over these paths the remarkable woman mail carrier has traveled on horseback for a generation. She is past sixty now, over six feet tall and straight as an arrow. She knows not fear of man, beast or fiend.

In Massachusetts is another woman mail carrier who should be mentioned. She is Miss Ruth Lane of North Marlon, a well educated young lady so full of pluck and power that she has never attempted anything she did not achieve. Some of the things she has tried were so difficult that men quailed before them. One such task is covering this very mail route. The country is so rough that a horse wears out speedily in drawing a wagon up hill and down dale. In winter, through the worst rigors of Massachusetts weather, the trip will have to be made on horseback, with saddlebags. Like the rich and fashionable ladies who make their summer homes among the New England hills, Miss Lane rides astride.

There is one peril attending her route that would hardly be looked for in that part of the Union. It is a real danger from highwaymen. Many wealthy persons spend the warm months in the region covered by her route, and the mail daily conveys to them letters containing money and other valuables. More than once in a lonely spot on the road mail carriers who went before her had been held up and robbed. Even this fact has no terrors for Ruth Lane. She is an unerring shot with the revolver and her faithful pistol will be always with her, and Ruth's alert eye will enable her to get the drop on any fellow that attempts to interfere with her.

When she was a schoolgirl sometimes the weather in winter was so bad that it kept her brother at home, but never Miss Ruth. One winter she was a church sexton, building the fires in the meeting house and even sawing the wood that fed them. She is a famous cycler. She used to ride to school on her bicycle. At a house on the road there was a vicious bulldog that terrorized bicycle riders so much that they finally abandoned the route. Not Miss Lane. One day she took with her an ammonia gun filled with an exceedingly strong charge. As the [illegible] beast sprang at her she [illegible] the charge full in his [illegible] awful howl he [illegible] troubled a cycler.

LITTLE FRANCE

A ROMANCE OF THE DAYS WHEN "THE GREAT LORD HAWKE" WAS KING OF THE SEA

BY

CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Author of "Commodore Paul Jones," "Reuben James," "For the Freedom of the Sea," etc.

Copyright, 1901, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

"Well done, my boys! Now then, hard up with the helm!" shouted Grafton. "Hands by the weather braces! Flow the spanker-sheets! Lively, lads!"

Before the men on the ship of the line had recovered from the astonishment inspired by Grafton's audacity, the Boxer swung around and ran off free, again heading toward Ushant. For a few moments there was no little confusion on the French ship. Her jib-stay had been cut, the sail unsupported was dragging in the water. Rents appeared in the foresail, and parted shrouds here and there showed that the well-aimed discharge had done good service, although it had no effect on the heavy scantling and timbers of the liner. But no material damage, of course, had been or could be effected by the six-pound guns of a little 300-ton brig against a French 74. Still, the confusion consequent upon her intrepid attack enabled the brig to gain a considerable lead. It was necessary for him to get some distance away from his pursuer before Grafton could come by the wind again, in order to weather the western point of Ushant; which, to anticipate, he presently succeeded in doing.

In a short time, however—painfully short for the pursued—the liner, emulating the movements of the English cruiser, got the wind on her quarter and commenced bowling along after the brig. Her nimble crew had set sail after sail on her lofty spars, and she swept along in the bright sunny morning a towering and splendid picture of sea power and sea beauty. She had been wonderfully well handled for a Frenchman, and the evolutions were as smartly done as they could have been by a crack English crew—then the best sailors in the world. And as the English brig, having run free as long as she dared, at last bore up, her gigantic pursuer promptly did the same.

"They may talk as they please about the frog-eaters not being seamen," said Grafton to the young officers congregated about him on the quarter-deck; "the man that handles that ship doesn't need to take lessons from anybody. Wheel, there! Edge up into the wind, will you? See how she follows us, gentlemen! She gains on us hand over fist! See how she comes down! Bring up the dispatches, Mr. Stanhope, and have them ready to heave overboard; they mustn't get them if we are captured! Ah! They're giving us a taste of their metal at last. Steady now, keep her up to it! Luff her hard!"

As he spoke the line-of-battle ship suddenly yawed, a puff of smoke broke out forward as her bow-chaser bore and a shot from a 32-pounder came hurtling through the air at the brig. Fortunately it missed her.

"Shall we make any reply, sir?" asked Stanhope.

"Nonsense!" replied Grafton. "We haven't a gun on board that could carry half the distance. No, hold on as we are. I don't think she'll fire again. She's overhauling us so rapidly that there is no use of their damaging their prize."

They watched the chasing ship carefully for a few moments in gloomy silence. There was no escape for them apparently.

"Now, I have an idea," burst out Grafton at last. "If it fails, I guess we are good for a cruise on shore in one of Johnnie's prisons. Slocum, let her off a bit more, now. I think we've enough offing to weather Ushant, with something to spare, and I want monsieur to get well to windward of us. Stanhope, yon's a noble ship. We can outfight these Frenchmen, but we can't outbuild them. The best ships in our navy are those captured from King Louis."

"What's the use of our bothering to build ships if the French will build them for us?" asked the matter-of-fact and practical Stanhope. "All we've got to do is to go out and take 'em."

"We won't take that one, though."

"No, sir, we won't," answered Stanhope, sighing over the gloomy prospect.

"I wish to God we had the old Torbay under us, then we'd not show yon fellow our heels but our teeth, hey, Stanhope?" exclaimed the captain.

"Ay, sir; and with old Hawke in command——"

"No, man," answered the young captain promptly; "I'd want to command her myself. I warrant that, with you to second me, we would give a good account of the gentleman yonder! See how he overhauls us! If he should yaw now and give us a broadside, I am afraid it would be all over with us. Look, how he is eating up to windward of us too! What a tub this is!"

"Ay, he slips along like a yacht. We've no show at all. It's all up with us, I'm afraid," answered Stanhope.

"I don't quite give up the game yet. We'll have one more try at a run presently. If he does the right thing, then we're lost; if not, I think we'll make it."

"You can count on a seaman like the man handling that ship doing the right thing, sure."

"Yes, I fear so. Still we can but try!"

Meanwhile old Jabez had been steering the brig with consummate seamanship. With every appearance of endeavoring to hold her close to the wind, he had skillfully allowed her to fall off, little by little, until she was quite perceptibly to leeward of the French ship. Grafton judged that now or never things were opportune for his daring attempt.

"Send the men to the starboard battery, Mr. Stanhope," he said quietly, as he realized that he had approached the supreme moment, and it was about time to try his coup, or give over the attempt and give up the ship. "Get the stuns'ls ready for setting and see that the gear is all clear. I want smart work from the sail-trimmers, now! Slocum, stand by that helm and mind the orders! Bid the men train their guns aft, Stanhope, and fire when I give the word. Now, then! Up with the helm! Over with it! Hard-a weather! Tend the after-braces! Hands ready! Round in forward, flatten in the head-sheets! So! Stand by with the starboard battery! Now! Fire! Let her have it, men! Sway away with those stuns'ls! Steady with the helm! Quick, for God's sake! Well done, all!"

Once more the eight six-pounders barked out. In a cloud of her own smoke the Boxer rounded on her heel again, bringing the wind aft again, darted away at right angles to her former course. Covered with stuns'ls alow and aloft, she leaped along at a great pace, gaining distance with every moment. Were they to succeed in escaping?

But the captain of the liner had foreseen the skillful endeavor. A less able seaman might have attempted to emulate the Englishman's motions and followed on the brig's heels; a less thoughtful commander would not have been ready for the only move which would have stopped the daring maneuver. With proper judgment, he chose to crush the audacious Englishman with his mighty battery.

In spite of the promptness with which Grafton's order had been carried out, and the advantage gained thereby, the brig was still within easy range of all but the lightest guns of the French ship. Since the weather was mild, it permitted the lower deck ports to be opened and her heaviest guns to be used. As the Boxer presented her stern to her huge antagonist, the latter was suddenly wreathed with fire and smoke. The thunderous roar of her discharge could have been heard for miles. Her captain took no chance, every gun that bore was discharged at the doomed vessel.

A tempest of iron came hurtling aboard the brig. She was like an eggshell under a trip-hammer. From a trim and saucy little vessel she was reduced in the twinkling of an eye to a wreck. The main-mast was carried away a few feet above the deck, the foretop-mast was hanging up and down the foremast, nearly every shroud and stay had been parted. The stern of the brig had been beaten in. Her boats were cut to pieces, and the decks were filled with dead and wounded, poor Stanhope among the former—a round shot had taken off his head. Old Jabez, unhurt, still clasped the wheel. The foresail, though almost cut to ribbons, still held a little wind, and the brig wallowed slowly ahead through the water.

"Good God!" exclaimed Grafton, who had come off scatheless, dazed at the failure of his effort and the deadly price he had paid so fruitlessly, "how horrible!"

It had been a gallant attempt. Indeed, the only possibility of escape had been that he had tried. It had failed owing to the preparedness and good judgment of the French captain. There were not ten sailors in France who could have done so well as he. With almost any one else opposing him, Grafton might have escaped. But now his brig was a wreck beneath him. There was nothing left for him but to surrender. Throwing his weighted bag of dispatches overboard, he drew a handkerchief from his pocket and waved it toward his enemy.

Seeing the hopeless and helpless condition of her quarry, the French ship of the line swept gracefully up into the wind by the side of the broken brig. Her way was checked, her ponderous yards swung, and she hove-to a short distance off. A magnificent picture she presented, with her frowning tiers of guns, her lofty pyramids of sails, her decks crowded with brilliantly uniformed officers.

The French could plainly see that there was no boat left on the Boxer; therefore, in a few moments, a heavy cutter was swung from the davits of the liner and lowered into the water. Presently an officer, attended by a surgeon and a surgeon's mate, stepped on the deck of the brig.

"You speak French, monsieur?" asked the officer of Grafton, who stood in the gangway to receive him.

"Yes, sir," answered the American, bowing.

"And you are——?"

"Lieut. Philip Grafton, commanding his Britannic majesty's late brig Boxer. And you are——?"

"Lieut. St. Andre du Verger, of his most christian majesty's ship-of-the-line Le Thesee, commanded by M. le Comte de Kersaint de Kerguelen."

"I am at your service, monsieur. The fortune of war has made me your prisoner."

"M. de Kersaint desires that you repair on board his ship at once, monsieur."

"Willingly, M. du Verger," said Grafton, striving gallantly to hide his sadness at this bitter ending of his cruise. "At your orders. Will you see to the poor fellows I leave here?"

"With pleasure, M. le Capitaine. I have brought a surgeon and a surgeon's mate for the purpose."

CHAPTER III.

ENEMIES ARE FRIENDS.

THE change from the broken and shattered brig to the spacious and magnificent ship of the line was startling. The latter was a brand-new ship fresh from the ways. Every improvement which the most skilled naval architects and ship-builders of the day could devise—and France easily led all nations in the fine art of naval construction at that time—had been lavished upon Le Thesee. The practical ability of the designers, exhibited in many novel and useful contrivances, had been re-enforced and not obscured by a lavish display of polished metal work, ornamental fittings and wood-carving, which would have better suited a royal yacht than a vessel of war.

As Grafton came through the gangway he was met by an officer and conducted aft to the high poop deck, upon which a brilliant group of officers were collected about a tall, splendid-looking man in the prime of life, who was evidently the commander of the ship. Grafton stepped toward him, bowed gracefully, and then, extending his sword, remarked in excellent French, of which he was luckily a thorough master:

"The fortune of war, monsieur, has made my small vessel the prize of your magnificent ship."

"You are a bold man, young sir, and in many instances—perhaps most—your gallant attempt to escape by running off before the wind would have been successful," returned the French captain, magnanimously. Then, touching the hilt of the young American's sword, he added graciously, bowing in his turn: "Retain your sword, monsieur, I should be loath indeed to deprive so brave a man of the weapon which he has shown he knows how to wear so worthily. Sang diou!" he added, relapsing into the patois of his native province, "'twas an impudent thing, sir, to slap us in the face like that when we first caught sight of you, and then try to run for it! But there are few keels laid down that Le Thesee cannot overhaul, I think. Hey, messieurs?" he questioned, turning to his officers, his remark being received with acclamations of assent. "Young sir," he continued, addressing Grafton once more, "will you give me the name of your brig?"

"H. B. M. brig Boxer—at least she was his this morning. She is yours now, monsieur."

"Where from and whither bound, monsieur?"

"From Gibraltar to Portsmouth."

"On what errand?"

"With dispatches, sir,"

"Where are they?"

"Overboard and sunk, sir."

"Ha! And what of the fleet of Monsieur Boscawen?"

"I can tell you nothing of that, sir."

"Nor as to the contents of the dispatches?"

"Certainly not, sir!"

"Humph! Your name, young sir, and rank."

"Philip Grafton, monsieur, a lieutenant in H. B. M. navy, lately First of the Torbay, ship of the line, and more recently commanding the Boxer."

"Grafton!" exclaimed the other, surprised, "are you an Englishman?"

"No, monsieur," answered the young officer promptly and proudly, "I am an American. I was born in Massachusetts."

"And you are the son of——?"

"Admiral John Grafton, monsieur, who commanded the colonial armed ship Shirley."

"At the siege of Louisburg in 1745?"

"The same, sir."

DIAMOND DUST.

Hickman, formerly of Westfield, is playing great ball for Providence of the Eastern League.

The Clinton Avenue team will cross bats with the New Market aggregation on Saturday. The game will be on the local grounds.

It is quite likely that the Alis management will make an effort to prevent a reoccurrence of last Saturday's condition at Crescent Oval. Left field needs attention at once.

Manager Denman announces that he will use Waller in Saturday's contest against Alis, but he adds that he will strengthen his in and out-field considerable. He will make every effort to win this game.

J. Anthony and Wm. Mayse have chosen two teams among local Cuban Giants to contest on Crescent Oval Thursday afternoon. The teams bear the names "The Bulls and Bears" and "The Swell Young Men's" baseball clubs. The following is the line-up of the two teams: Bulls—Cobbs, c; Austin, p; Brown, 1b; Johnson, 2b; Sharkey, 3b; Wood, ss; Bremley, rf; Bowser, cf; Taylor, lf. ANOTHER TROLLEY MERGER.

P. S. C. Said to be Seeking Direct Line to the Shore.

It is reported in trolley circles that in the near future the Public Service Corporation will absorb the system of the Jersey Central Traction Company at Red Bank, efforts having been made by the corporation to take in this line as well as the Monmouth County Electric Company, so that they will have direct communication with the shore.

There are several rumors afloat to the effect that the traction company is to be dissolved and that a number of Newark capitalists will take charge of the road, eventually merging it with the Public Service. Both the Public Service Corporation and the traction company are extending their lines toward South Amboy, where they will join each other.

She Had an Unresistable Thirst.

An unknown Irish woman, who was arrested Saturday night for drunkenness in the borough, was brought up before Recorder Doud last night. She said that her home was in Bernardsville, and that she had wandered over from that place Saturday night. On her way she had encountered an unresistable thirst, and by way of refreshing herself she had taken a little too much alcoholic liquor. The woman was held over till this morning, when she was dismissed.

Found Check In Letter Box.

F. W. Hoppel, a Westfield postman, made a peculiar discovery in one of the letter boxes this morning. Among the letters was a check for $1.50, which was endorsed by Mrs. J. D. Donaldson, of East Front street. The check was found in the box on the corner of North avenue and Charles street, Westfield.

Senator John Kean is reported to have been in the party at Oyster Bay when President Roosevelt was notified of his nomination, but the pictures of that event so far published do not reveal the form of the Jerseyman. It would be a good card for the sage of Ursino to have a special photograph taken of himself at the right hand of Mr. Roosevelt, as it is known that a number of other Republican aspirants for office are pinning their faith on success to the idea that Roosevelt will pull them through.—Newark News.

Robert Davis expressed surprise when asked if he thought the appointment of Mr. Smith to the Democratic Committee would increase the chances of the Democrats carrying New Jersey. "When was he appointed?" asked Mr. Davis, answering the question with another, and when told he said: "I should think the appointment of Mr. Smith would help the Democratic cause in New Jersey, as it is the first time the State has had a man on the National Executive Committee." Corporation Attorney James Minturn, of Hoboken, is still regarded as slated for the Democratic State Senatorial nomination. Senator Hudspeth's term expires next January.

"Where is Roselle Park" asks the Trenton Times, simply because an item now going the rounds of the State papers declares that "twenty-five Bryan Democrats joined the Roosevelt and Fairbanks Club at Roselle Park the other night." Roselle Park is in Union Township, Union County, on the Central Railroad, about two miles west of Elizabeth and the same distance from the home of United States Senator John Kean. The peculiarity about Roselle Park—or the whole of Roselle for that matter—is the fact that it contains a goodly number of old-time Democrats who are quite satisfied with the Roosevelt administration. They are not all Bryan Democrats; the most of them date back beyond Bryan and even beyond Cleveland, and they are gold from crown to sole. Whether the exact number of those who recently joined the Roosevelt and Fairbanks Club was twenty-five is of no particular consequence, but it is true that they will vote the Republican ticket. The names of several of them are known throughout the State. They have not, so far as heard from, declared for whom, they will probably vote for Governor.—Newark News.

SOUTH AMERICAN CURIO.

Bird's Nest Brought Here in a Bunch of Bananas.

Tarantulas and other insects without number have been brought into Plainfield in bunches of bananas, but it has remained for Louis Martial, of West Front street, to get a real curiosity. Snugly tucked away in a big bunch of the edible fruit which arrived from South America a few days ago, was a pretty little bird's nest, constructed of grass and fibres.

It was somewhat deeper than the nests seen in this vicinity, and at the bottom reposed two tiny eggs as undisturbed as if they were hanging high up in a banana tree in a South American province. Mr. Martial carefully removed the nest and its contents and by many who have seen them, the eggs were declared to be those of a species of humming bird common in the warm countries. The bunch was evidently picked while it was out foraging and it is probably still wondering what became of its home.

All Ready For the Fray.

A further meeting of the city and borough officials who are to play a game of baseball for the championship of the two Plainfields was to have been held last evening, but owing to the absence of City Clerk James T. MacMurray it was postponed. Mayor N. B. Smalley has his side all in readiness and is waiting for the date to be set. The game has been delayed because business engagements have prevented Mr. MacMurray from devoting the time to the plans as he wishes to. It is hoped to complete all arrangements within the coming week.

Frank Purcell Released.

Frank Purcell rode his wheel on the sidewalk last evening, and incidentally came beneath the notice of a policeman. He appeared in the city court this morning but was released on suspended sentence.

THE WEATHER IN JULY

MONTH WAS REMARKABLE FOR RAINFALL AND VARYING TEMPERATURE.

According to facts and figures just issued by Observer Neagle, July was a most remarkable month for rain, cloudy weather and variations of temperature. The total precipitation for the thirty-one days was 8.06 inches, the greatest amount in thirteen years with one exception and that was in July of 1897 when the rainfall was 13.92 inches. In twenty-four hours on July 6 and 7, 2.39 inches fell. The total number of rainy days was eighteen. As if this were not enough for suffering mortals there were seven cloudy ones. On only seven days did the sun shine all the time.

The mean temperature for the month was 2.3 degrees below the normal, this being 74.6 degrees. On the nineteenth, the thermometer climbed to 94 degrees and on the third it fell to fifty. The greatest daily range of temperature was thirty-three which occurred on the Fourth.

CO. K OFF FOR SEA GIRT.

Will Make Strong Effort to Retain Marksmanship Trophy.

Fifty-eight strong, clad in khaki, and bearing the rifles with which they hope to retain the marksmanship trophy of the State troops, Co. K left town this morning on the 7:28 train to take part in the annual competitive shoot for the trophy at Sea Girt. Several of the honorary members of the company went with the boys to take part in the shooting. The removal of the limit that all competitive shooting must be done at State expense has broadened the terms of competition and the trophy will be awarded this year to the company which qualifies the largest number of marksmen during the rifle practice season.

PERSONAL.

Henry Deihl, of Newark, is visiting Plainfield friends.

Charles Post, of East Third street, is confined to his home by illness.

Mansfield Smith, of West Fourth street, is spending his vacation at Phillipsburg.

William Kreitling, of West Front street, is spending his vacation in Philadelphia.

Miss Florence DeForest, of Mt. Pleasant, has returned from Oak Ridge, where she has been spending a month.

Jesse Lawson, formerly of this city, and for many years employed in the Pension Bureau, Washington, where he holds a responsible position, is visiting Plainfield friends.

Ill With Typhoid Fever.

Harlan Snodgrass, of Summit, son of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Snodgrass, of Central avenue, is ill with typhoid fever. He was one of a party of five enjoying an outing in the Thousand Islands. His sister, Miss Persis Snodgrass, one of the party, is also ill with the same disease, believed to have been contracted while away. Mr. Snodgrass married a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. French, of Craig place.

"Billie" Redmond to Sing.

Leader Ben LaVere has received word that "Billie" Redmond will be the soloist at next Friday evening's band concert in Concert Park. He is well known to Plainfielders, having appeared here on several occasions. The programme otherwise will be practically the same as the one intended for last week.

Salt Water Day.

Local colored people are planning to ho'd their salt water day at Boynton Beach tomorrow. The trip will be made by trolley and the entire day will be spent at the shore. Colored people should remember the day and the date and make arrangements to go with the pleasure seekers.

Case on Contract.

Demand for $100 on contract has been brought against Mrs. Florence C. Wakefield and Frank W. Cleaves by Alpheus L. Mundy and James L. Griggs, executors of the estate of the late Israel C. Mundy. The case is returnable Monday at 9 o'clock in Justice Hand's court.

Will Change Church Entrance.

Work has been begun at the First M. E. church on West Front street on the alterations to the exterior approach. The stone steps have been torn away and changes have been made in the basement entrances.

QUESTIONS OF THE DAY DISCUSSED BY THE PRESS.

To Freeze Parker.

It is stated that Judge Parker dearly loves to be out in a storm. He will get his fill of that when he is caught in the blizzard on November 8.—Camden Post—Telegram.

Exuberant Enthusiasm.

There are no persons more intemperate in the use of language than temperance people. If other persons made such statements the temperance people would accuse them of falsehood, but it is only exuberant enthusiasm in temperance people.—Jersey City Journal.

Remember 1893.

The tariff cannot be tinkered without causing loss to the mill owners and their employes. If the Democratic nominees were elected, every wage earner would suffer, and the absence of pay days would make hard times. This is not calamity howling. It is plain, sober fact. Remember 1893.—Morristown Jerseyman.

Not Worth the Space.

A correspondent of Newark Truth, signing himself "A Member of the House," and evidently a Democrat—if anybody—asserts that the Republican leaders are frightened at the development of the equal tax sentiment in the state and comtemplate the substitution of another candidate for Governor in place of Edward C. Sokes. This writer enters the surmise that the substitute will be Supreme Court Justice J. Franklin Fort. At any rate the prediction is hazarded "that Edward Casper Stokes will not be the nominee of the Republican State Convention next fall." This prediction may be set down as the wildest improbability. It is, indeed, not worth the brief space that we have given to it.—Paterson Call.

AMONG MEN IN THE SHOPS

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

Notice was posted Friday at the plant of the Henry Worthington Pump Company, Elizabethport, that on August 17 a general reduction of ten per cent. will be made in wages. This will apply, it is said, to the big plant of the company at Harrison and will likewise affect the one in South Brooklyn. No cause is assigned. There are 300 persons employed at the Elizabethport plant, which in a short time will be transferred to Harrison.

CLAIMS OWNERSHIP.

C. F. Haines, a Promoter, Threatens to Demolish the Buildings.

Charles F. Haines, claiming Philadelphia as his residence and his business that of a promoter, is meeting with considerable opposition today in taking charge of several buildings located on land west of the Levering & Garrigues' Company plant at Dunellen. He claims to have bought the buildings, but fails to show deeds for the same.

Superintendent Coyle, of the works, will oppose any effort to demolish these buildings, as the Levering & Garrigues' Company, it is said, has a lease on them. Early this afternoon Mr. Haines went to Dunellen to get a gang of Italians to assist him in his work.

The Dunellen Heights' Improvement Company, it is understood, has some interest in the matter and is opposed to Mr. Haines' action.

Independent Paper.

"The editor of this paper regrets that its independent policy has not been pleasing to either of the two party organs in this city. The editors of those papers may thank themselves, surely, for their mental disquietude, for the Home News has never essayed to follow their example in its treatment of public matters. If the aforesaid editors know what real independence was and were not willing slaves to party leaders and dependent on party pap for existence, they might be supremely happy. Some day a new light may dawn upon them which shall make their emancipation a possibility."—New Brunswick Home News.

Puzzling Case of Lockjaw.

Miss Lida Ackerman, of Clinton avenue, is seriously ill with lock-jaw, the cause of which has not been determined by local physicians. She was first attacked four weeks ago and has since been growing steadily worse despite every preventative used. There is no wound upon her body and she does not remember swallowing anything that might have caused the trouble.

SEWER EXCAVATIONS INTERFERE WITH TRAFFIC

Many of the Streets in the East End of the City Are Impassable.

DANGER IN CASE OF FIRE

RESIDENTS COMPLAIN ABOUT THE CARELESSNESS OF CONTRACTORS.

Streets Through Which the Sewer Was Recently Laid Have Not Been Open to Traffic Since the Heavy Storm.

Residents of East Seventh street are complaining over the action of the sewer contractor in making the sewer excavations and house connections on that street between Richmond street and Kensington avenue. A property owner on the thoroughfare stated this morning that the present condition of the roadway would practically make progress of the fire engines impossible in the event of an alarm from any of the houses on that street.

Though a thoroughfare ha been left along the right side of the street between Richmond street and Carlton avenue while house connections are being made with the buildings on the left, the fact that above Carlton avenue work on the main trench is still going on and the dirt excavated is being heaped on the right side of the street makes necessary a turn from one side of the street to the other. Though a space of about 100 feet had been left in which vehicles might make a turn here, still another house connection, begun yesterday afternoon, has narrowed the thoroughfare here to about twenty-five feet, and makes a sharp turn necessary. Rapid travel here is impossible, and especially so on account of the poor surface of the roadway, which has been torn up by the contractors and is deeply gullied.

There is also considerable ill feeling toward the sewer contractor who had charge of the trenching of Netherwood. Residents say that practically none of the streets through which the sewer was recently laid have been open to wagon thoroughfare since the series of heavy rains last week. This is especially noticeable in the less travelled streets back of the Netherwood Hotel and in the vicinity of the Mary Morgan Fresh Air Home. Here the filling in has been so carelessly done that the earth has further sunk since the recent storm and leaves gullies in some places nearly two feet deep. Stones and standing piles of earth have been left in the thoroughfare by the contractor's gang. The property owners feel that the city should see that these streets are properly repaired.

TAX LISTS REVISED.

Both the City and Borough Councils Hold Special Meetings for the Purpose.

Both the city and borough Councils held special meetings last evening, for the purpose of correcting and reviewing the tax lists and duplicates as prepared by the assessors. It sufficed but a short time to do the work and everything was found in satisfactory condition. The assessors were also in attendance and aided the Councilmen in the inspection.

Heretofore the meetings for this purpose have been held on the third Tuesday in August, but the new State law requires it to be done on August 9. The lists are now ready for presentation to the Council in a formal way for their acceptance.

Funeral of R. S. Swackhamer.

The funeral of Ruliff S. Swackhamer, eighty-eight years old, the father of Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield, was held at his late residence near Whitehouse, yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. Rev. S. D. Decker, pastor of the Whitehouse Methodist Episcopal church, officiated. The pallbearers were Grant Davis, Henry Bishop, George W. Buckley, Cornelius Messler, David Lindaberry and Theodore Vleit.

Mr. Leader Had a Good Time.

A. J. Leader, of Duer street, returned home last evening from Kearsage, N. H., where he has been the guest for a week of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Porter, of Brooklyn, former borough residents, at their summer home. Mr. Leader enjoyed his outing thoroughly and he never tires telling of the pure air, beautiful scenery and fine trout fishing to be had at Kearsage.

FOR SWEET CHARITY'S SAKE

SUCCESSFUL EUCHRE HELD AT TRUELL INN THIS MORNING.

The euchre party given for the benefit of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home at Truell Inn this morning was a social and financial a success. Mrs. Truell granted the use of her parlors for the affair. There were thirteen tables used in the play.

Many more tickets were sold than the gathering represented, and those who had the affair in charge are justly gratified over the success. The committee consisted of Mrs. T. W. T. Maxwell, chairman, and Mrs. Arthur Murphy. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Truell at the conclusion of the playing.

There were six prizes offered which were awarded the following persons: First, Mrs. L. W. Serrell; second, Miss Ida Cook; third, Miss Shell; fourth, Miss Agnes Smith; fifth, Mrs. Haff; sixth, Mrs. Russell.

The patronesses for the affair were as follows: Mesdames N. Pendleton Rogers, H. E. Bowen, Rowland Cox, Henry Lapsley, Charles E. Brooks, L. W. Serrell, E. C. Perkins, L. V. F. Randolph, Marion S. Ackerman, Arthur Murphy, E. L. Finch, T. J. Mumford, Jules E. Erickson, G. S. Hooley and J. W. Reinhart.

G. O. P. NAME COMMITTEES

BUSINESS TRANSACTED BY THE UNION COUNTY ORGANIZATION LAST NIGHT.

At the meeting of the Republican County Committee at the Dix building, Elizabeth, last evening, the final list of names of the election officers was submitted to the committee, and it is from these that the selection will subsequently made. In the case of the Third ward, Second district, however, there were no names handed in, and unless a recommendation is received by the fifteenth of the month, the county board will re-appoint the old members.

The names submitted from the various wards and districts of this city were as follows: First ward—First district, Andrew J. Stiglitz and David Dunavan; Second district, Horace Adams and G. Thorn. Second ward—First district, J. W. Drayton and J. Hervey Doane; Second district, Edward Willis and William R. Townsend. Third ward—First district, Theodore LaRue and James W. Leonard. No nominations from the Second district. Fourth ward—First district, William T. Newman and Daniel Force; Second district, Edward Mosher and Ferdinand O. Smith; Third district, Garrett Dunham and William A. Craig.

Chairman Hamilton Kean reported a communication of invitation to five delegates and five alternates to attend the State Republican League Convention to be held in the Asbury Park Auditorium on Friday, September 2. The balloting for such delegates resulted in the choice of the required number from Elizabeth and Rahway.

After discussion, the chairman was instructed to see County Clerk Howard and Judge Benjamin Vail, of the Court of Common Pleas at Elizabeth to arrange for the county clerk's office being open evenings for naturalization purposes.

After further business of a routine nature, the committee adjourned until August 24, when a special meeting will be called. At that time blanks will be distributed for the filing of nominations to be distributed to the members. This special meeting will be in place of the meeting on the first Tuesday in September, which cannot be held on account of that being primary day.

Plainfield was represented at the meeting by three members of the committee, James F. Buckle, of the First ward, and Frank H. Smith, William Newcorn and James Morrison, of the Fourth ward.

A Lively Runaway.

A Grand Union Tea Company horse, left standing on West Fourth street near the Irving School yesterday afternoon, became frightened by children shoving a soap-box wagon beneath its feet, and ran away. The wheels of its attached rig caught in a street railway switch and was upset and badly damaged. The animal was unable to free itself and was caught.

Arrested on a Serious Charge.

John and Edward Burnett, who live just back of Washingtonville, and who are well known in this city, were arrested yesterday by Detective Totten, of Somerville, charged with attempted assault on their niece, Annie Burnett, fifteen years old. The men were arraigned before Justice Sutphen in the afternoon and were held for the Grand Jury.

RESIDENTS ASK FOR RICHMOND ST. SEWER

Continued Damage From the Heavy Rains May Lead to Quick Councilmanic Action.

TROUBLE LAST WEEK

STREET COMMITTEE NOW HAS MATTER UNDER CONSIDERATION.

Thoroughfare Becomes a River Bed and is Badly Torn Up by the Rushing Water After Every Storm.

Through the damage caused by the heavy rain last Friday afternoon, the need of a storm sewer in Richmond street has again been demonstrated and the matter has been taken up by the residents. The street committee of the Common Council has been appealed to and in response the subject has been discussed informally but will shortly be acted upon officially. It is not at all improbable that the preliminary steps leading to an appropriation for the purpose will be taken at an early meeting.

The peculiar conditions which surround Richmond street have been spoken of before in these columns but after each heavy storm matters seem to be worse. The thoroughfare is low in grade and is the natural outlet for water which flows into it from all the intersecting streets between East Front and East Seventh streets. Consequently a small river rushes down it when there is a rain of any length and besides tearing up the macadam, the residential property suffers. Flooded cellars are common and on one occasion last fall R. H. Keenan's new building was badly damaged.

At the present time the street is closely built up and a storm sewer such as proposed is imperative. The plan is to build one from East Front street to Cedar brook at East Seventh street. It can only be placed a very short distance below ground as Cedar brook is almost even with the street level and too much of a fall would bring the outlet below the bed. The piping can be placed on the east side and at the latter end a sort of square culvert would have to be built. This is what the street committee has in view and what will undoubtedly be done before a great while.

The damage done Richmond street by last week's storm was repaired yesterday. The top dressing of the macadam was completely washed away and had to be replaced. In some instances the old stone was returned but a new lot had to be added to it. The street railway company will bear one-third of the expense.

Other streets which suffered and which will have to be gone over are North avenue above Richmond street, Grant avenue, Clinton avenue at West Third street, Putnam avenue and Prospect avenue. The street gang has been taken away from Madison avenue, which is undergoing remacadamizing, and with the steam roller are putting on new top dressing and rolling it down. It will require several days more before the thoroughfares named are in their usual condition.

WATERMELON FEAST.

Exempt Firemen Have a Good Time at Their Meeting.

A largely attended meeting of the North Plainfield Exempt Firemen's Association was held last night. The second floor of the building was tastefully decorated for the occasion with flags and bunting.

After the usual routine business and election of new members, there was a general discussion on the subject of the new rooms. Some time ago the Board of Trustees decided to enlarge the living rooms of the Association by renting the first floor in the building in addition to the second floor which they now occupy. It was decided last night to reserve the second floor for meetings, while the lower will be devoted to pool tables, shuffle boards and other attractive means of amusement.

At about 9:30 all business was laid aside and an unlimited supply of watermelon was served. A good time was enjoyed by both the old and new members. In the midst of the festivities a borough photographer took a flash-light picture of the group assembled with their faces buried up to their ears in watermelon.

To Be Married September 15.

The date of the wedding of Frank Kesselring, of Chatham street, and Miss Mabel Dean, of East Front street, has been set for September 15.

CO. K'S FINE WORK ON THE STATE RANGE

Excellent Chances to Retain the Trophy for Highest Percentage in Shooting.

CORP. BILYEU'S RECORD

FORTY-FIVE OUT OF FIFTY-THREE MEMBERS QUALIFY WITH GOOD SCORES.

Privates Morrison, Bond and Frazee Eligible for Sharpshooters' Range—Twenty-One Men Yet to Qualify.

Of the fifty-three members of Co. K who visited Sea Girt yesterday to attend the prescribed practice shoot on the rifle range, twenty-seven qualified as marksmen, six as sharp-shooters and twelve as first-class men. Twenty-one still have to shoot and out of this number it is expected that at least ten more will qualify. Should this be the case, the Plainfield company has a strong chance to retain the State marksmanship trophy, awarded to the company making the highest percentage in this shooting. After all have shot, the local soldiery will await with interest the outcome of the contest, believing their especial opponent to be Co. L, of Princeton, perhaps acknowledge the crack company of the State. The fact that Plainfield has a good show to keep the trophy is shown by comparison of the scores of yesterday with those made by Co. M, of Somerville, at the same time. But twelve men of Co. M qualified.

Yesterday proved an ideal day for the shooting at the shore. In the morning work, the wind was puffy and shifting, but came in such gentle breezes that the men shot with windage of but half a point on their rifles. In the afternoon, the wind blew directly toward the shooters and the conditions were ideal.

The best work of those who qualified for marksmen was the shooting of Corporal Clarence Bilyeu, who qualified with 268 points where only 235 are necessary. This shooting breaks the National Guard record for last year in this contest by two points, 261 being the best score.

An excellent showing was made by the new men of the company, and especially noteworthy among these was the work of Private Morrison, who made a score of 112 points in the marksmanship contest, where but 98 are required for qualification. Privates Bond and Frazee made equally good records in their qualifications. Such shooting makes these men eligible for work on the sharpshooters' range by a margin of two points. Those who made scores of 75 or over in the qualification for marksmen will receive the national marksmen's reserve button and will have their names published in the adjutant general's orders.

Lieutenant W. K. Browning, former captain of the company, took part in the shooting yesterday and did excellent work. It was through the interest roused by him as well as through his personal shooting that Co. K carried off the trophy last year.

According to special orders recently announced, the men who did not shoot yesterday, or who did not have time to finish their shooting in the State contest, or who have qualified for work on the higher ranges at State expense will have transportation furnished by the State on Tuesday. Such men, who include the twenty-one regular members who did not shoot yesterday, will assemble at the company armory at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning, clad in khaki, and will proceed to the ranges on the 7:28 train from this city. Any members of the company, regular or honorary, who have done all prescribed shooting, can go to the ranges Tuesday at reduced State rates, and those who failed to qualify yesterday can shoot again if they pay their way.

Direct Newark-Hackensack Service.

Arrangements have been made between Public Service and the Hudson River Railway Co., for a connection of the lines of the two companies at Arlington, thus providing for a direct service between Newark and Hackensack. Cars will be run every half hour from the cross-over at Broad and Green streets, Newark, from 5:35 o'clock a. m. until 12:05 midnight.

Music and Dancing Prove Popular.

Music and dancing on Saturday afternoons and evenings have proven so popular at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club that they are now features of its social side. The trustees have decided to continue the series weekly until the end of the season.

MANY BIDS RECEIVED FOR HIGH SCHOOL WORK

Twenty-Six Contractors Want to Construct the New Building.

AWARDS AUGUST 16

ESTIMATES SLIGHTLY EXCEED THE APPROPRIATION MADE.

Believed That No Further Change in Plans Will be Necessary—Other Business of the Board of Education.

Bids for the construction of the new city High School were received last evening at the postponed meeting of the Board of Education, but no award will be made for either erection, lighting, heating or ventilating until next Tuesday evening. This postponement has been brought about because of the fact that the Board wished a discussion of certain special conditions subjected by various bidders before its entire body, and Leander N. Lovell, a member of the building committee, and Eugene M. Cave were unable to be present at the meeting.

Of the twenty-six bids submited, nine were estimates under the general building contract, seven were for the electric lighting, three for plumbing, and seven for heating. All the bids exceeded the appropriation of $100,000 but not to such an extent as to necessitate another alteration in plans or material so as to come within the amount. The amount in excess of the appropriation was so slight that the Board believes that a bid can be awarded Tuesday and a subsequent compromise entered into with the contractor to bring the amount within the appropriation limit. The bidders submitted separate figures for the work on the new building if constructed with the two extensions in the rear, and there were also separate bids for heating under the two systems proposed.

Being, as it was, the most important business of the meeting, the greater part of the time was devoted to the opening and reading of the various bids. Under the head of new business, however, the question of the comparative durability of red and grey paint for the city school buildings was brought up in connection with the painting of the Irving School. Discussion of the wearing qualities of metallic red paint and the grey lead and oil color resulted in the decision by the Board that the latter was the more durable and the announcement that the Irving School be painted with it, as well as the other schools as occasion should demand. The wearing qualities of the paint on the city High School, after nine years of wear, was instrumental in bringing about this decision.

In connection with the routine business of the meeting, reports from the clerk, treasurer and custodian showed round balances on hand. The clerk was authorized to borrow $5,100 for immediate use in anticipation of the receipts from taxes, and the usual budget of bills were ordered paid.

INTER-STATE GYMNASTIC CONTEST.

Many Athletes Will Compete Here in the Fall.

Much enthusiasm is being shown over the approaching Interstate gymnastic contest under the auspices of the local Y. M. C. A. Those who are intending to enter the contest are training regularly. Last night there was considerable activity at the local gymnasium. Among those on the floor were O. H. Munger and F. N. Marolay, who were perfecting a few tumbling acts,. In all probability Walter McNaughton and Ray Smith will represent the association in the meet. The affair will take place in the fall, and will include entries from all the associations in the northern part of the State.

In the athletic meet recently held at Orange, the Plainfield boys easily captured first, and they will make a hard fight for first honors in the coming event.

Civil Service Examination.

On Saturday, Aug. 13, at 9:30 a. m., a civil service examination for a rural free delivery carrier to take the new route to be established between Somerville and New Centre September 15 will be held. This route will be 23½ miles long and will extend through a populous country. There are applications for two other free delivery routes out of Somerville — one to Washingtonville.

WILL SUE FOR $50,000

C. F. HAINES THREATENS THE LEVERING & GARRIGUES' COMPANY.

Charles F. Haines, a Philadelphian, who gives his occupation as a promoter, was put under $200 bonds yesterday by Justice Charles T. Rogers, of New Market, to appear for trial next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. The charge against him is that of destroying property, belonging to the Levering & Garrigues' Company, of Dunellen, by whom the warrant was sworn out.

The arrest was the result of action on Haines' part, when, with a gang of men, he attempted to tear down and remove property belonging to the Levering & Garrigues' Company, which he declares is on land owned by him. The instant he took hostile action the warrant was served on him by Constable Blaine and he was taken before Justice Rogers. His bail was furnished by Howard Bird.

Mr. Ramsey, who is president of the Dunellen Heights' Improvement Company, which claims to own the land in question, is expected to arrive in town today and it is probable that the matter may be settled then. Haines says he intends to bring action for $50,000 damages against the Levering & Garrigues' Company. Sheriff Carman, who was sent for yesterday, did not arrive.

BOUNTY FOR A MOUNTED FOX

ALBERT CALLOWAY WANTS $3 FROM SOMERSET COUNTY FREEHOLDERS.

Albert Calloway, of North Plainfield township, startled the Somerset County Board of Freeholders at the meeting yesterday, by submitting a bill of $3 as bounty for killing a fox two years ago. The animal had been mounted and was in a glass case but Calloway believed he should be paid as though he had delivered the pelt. The board informed him it did not care for mounted specimens and his bill was rejected.

Freeholder Henry Garretson caused a stir by urging the board to build a new stone road from South Bound Brook to New Brunswick. He asked that immediate action be taken but after a discussion the matter was laid over. The county collector was authorized to borrow $20,000 in anticipaiton of taxes and adjournment was taken to meet on the New Brunswick-Franklin Park road Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

MISS DAVIS AMONG THE VICTIMS.

Niece of Mrs. Tomlinson Among Those Killed on the M. P. R. R.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, of East Seventh street, is in receipt of a telegram from her brother, Henry C. Davis, of Pueblo, Colorado, saying that his daughter, Mineola, is among the victims of the railway horror which occurred at Eden, Colorado, on the Missouri Pacific, Sunday evening. It is thought that Miss Davis was one of those carried down into the bed of Fountain river in the chair car which sunk in a bed of quick-sand, making the recovery of bodies from it both slow and difficult.

Miss Davis, who was eighteen years old, was returning from a stay at Colorado Springs, following a trip to Kansas, when she met her death. The news will come as a distinct shock to those who met her in this city three years ago while on a visit here.

The Practice Must Stop.

The practice of passing through the gates of the dividing fence at the North Avenue Station, on the part of passengers and outsiders, has come beneath the notice of the New Jersey Central officials and peremptory orders have been issued against it. Hereafter all persons entitled to go have been provided with a key and must lock the gate after them. Failure to do it is declared will result in dismissal. The practice had become so prevalent that it was being made a regular thoroughfare and there were several narrow escapes from injury.

Veteran Expressman Celebrates.

Augustus M. Frazee, Plainfield's pioneer "pony" expressman, is making preparations to observe the eightieth anniversary of his birth which occurs tomorrow. He entered the express business in New York in 1850 and continued it until October, 1893. He then began the "pony" trips between Plainfield and the metropolis and which are still conducted by his son, DeWitt Frazee. The octogenarian still enjoys good health and will spend the day receiving his friends.

ALUMINUM PRESS CO. WILL NOT SHUT DOWN

President P. W. Hall Makes a Strong Statement Regarding Affairs at the "Klondyke."

OFFICIALS RESIGN

SAYS HE IS MAKING A GENERAL SHAKE-UP IN THE OFFICIAL HELP.

Men Laid Off Temporarily Owing to Summer Depression—Hopes to Have Everything in Good Shape Within a Short Time.

President P. W. Hall, of the Aluminum Press Company, to a Daily Press reporter today branded the story of the concern's bad state of affairs as published by a local paper yesterday as an absurd misstatement of facts.

"There is no truth in it whatsoever," he said, "in fact I might say that it is 'wind' and nothing more. I did lay off a gang of men last week, but August is a dull month in manufacturing circles and I hope to have them back within a short time. I have been reorganizing the official help and Superintendent Leary was asked to resign as were others when I recently began 'housecleaning.' The story said that 'Assistant Superintendent O'Keefe had also resigned.' He was never more than a clerk in this concern and was included in the cleanout."

When asked about the statement that several of the stockholders had become so dissatisfied that they intended bringing suit for the return of money invested, Mr. Hall exclaimed:

"You can say that I own more stock in this company than all the other investors put together multiplied by ten and if there is anyone dissatisfied I would know about it. Last year there was one small stockholder in New York who commenced an action but such a thing happens with any young concern. Regarding Dr. Brakeley's outspoken views, I don't see how he is entitled to say anything as he is only a small outside stockholder who got possession of some floating stock. The shop is not going to shut down, there is not going to be a re-organization and when I adjust a few minor business affairs the plant will be in good condition."

The concern was originally organized by John Brooks, for many years superintendent of the Potter plant, as the Aluminum Plate and Press Company, to manufacture a color press that prints from an aluminum plate instead of the lithograph stone. The building at the corner of North avenue and Berckman street was secured and for several years affairs were prosperious. With the death of Mr. Brooks, the company was reorganized as the Aluminum Press Company and it remained at the North avenue place until this summer when it removed to a new building just west of Dunellen.

When spoken to by a Daily Press reporter yesterday, Mr. Leary declared that he left the concern because of the unsettled management and the fact he was greatly in need of a rest, not having had a vacation since he was twelve years old. As to the future he had no definite plans, he said, but he would continue to make Plainfield his home.

TENNNIS CHAMPIONSHIP.

Local Players Will Contest for East Jersey Trophy.

Local tennis clubs have received invitations from the Elizabeth Town and Country Club to enter teams in the East Jersey Challenge Cup tournament and the other annual open events of that organization. Tournament play will commence Wednesday afternoon, August 31, and will be continued through Labor Day. Three events will be played, a men's singles for the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association Challenge cup, men's doubles and mixed doubles. The winner of the championship singles tournament will be privileged to hold the trophy for one year, but will be called upon to defend it next year. The cup is to be the property of anyone winning it three years, not necessarily consecutive. In addition to the challenge cup, first, runner-up and consolation prizes will be awarded. First and runners-up prizes will be awarded in the men's doubles and in the mixed doubles. All matches will be the best three out of five advantage sets, except the mixed doubles, which will be two out of three. Subsequent arrangements are in charge of Miles S. Charlock, of the East Jersey Tennis Association, who is chairman of the tournament committee.

Of course you want good groceries and when you buy them you want them delivered properly. W. W. Dunn, whose store is located at Lincoln place and Duer street, has the right kind of goods and never fails to carry out his argeement. Why not give him a trial order.

Take your friends to L. W. Randolph's soda fountain for refreshments. The store is centrally located on West Front street, but Randolph's soda would draw just as much custom if the fountain were located where people would have to look further for it. The soda is popular because it's pure. What's yours?

Don't be fooled into buying a cheap grade of meat because some one says that it's all alike. Smalley Brothers, the North avenue market men, have always prided themselves on the high standard of their supplies and that is one reason why they have gained such a large patronage. Another reason is the service which has only to be tried to be appreciated.

It is easy to tell when an awning has been hung by Shirley & Johnson. In the first place the material is of the best and it has a natty air about it that others lack. This firm has been located in Plainfield for several years and will undertake contracts for any number of awnings, window shades or canopies. They design them, make them and put them up. They have canopies to rent out for weddings, parties or receptions.

Miss Lizzie Parker and Miss Olive Hedden, of Central avenue, have gone to Centerville to spend a few weeks.

Mrs. Joseph W. Yates, and Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Borden, of East Seventh street, have returned to their summer home in the Adirondacks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Johnson, of Summit avenue, who have been been spending some time at Boston, Mass., are now sojourning at Glen Cove, L. I.

Mrs. John Gunn, of Fritz place, who has been ill for several weeks, does not improve and she will probably be taken to Muhlenberg Hospital.

Word has been received from Harry Scull, who has been on an extended trip through the West, which shows the young man to be enjoying himself to the fullest extent at Los Angeles. Mr. Scull will return about the middle of September.

AMONG MEN IN THE SHOPS

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

William Owens, of Lee place, will leave Thursday morning for St. Louis.

Five men were taken on in the foundry at The Potter Press Company's plant yesterday.

John Huff, of New street, has resigned his position at The Pond Machine Tool Company's plant.

David Allen, Jr., of the borough, has taken a position at The Pond Machine Tool Company's works.

Robert Marsh, of The Pedrick-Ayer Company's plant, is detained at his home on Park avenue by sickness.

Andrew Conway, of West Seventh street, has taken a position at Brady Brothers' lumber yard at Bayonne.

John Martin, of The Pond Machine Tool Company's plant, has returned to his position after a few days' sickness.

Winfield Chase, of Clinton avenue, has resigned his position at The Plainfield "Auto" Garage Company's repair shop.

Jacob Burkhart, of Brooklyn, has returned to his home after a few days' visit with Chas. Meyer, of South Second street.

Daniel Kiely, of West Sixth street, has resumed his former position in the foundry of The Potter Press Company's works.

William Cumback, superintendent of The Pedrick-Ayer Works, has returned to his position after ten days' vacation in Georgia.

Charles Meyer, Jr., of The Potter Press Company's works, has returned to his position after a visit with relatives in New York city.

Peter Jonas, who was seriously injured by a kick he received from a horse a month ago, has entirely recovered. He has returned to his position at Walter Scott's Press Works.

Gustave Oberg, of The Pedrick-Ayer Works, is suffering from a badly lacerated thumb. Mr. Oberg was handling a large piece of steel at the shop yesterday, when the bar slipped and in trying to prevent it from striking one of the machines, the nail on the thumb of his right hand was completely torn off. The injury was dressed at the shop.

Sunday Excursion to Mauch Chunk.

There is no more popular resort for a Sunday than Mauch Chunk, and to reach it entails a delightful rail journey, and at Mauch Chunk there is a diversity of amusements, the chief of which is a ride over the Switchback. This journey occupies more than one hour, and leads over and around the mountains with widely changing scenes at every turn. The Switchback is a gravity road, and the speed attained is close to a mile per minute. Another feature is Flagstaff, the summit of which is reached by trolley, and from its pinnacle point there is a view extending over miles and miles of beautiful country. An interesting spot close at hand is Glen Onoko, a short distance above Mauch Chunk, and, as its name implies, is a beautiful glen, with falls, cataracts, mountain paths leading to cool and delightful places. On August 14 the New Jersey Central is to run a popular excursion to Mauch Chunk from Plainfield by special train leaving at 9:20 a. m. Returning train will leave Mauch Chunk at 5:40 p. m., and the round trip will cost but $1.50. Frequent train service will be in effect between Mauch Chunk and Glen Onoko, and trains on the Switchback run every few minutes. 867c

PARKER IS NOTIFIED

Champ Clark of Missouri Made Announcement.

AT HIS BEAUTIFUL ROSEMOUNT FARM

Presidential Candidate Accepted the Nomination, Stated His Reasons For Acceptance and Gave His Views as the Nominee.

ESOPUS, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Former Chief Judge Alton B. Parker was formally notified of his nomination as Democratic candidate for the presidency of the United States at his home at Rosemount today. Flags and bunting were draped about the low platform from which the speeches were delivered. The platform was situated in the grove above Judge Parker's home, in one of the prettiest spots in Rosemount. A large crowd filled the lawn just north of the house. The committee arrived by the steamer Sagamore, which brought them from CHAMP CLARK.

New York city. The grounds were open, and no visitors were turned away. Many Ulster county residents, irrespective of party, were present.

The notification committee came under the hospitality of the New York state Democratic committee, and it alone numbered upward of fifty men. With its members came a large number of New York city Democrats, among others being former Senator David B. Hill, Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas and members of the Democratic national committee. The members of the notification committee were received by Judge Parker upon the veranda of Rosemount. They were presented to him by Chairman Cord Meyer of the state committee.

The opening speech by Chairman Champ Clark of Missouri formally notified Judge Parker of his nomination and presented to him a certified copy of the platform adopted by the St. Louis convention and of the message decided upon by the convention in reply to the judge's telegram on the gold standard sent to William F. Sheehan.

Judge Parker then followed Mr. Clark with his speech formally accepting the nomination, giving his reasons therefor and stating his views as a candidate for the presidency. The ceremony was followed by an informal session of greetings and congratulations.

Carter H. Harrison of Chicago arrived over the West Shore road at an early hour.

The new station at Esopus is now finished and is the most attractive on the entire line of the West Shore.

Will Not Affect National Ticket.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Senator Spooner of Wisconsin has had a conference with the president on general politics and the situation in Wisconsin. "I haven't the slightest apprehension about the electoral vote of Wisconsin," said Senator Spooner. "It certainly will be cast for Roosevelt and Fairbanks. Our local trouble does not affect the national ticket at all."

Whisky Seller Shot.

HINTON, W. Va., Aug. 10.—J. Lovell, aged twenty-three, of Floyd county, Va., but jailed at Princeton for selling whisky, was shot while escaping from jail by W. H. Lewis, a trusty negro, and died a few hours later. The jailer had given a revolver to the negro and directed him to shoot. Intense feeling exists against the negro and the jailer.

Vermont Marble Setters Strike.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 10.—Several marble setters have quit work at the new state capitol. A message calling them out was received from New York. There has for some time been a strike on at the Vermont quarries, and the leaders have called out workmen all over the country. This affects the men on Vermont marble only.

Mormon Settlement For Canada.

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 10.—A party of 200 Mormons has passed through Butte on their way to Alberta, Canada, where they will look over the field in contemplation of settling in the northwest.

Unidentified Bridge Jumper Dead.

MALONE, N. Y., Aug. 10.—An unidentified man jumped from a bridge into Tupper lake at Underwood mills and was drowned. His body has been recovered.

Lord Curzon Reappointed.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—The approval of King Edward of the reappointment of Lord Curzon of Kedleston as viceroy of India is announced.

HELP FROM NORTH

General Linevitch Marching From Vladivostok.

TO ATTACK KUROKI IN FLANK.

Japanese Rising to Assault Sinmintun Thirty Miles From Mukden. One of Port Arthur's Gates Has Fallen.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Advices from St. Petersburg say that Lieutenant General Linevitch is marching with troops from the direction of Vladivostok to create a diversion in the rear of General Kuroki's army with the object of relieving General Kuropatkin's force.

A Mukden dispatch says that the Japanese are using the Shanhaikwan-Yinkow railway for provisioning the army and mobilizing troops for an attack on Sinmintun, about thirty miles west of Mukden.

A dispatch received at St. Petersburg from Lieutenant General Stoessel confirms previous reports that the Japanese before Port Arthur are in possession of Wolf hill. General Stoessel reports as follows:

"At 4 in the morning five divisions of Japanese took the offensive against our position on Wolf hill. In view of the enormous superiority of the enemy's forces and the weakness of the position our troops were ordered to retire to the next position without fighting.

"The movement was effected in complete order under the protection of artillery, which by accurate fire at short ranges completely stopped the Japanese advance.

"Our losses have not yet been ascertained, but they were not great. The losses of the Japanese were very considerable. In the last engagements the Japanese had about 70,000 men and a considerable number of siege guns."

IGORROTES AT WHITE HOUSE.

They Call on President Roosevelt In Picturesque Garb.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. — Picturesquely, but quite adequately garbed, a party of Moro and Igorrote chiefs, constituting a part of the Philippine exhibit at the St. Louis exposition, paid their respects to President Roosevelt at the White House. The exchanges between the chiefs and the president were informal, but happy in their tone.

The reception took place in the president's private office and the adjoining cabinet room. While it was in progress the members of the cabinet arrived to attend the regular semiweekly meeting. Each in turn was presented to the Filipinos, who paid them the highest respect known to their people.

Before the conclusion of the reception the chiefs, through Antero, presented to the president some handsome native gifts, including curiously carved metallic pipes, a beautifully embellished spear and two shields, one of closely woven native grass and the other of wood covered with hide. After they left the executive offices the Filipinos were shown through the lower apartments of the White House.

American Salute For Edward.

GIBRALTAR, Aug. 10.—The United States battleship squadron, Rear Admiral Barker commanding, dressed ship and fired a salute in honor of Coronation day, the second anniversary of the crowning of King Edward. Rear Admiral Sir Edward Chichester, who commanded the British cruiser Immortalite at Manila during the Spanish-American war, cordially welcomed the American squadron to Gibraltar.

Bank President Starr Dead.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 10.—John F. Starr, president of the First National bank of this city, is dead at his summer home in Atlantic City, aged eighty-six years. In 1862 he was elected to congress to represent the First district of New Jersey and was re-elected in 1864. Mr. Starr was the founder of the Starr iron foundry, now the Camden iron works, one of the largest foundries in the world.

Gift From Francis Joseph.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Baron Hengelmueller, the Austrian ambassador, paid a visit to Washington from Bar Harbor to arrange with Secretary Hay for the delivery to President Roosevelt of a magnificently bound and ornamented volume of statistics prepared by the Austrian government and intended to be the personal gift of Emperor Francis Joseph to the president.

Turned Back at Frontier.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Five Canadian Frenchmen were stopped here by Immigrant Inspector Ryle for violating the alien contract labor law and were returned to Canada. All were cloth weavers from Valleyfield, P. Q., and had purchased tickets to Castorland, claiming they were to work there for a contractor named Campo at lumbering.

Wheat Two Cents Higher.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—There has been a jump of 2 cents a bushel in wheat, topping Monday's advance of 4 cents and last week's gain of 9. Thunderstorms were general throughout the west and northwest, and there were further reports of rust damage. September opened excited at $1.01 to $1.02 and quickly jumped to $1.03.

A Tribute to Taylor's Memory.

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—A salute of thirteen guns was fired at the Charlestown navy yard in memory of the late Rear Admiral Henry C. Taylor, U. S. N., chief of the bureau of navigation, who died in Ontario on July 26. All the warships joined in the tribute.

BROOMSTICK WON TRAVERS.

Historic Stakes Established In 1864 Run at Saratoga.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 10.—The Travers, a historic stake first run in 1864, the year racing was introduced at Saratoga, was the feature of the card. It was merely a gallop for Captain Brown's Broomstick. The Ben Brush colt was at times seven or eight lengths ahead of the other two, who raced neck and neck most of the distance. Bobadil had stamina enough to draw away through the stretch and finished but four lengths behind the eased up winner.

Mimosa, favorite, won the first race by two lengths without great trouble. Letola was as easy a second. After leading most of the way Bedouin was nosed out of first place in the second race by Broadcloth, another of Captain Brown's colts.

The first long price to win was Carbuncle in the third. Many persons were inclined to censure Burns for allowing the favorite, Prince Ching, who went to the post at 13 to 5, to be beaten a few yards from the wire. Carbuncle won by half a length.

The first four in the fifth were only necks apart under the wire. Niblick, the favorite, at 18 to 5, finished in the ruck. Adriutha made a runaway of the sixth, winning by eight lengths.

Gallagher Won $5,000 Stake.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The weather was perfect, the track fast and the sport most exciting at the Empire City track on the second day of the grand circuit meeting. The big feature of the day from a time standpoint was the $5,000 2:08 pace, for which the Canadian horse Gallagher was the choice at $50 to $70 for the field. In the first heat Pan Michael got a flying start by two lengths and held the lead to within a few yards of the wire, when the favorite came on and won by a head in 2 minutes 3½ seconds, the fastest mile paced in a race this year. In the second heat Gallagher led from start to finish, with John M. and Pan Michael fighting for the places.

A New Track Record.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Miss Crawford, coupled in the betting with Sioux Chief, won the mile and a sixteenth handicap, the feature event at Harlem. Bragg got second place by half a length from Port Royal. In the fourth race S. C. Hildreth's five-year-old mare Delagoa broke the track record for six furlongs, covering the distance in 1:12 flat and winning the race in a canter by eight lengths.

Ingomar In English Race.

RYDE, Isle of Wight, Aug. 10.—At the Royal Victoria Yacht club regatta in the race for the vice commodore's cup the schooner yacht Ingomar, owned by Morton F. Plant of New York, led for a considerable distance, but the wind was too light, and the course was shortened by one-half. The Valdora, getting a slant of wind, won on time allowance.

Rockaway Polo Team Won.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 10.—The first match in the annual polo tournament for the Narragansett cup, offered by the Point Judith Country club, was played here between the Bryn Mawr first team of Philadelphia and the Rockaway first team of New York, Rockaway winning by a score of 12¾ to 9.

Death Won at Fair Grounds.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 10.—Two favorites were successful at the fair grounds. On a fast track Death gave evidence of coming back to form when he won the second race by a head from Mindora, covering the seven furlongs in 1 minute 28 seconds.

White Bear Won.

MONTREAL, Aug. 10.—The White Bear defeated Noorna in the race for the Seawanhaka cup here, and both defender and challenger have each two wins to their credit.

Robert O'Bannon a Victim.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 10.—Robert O'Bannon, manager of the National Literature and Art society, has been lost in the wreck near Pinon, Colo. His body has not been recovered. He was thirty years old, and his home was at Brewton, Ala. He came here last April from Washington.

FLEET NOT A BLUFF

Our Envoy to Turkey May Be Recalled.

SULTAN'S OBSTINACY THE CAUSE

Cabinet Meeting Has Discussed the Situation With Ottoman Empire and May Sever Diplomatic Relations.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—According to the present plans of the state department, it is probable that sensational developments will follow the arrival of the European squadron at Smyrna, Asiatic Turkey, if the sublime porte continues to remain deaf to the demands of the United States. It was reported that the sultan had yielded to the American government's demands, but later reports contradict this.

The Turkish situation has been fully discussed at a cabinet meeting, and it has been decided that while no instructions will be sent to United States Minister Leishman at Constantinople prior to the arrival at Smyrna of the cruisers Olympia, Cleveland and Baltimore, composing the European squadron under Admiral Jewell, it is known that the plans of the state department for bringing about a change of views on the part of the sultan and his minister contemplate no more extended delay than that indicated.

It is believed that in the event of the sultan refusing favorable consideration to the American demands Minister Leishman will be recalled to the United States and diplomatic relations between the United States and Turkey absolutely severed.

It is pointed out that the European squadron was sent to the Turkish port of Smyrna with a distinct purpose in view. This purpose was certainly not to make open war nor to seize either Smyrna or some other Turkish port, for that in itself would be an act of armed hostility.

But, on the other hand, if the European squadron, after remaining at Smyrna for a time, was withdrawn without having accomplished anything—the sultan refusing to change his attitude with regard to the American demands—the United States would be placed before the other great powers in a position exceedingly lacking in dignity.

Consequently, in the event of no good result following the arrival and presence of the American warships at Smyrna, the only course left open to the United States would be the recall of its minister and the severance of all diplomatic relations with the sublime porte.

Fire Raging at Victoria, B. C.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 10.—A great fire is raging in the residential section. It commenced in the Albion Iron works. The fire appears to be likely to be confined to several blocks in the northern residential quarter. Part of the Albion Iron works, including the pattern room, is a total wreck. The fire jumped several hundred yards, wiping out residences on Government street, and then went with the high wind to the Work estate, where it is now raging. It is too high for water pressure there, and the fire department is practically helpless.

Miss Bishop In Eden Wreck.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 10.—Miss Carrie O. Bishop, daughter of Mrs. S. S. Bishop of this city, was among those who lost their lives in the wreck of the passenger train at Eden, Colo., Sunday evening. Her cousins, John F. Bishop and Etta A. Bishop, brother and sister, both of Pueblo, are also among the dead. Miss Bishop left Hartford two weeks ago to visit relatives in Colorado, and it is presumed, in lack of further details, that she, in company with her cousins, was going by train to visit other relatives.

Three Hurt by Explosion.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Three men were injured by the explosion of the tank of a new chemical engine at Goshen. Harry J. Scott received a fracture of the skull, Robert Ladue suffered an injury to his eyes which ruined his sight, and Frank Hock had a hand broken. The engine belonged to the Cataract Engine company and was being tested when the explosion occurred.

Strikers Stop a Train.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 10.—A mob of 200 men and boys, packing house strikers and their sympathizers, stopped an incoming train carrying strike breakers at Riverside, Kan., last night, drove the nonunion men from the train with clubs, threw their baggage into the Kaw river and set fire to the car. The police put out the fire before any damage had been done. No arrests were made.

These Fiends Used Giant Powder.

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 10.—The residence of Mrs. Bella Powers was almost demolished by three unknown men, who placed a charge of giant powder in a closet, lighted the fuse and fled. Several persons who boarded with Mrs. Powers were slightly injured by the explosion. There is no clew to the perpetrators or to their motive for blowing up the house.

Garment Workers Strike For Union.

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—Eighty members of the Garment Workers' Union No. 1 have struck at the factories of Henry Hollander and Harry Levy in the south end because they claimed several unionists had been discharged and their places filled by nonunionists. The strike is expected to spread unless other contractors make concessions.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 10, 1904.

No wonder the money market was tight yesterday. Secretary Cortelyou and his campaign fund pockets passed through the financial district.

The paramount thought nowadays is whether we start out with rubbers and umbrella or a straw hat and pleasant smile. The odds are even.

See by the papers that New Zealand has been shaken by a landslide. Only mention this as a reminder that one is apt to happen along this way next November.

Bishop Potter will probably recall that when St. Paul advised the brethren to take a little wine for the stomach's sake there were no prohibition organs and the W. C. T. U. had not been organized. — New York Herald.

"Entirely through advertising in the leading newspapers a real estate company of Chicago sold in one year 25,000 lots at a Michigan summer resort," says an exchange. "The manager says: 'We found that every class of buyers, including the men of largest means, can be reached through the newspapers better than by any other means.'"

Fanwood township occupies but a small space on the map but it has a set of officials whose far-sightedness and business tact might well be envied by the governing bodies of larger municipalities. The securing of $1,000 for the privilege of stringing wires through a part of its confines by an outside corporation is one instance of their ability to do things and its dictation to a street railway company is another. The Fanwood officials believe that if they have something that is valuable to someone else it is valuable to them, and their supposition has proven correct.

CHURCH FAIR BRINGS FORTUNE

CITY CLERK J. J. MANNING, OF ELIZABETH, THE LUCKY MAN.

Those who are acquainted with City Clerk James J. Manning, of Elizabeth, will be interested to hear that he has encountered an unusual streak of good fortune. A few years ago Mr. Manning visited New Castle, Del., and was there prevailed upon to attend a church fair. While at the fair he tried his luck at a number of drawings for which there were offered among the prizes, a range, a bed quilt, and a lot of land in an unimproved section of the city.

Some time after his arrival, he was informed that he had drawn all three of these prizes. The stove and quilt were sent to him, but as the lot of land was not conveniently transportable, Mr. Manning did not credit particular value to this piece of luck which at the time would have brought about $10. In the last eighteen months, the town of Newcastle has had a remarkable growth, and the section of land which a few years ago was practically worthless, is now said to be valued at about $10,000; at least that is the price which a prominent real estate man has offered for it.

Mr. Manning recently left for Newcastle, and expects to return soon with the greenbacks. In speaking to a friend the other day, Mr. Manning said: "If I get $10,000 for that lot, I am going to vote the Republican ticket this fall, and I'll guarantee that the First Ward, Elizabeth, goes Republican at the next election."

Lucius T. Koons, of Sandford avenue, is expected home about August 14. Mr. Koons has left Montana, where he has been spending the summer on a sheep ranch, and intends to stop at the Fair for a few days. On his return Mr. Koons will go to Asbury Park for two weeks.

PARKER'S ADDRESS.

Democratic Candidate Accepts Nomination.

PROMISES POPULAR GOVERNMENT.

Denounces Class Legislation and Executive Usurpation—Tariff Revision and Regulation of Trusts—Imperialism.

Esopus, N. Y., Aug. 10.—The following is the address of Alton B. Parker accepting the Democratic nomination for the presidency of the United States:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Committee:

I have resigned the office of chief judge of the court of appeals of this state in order that I may accept the responsibility that the great convention you represent has put upon me without possible prejudice to the court to which I had the honor to belong or to the eminent members of the judiciary of this state, of whom I may now say as a private citizen I am justly proud.

At the very threshold of this response and before dealing with other subjects I must, in justice to myself and to relieve my sense of gratitude, express my profound appreciation of the confidence reposed in me by the convention. After nominating me and subsequently receiving a communication declaring that I regarded the gold standard as firmly and irrevocably established, a matter concerning which I felt it incumbent upon me to make known my attitude so that hereafter no man could justly say that his support had been secured through indirection or mistake, the convention reiterated its determination that I should be the standard bearer of the party in the present contest. This mark of trust and confidence I shall ever esteem as the highest honor that could be conferred upon me—an honor that, whatever may be the fate of the campaign, the future can in no degree lessen or impair.

The admirable platform upon which the party appeals to the country for its confidence and support clearly states the principles which were so well condensed in the first inaugural address of President Jefferson and points out with force and directness the course to be pursued through their proper application in order to insure needed reforms in both the legislative and administrative departments of the government. While unhesitating in its promise to correct abuses and to right wrongs wherever they appear or however caused; to investigate the several administrative departments of the government, the conduct of whose officials has created scandals, and to punish those who have been guilty of a breach of their trust; to oppose the granting of special privileges by which the few may profit at the expense of the many; to practice economy in the expenditure of the moneys of the people and to that end to return once more to the methods of the founders of the republic by observing in disbursing the public funds the care and caution a prudent individual observes with respect to his own, still the spirit of the platform assures conservative instead of rash action, the protection of the innocent as well as the punishment of the guilty; the encouragement of industry, economy and thrift; the protection of property and a guarantee of the enforcement for the benefit of all of man's inalienable rights, among which, as said in the Declaration of Independence, are "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." Liberty, as understood in this country, means not only the right of freedom from actual servitude, imprisonment or restraint, but the right of one to use his faculties in all lawful ways, to live and work where he will and to pursue any lawful trade or business. These essential rights of life, liberty and property are not only guaranteed to the citizen by the constitution of each of the several states, but the states are by the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States forbidden to deprive any person of any one of them without due process of law.

Occasionally, by reason of unnecessary or impatient agitation for reforms or because the limitations placed upon the departments of government by the constitution are disregarded by officials desiring to accomplish that which to them seems good, whether the power exists in them or not, it becomes desirable to call attention to the fact that the people, in whom all power resides, have seen fit through the medium of the constitution to limit the governmental powers conferred and to say to departments created by it, "Thus far shalt thou go and no farther." To secure the ends sought the people have by the constitution separated and distributed among the three departments of government—the executive, legislative and judicial—certain powers, and it is the duty of those administering each department so to act as to preserve rather than to destroy the potency of the co-ordinate branches of the government and thus secure the exercise of all the powers conferred by the people.

Thomas Jefferson, in a letter to William C. Jarvis touching the perpetuity of our institutions, written many years after he had retired to private life, said, "If the three powers of our government maintain their mutual independence of each other it may last long, but not so if either can assume the authority of the other." It must be confessed that in the course of our history executives have employed powers not belonging to them. Statutes have been passed that were expressly forbidden by the constitution, and statutes have been set aside as unconstitutional when it was difficult to point out the provisions said to be offended against in their enactment. All this has been done with a good purpose, no doubt, but in disregard nevertheless of the fact that ours is a government of laws, not of men, deriving its "just powers from the consent of the governed." If we would have our government continue during the ages to come for the benefit of those who shall succeed us we must ever be on our guard against the danger of usurpation of that authority which resides in the whole people, whether the usurpation be by officials representing one of the three great departments of government or by a body of men acting without a commission from the people.

Impatience of the restraints of law as well as of its delays is becoming more and more manifest from day to day. Within the past few years many instances have been brought to our attention where in different parts of our beloved country supposed criminals have been seized and punished by a mob, notwithstanding the fact that the constitution of each state guarantees to every person within its jurisdiction that his life, his liberty or his property shall not be taken from him without due process of law.

In a struggle between employers and employees dynamite is said to have been used by the latter, resulting in the loss of life and the destruction of property. The perpetrators of this offense against the laws of God and man and all others engaged in the conspiracy with them should, after due trial and conviction, have had meted out to them the most rigorous punishment known to the law. This crime, added perhaps to others, led to the formation of a committee of citizens that, with the support of the military authority, deports from the state without trial persons suspected of belonging to the organization of which the perpetrators of the dynamite outrages were supposed to be members. In both cases the reign of law gave way to the reign of force. These illustrations present some evidence of the failure of government to protect the citizen and his property, which not only justified the action of your convention in this regard, but made it its duty to call attention to the fact that constitutional guarantees are violated whenever any citizen is denied the right to labor, to acquire and to enjoy property or to reside where his interests or inclination may determine, and the fulfillment of the assurance to rebuke and punish all denials of these rights, whether brought about by individuals or government agencies, should be enforced by every official and supported by every citizen. The essence of good government lies in strict observance of constitutional limitations, enforcement of law and order and rugged opposition to all encroachment upon the sovereignty of the people.

The foregoing suggestions but emphasize the distinction which exists between our own and many other forms of government. It has been well said in substance that there are but two powers in government—one the power of the sword, sustained by the hand that wields it, and the other the power of the law, sustained by an enlightened public sentiment. The difference in these powers is the difference between a republic such as ours, based on law and a written constitution, supported by intelligence, virtue and pa-

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

John Peters, Jr., John Logan, Harry Sugars and John Dineen, of the borough, left yesterday on an extended trolley trip through this part of the country. Logan, Sugars and Dineen are employed at Levering & Garrigues' and are taking this way of spending their time, while the factory is shut down. The party will go from here to Trenton and then to Philadelphia, returning the latter part of this week.

The Dunellen A. C., and the New Market Y. M. A. will meet in the second game of the new series next Saturday. It has not yet been decided whether the contest will take place here or in New Market.

John Peters, who recently returned from a trip to Europe, is exhibiting some excellent pictures of life on shipboard. His family is prominent in many of the pictures.

The Twenty-eighth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers has chosen New Market as the place for its annual reunion and arrangements are under way for a big time.

About two hundred from here enjoyed a very pleasant day at Bellewood yesterday and returned home without mishap.

Clement Dixon has returned home a second time from Muhlenberg Hospital where he has been confined with a broken leg.

Frank Rhinehart is recovering from a severe injury to his hand, which has incapacitated him from work for some time.

Mrs. Richardson, of Plainfield, spent yesterday with her sister, Mrs. Thomas Todd.

A gang of about seventy-five men is engaged in putting up the new switch tower.

Fred Haines has disposed of his canoe to a Plainfield party.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Funeral services of Louis A. Goodenough, superintendent of the Paterson public schools, and a former principal of the local school, were held yesterday afternoon from the home of his mother, at Hamilton, N. Y. Rev. Edward Judson, pastor of The Judson Memorial church, of New York, officiated. Mr. Goodenough died suddenly at Belleville, N. Y., on Saturday.

Taking away the $500 tax exemption from the volunteer firemen in the State is bound to hurt the local companies materially, but few new members are joining the ranks since the decision was rendered. A number claim that they will resign from the department as the exemption allowed by law was the only benefit they received for their services.

The usual complaint from the farmers through this section at this time of the year is "too dry." This has been changed this year to "too wet." Crops will be ruined if the rainy weather keeps up.

The friends of George W. Marsh, who is recuperating from his recent severe illness at Bromfield, Mass., are pleased to learn that he is improving steadily.

Fanwood Council, R. A., held a well attended meeting last night. Three new members were initiated and other important business transacted.

The borough and township assessors' duplicates were revised and corrected at the Township Committee and Borough Council meetings held last night

IN A SAFE PLACE.

Mrs. Ogden Goelet Finds Her Gems In New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The Pinkerton detective agency, which was called upon by Mrs. Ogden Goelet to trace the $100,000 worth of jewelry stolen from her by some person supposed to be in her own social circle, has issued the following statement:

"Mrs. Ogden Goelet's jewels which were believed to have been lost were, through the suggestion of the Pinkertons and Chief of Police Richards of Newport, found by her in her safe in this city.

"Mrs. Goelet left New York for Newport on June 21. She supposed she took with her her jewel case. In the middle of July she missed it and made a thorough search for it at her Newport residence. Failing to find it, she reported the loss to the Pinkertons and also to Chief of Police Richards of Newport.

"After a thorough investigation by the Pinkertons, who concluded that no robbery had been committed and that her jewels were probably in her safe in this city, she, at their suggestion, came to New York on Monday and upon opening the safe found the jewels where she had placed them."

The agency declined to say a word more.

TURKS AND KURDS.

Butcheries of Armenian Villagers Near Outchkilissa.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—A dispatch from Tabriz, Persia, says:

"A band of Armenian revolutionists has appeared near Outchkilissa. Turkish soldiers and Kurds, finding an excuse, attacked and destroyed the villages of Outchkilissa, Koomloubouljak, Gougan, Karabazar and Sayto, butchering men and outraging women.

"Two large Armenian bands marching to Sassun to help the insurgent leader Antranik attacked the garrison at Mossunzory and Goutchagh for revenge. At dawn bombs were thrown into these places, killing many, and severe fighting ensued. A majority of the soldiers were killed, and the garrisons resembled graveyards. One band forced its way through the Kurdish tribes toward Arjess. The number of soldiers killed amounted to several hundred."

CHICAGO STRIKE RIOT.

Pickets Stopped Meat Wagon and Beat Driver.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—The first riot in the main business district during the present strike has occurred here. Pickets at Van Buren and Franklin streets stopped a meat wagon, dragged the two men in charge to the pavement and administered a beating to a negro driver.

Hundreds of angry strike sympathizers joined the pickets and surrounded the wagon, while the men with the meat sought to protect themselves with the aid of a policeman. After the fight had lasted some minutes a call for fifty policemen was sent, and the crowd was dispersed, four rioters being arrested.

At the same time another wagon several blocks distant was attacked, and the man in charge was struck on the head with a brick.

Driven From Cripple Creek.

VICTOR, Colo., Aug. 10.—Former Mayor W. J. Donnelly has decided to remove, with his family, from the Cripple Creek district in consequence of repeated warnings. "I believe my life is in danger, and I fear my store and house would be burned if I remained," said Mr. Donnelly. The objection to Mr. Donnelly's presence in the district comes from the foes of the Western Federation of Miners, with which he had been an avowed sympathizer since the deportation of union miners was inaugurated.

All Is Quiet at Bogota.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—In response to an inquiry as to the truth of the report that the American legation at Bogota had been stoned the state department has received the following cablegram from Mr. Snyder, the American charge at the Colombian capital: "Reported attack on American legation absolutely without foundation. All is quiet here. The administration of General Reyes is in power. Evidence of satisfaction everywhere visible."

Civil Service and Politics.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Heads of government departments have let it be known that their officials are not to take an active part in local or state politics where their activity might prove compromising in any way to the administration. President Roosevelt has declined consistently to be drawn into factional troubles in any state, and it is not deemed desirable that federal officials should be active in such contests.

More Victims of Pueblo Wreck.

PUEBLO, Colo., Aug. 10.—Organized searching parties have scoured the Fountain river for miles in the hope of finding the remaining bodies of the victims of the wreck at Eden. Ten more bodies have been recovered and identified. A coroner's jury was called which viewed the scene of the wreck and has examined a number of witnesses.

Charged With $3,000 Diamond Theft.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Evelynne Rogers, who is wanted in New Bedford, Mass., on a charge of having stolen $3,000 worth of diamonds, was turned over to the New Bedford authorities on a writ of extradition signed by Governor Yates.

Sir William Banks Dead.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Sir William M Banks, the well known surgeon, is dead. He was born in 1842.

A GREAT MISSOURIAN.

Governor Dockery's Eulogy of the Late Senator Vest.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 10.—Governor Dockery has issued the following proclamation on the death of former Senator George Graham Vest, who died yesterday at Sweet Springs, Mo., calling for the suspension of public business on Thursday, Aug. 11, the day of the funeral:

"To the People of Missouri:

"A great Missourian has just closed a long, useful and brilliant career. He rests from his labors.

"Senator George Graham Vest died at Sweet Springs, in the county of Saline, and his remains will be laid to rest in the soil of his beloved commonwealth in the city of St. Louis.

"For more than twenty years he was a senator of the United States and during more than half a century one of Missouri's ablest lawyers and foremost citizens. He was possessed of a charming personality, rare gifts of oratory, masterful logic and the genius of statesmanship.

"Brave, brilliant and magnetic, there gathered about his banner as courageous and devoted a following as ever followed the white plume of Henry of Navarre.

"Since the admission of Missouri to the Union her sons have borne conspicuous parts in the great controversies, but among them none achieved greater distinction than our honored departed senator. Indeed, it was more than distinction. He rose to greatness."

FIVE KILLED IN COLLISION.

Baltimore and Ohio Wreck at a Chicago Suburb.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—A mother and her four little children were killed and a number of other persons seriously injured in a collision between a westbound Baltimore and Ohio local passenger train known as No. 17 and a Chicago and Erie freight train at the Brighton Park railroad crossing at Western avenue and West Thirty-ninth street.

The collision followed a frantic effort on the part of the crossing flagman to change the course of the freight train, to the crew of which he had given a signal that all was clear for them to back over the Baltimore and Ohio tracks.

The passenger train, which was approaching rapidly, was struck by the freight cars, and two of the coaches were overturned. One of the freight cars crashed through the woodwork of one of the coaches where the five who were killed were seated. They were a family of six, and C. C. Schwartz, the father, was the only one who escaped with his life. Although taken from the wreck unconscious and suffering from broken bones and bruises, it is believed that his injuries will not prove fatal. The mother and the four children were killed instantly.

Dr. Chandler For Governor.

DOVER, Del., Aug. 10.—Dr. Joseph H. Chandler when nominated for governor of Delaware by the regular Republican convention created a profound stir here by taking the platform and declaring that he accepted the nomination under the sole consideration that he would enter the fight to the end and stay on the ticket until November. "I would rather suffer honest defeat," he declared, "than be pulled off the ticket that somebody else might be substituted." This was received with deafening cheers from the Dupont men, who had won a victory over the Higgins forces in nominating Chandler.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that an ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance for the permanent improvement of certain streets and portions of streets of the City of Plainfield, with permanent and durable macadam pavement, and to provide the necessary funds in advance of the collections and assessments for benefits," a copy of which is subjoined to this notice, has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time, and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Common Council to adopt such ordinance at the regular meeting of the Common Council to be held in the Council Chamber, No. 149 North avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., at eight o'clock p. m., on Tuesday, the sixth day of September, A.D. nineteen hundred and four, at which time and place, prior to the adoption of said ordinance, said ordinance will be considered by the Common Council, and all persons interested may be heard before the Common Council with reference to the proposed ordinance.

By order of the Common Council.

JAMES T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

Dated: Plainfield, N. J., August 1, 1904.

AN ORDINANCE

for the permanent improvement of certain streets and portions of streets, of the City of Plainfield, with permanent and durable macadam pavement, and to provide the necessary funds in advance of the collection of assessments for benefits.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the following streets and parts of streets of the City of Plainfield, shall be permanently improved with durable macadam pavement to be completely laid and constructed on or before the thirtieth day of November, A. D., 1904, said macadam pavement to be of the depth and width hereinafter specified, that on Monroe avenue, Spooner avenue and Lee place to be equal in every respect to the macadamizing on Clinton avenue between South Second street and West Third street, and that on the remaining streets to be in every respect equal to the macadamizing on Madison avenue, between West Sixth street and West Seventh street, in said city, and all work to be given out upon contract to the lowest responsible bidder, and only after bids therefore shall have been solicited and received according to law, all bids to specify prices for each of said streets or parts of streets separately.

Monroe avenue from the southeasterly curb line of South Second street to the northwesterly curb line of West Seventh street;

Spooner avenue from the southeasterly curb line of West Third street to the northwesterly curb line of West Eighth street;

Lee place, from the southeasterly curb line of South Second street to the northwesterly curb line of West Seventh street;

Carlton avenue, from the northerly curb line of Putnam avenue to the southeasterly curb line of East Seventh street;

Kensington avenue, from the northerly curb line of Watchung avenue to the southeasterly curb line of East Seventh street;

Randolph road, from the easterly curb line of Plainfield avenue to Cedar Brook;

Norwood avenue;

New street, from the southeasterly curb line of West Front street to the northwesterly curb line of West Seventh street;

Berkeley avenue, from the easterly curb line of Ravine road to the southerly curb line of Park Terrace;

Denmark road, from the easterly curb line of Belvidere avenue to the proposed macadamizing on Berkeley avenue.

Sec. 2. That said streets and parts of streets described in Section 1, excepting Monroe avenue, shall be macadamized for a width of sixteen feet, that is to say, eight feet on each side of the center lines thereof; Monroe avenue from South Second street to West Fourth street shall be macadamized for a width of thirty feet, that is to say, fifteen feet on each side of the center line thereof, and from West Fourth street to West Seventh street for a width of thirty-six feet, that is to say, eighteen feet on each side of the centre line thereof; Monroe avenue, Spooner avenue and Lee place to have a depth of eight inches of iron slag and trap rock, and the remaining streets to have a depth running from six inches in the centre to four inches at the sides, and the macadamizing preparation shall be laid down to the grades already established by ordinance for said streets or portions of streets respectively.

Sec. 3. That for the purpose of obtaining money by the sale of bonds hereinafter specified for the permanent improvement of said streets and parts of streets as aforesaid, in advance of the collection of assessments for benefits, the Common Council of the city do hereby, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, authorize the issuing of twelve registered municipal bonds of the City of Plainfield, of One Thousand Dollars each, amounting in all to twelve thousand dollars, which bonds shall bear interest at the rate of five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually and be payable three years from said date of issue with the option of the City to redeem or pay off the said bonds, or any one or more of them at any time after one year from date of issue, and before three years from said date of issue, or giving personal notice to the said holders of said bonds, or thirty days' notice by advertisement in the official newspapers of the city, of the intention to make such redemption or payment, which bonds may severally or collectively be sold for an amount not less than par value, and the interest on said bonds shall be raised annually by taxation and the principal be paid by the city at maturity, and the money derived from the assessments upon the property benefitted, shall, when collected, be held as a fund toward the payment of said bonds.

Sec. 4. That after said improvements shall have been completed the Common Council shall, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, apply to the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Union for the appointment of Commissioners to estimate and assess benefits upon the owners of the lots or parcels of land and real estate peculiarly benefitted by such improvements, in proportion, as near as may be, to an amount equal to the amount of benefits actually acquired by the lands and real estate bordering on said streets or portions thereof respectively, by reason of such improvements respectively; and in case the costs and expenses aforesaid shall exceed the amount of said benefits, the excess thereof shall be paid by the city at large and raised by general tax; no property or owner thereof to be in any case assessed beyond the amount of benefits actually derived from said improvements.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

J. T. MACMURRAY, City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., August 1, 1904.

AN ORDINANCE

for the permanent improvement of Watchung avenue, from North avenue to East Second street.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the roadbed of Watchung avenue, extending from the northwesterly crosswalk of North avenue to the southeasterly crosswalk of East Second street, be forthwith repaved with vitrified brick, for its entire width, at the general expense of the city, less the direct contribution of the Public Service Corporation, to be paid for (after first applying the direct contribution of the Public Service Corporation) out of the money raised by tax for the improvement of streets, as provided by the Act of the Legislature entitled "An Act to authorize cities to make permanent improvements in the roadbeds of streets at the general expense," approved May 13, 1884.

Section 2. That before any work shall be done under this ordinance, an amount not less than $1,100.00, on account of direct contribution from the Public Service Corporation, shall be deposited with the City Treasurer.

Malines Lace Much Used—Autumn Styles to Be Plainer.

Among midsummer novelties are French sailor shapes in stitched white silk, bound all around the edge with blue silk ribbon and trimmed with a plain but jaunty little bow of ribbon at the side.

Malines lace is used a great deal in trimming the smart gowns of the moment. A charming blue and white checked taffeta frock was adorned with little bows of blue velvet having ends of malines and caught up with tiny steel buckles. Another gown of fancy green taffeta, piped with velvet of the same shade, had rosettes of malines lace with tiny rosettes of velvet in their centers.

The autumn styles promise to be much plainer, and leaders of fashion say that we shall return to smaller sleeves again. The tailor made frock pure and simple will be seen a great deal more this fall, and fussy effects will be for dressy wear and not for the street.

A soft tint of silk is known as pigeon's breast. A very smart cloak of this was trimmed with graduated bands of sapphire blue velvet, edged with tiny gold braid. It was slashed up cape fashion all around and laced together with gold cord and tiny tassels. The lining was of cream white accordion plaited chiffon.

The picture shows a dress of embroidered pale green silk gingham, trimmed with insertions of lace.

The New Copper Tones—All Shaded Effects the Vogue.

The new millinery shade is a combination of burnt orange and copper. It is very striking and in its many tones ranges from brilliant pinkish orange to a deep red like that of the oak leaf in autumn. It is pretty sure to be becoming to the black haired woman and to the girl with just the right shade of auburn locks. Red of a peculiar terra cotta shade will be all the rage next winter. It will be combined in several shades. Indeed, while speaking of shaded effects, I might as well mention that they are to be all the rage in almost every tint.

Last spring we had tinted evening gowns of chiffon so beautifully graded in tone that they ran almost the entire scale of one color, and the eye was not offended. The present season this will be continued and carried to perfection by means of beautiful and, alas, expensive embroideries and trimmings. The day of cheap dressmaking is unfortunately past, and nowadays the ornaments of dress, handsome and costly as they are, are not deemed sufficiently attractive unless they are pulled apart by the dressmaker and either tinted to match the gown or overlaid with fagoting and grouped into new designs.

The picture shows an evening dress of pale blue crepe de chine, trimmed with ruffles and insertions of yellow lace embroidered in blue.

BY

CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Author of "Commodore Paul Jones," "Reuben James," "For the Freedom of the Sea," etc.

Copyright, 1901, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

"Did your father ever tell you of the engagement he and one or two other private armed ships had with a French frigate seeking to enter the harbor?"

"La Renomme?" interrupted Grafton in great surprise at the other's knowledge. "Certainly, monsieur, often. 'Twas that fight, indeed, that won his king's approval and gained him the commission which was in turn passed on to me."

"My faith, sir!" exclaimed the French captain, smiling, "'twas a hot fight indeed! I never have seen a better. He well deserved the commission he won. No wonder that you did not quail before a ship of the line, young man! You have in you the mettle of your father."

"Did you know my father, sir?" asked Grafton, in great surprise.

"I have heard him speak from the iron throats of his guns, sir."

"Then you are——?"

"I was the captain of La Renomme."

"And your name is——?"

"Guy de Caetnampreu, Comte de Kersaint de Kerguelen, Capitaine de Vaisseau of His Most Christian Majesty Louis XV., whom God protect, and very much at your service, monsieur. Here is no case of prisoner and enemy, gentlemen. The father fought me, I befriend the son. Is it not just, messieurs?" asked Kersaint, turning to his officers once more.

It was Grafton who answered:

"'Tis more than justice, Monsieur le Comte, 'tis kindness, indeed!"

"N'importe, monsieur; I would that I could give you back your ship, but that, of course, is impossible. Nevertheless, your captivity shall be made as light as possible. We are bound in for Brest, and this gentleman here," indicating an old man in rich civilian dress, who had surveyed the scene with interest, "is my most noble kinsman, the Marquis de Chabot-Rohan. He will, I am sure, as my prospective sailing thence in a few days debars me from keeping you with me or extending you the hospitality of my poor house, take you into his own chateau until you are exchanged. 'Twill be a pleasant prison, sir, and there grows a wild Breton rose within the walls. Is it not so, Monsieur le Comte?"

"As to the rose, I cannot say. Monsieur Grafton may find it thorny; but as to receiving him, certainly, de Kersaint," responded the old man just addressed by the captain. "I have a soft spot in my heart for Americans, as you know, since my only son honored himself by marrying a daughter of Virginia—a land of brave men, messieurs, and fair women. Helas!"

"Monsieur le Marquis," quickly answered Grafton, who had not spent some years of his life at court for nothing, "I thank you for your hospitality and I congratulate you upon the source from which it flows. I accept it gladly—roses and thorns as well."

"Monsieur, you honor me by your acceptance. As to the rose, Monsieur de Kersaint speaks with the romantic license of Brittany. 'Tis but a child, monsieur, my little grand-daughter. I am the thorns—a dull old set, surely," added the old man, smiling rather grimly.

"Faith, de Chabot, he who would fain pluck your rose will find you sharp enough, I'll warrant. Morbleu, you haven't forgot that parry and return you taught me when I was a boy and you a young soldier. Ah, messieurs, if any of you seek speedy gentle death you may easily find it before the marquis' point——"

"Gentlemen," smiled the old man, "here is no thought of death, but the tale of a little girl. Monsieur Grafton——"

"There are roses in England and America, Monsieur le Marquis—ay, and thorns, too. And no true man was ever deterred from wearing one for fear of the other. But, mistake me not, I'll not seek to pluck your Breton flower," replied the American, entering into the spirit of the jest. "I shall be your prisoner and——"

"Say my guest, monsieur. But enough," said the old marquis, frowning slightly. "As to the rose, we have carried the pleasantry too far already, messieurs. Let us have no more of it. Monsieur Grafton, direct your private baggage to be brought to the ship here; we will leave for my chateau on our arrival this evening."

"Monsieur de Kersaint," said Grafton, "will you add to the obligations under which you have laid me, by giving orders that my poor men, the wounded, I mean, are to be well cared for, and then have my private baggage sent off to Le Thesee? My steward, who is aboard the Boxer, will attend to it."

"Your men shall be attended to as if they belonged to me," responded the French captain, graciously, "and your private belongings secured. Meanwhile, will you step into my cabin that we may discuss further our common interests and friendships? Monsieur St. Laurent," he added, turning to his executive officer, who held the rank of capitaine de fregate, "will you throw a prize crew on the doughty little Boxer—a hard hitter, indeed—and bid her follow us into Brest under a jury-rig when she can. On second thought, monsieur, lie by her for a few hours until she is fit to go ahead. We would better convoy her in. 'I should not like to lose her for all she is but a small prize."

CHAPTER IV.

THE GARDEN AND THE ROSE.

THE Chateau de Josselin, a place not unknown to history, lay hard by the seashore a few miles from the town of Brest toward which it turned its landward side. It was a building of great antiquity and had been in the possession of the family of de Rohan from feudal times. One face looked seaward over the wild crags, where the stormy waves of the Bay of Biscay broke in ceaseless onslaught, beating themselves into the white foam of sea agony upon the stern shores.

At the foot of the keep or principal tower, which was built upon the sheer edge of a precipitous headland, there was a deep indentation in the cliffs, which, if one possessed sufficient skill and knowledge to thread the narrow passage twisting between the roaring breakers, afforded a safe harborage for boats and small coasting vessels. It had been long unused, of course, owing to the spacious harbor of Brest close at hand, but in old days it had been a favored haven of the adventurous lords of Rohan—and sometimes of their enemies as well.

Landward the main chateau overlooked a singularly pleasant garden filled with ancient fruit and shade trees, the whole inclosed by a high wall from which, and better still from the high tower, a full view of Brest, its fortifications, its naval station, its harbor and its shipping could be obtained. It was to this castle that Philip Grafton was conducted upon the evening of the arrival of Le Thesee in the harbor.

The Marquis de Chabot-Rohan, or, to give him his familiar title, de Chabot, the heir and successor to the dignities of the de Rohans in those parts, and consequently the master of rich and extensive possessions, kept up a princely estate in the old chateau, and it pleased him still to perpetuate the ancient usages and customs of his house so far as he could. The castle itself seemed to be maintained as a mediaeval fortress might have been. The ditch surrounding it on the landward side, instead of being dry and grass-grown, as was the custom, was kept well filled with water; the drawbridge—the sole means of crossing the moat—was raised and lowered at appointed hours; and close watch and ward were kept by the feudal retainers of the house at the gateway and on the walls. To seaward the walls were so high and so strong that the castle, placed on the very edge of the beetling cliffs, was believed to be impregnable.

His only son, the young Comte de Rohan—and save de Kersaint almost his only relative—had married Mistress Anne Page, of Virginia. The young man had been a naval officer whose ship had been stationed upon the coast of North America, where he had greatly enjoyed the spontaneous and warm-hearted hospitality of the colonists of the famous old dominion. Carried away by her charms of mind and person, and without waiting for the consent of his father, he straightway married this young woman from the new world whose beauty and character had made so deep an impression upon him, and he had brought her to France in his own frigate.

His father, at first highly incensed at what he deemed a mesalliance, had sternly refused to receive him; but the tales of the beauty of his unwelcome daughter-in-law, which were poured in his ear by those who fell under the sway of her loveliness, and certain substantial evidences of the great estates in the new world belonging to the honorable family from which she sprang, and to which she was sole heiress, which his son had found means to bring to his attention, had first awakened his curiosity and finally mollified his wrath. He had at last consented to an interview, and thereafter had promptly succumbed to the charms of the winsome and beautiful American as completely as had his son. Resigning his commission in the French navy the young count and his wife, overjoyed at the reconciliation, had returned to his father's house and, as he fondly hoped, settled down to years of domestic bliss and tranquility.

There a daughter, the first and only child of this strange union, was born; but the life that came was paid for by the life that went, for when the child was but a few days old, the young mother died. The inconsolable young count did not long survive the loss of his adored wife. To distract his grief he resumed his service in the French navy, receiving his old rank through his father's influence, and was shortly after wrecked and lost with his ship on a voyage to the French East Indies, while his daughter was still an infant.

It was a crushing blow to the old man, but with Spartan resolution he bore up under it and turned to his little granddaughter for comfort and consolation. As the days sped away the child intrenched herself more and more in the old man's heart. He withdrew himself from the world in which he had been so great and gay a figure and devoted himself assiduously to her welfare.

Little Anne, Countess de Rohan in her own right, lived alone with her grandfather in the old Chateau de Josselin. Save when unavoidably called away on business connected with the management of his estates he rarely left her. He watched over her with the solicitude of a mother and the devotion of a lover. The withered old man grew to love her as few children were then loved—certainly with such a feeling as few Frenchmen of rank at that day ever exhibited toward a child. She was the sole heiress to all his possessions, the last of that branch of her ancient house, and he lavished upon her a depth of tenderness and a wealth of affection which surrounded her with an atmosphere of adoration.

Loath to part with her, instead of committing her education to one of the great conventual schools, as was the custom among the noblesse of the country, he supervised it himself. Her growing mind afforded him new food for wonder daily, her present engrossed his mind, her future filled his dreams. As he was one of the most accomplished gentlemen of his time, and had been a man of the world in the highest and best sense of the word, she received such training as had not often been bestowed upon a young demoiselle of France.

In but one particular, indeed, the old man's scheme of education, in the carrying out of which he was assisted by the best masters that money could procure, might have been deemed faulty. The marquis, as he grew old, lived more and more in the past—and as he went backward in time he took the little maid back with him.

The same strange fancy which led him to restore mediaeval usages and customs as far as possible, and which made his favorite study the ancient tales of chivalry, the stories of the hardy adventurous knights like the great du Guesclin, some of whose blood indeed ran in his veins, gave an unusual turn to the thoughts of his granddaughter. She, like him, was steeped in the romantic lore of ancient days. The traditions of their ancient house, the deeds of daring, devotion, and courage which had made the de Rohans illustrious, were as familiar to her as fairy tales and childish rhymes are to other children. Her own maidenly vision dimly comprehended the future through the windows of the past.

It was to this ancient chateau with its suggestion of history, its atmosphere of romance, and its Breton wild rose, scarcely reaching the dignity of a bud yet, but still inclosed in the soft calyx of innocence and inexperience, that Grafton was brought at the request of de Kersaint through the complaisance of the marquis.

It was evening when the two gentlemen, attended by a numerous retinue, rode up to the great gateway. The few miles that intervened between

THE DRAWBRIDGE.

Brest and the Chateau de Josselin had been passed in animated conversation, and the acquaintance which had begun on the decks of Le Thesee under such strange auspices, had ripened into a pleasant intimacy. The dashing young American sailor had been attracted by the evidences of culture, the keen but kindly humor, the rich stores of knowledge, possessed by the marquis; and the latter had been touched by the pleasant deference and open frankness, as well as the shrewd common sense and graceful manner, of his young companion.

When they arrived before the gate of the castle as the sun had set the drawbridge was raised. As they waited for it to be lowered in answer to the marquis' hail, the young man remarked that it all seemed quite mediaeval, fitting in appropriately with the wild surroundings and the barren shore.

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

ELLIS AND ABYSSINIA

IS HE SEEKING POWER IN THE COUNTRY OF MENELIK?

Case of the Cuban Negro Who Accompanied Kent Loomis on His Ill-Fated Voyage — Proposed a Big Trading Company.

William H. Ellis, the Cuban negro now on his way to Adis-Ababa, capital of Abyssinia, with the commercial treaty entrusted to the care of the late Kent Loomis, has had a remarkable career.

It has been reported of the dusky messenger that he has an ambition to become an African potentate, and that he had dreamed of vast power to be wielded in the dark continent. Those who know him doubt not that he has had such dreams, nor do they doubt much his ability to realize them if he has seriously set out to accomplish that purpose.

Ellis is one of the oddest characters with which the state department at Washington has ever had dealings. Of wealth he seems to have an unlimited amount. For experience he has herded cattle on the plains of South America, has boomed towns and made fortunes out of real estate, has figured prominently in South American and West Indian trading companies, has explored interior sections of Africa, and calls himself the friend of Menelik, a title which the Abyssinian king does not seem to object to. In New York he is known for his extravagance—which, by the way, he can well afford—for his gaudy dress, and as the receiver for water supply corporations, and also as a minor figure in the Fayne Moore badger case.

When Consul General Skinner proposed an expedition to the Abyssinian capital for the purpose of negotiating a commercial treaty with the "king of kings" Ellis sought an opportunity of joining the expedition. He had visited Menelik several times before and offered his services as a friend of the African potentate. Though vouched for by reputable persons at Washington he was not sent as a part of the Skinner expedition, but fitted out an expedition on his own account, and with many trunks full of valuable gifts for the king he traveled with his own caravan to Adis-Ababa.

When the treaty was drawn granting American commercial privileges in Abyssinia Menelik promised Ellis valuable commercial concessions if he would return to Abyssinia. Upon his return to America he began interesting influential friends in the project of an Abyssinian trading company. It was at this time that he met Kent Loomis, and it was decided that they should travel to Abyssinia together with the signed copy of the treaty. This they were doing when Loomis disappeared from the Wilhelm II., on which they were traveling, when the vessel was off the English coast.

Ellis is proceeding alone to complete the mission which in reality had been entrusted to Kent Loomis. He is now in Abyssinia hastening toward the capital of Menelik, but he is going simply as a messenger, and the African king has been informed by cable that he represents this country in no official capacity.

It has been suggested that Ellis hoped to secure great prestage through his delivery of the treaty, a prestage which would give his proposed trading company unusual concessions. That such a company might find the field a profitable one is proven by Consul Skinner's report in which he says:

"Ethiopia is wealthy in resources beyond the power of any man to calculate. Gold, silver, asphalt, petroleum, iron and coal exist in combination with a salubrious climate, agricultural productiveness and a population of singular docility. With watchful eyes upon the future, the emperor seeks to pit one European power against another in order to preserve the political independence of his people, which has been handed down through the centuries, and in the meantime he hopes to develop the intelligence and resources of the population to such a point as to enable it to withstand any pressure from without.

"The empire holds out no attractions to the commercial adventurer with limited means. Too many Europeans now in the field are of that class, and the emperor, with just reason, is weary of the constant clamor for concessions from all sorts and conditions of persons, whose only object is to find a purchaser at an exorbitant figure. On the other hand, enterprises planned with skill and backed with sufficient capital may be undertaken and carried out with every assurance that property interests will be respected by the government and that promoters of such enterprises will be welcomed with a catholic spirit.

"Whatever may be the results of this mission, it is certain that if the treaty be ratified it will have regulated an uncertain condition."

ASSAULTED A BOY.

E. R. Williams Loses His Patience and is Arrested by Patrolman Messler.

E. R. Williams, an architect who resides on Plainfield avenue, was arraigned in the city court, this morning, charged with assaulting Andrew Maden, a small colored boy, and also with resisting arrest. He was taken in custody last evening by Patrolman Messler after the boy's father had complained that Williams grabbed the boy and threw him off the porch. William G. DeMeza, counsel for the defendant, asked that the matter be adjourned until tomorrow morning and it was accordingly laid over.

In a statement made afterward, Williams said he has been annoyed by boys running about his premises and stoning his door and that last evening he caught young Maden on his porch. He simply caught hold of him, he says, and let him go after a shaking. He denies the charge of resisting arrest.

Evangelist Jacobs to Visit the Home.

Preparations are being made for the accommodation of the largest audience of the summer, Sunday afternoon, at the Mary Morgan Fresh Air Home, on the occasion of the visit of Rev. F. H. Jacobs, the singing evangelist. Dr. Jacobs will have charge of the regular 4 o'clock meeting at the camp on that day and will speak about his recent trip through the Holy Land. A feature of the service will be the singing of gospel hymns by a chorus choir, led by Mr. Jacobs.

Did Not Display His Number.

Charged by Chief Kiely with not having the proper number required by law on his automobile, B. B. Tatham, of Roselle, was arraigned before Judge Runyon today. He explained that the numerals were on a board hung in the rear of the machine when he left Raritan and that it had evidently fallen off somewhere. His word was accepted and he was dismissed with a warning to attach it more securely.

Discovered An Old Newspaper.

Arthur Humble made an interesting discovery while looking through the attic of his home on Somerset street, this morning. Among a bunch of old papers he found an ancient London newspaper which dated back to 1864. The paper was especially interesting from the accounts of the Civil War which it contained. Mr. Humble thinks that the paper was originally sent over by one of his English relatives.

Mr. Clark Optimistic.

Alvah A. Clark has spoken. He expressed the new and startling sentiment that although he is not a candidate for office, he will yet yield to his party's call if they ask him to lead their ticket. Mr. Clark does not care for any nomination that does not have the spontaneous endorsement of the people. He will find later that all he needs is the spontaneous endorsement of "Jim" Smith. If he gets that the rest can be managed somehow until it comes to the voting. Just then might arise an inconvenient obstacle in Republican votes. Still Mr. Clark is of a hopeful disposition.—Elizabeth Evening Journal.

Why Workingmen "Stand Pat."

New Jersey is a protection state. Hundreds of millions of dollars are invested in its manufactories that could not exist if their manufactures were not protected from foreign competition. These hundreds of millions make it possible for 200,000 men and women to earn a living at a wage far in excess of that paid for the same work in Europe; they make possible the education of children and comfortable homes and not a few of the luxuries of life. All this came through the application of the Republican policy of protection and Republican tariff laws. No sane man believes these 200,000 toilers will do aught to change their condition of contentment for that one of low wages, dear food and idleness of the Cleveland administration. Only an insane man would predict a Democratic victory in New Jersey.—"Freeholder" in New York Press.

Frelinghuysen's Candidacy.

After a reference to the split in the Republican ranks in Mercer county, the Newark Evening News thus sums up the Republican situation in this Congress district: "Somerset county looms up with a candidate of the honored name of Frelinghuysen, a scion of the old stock and a man of ability. Somebody started Mr. Frelinghuysen on the road to political eminence two years ago by nominating him to a county office, but he ran up against the North Plainfield imbroglio and was defeated, along with the rest of the local Republican ticket. He has not been heard from since, except as Chairman of the Republican County Committee, but Somerset thinks he has now grown to Congressional proportions and will take advantage of any split in Mercer county to secure Mr. Frelinghuysen's nomination."—Bound Brook State Centre-Record.

...ism, and a monarchy, supreme ... force exerted by an individual, uncontrolled by laws other than those made or sanctioned by him. One represents constitutionalism, the other imperialism.

The present tariff law is unjust in its operation, excessive in many of its rates and so framed in particular instances as to exact inordinate profits from the people. So well understood has this view become that many prominent members of the Republican party and at least two of its state conventions have dared to voice the general sentiment on that subject. That party seems, however, to be collectively able to harmonize only upon a plank that admits that revision may from time to time be necessary, but it is so phrased that it is expected to be satisfactory to those in favor of an increase of duty, to those who favor a reduction thereof and to those opposed to any change whatever.

Judged by the record of performance rather than that of promise on the part of that party in the past, it would seem as if the outcome in the event of its success would be to gratify the latter class. With absolute control of both the legislative and executive departments of the government since March 4, 1897, there has been neither reduction nor an attempt at reduction in tariff duties. It is not unreasonable to assume in the light of that record that a future congress of that party will not undertake a revision of the tariff downward in the event that it shall receive an indorsement of its past course on that subject by the people. It is a fact and should be frankly conceded that should our party be successful in the coming contest we cannot hope to secure a majority in the senate during the next four years, and hence we shall be unable to secure any modification in the tariff save that to which the Republican majority in the senate may consent. While therefore we are unable to give assurances of relief to the people from such excessive duties as burden them, it is due to them that we should state our position to be in favor of a reasonable reduction of the tariff, that we believe that it is demanded by the best interests of both manufacturer and consumer, and that a wise and beneficent revision of the tariff can be accomplished as soon as both branches of congress and an executive in favor of it are elected without creating that sense of uncertainty and instability that has on other occasions manifested itself. This can be achieved by providing that such a reasonable period shall intervene between the date of the enactment of the statute making a revision and the date of its enforcement as shall be deemed sufficient for the industry or business affected by such revision to adjust itself to the changes and new conditions imposed. So confident am I in the belief that the demand of the people for a reform of the tariff is just that I indulge the hope that should a Democratic house of representatives and a Democratic executive be chosen by the people even a Republican senate may heed the warning and consent to give at least some measure of relief to the people.

The combinations, popularly called trusts, which aim to secure a monopoly of trade in the necessaries of life as well as in those things that are employed upon the farm, in the factory and in many other fields of industry have been encouraged and stimulated by excessive tariff duties. These operate to furnish a substantial market in the necessities of eighty millions of people by practically excluding competition. With so large a market and highly remunerative prices continuing long after the line of possible competition would naturally be reached, the temptation of all engaged in the same business to combine so as to prevent competition at home and a resulting reduction of prices has proved irresistible in a number of cases. All men must agree that the net result of enacting laws that foster such inequitable conditions is most unfortunate for the people as a whole, and it would seem as if all ought to agree that the effective remedy would be to appropriately modify the offending law. The growth of monopoly, of which complaint is justly made, cannot be laid at the doors of the courts of this country. The decisions of the supreme court of the United States, the court of appeals of this state and the courts of last resort in many other states warrant the assertion that the common law as developed affords a complete legal remedy against monopolies. The fact that they have multiplied in number and increased in power has been due not to the failure of the courts to apply the law when properly moved by administrative officials or private individuals, but to the failure of officials charged with the duty of enforcing the law to take the necessary procedure to procure the judgments of the courts in the appropriate jurisdiction, coupled with the fact that the legislative departments of some of our state governments as well as congress in the manner already referred to have by legislation encouraged their propagation. What is needed, in addition to the passage of a statute revising the tariff duties to a reasonable basis, is not so much other and different laws as officials having both the disposition and the courage to enforce existing law. While this is my view of the scope of the common law, if it should be made to appear that it is a mistaken one then I favor such further legislation within constitutional limitations as will give the people a just and full measure of protection.

It is difficult to understand how any citizen of the United States, much less a descendant of Revolutionary stock, can tolerate the thought of permanently denying the right of self government to the Filipinos. Can we hope to instill into the minds of our descendants reverence and devotion for a government by the people while denying ultimately that right to the inhabitants of distant countries whose territory we have acquired either by purchase or by force? Can we say to the Filipinos, "Your lives, your liberty and your property may be taken from you without due process of law for all time," and expect we will long glory in that feature of Magna Charta which has become incorporated, in substance and effect, into the constitution of every state as well as into the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States? Can we hope for the respect of the civilized world while proudly guaranteeing to every citizen of the United States that no law shall be made or enforced which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States or deny to any person the equal protection of the laws and at the same time not only deny similar rights to the inhabitants of the Philippines, but take away from them the right of trial by jury and place their lives and the disposition of their property in the keeping of those whom we send to them to be their governors? We shall certainly rue it as a nation if we make any such attempt. Viewing the question even from the standpoint of national selfishness, there is no prospect that the twenty millions of dollars expended in the purchase of the islands and the six hundred and fifty millions said to have been since disbursed will ever come back to us. The accident of war brought the Philippines into our possession, and we are not at liberty to disregard the responsibility which thus came to us, but that responsibility will be best subserved by preparing the islanders as rapidly as possible for self government and giving to them the assurances that it will come as soon as they are reasonably prepared for it. There need be no fear that the assertion so often made of late that we have now become a world power will then be without support. Ours is a world power, and as such it must be maintained, but I deny that it is at all recently that the United States has attained that eminence. Our country became a world power ... century ago, when, having thrown off foreign domination, the people established a free government, the source of whose authority sprung and was continuously to proceed from the will of the people themselves. It grew as a world power as its sturdy citizens, to whose natural increase were added immigrants from the old world seeking to obtain here the liberty and prosperity denied them in their own countries, spread over the face of the land, reduced the prairies and forests to cultivation, built cities, constructed highways and railroads, till now a nation which at the formation of the government numbered only three millions in population has become eighty millions, and from ocean to ocean and the lakes to the gulf the country is the abode of a free and prosperous people, advanced in the highest degree in the learning and arts of civilization. It is the liberty, the advancement and the prosperity of its citizens, not any career of conquest, that make the country a world power. This condition we owe to the bounty of Providence, unfolded in the great natural resources of the country; to the wisdom of our fathers, manifested in the form of government established by them; to the energy, industry, moral character and law abiding spirit of the people themselves.

We are not a military people, bent on conquest or engaged in extending our domains in foreign lands or desirous of securing natural advantages, however great, by force, but a people loving peace not only for ourselves, but for all the nations of the earth.

The display of great military armaments may please the eye and for the moment excite the pride of the citizen, but it cannot bring to the country the brains, brawn and muscle of a single immigrant or induce the investment here of a dollar of capital. Of course such armament as may be necessary for the security of the country and the protection of the rights of its citizens at home or abroad must be maintained. Any other course would be not only false economy, but pusillanimous. I protest, however, against the feeling, now far too prevalent, that by reason of the commanding position we have assumed in the world we must take part in the disputes and broils of foreign countries and that because we have grown great we should intervene in every important question that arises in other parts of the world. I also protest against the erection of any such military establishment as would be required to maintain the country in that attitude. We should confine our internationaal activities solely to matters in which the rights of the country or of our citizens are directly involved. That is not a situation of isolation, but of independence.

The government of the United States was organized solely for the people of the United States. While it was contemplated that this country should become a refuge for the oppressed of every land who might be fit to discharge the duties of our citizenship, and while we have always sympathized with the people of every nation in their struggles for self government, the government was not created for a career of political or civilizing evangelization in foreign countries or among alien races by intervention in their affairs. The most efficient work we can do in uplifting the people of other countries is by the presentation of a happy, prosperous, self governing nation as an ideal to be emulated, a model to be followed. The general occupation of our citizens in the arts of peace, or the absence of large military armaments, tends to impair neither patriotism nor physical courage, and for the truth of this I refer the young men of today to the history of the civil war. For fifty years, with the exception of the war with Mexico, this country had been at peace, with a standing army most of the time of less than ten thousand men. He who thinks that the nation had grown effeminate during that period should read the casualty rolls of the armies on either side at Shiloh, Antietam, Fredericksburg and Gettysburg, at Stone River and Chickamauga. I would be the last man to pluck a single laurel from the crown of any one of the military heroes to whom this country owes so much, but I insist that their most heroic deeds proceeded infinitely more from devotion to the country than from martial spirit.

As I have already proceeded at too great length, other questions suggested in the platform must await my letter of acceptance.

Mr. Chairman, in most graceful speech you have reminded me of the great responsibility as well as the great honor of the nomination bestowed upon me by the convention you represent this day. Be assured that both are appreciated, so keenly appreciated that I am humbled in their presence.

I accept, gentlemen of the committee, the nomination, and if the action of the convention shall be indorsed by an election by the people I will, God helping me, give to the discharge of the duties of that exalted office the best service of which I am capable and at the end of the term retire to private life. I shall not be a candidate for nor shall I accept a renomination. Several reasons might be advanced for this position, but the controlling one with me is that I am fully persuaded that no incumbent of that office should ever be placed in a situation of possible temptation to consider what the effect of action taken by him in an administrative matter of great importance might have upon his political fortunes. Questions of momentous consequence to all of the people have been in the past and will be in the future presented to the president for determination, and in approaching their consideration as well as in weighing the facts and the arguments bearing upon them he should be unembarrassed by any possible thought of the influence his decision may have upon anything whatever that may affect him personally. I make this statement not in criticism of any of our presidents from Washington down who have either held the office for two terms or sought to succeed themselves, for strong arguments can be advanced in support of the re-election of a president. It is simply my judgment that the interests of this country are now so vast and the questions presented are frequently of such overpowering magnitude to the people that it is indispensable to the maintenance of a befitting attitude before the people not only that the chief magistrate should be independent, but that that independence should be known of all men.

Freeholders Award Contracts.

At the meeting of the bridge committee of the Union County Board of Freeholders, held at Westfield, yesterday, the contract was awarded for the construction of the bridge at Rahway avenue and Park street, Westfield. Acting in accordance with the plans submitted by County Engineer Frank J. Hubbard, of this city, the mason work was given to Charles H. French, of Westfield, and the iron work was given to the W. T. Kirk Co., of this city. The cost of the bridge will be about $1,000, and work will begin on the construction immediately.

Kenneth Robbie, Boys' Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will leave Saturday for his vacation. He will be away about three weeks.

Mrs. A. K. Willett and little daughter, of Craig place, left this morning for Asbury Park to spend some time for the benefit of the child's health.

BOROUGH COURT TROUBLES.

Several Cases Considered by Recorder Doud Last Night.

Among the cases which were brought before Recorder Doud last night in the borough court, was that of William Gallaway, known as "the perpetual drunkard of the borough." He was arrested Saturday night for disorderly conduct and released on ten dollars bail. Two hours later he was brought back in a worse condition than before, and was then held until Monday. A fine of $5, which was imposed in the court Monday morning, was not enough to cure Gallaway, and the same offence landed him in jail last night. He was feeling too sad to be tried this morning and will be held till tomorrow on the strength of his sobering by that time.

John Barry was again brought before Recorder Doud last night for reckless driving in the borough yesterday. This is the second time that Barry has been arrested for this offence, but on his promise to be more careful in the future, he was dismissed with suspended sentence.

George Rickert, who was arrested for being drunk and disorderly, was dismissed with suspended sentence by Recorder Doud.

PLAINFIELD AGAIN DELUGED WITH RAIN

Electrical Storm Passes Over the City and Adds to Damage Done Friday.

RESIDENCES STRUCK

TWO VALUABLE COWS KILLED IN PECULIAR MANNER.

Downpour Accompanied by Hail and Incessant Thunder and Lightning—Street Car Traffic Delayed.

As if suffering mortals had not undergone enough in the way of flood and water in the past week, Jupiter Pluvius let himself loose again yesterday afternoon, and deluged the earth with rain. For nearly an hour there was a terrific downpour accompanied by one of the most violent electrical displays of the season. Lightning flashed incessantly and the continual crash of thunder was terrifying to the timid. By way of variety hail stones as big as hickory nuts fell in every part of the city, smashing window panes and frightening horses.

While the lightning bolts seemed to be everywhere, only two buildings, the residences of John Stanton on South Second street, and Edward Conshee on Duer street, and the flag pole in the Bryant school yard, were struck. The chimney on the former was demolished and several holes were torn in the roof. No harm was done the inmates. The flag pole was shattered during the height of the storm, the upper part breaking off and falling to the ground. Morris Kadensky and Edward Stranzenbach, who were walking near it on West Fifth street, at the time, were stunned by the bolt and Kadensky was left in a serious condition. He was assisted to a wagon by Stranzenbach and taken to his home at South Second street and Muhlenberg place. He was forced to take to his bed and Dr. Cregar was summoned. The physician found him suffering from the shock and in a high nervous state but he will be all right in a day or two.

One of the peculiar freaks of the storm was the killing of two valuable Jersey cows belonging to William Palmer Smith, of Belvidere avenue. They had been grazing in the pasture on Highland avenue and when it began to rain, moved to the gate leading out. Fifty yards from where they stood is a tree around which the wire fencing had been passed. A lightning bolt struck this tree, passed down the trunk to the wire along which it ran shattering one post after another until it reached the gate. The cows were leaning against the wire and as it passed along both received the full force of the bolt and dropped dead. A portion of the bolt buried itself in the ground at the gate but the remainder passed on along the wire as far as Mr. Smith's barn and knocked several bricks out of one corner.

During the worse part of the storm at about 4 o'clock, the front motor fuse in a closed car on the Netherwood line burned out on Richmond street. An especially vivid flash of lightning caused a current to descend from the feed wire, and in an instant the motorman was surrounded by a sputtering mass of blue flames. There were about a dozen passengers in the car at the time but every individual, man or woman, started for the rear door and soon piled out in the pouring rain. The suddenness of the whole affair did not give the motorman an opportunity to leave his position, but after the flash he discovered that he was uninjured. The car was stalled for some time and was eventually run backwards to the North avenue station by means of the rear motor. The next car over the same line had the rear motor box burned out in exactly the same way on East Fifth street.

The local telephone and telegraph people, barely recovered from the turmoil of last Friday, again suffered badly from the lightning. At the 'phone exchange many fuses were burned out and circuits in every part of the city were rendered useless. Linemen were immediately set to work and by today the greater part of the trouble had been cleared. Chief Doane was in readiness for breaks in the fire alarm circuits but the system was not hurt in any way.

Stony brook was unable to care for the rush of water and like it did last Friday, overflowed its banks in many places, flooding the lowlands. A few fences that withstood the previous

CARRIERS SEEK INCREASE PAY

NEW LAW MAY GIVE RURAL FREE DELIVERY EMPLOYES MORE MONEY.

There is every possibility that in the course of a few months the local mail-carriers will receive the maximum salary of $720 a year, in accordance with the new Constitutional law effecting the salaries of rural carriers. The men are now receiving the salary of $684, which is an increase in their former pay, but which is not equal to the salaries of letter-carriers in other rural districts whose routes exceed theirs by only one mile.

The Constitutional law provides that all carriers shall receive the maximum salary of $720, "subject to the discretion of the department." Mr. Bristow, in whose bureau the special administration of this branch lies, has decided to grant maximum pay to those only whose routes exceed twenty-four miles. By this decision about 12,000 carriers are shut off as not being entitled to the increased rate, among them the local carriers.

It is not believed that this was the intent of Congress in passing this law. The technical construction of the law may warrant the present interpretation, but it is hoped by the carriers that the spirit of the law will be the guide. It is said that a compromise will be made, whereby the old carriers will receive the full benefit of the law, and in this case the local men will come in for a raise.

MISS HELEN BESLER SELECTED TO CHRISTEN CENTRAL'S NEW BOAT.

Miss Helen Besler, daughter of W. G. Besler, of this city, vice president and general manager of the New Jersey Central, has been selected to christen the Central's new ferryboat "Elizabeth," which will be launched this afternoon. In company with her father, officials of the railroad and members of the Elizabeth Council and Board of Trade, Miss Besler left in a special train this morning for Wilmington, Del., where the boat has been building at the Harlan & Harlingsworth Company's yards. The return home will be made soon after the christening.

The "Elizabeth" is a sister boat to the "Plainfield," which was launched a few months ago and is the last of the Central's new fleet of double-deckers plying between Communipaw and New York. It's cost will reach $250,000 and it is fitted with the most improved machinery and electrical appliances.

EQUAL TAXATION.

Gov. Murphy Succeeds in Making Up the State Board to Investigate An Important Subject.

Chandler W. Riker and Major Carl Lentz, of Essex; former Governor George T. Werts and Charles C. Black, of Hudson; Henry J. West, of Camden, compose the State board to investigate into the subject of equal taxation, authorized by the last Legislature. The appointments were made yesterday by Governor Murphy.

There was delay in making the announcement owing to the refusal of several men to whom appointments were offered to serve. Major Lentz, Mr. Black and Mr. West are members of the present State Board of Taxation. Mr. West is appointed in place of former Judge Thompson, of the State Tax Board, who declined to serve.

CHURCH CHOIR OUTINGS.

Young People From the Local Catholic Churches Go to Coney Island.

About twenty members of the choir of St. Mary's church enjoyed their annual outing to Coney Island, yesterday. In spite of the threatening weather in the morning the day proved to be a pleasant one. It was 8 o'clock when the party returned home, last night. Father Egan chaperoned the young folks.

This morning ten members of St. Joseph's church choir went to Coney Island for a day's outing. Father Miller, rector, was in charge of the party.

To Decide Tennis Championship.

With the return of Chauncey Koons, the finals of the tennis tournament in doubles will shortly be resumed at the Y. M. C. A. The matches were completed up to the finals before Mr. Koons left for St. Louis, about two weeks ago, and Vincent Miner and Koons had won out on one side and the Roger brothers on the other. These two teams will meet Friday evening to decide the championship of the midsummer doubles.

INDIVIDUAL AVERAGES OF THE ALIS TEAM

"Al" Farmer, Catcher, Leads in the Batting and Fielding.

EXCELLENT RECORD

A DECIDED IMPROVEMENT IN THE LOCAL TEAM'S WORK.

The Infusion of New Blood Has a Good Effect and Manager Johnston Hopes to Win the County Championship—Official Figures.

According to the averages just computed, Catcher "Al" Farmer, of the Alis team, stands at the head of the players in batting and practically so in fielding. In the latter, six members of the team are above him in percentage but not one has played in more than four games while he has been in eighteen. In batting he has a percentage of .459 and in fielding .988. Farmer's playing has always pleased the cranks and his high standing as shown by the figures bear out the general opinion that has been held of him since his appearance in Plainfield. The complete averages of all the players who have been on the team this season are as follows:

Joins the "Empress" Company.

John Adams, who has been in the employ of William Feiring, of Park avenue, for the past six months, has resigned his position in order to re-enter the ranks of the thespians. He will leave Monday for Bridgeport, Conn., to begin rehearsals with the "Triumph of an Emrpess" company, in which he has secured a responsible part. Mr. Adams was with the organization last season and before coming to Plainfield played with Wright Lorimer's "Shepherd King" company.

September Wedding.

Invitations have been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Elliott Bowen, of Watchung avenue, for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ethel Plummer, to Doctor Franklin Warren White, of Boston, on Thursday afternoon, September 1, at 5 o'clock in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

HARRY P. CONDIT DEAD

WELL-KNOWN WESTFIELD MAN PASSES AWAY AFTER A SHORT ILLNESS.

Harry P. Condit, one of Westfield's most prominent young men and widely known in Plainfield, died yesterday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Condit, of Elm street. He was taken ill early in July with a cold which developed complications. For many years he had been prominent in Republican politics, was a member of the Westfield Club, secretary of the Westfield Horse Show Association and former secretary of the Fair Acres Driving Club. He was also a member of Atlas Lodge, F. and A. M., and had been connected with the Westfield Baseball Association. He formerly conducted a pharmacy at Broad and Elm streets, but more recently has been connected with the Fairbairn & Hilliard banking house in New York.

Funeral services over the body will be held from his parents' home tomorrow afternoon and will be attended by many friends from this city.

"BILLY" REDMOND WILL SING

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAMME FOR TOMORROW NIGHT'S BAND CONCERT.

Providing the weather conditions are favorable, the next band concert will be given in Concert Park tomorrow evening. Having undergone a postponement last week, the programme has been improved and Leader LaVere believes it to be one of the best of the season. The soloists will be John J. Nestor, who is to give "The Man With the Ladder and the Hose" and "Lonely Little Maid" and Wm. Redmond, who sang at the Casino last May, and also at several local concerts. He is considered one of the best vocalists in the metropolitan district and has made scores of songs and ballads popular. His selection tomorrow night will be "Just For the Sake of Society," a descriptive ballad with a beautiful refrain. Edward Rubsam will also appear and give a xylophone selection. The programme follows in detail:

March—"The Diplomat".....Forrest
Concert Waltz—"Sweet Remembrances." St. Clair
Medley—"Mills Melodies".....Mills
Vocal Solos—(a) "Man With the Ladder and the Hose".....Geary
(b) "Lonely Little Maid"...Nestor
John J. Nestor.

Vocal Solo—"Just For the Sake of Society," Mills
William Redmond.
Descriptive—"A Hunting Scene"...Buccalossi
Finale—"Don't Cry Katie Dear".....Mills

AS PHYSICAL DIRECTOR.

Frank N. Marcley, of This City, to Fill That Position at the Summit Y. M. C. A.

Frank N. Marcley, of this city, has been engaged by the Summit Y. M. C. A. as physical director of that association. He will enter upon his duties the first of September.

Mr. Marcley has for a long tim been connected with the local Y. M. C. A., where he received much of his training as an athlete. He is acknowledged to be one of the strongest men in the city, and the medals which he has captured in the local athletic and gymnastic contests speak well for his proficiency in that line. Before coming to this association, Mr Marcley was a member of the leaders' corps in the Buffalo Y. M. C. A., where he proved an valuable assistant.

Mr. Marcley will be missed in the gymnasium work in the Y. M. C. A., where he has been one of the assistants for a long time.

Delegates to Republican Convention.

The Union County Republican Committee at its meeting Tuesday evening, appointed the following as delegates to the convention of the State League of Republicans which meets at Asbury Park on September 22: Henry Krouse, of Roselle; S. Rusling Ryno, of Rahway; Joseph Kaufman, William R. Littell and Thomas H. Seymour, of Elizabeth. County Chairman Hamilton Fish Kean is also a delegate.

State Road Improvements.

Some of the extensive improvements being planned by Henry I. Budd, commissioner of public roads in New Jersey, is the New Brunswick turnpike. Roads are also building in Somerset, Middlesex and Warren Counties. In Hunterdon County the Freeholders have been mandamused to force the building of roads. From every section of New Jersey compliments for well built roads are being received.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF STATE ENDEAVORERS

Will Be Held in the City of Elizabeth on October 6 and 7.

EXCELLENT PROGRAMME

REV. T. E. DAVIS WILL REPORT A LARGE INCRERSE IN FINANCES.

Prominent Divines Will Address the Young People on Helpful Topics—Facts About the Great Gathering.

Arrangements have been practically completed for the eighteenth annual convention of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Societies to be held at Elizabeth, October 6 and 7. Because of the fact that the United Society of Christian Endeavorers will hold no meeting this year, the committee in charge of this State convention believes that the convention will be largely attended, and with this fact in view, they have secured one of the larger Elizabeth churches, the Central Baptist church, as the place of convention. The Third Presbyterian church will be used for over-flow meetings.

The convention topic will be "The Spiritual Life" and this will be developed in its various phases by six or seven of the leading Endeavorers of the State. Among the other speakers of the convention are to be Robert E. Speer, secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions; Rev. Walter Thorpe, chairman of the convention committee and pastor of the convention church; John T. Sproul, of Arlington, president of State societies; VonOgden Vogt, general secretary of the Endeavorers; George Horton, Junior State Superintendent; Rev. Dr. Floyd W. Tompkins, of Philadelphia, and Rev. Dr. Cornelius Woelfkin, of Brooklyn, who will deliver the convention sermon at the closing session on the second day.

As treasurer of the State societies, Rev. Titus E. Davis, of East Fifth street, this city, will attend and will make his report at the business meeting on the opening day. The finances of the organization show an increase over previous years and the number of societies organized during the past year is also gratifying, there being nearly 100 founded since the last convention.

The programme of exercises will consist of services of welcome and a business session on the first day in the morning. A song service, conducted by F. H. Jacobs, the singing evangelist, will open the afternoon session, when further routine business and reports of various officers and committee will come up. At the night session, President Sproul will deliver his annual address. An early morning prayer meeting will begin the second day, which will be devoted to the receiving of various reports from the different departments of work. The Junior exercises, including a parade of the societies will take place in the afternoon. The closing session Friday evening will include the convention sermon, singing, and finally the election of officers for the coming year.

LIFE AT BABY CAMP.

Twenty-Five Little Tots Are Now Enjoying the Summer at the King's Daughters' Mountain Home.

There are now twenty-five children at the King's Daughters' Baby Camp, an unusually good number. The youngsters are enjoying the life at the camp to the fullest extent and every effort is being made to make them as happy and as comfortable as possible.

Aside from those who are directly interested in the management of the camp, many outside friends have contributed largely to the funds for the support of the mountain colony, and have added to the pleasure of the youngsters by donations of ice cream and cake, and other food. Last Sunday the children were made happy by a fine dinner with ice cream and cake very kindly donated by one of the camp's friends. Those in charge of the camp wish to express their thanks for all such contributions, and would request that their friends be mindful of the fact that the expense of running the camp are not easily met without generous contributions from time to time.

—Neuman Brothers are advertising an especially good lot of peaches and melons. Neuman's peaches are supplied from their own New Jersey orchards, and are the best that can be obtained in the city.

LOCKJAW PROVES FATAL

MISS LIDA ACKERMAN SUCCUMBS TO MYSTERIOUS ATTACK.

Baffling the efforts of physicians to arrest its effect, the case of lockjaw which attacked Miss Lida Ackerman, of Clinton avenue, five weeks ago, terminated fatally yesterday afternoon. She passed away at 2 o'clock after enduring great suffering, yet bearing it patiently. What caused the attack remains a mystery, yet it was evidently due to a cut or a slight wound of some kind as up to the time of its commencement she had enjoyed excellent health.

Miss Ackerman was the daughter of Cornelius J. Ackerman and was well known throughout the city. She was connected for many years with the Monroe Avenue church, where she was a Sunday-school teacher and faithful worker. Surviving her are three brothers, Archibald Ackerman, of Irvington; Cornelius, of this city, and William, of New Market, and four sisters, Mrs. John P. Thompson, of Essex street; Mrs. Edward Vail, of Elmwood place; Mrs. Walter F. Manning, of West Seventh street and Mrs. Frank Martin, who resides with her father.

Funeral services over the body will be held from the Monroe Avenue church Saturday afternoon and interment will be made in Evergreen cemetery.

COLONY OF OWLS ROUTED

SEVEN FULL GROWN "HOOTERS" DRIVEN FROM CHURCH BELFRY.

Driven desperate by the constant "Who-o-o" which made sleep impossible and life a burden to residents near Fifth street and Madison avenue, several men climbed to the top of the Seventh-Day Baptist church belfry, yesterday afternoon, and dislodged the colony of owls which has inhabited it for a long time. There were seven of them in all, full grown and gifted with strong hooting powers which they used in protest against the invasion. No attempt was made to catch them and after they had been driven off the openings were fixed so they could not get in again.

The owls are of the barn variety, considered the prettiest and rarest of the several species. They are of a mottled gray with white breast while the wings are unusually long. They are protected by law and for that reason they were allowed to fly away. They returned to the church last night, but finding ingress barred evidently went off in search of a new home.

APPOINTED FOREMAN.

John P. Thompson, of Essex Street, Has Secured Responsible Position at the Rushmore Dynamo Works.

John P. Thompson, of Essex street, has been appointed foreman of the Rushmore Dynamo Works, on South avenue, which is now undergoing a very busy season. A large force of hands is employed and there are orders enough on hand to keep all departments working for a long time. The company makes automobile, locomotive and various kinds of electric search lights.

A new modern gas engine was installed in the plant last week and other improvements have been made to keep pace with the work. Mr. Thompson entered on his new duties the first of the week and being a man of wide experience will assume charge of the mechanical departments.

TO WORK IN PHILADELPHIA.

New York Labor Troubles Sends Samuel Kriney to Quaker City.

Samuel Kriney, of Mariners place, who is employed as a carpenter by McNulty Brothers, the large New York contractors, left last night for Philadelphia, where he will be engaged for some time on a new hotel now being built. Mr. Kriney was accompanied by fifteen or twenty mechanics, employed by the same firm, who have been sent to the Quaker City to work until the New York labor trouble are at an end.

Mr. Kriney in speaking about the strike in New York, said before his departure, that the bosses in the city has brought it on themselves, not being willing to abide by the new terms drafted by the bosses and journeymen. However, he looks for an early settlement of the strike.

Hearing Postponed.

The charge of assault preferred against E. R. Williams by Christopher Maden was not heard in the city court this morning. Owing to a death in Maden's family it was laid over until Monday.

ANOTHER DEATH IN THE MADEN FAMILY

The Third Child to Pass Away Within a Month From the Same Cause.

ONLY ONE SON LEFT

PECULIAR FORM OF STOMACH TROUBLE THE CAUSE OF DEATH.

Physicians Baffled by the Disease—Another Family Similiarly Stricken About a Year Ago.

Frazer Maden, the twelve-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Maden, of West Third street, died yesterday afternoon, making the third child the family has lost within a month. The boy was taken with a peculiar form of stomach tuberculosis which baffled physicians and which produced partial paralysis. A daughter was first seized and died after a few days' illness, then a young son became ill. He was in the last stages of the malady when Frazer fell a victim and his life was despaired of when the other boy passed away. There is but one boy left and so far he has been free from the trouble.

The Maden deaths mark the second local family which has been afflicted in this manner. Last summer the children of John Corrigan, a resident in the West End, became affected and within a short time two of them died. A third was in a serious condition for several weeks but finally recovered at Muhlenberg Hospital, to which place it was taken early in the attack. There were many who believed the trouble was due to poisoning of some sort but this was disproved by the physicians.

Funeral services over Frazer's body will be held from the parents' home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and interment will be in the Methodist cemetery.

WATERMELON SOCIAL.

Shepherds of Bethlehem Enjoy a Fine Programme and a Feast of Good Things.

Star of Plainfield Lodge, No. 25, Shepherds of Bethlehem, held a watermelon social last night in the lodge rooms on East Front street. The affair was largely attended and a decided success. An interesting programme was arranged for the occasion and was rendered in a satisfactory manner.

These numbers were given: Piano selection, Miss Lydia Edgar; cornet and piano selections, Robert Metler, Charles Leland and Fred Borrup; piano selection, George Staats; cornet solos, George Bennett; piano duet, Robert Metler and Charles Leland.

At the conclusion of the programme there was a social time and games and various forms of amusement were introduced. A feature of the evening was a "Walk Through Jerusalem," for which a prize was offered. Miss Anna Hoagland was the winner. After the entertainment a generous supply of watermelon was served by a committee composed of Miss Agnes Muir, Mrs. David Bowden and Mrs. Samuel Terry.

"AL" FARMER ILL.

Popular Catcher Will Not be Able to Play on Saturday.

It will be a source of regret to the local baseball fans to learn that "Al" Farmer, the popular catcher for the Plainfield team, will not be able to play on Saturday at Westfield. He recently injured his knee and it gave him considerable trouble on Saturday. Upon his return home he suffered so much pain that a physician was called in. Upon examination it was learned that his trouble was that of water on the knee. Since then he has been under treatment.

Manager Johnston received a letter yesterday from Mrs. Farmer, informing him of her husband's illness and he is now looking for another catcher for Saturday. When seen last night Mr. Johnston was unable to state the battery for the coming contest.

On the Eastern Circuit.

Adam Blair's pacer "Rex" left town this morning to continue in the races on the Eastern Circuit, and has been sent on to Liberty, N. Y., where he will race next Wednesday. "Handsome" McDonough will be the driver at the Liberty race as well as at the one at Goshen later in the week.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

READY REFERENCES FOR THE LOCAL BARGAIN SEEKERS.

TenEyck & Harris, the dealers in Lehigh Valley coal, are receiving orders now for fall delivery of coal. Leave your order at Frank Rowley's drug store.

Many commuters stop at Dobbins' cigar store on the way to the trains in the morning and they invariably call for one or two "Nickel Yara's." It's a good cigar—try it.

Henry J. Wierenga is ready to do either express, or moving work for you. Leave your orders with Joseph Sattel, pianos and organs, 108 North avenue. They will receive immediate attention.

Expert watch and clock repairing and a full line of fancy clocks and silverware suitable for wedding and birthday presents at Charles E. Vail's Park avenue jewelry store.

If you want some of the pies, like mother used to make, go to Warnock, the Front street baker. His ice cream is "not as good as" but a good deal better than that sold by most local ice cream sellers.

Dudley Miller's Park avenue drug store is the place to get one of those cooling glaces that are now the popular summer beverage. Shaved ice and pure fruit juices, it's simple but it just reaches the thirsty spot.

The very best of accommodations for either permanent or transient guests are provided at the Hotel Waldorf on East Front street. Recent improvements have made it one of the most convenient hostelries in the city.

The City National Bank has better facilities than ever for the storage of valuables, either during the summer season or the year around. Absolute security is guaranteed and the rates are low. Safety deposit boxes to hire.

Woolston & Buckle are advertising a new line of wall papers which cannot fail to please on account of their wide variety and style. The patterns are striking and attractive and entirely different from any previous assortment.

Although he has undertaken hundreds of contracts, A. B. Laing, the North avenue electrician, has yet to receive any complaints. His work is always done in a thoroughly capable manner. He will furnish estimates upon application.

An old joke keeps going the rounds about the jeweler working overtime in repairing watches. It may be true enough at that but there is no joke in the fact that you have a watch that is continually getting out of order. If yours has that affliction take it to L. Moralier & Son, of Park avenue, and see how soon the trouble will be remedied.

Werner is having a new glass front put in his store, which will greatly facilitate him in displaying goods; but this new window is not a circumstance to the new fall line of clothing which he has laid in to meet the public demand. All the latest styles and cuts are to be found and absolute satisfaction is guaranteed. While the repairs are going on everything will go at half the regular price.

If you are in need of fruit jars, jelly glasses, or jar rubbers go to J. W. Gavett's and get proper satisfaction. No better line of birthday and wedding gifts can be found anywhere. A full assortment of cut-glass ware and china which will please any taste are on the shelves. If you are intending to furnish your den, don't think your room is complete without some of Gavett's Oriental ornaments.

Money deposited in the Dime Savings Bank draws interest at 3 per cent. from the first of each month. You can start a bank account on any amount, however small, and make additional deposits as you get the money. Remember what the sage says about saving the pennies. They add up fast anyway, but the sage didn't figure on the Dime Savings Bank's 3 per cent. when he wrote his aphorism.

The half-week sale started today at S. S. Scheuer & Co.'s big grocery store on West Front street will present all sorts of opportunities to housekeepers securing bargains in groceries. Among the specials offered are all kinds of crackers and standard canned goods at prices several cents lower than you generally pay. The firm is real generous with the Red Star trading stamps during this sale, giving many more than value with a series of special bargains. Remember, the sale ends Saturday and early purchasing will insure you getting what you want. It's there now, but tomorrow it may be gone.

AMONG MEN IN THE SHOPS

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

William McComb, of West Front street, is in New York on business for the Manganese Steel Safe Company.

John Barr, of Central avenue, has returned to his position at The Pond Machine Tool Company's plant after a week's vacation.

The lightning played havoc with the electric wires in the foundry of The Pond Machine Tool Company's works, yesterday.

The lightning struck the new large crane at The Pond Machine Tool Company's work yesterday. The elevating gear was put out of commission.

William Waldron, of the Manganese Steel Safe Company's plant, is working on a vault recently installed in the Harvey Fisk banking house, in New York.

James O'Brien and Michael Peterson are working on the large vault in the Postal Telegraph building, New York, recently shipped from the Manganese Steel Safe Company's plant.

John Henry, of The Pond Machine Tool Company's works, who has been an inmate at Muhlenberg Hospital for the past month, is slowly recovering. It will be several weeks before he will be able to return to his position, however.

A notice was posted at The Campbell Press Company's works yesterday to the effect that all hands will be laid off Saturday morning. The notice reads that anyone wishing employment with the Campbell firm in the future must apply to the main office at Taunton, Mass.

Allen Wilson, of Grove street, is completing his time in the machine shop at The Pond Machine Tool Company's plant. Mr. Wilson has been gaining practical experience in different departments with a view of taking a position as traveling salesman for the Bement-Pond Tool Company.

The management of the Manganese Steel Safe Company is erecting a nickel-plating department at the works. It was planned to build an addition to the large factory, but that has been done away with, and the nickel-plating will be done in one corner of the main shop. The corner will be partitioned off from the dust of the emery wheels.

UNCOMMON WISDOM.

Some Plainfield People Profit by Neighbors' Experience.

It's a wise man who profits by the experience of his friends and neighbors. Here is a chance to do it and every man, woman or child in Plainfield who knows the misery of a bad back, the nervousness and restlessness caused by kidney complaint will show uncommon wisdom to profit by this citizen's advice.

S. J. Conklin, traveling saleman for a New York confectionery house, 134 West Front street, says: "I was subject to pain in the back and hips which at times I felt in my side. I tried different kinds of kidney cures but received little or no relief. I read a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills and I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. I took three boxes altogether and was wonderfully improved. Doan's Kidney Pills are a good remedy and accomplish all that is claimed for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

Sunday Excursion to Mauch Chunk.

There is no more popular resort for a Sunday than Mauch Chunk, and to reach it entails a delightful rail journey, and at Mauch Chunk there is a diversity of amusements, the chief of which is a ride over the Switchback. This journey occupies more than one hour, and leads over and around the mountains with widely changing scenes at every turn. The Switchback is a gravity road, and the speed attained is close to a mile per minute. Another feature is Flagstaff, the summit of which is reached by trolley, and from its pinnacle point there is a view extending over miles and miles of beautiful country. An interesting spot close at hand is Glen Onoko, a short distance above Mauch Chunk, and, as its name implies, is a beautiful glen, with falls, cataracts, mountain paths leading to cool and delightful places. On August 14 the New Jersey Central is to run a popular excursion to Mauch Chunk from Plainfield by special train leaving at 9:20 a. m. Returning train will leave Mauch Chunk at 5:40 p. m., and the round trip will cost but $1.50. Frequent train service will be in effect between Mauch Chunk and Glen Onoko, and trains on the Switchback run every few minutes. 8 6 7 o

POPULIST CAMPAIGN.

Opened by Watson and Tibbles at Lincoln, Neb.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 11.—Thomas E. Watson and Thomas H. Tibbles opened the Populist campaign here when the state convention met to nominate candidates. The Oliver theater was filled, the anti-Parker element predominating strongly.

Mr. Watson said this was the first part he had taken in politics in eight years, but that the fires of Populism still burned fiercely within him. He said true Populists would not be swayed from their principle by mere results at the ballot box, and after summarizing the tenets of his party he declared "Such a creed can never die."

Mr. Watson scored both the old parties and ridiculed the Republican national convention as a cut and dried affair. Of the Democratic convention he said:

"It made its appeal to the Deity through a megaphone and drafted its platform by telegraph."

His speech, which occupied nearly two and a half hours, was an indirect appeal against fusion, and he was frequently applauded.

W. J. Bryan aroused much enthusiasm in a short address.

Permanent organization was effected by the election of former Senator W. V. Allen as chairman. Committees were then appointed and an adjournment taken.

Baby Killed by Launch's Engine.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 11.—Edward S. May, aged two years and two months, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. May of New Rochelle, N. Y., was almost instantly killed at Orwegatchie, in Waterford. The child was riding in a launch on the Niantic river with two small children, a governess and a man in charge of the boat. The children were playing on a shawl in the bottom of the boat, and in some way this became entangled in the machinery, drawing the child into the flywheel. The boy sustained a fractured skull, arm and leg and ribs.

Flags Half Masted For Vest.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 11.—Acting Mayor Joseph L. Hornsby has issued a proclamation directing that flags on all public buildings be placed at half mast today in respect to the memory of former Senator Vest, and that all municipal offices be closed from 8 to 10 a. m. while the funeral procession is moving from Union station to Bellefontaine cemetery. Senator Vest will be buried by the side of his eldest son, George, whose death occurred in Washington several months ago.

Only a Few Miners at Work.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 11.—Information received from the various coal mines of the five big furnace companies in this district, which gave notice that their mines would be opened for work to union and nonunion labor alike at a scale of wages below that heretofore in effect, indicates that only a handful of men went to work. At most of the mines there was no resumption. Officers of the miners' union say the strikers are standing firm.

New Officials For Porto Rico.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—President Roosevelt has appointed Regis H. Post of New York to be secretary of Porto Rico and Erastus S. Rockwell of the District of Columbia to be auditor of Porto Rico, to take effect Sept. 1 next. These appointments, it is announced, are made temporarily until the president shall have time to reorganize the entire council of the island government.

Nominated by Fusionists.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 11.—Hugh Lomaster of Tecumseh was nominated for congress by the Democrats and Populists of the First Nebraska district. W. B. Price, a Democrat who was the leading candidate, was not acceptable to the Populists. He started a Democratic weekly here a few days ago, and some of the editorials favoring Judge Parker did not please the Populists.

Nevada Republican Ticket.

RENO, Nev., Aug. 11.—The Republican state convention at Winnemucca has nominated the following ticket: For United States senator, George S. Nixon of Humboldt county; for member of congress, James A. Yerington of Ormsby county; for supreme judge, Frank H. Norcross; for presidential electors, James Butler, C. A. Hern and W. J. Plumb.

British Ship's Loss Confirmed.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 11.—A capstan bar with the name Lamorna burned in it and the identity of which cannot be questioned has been brought here by the steamer Danube. The Lamorna was the British ship the disappearance of which in March last excited general interest. She is now a little over five months out from Tacoma for Liverpool.

Crushed In a Lock.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Rosell Parkhurst, a lock tender on the Black River canal near Boonville, was caught between a boat and the side of the lock and was so badly squeezed that he died in a few minutes. He was sixty-eight years old and was on his way to Boonville to attend a caucus.

France and Belgium Protest.

SANTO DOMINGO, Republic of Santo Domingo, Aug. 11.—The French and Belgian governments have again protested officially to the government at Rome against the Italian-Dominican protocol, which instrument, they claim, violates the rights of French and Belgian citizens.

A New Pennsylvania Postmaster.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Sylvester J. Lantz has been appointed fourth class postmaster at Mosserville, Pa.

TO SETTLE STRIKE

Union Committee Meets Chicago Packers Today.

HOPES FOR A FINAL SETTLEMENT

Retail Butchers and Grocers' Association Is Taking a Hand In Endeavor to Put an End to Disastrous Labor War.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Determined efforts are now being made to settle the stockyards strike by mediation. Negotiations started between the Retail Butchers and Grocers' association and representatives of several labor unions which would undoubtedly be involved in the strike should it be prolonged much longer resulted last night in the appointment of a committee composed of those who attended a meeting to negotiate with the packers this morning in an attempt to bring about a joint meeting between the employers and the striking unions. It was the sentiment of all who attended the conference that should the meeting be arranged between the two opposing interests a settlement satisfactory to both sides could be reached.

Meantime Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has been summoned from New York to come to Chicago and see if he cannot accomplish something through mediation.

When the packers were told of the intended visit of the intermediary committee today all of them declined to make any comment on what if any success might be expected from the meeting.

Fierce Attack by "Fat Men."

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Two hundred strike breakers destined for the plant of Schwarzchild & Sulzberger were attacked by a number of beef workers here and were completely routed. Several of the strike breakers were badly beaten, and others, thoroughly frightened, jumped into the East river, from which they were rescued with difficulty. The beef workers were "fat men," who clean up after the regular workers.

Labor Leader Arrested.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Aug. 11.—Charles H. Maguire, president of the Pork Butchers' union and leader of the packing house strike in Sioux City, was arrested on charges of conspiracy to injure the business of the Cudahy Packing company. The information was filed by Frank B. Robinson, attorney for the Sioux City Industrial association.

Stationary Firemen to Go Out.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—President Timothy Healy of the International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen has ordered a sympathetic strike of the firemen in the New York packing houses. About eighty-five men have gone out under this order. The strike was ordered by a telephone message.

Discovery a Wreck Near Valdez.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 11. — The hull of the Nome steamship Discovery is lying on the inner side of Middleton island near Valdez. On a recent cruise in northern waters the steamer tender Pacific cruised close to Middleton island and there saw the hull of the Discovery. When she went down, between twenty-five and forty persons met death, the exact number aboard the vessel at the time not being known. The vessel made her last call at Yakutat, en route from Nome, about the middle of November, 1903.

Six Injured In Trolley Smash.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 11.—The brakes refused to work on an electric car on the Harvey's lake branch of the Wyoming Valley Traction company, and the car, while running very fast, crashed into a telephone pole. There were six passengers and all were injured. Rev. Father Holmes of Avoca had an arm, leg and shoulder bone broken. Mrs. Dr. Davis of Nanticoke sustained a fracture of the leg; Thomas Melany, George Weatherby and Henry Hughes were injured internally.

Gaffney Held For Fraud.

WATERTOWN, Mass., Aug. 11.—A warrant for the arrest of James H. Gaffney was issued here, and he has been arrested by the New York police. Gaffney, representing himself as an employee of the Sprague Lumber company, presented a check to a local bank and fraudulently, it is charged, received $50. A police officer from this town will be sent to New York to bring the prisoner here for trial.

Founder of Sisterhood Dead.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Mother Mary Veronica, head and founder of the Sisterhood of the Divine Compassion, died at the convent of the order here last night. She was sixty-four years of age. Prior to forming the order she was a Mrs. Starr of New York city.

Manz, Despondent, Took Poison.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Despondent because he believed himself the victim of an incurable disease, William R. Manz, son of the wealthy president of the J. Manz Engraving company, killed himself in his home here. He swallowed poison and died an hour afterward.

Davis Will Give $1,000.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 11.—Former Senator Henry G. Davis of West Virginia, Democratic candidate for the vice presidency, has renewed his offer of $1,000 for a children's home. His purpose is to get ten wealthy men to give $1,000 each for the home.

EX-PREMIER NO MORE

Waldeck-Rousseau Expired From Operation Near Paris.

FRANCE MOURNS A GREAT STATESMAN

German and Canadian Expert Surgeons Decided That There Was Only One Chance For Patient's Life.

PARIS, Aug. 11.—Former Premier Waldeck-Rousseau is dead at his country residence at Corbeil, eighteen miles from Paris, from the effects of an operation which his medical attendants deemed to be a final necessity. A similar operation which was performed in Paris some months ago proved partially successful, and the former premier was able to be removed to Corbeil, where, it was hoped, rest and the effect of the country air would restore his strength.

The evil, however, was not eradicated, and alarming reports regarding the condition of the distinguished patient have been frequently circulated. Despite the efforts of his family to conceal the truth M. Waldeck-Rousseau's condition during the last few days became much aggravated, the patient having frequent hallucinations and displaying extreme weakness. The family accordingly called in two famous liver specialists—Professor Hans Kehr, a German, and Dr. Armour, a Canadian surgeon—who at a consultation decided that, since the liver had ceased to perform its functions an immediate operation was the only hope of saving the patient's life. M. Waldeck-Rousseau was informed of the necessity for this operation and received the news with calmness and courage. The operation was performed under chloroform at noon by Professor Kehr, who was assisted by Dr. Armour and three French surgeons. It at first appeared that the operation, which was admirably performed, would prove successful, and the patient was removed from the operating table to his bed, but the pulse became more feeble, and despite the administration of injections of serum M. Waldeck-Rousseau gradually sunk and died without regaining consciousness.

Mme. Waldeck-Rousseau, Jacques Llouville, the patient's brother-in-law; Rene Waldeck-Rousseau, his nephew, and three intimate friends were present at the time of his death. From Paris a priest was summoned to administer the last rites of the church, but he arrived too late.

As soon as the death of the former premier became known messages of condolence began to arrive at Corbeil. The first came from Premier Combes, who telegraphed:

"I have received the news contained in your telegram with the keenest grief. Please express to Mme. Waldeck-Rousseau the share I take in her mourning, which is the mourning of all republican France."

Premier Combes decided to postpone his departure from Paris, and the members of the cabinet will meet today to consider the details of the funeral, which the government desires shall be of a national character, though Mme. Waldeck-Rousseau will be consulted on this point.

Notwithstanding the fact that failing health prevented his active participation in politics for the last two years, the death of M. Waldeck-Rousseau leaves a gap in the ranks of French statesmen which it will not be easy to fill.

The most striking measure of the early days of his ministry was the pardoning of Captain Dreyfus after his second conviction at Rennes, which was followed by the proclamation of an amnesty covering all offenses connected with that notorious case.

The former premier was generally respected, even by the most bitter of his opponents, and expressions of regret at his death are universal.

Trial March of Seven Hundred Miles.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Orders have been issued at the war department for the Twenty-third and Twenty-seventh batteries of field artillery and two squadrons of the Fifteenth cavalry, stationed at Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont, to march from that post to Manassas, Va., to take part in the maneuvers next month, a distance of about 700 miles. It is calculated that the trip will occupy about five weeks. This probably is the longest march of United States troops in recent times and is in the nature of an experiment.

Taft Will Talk of Philippines.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Secretary Taft has arrived here to deliver an address today on the Philippine question. From here he will proceed to St. Louis to participate in the celebration of Manila day at the Louisiana Purchase exposition on Saturday.

No Cattle Thieves In Eastern Cuba.

HAVANA, Aug. 11.—Twenty-five armed men, it is reported, have assembled twelve miles from Guantanamo. There has, however, been no violence. The government denies the story to the effect that there are gangs of cattle thieves in eastern Cuba.

Reward For Slayer of Bosworth.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 11.—A reward of $3,000 has been offered by Governor Chamberlain for the apprehension of the murderer of Eugene Bosworth of New Britain, who was killed in that city on Aug. 2 last.

Statue of Sigel For St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 11.—A contract has been awarded to Robert Cauer, a New York sculptor, for a life sized bronze equestrian statue of General Franz Sigel to be erected in St. Louis by the Sigel Monument association.

SIGLIGHT AT SARATOGA.

Jack Lory Had Stake In Hand, but Was Headed Out.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 11.—John E. Madden's Siglight captured the stake event, the Grand Union Hotel, worth $8,500 to the winner. Just when Jack Lory, the maker of the pace, appeared to have the race won Siglight headed him out. Jack Lory was half a length ahead of Cairngorm, who failed to show in the money until well into the stretch.

Collector Jessup won the first event by a length and a half from the favorite, Shotgun. Castalian lost third money after running second most of the way.

One to 2 were the odds quoted against the Hayes stable in the steeplechase for four-year-olds and upward, gentlemen riders. The stable took all the money, since the only other starter, Philma Paxton, broke down after going most of the route. Grandpa led all the way and won by six lengths.

F. R. Hitchcock's Greencrest, the favorite, won the third event, in which Irascible and Trepan both fell. The trouble was caused by Irascible colliding with the fence.

Caughnawaga, the favorite, won the fifth. Dalesman was pacemaker the first part of the way, Caughnawaga running second under wraps.

The sixth was easy for the Duryea entry, Artful and Dreamer. Dreamer had been declared to win, and he finished eased up, with Artful second. Katie Caffrey was an easy third. Goodbye, quoted at 1,000 to 1, finished fifth.

World's Fair Autoists at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 11.—The party of automobilists coming from the east to meet at the world's fair have arrived here. Among the first to ride over Eads bridge was a car from Philadelphia in which were W. B. Saunders and J. J. Lakhney, who had been on the way two weeks. Not far behind was the main body, sixty-one in number, which left Springfield, Ill., yesterday led by W. C. Hulbert of New York. One of the touring cars in the New York-St. Louis run owned by Ray D. Lillibridge of New York and driven by W. Bonastine exploded at Springfield, Ill. Both men were thrown to the pavement, but not seriously injured.

Canada Retains Seawanhaka Cup.

MONTREAL, Aug. 11.—Noorna won the fifth and deciding race, defeating White Bear by 2 minutes 48 seconds, and the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht club retains possession of the much coveted Seawanhaka cup. Although there was quite a difference between the pair at the finish, it was a shift of conditions that gave the race to Noorna. Opening conditions were a fair eight knot breeze with very little sea, and while this continued, during the first round, White Bear led. While beating up the second time the wind freshened up to about twelve knots and kicked up a fuss on the lake. White Bear failed to weather this so well and was outfooted to the mark.

Track Suited Judge Himes.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Judge Himes made a show of a good field in the mile handicap, the feature event at Harlem. The track was just suited to the winner, and after Gregor K. and Warte Nicht had tired themselves out in front he came with a rush and won in a canter by three lengths. Warte Nicht was second, two lengths in front of Gregor K.

Polo In Rainstorm.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 11.—In the midst of a driving rainstorm the Myopia first polo team from the Massachusetts North Shore defeated the County Club of Westchester by a score of 8 to 7½ goals in the second match in the series for the Narragansett cup offered by the Point Judith Country club.

Decides Not to Send Troops.

PIERRE, S. D., Aug. 11.—After investigating conditions at Bonesteel Governor Herried has decided that state troops are not needed there to preserve order during the allotment of government lands. It was thought troops might be needed to protect the large sums of money supposed to be on deposit there.

F. B. Harrison For Governor.

ESOPUS, N. Y., Aug. 11.—It is said that Francis Burton Harrison, who represents the Thirteenth New York district in congress, will be put forward for the Democratic nomination for governor.

CZAR'S SHIPS ESCAPE

Port Arthur Squadron Said to Have Run Gantlet.

JAPANESE PRESSING ON TO LIAOYANG

St. Petersburg Fears For Safety of Far Eastern Stronghold Since Wolf Hill Is In Possession of the Enemy.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Advices from Chefu, dated today, say that a Russian torpedo boat destroyer entered Chefu harbor at 5:30 o'clock a. m. and reported that six Russian battleships, four cruisers and half of the torpedo boats escaped from Port Arthur yesterday morning. The torpedo boat destroyer left Port Arthur last night, bringing in five passengers, who stated that the Japanese fleet is pursuing the Russians and that a battle on the open sea is expected.

Admiral Sah of the Chinese imperial navy arrived here last night from the Miaotao islands. He says the firing of Monday was at Port Arthur and was heavy all night long. Further firing, according to the admiral, was heard yesterday afternoon.

A dispatch from Sinmintin, which is on neutral Chinese territory about thirty miles west of Mukden, says that there is an enormous garrison at Mukden, re-enforcements having arrived very rapidly for General Kuropatkin.

A Japanese force of some strength lies twenty-five miles to the south and there is another army five miles east of Liaoyang.

Advices from St. Petersburg say that at the war office the concentration of the Japanese armies east of Simoucheng is interpreted as showing the intention to press direct on Liaoyang in an attempt to cut off Anshanshan, halfway between Haicheng and Liaoyang.

The Japanese advance on Mukden does not seem to have developed a serious character, and, according to the general staff, the way of retreat is still open if General Kuropatkin chooses to withdraw.

Nervousness over the situation at Port Arthur seems to be increasing since the occupation by the Japanese of the Wolf hills.

It is admitted that the besiegers have an elevated position, whence emplaced guns can command the fortress.

According to the information received at St. Petersburg the Japanese have about 300,000 men in the armies operating against General Kuropatkin, rendering it too hazardous for him to risk a general engagement.

The general staff has no information bearing on the reported presence of a large force of Japanese at Paithuho. It is said that General Kuropatkin is already retreating north of Liaoyang.

It is reported from Liaoyang that the Japanese are very active at Bendziko, twenty-seven miles east, on the Taitse river. They are bridging the river at eight points to facilitate their advance.

It is reported that the Japanese have 20,000 men and twenty guns idle at Haicheng awaiting the turning movement which they are now attempting around Liaoyang. The Haicheng force will be ready to advance if the flankers succeed in pocketing the Russians.

General Lubavin has made a reconnoissance to the eastward in the valley of the Taitse river, striking the Japanese at Izyanchan. It was a dark and foggy night. Three companies of Cossacks rushed the Japanese outposts in order to develop the strength of their reserves. It was discovered that the Japanese had 30,000 men and eight guns.

German Ship Thea Condemned.

VLADIVOSTOK, Aug. 11.—The prize court here has condemned the German steamer Thea, which was sunk by the Vladivostok squadron off the coast of Japan, and has declared that the Russian cruisers were justified in sinking the vessel. Evidence was produced that the Thea was chartered by a Japanese company, the Khakosanni Gossikaio, and that since March 25 she had been engaged exclusively in the Japanese trade between Japanese ports. On this ground the court declared that she had lost all her rights as the vessel of a neutral nation, especially as her cargo, which consisted of fish, was intended for the use of the Japanese.

Losses at Battle of Yalu.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The war department has made public information concerning the military operations in the Russo-Japanese war as furnished by the observers sent to the front. In this instance an account is given of the battle of the Yalu, the information being obtained principally from the report of Colonel E. H. Crowder, one of the officers sent to the far east. The casualties are given as follows: Russian—Officers killed, 30; wounded, 90; men killed, 1,333; wounded, 1,100; taken prisoners, 613. Japanese—Officers killed, 3; wounded, 33; men killed, 218; wounded, 763.

Senator Dick at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Among the callers at Republican national headquarters was Senator Charles Dick of Ohio, who succeeded to the seat of the late Senator Hanna. He came to have a talk with Secretary Dover. Senator Dick comes direct from Colorado. He says of the situation there: "It would be idle to deny that the labor troubles have affected the situation, but in my opinion they have not jeopardized the Republican cause in that state."

Muravieff to Succeed Plehve.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 11.—It is said here that the emperor has signed the appointment of Minister of Justice Muravieff as minister of the interior in succession to the late M. von Plehve.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 11, 1904.

A man's riches in these modern times are computed from the promptness with which he pays his wife's automobile repair bills.

Mrs. Ogden Goelet deserves a good scolding for forgetting where she put her $200,000 worth of jewels. Secretary Cortelyou might happen along and there is no telling what he would do.

Baseball is so popular in Clayton, this State, that seven teams represent the town, the players ranging in ages from five to seventy-five years. Here's a chance for Uncle Henry G. Davis to get in the game and prove his mettle.

"That many old houses have either gone out of business or have declined in comparative importance," says the Philadiphia Record, "is due to their failure to appreciate the importance of advertising. 'The idea that goods can be sold on a large scale and the name and fame of the house placed upon the highest pinnacle entirely through the work of salesmen seems to have been pretty generally exploded.'"

From the standpoint of an independent journal, The Daily Press views Judge Parker's speech of acceptance as a dignified and conservative address. There is no plea to the passions of the populace or demagogue; it is on a high plane. Though we confess it is lacking in new thoughts, and not as aggressive as many had reason to expect, after the famous "Parker telegram," yet withal the address is on constitutional lines and can not invite severe adverse criticism.

Counties in the southern part of the State are beginning to realize what it means to enjoy the reputation of having good roads. The Salem authorities have just appropriated $85,000 to build five State Aid roads in the county and nearby municipalities are also devoting time and money to the question. Hitherto the northern counties were alone spoken of as possessing hard, wide thoroughfares extending for miles in every direction and the profit brought to them in the way of industries and residents has led to activity everywhere, and they will soon be sharing the honors.

IDEAL SCHOOL FOR BOYS.

John Leal's School Has Prepared Many Young Men for College.

The twenty-third year of Leal's school begins on Tuesday, September 13. Since 1882 this school has been fitting young men for college, and among the alumni today are large numbers of men who have gone through Yale, Princeton, Harvard, Columbia and the other colleges, or are still working for degrees in those institutions.

The fact that the school is not crowded makes it possible for the instructor to devote more special attention to the individual pupils. Pupils received into courses at the middle of the year can be especially tutored by an instructor so as to catch up with the class. Special instruction can be taken in any subject without regularly entering for a course in the school.

Residents of this city realize more and more each year that the best preparation a boy can have for higher education in any of its branches is a course at Leal's school.

Someone recently played a trick on City Treasurer Stokes, of Trenton, which was somewhat embarrassing to that official. He returned home from Atlantic City, having attended the meeting of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine and brought back a noble stein as a momento of the pilgrimage, according to the Trenton Advertiser. The stein was packed tightly in a box and was left by the city treasurer in his office during the day. In the afternoon Mr. Stokes tucked the bundle under his arm and going home called his family and guests around him while he opened the box. Said Mr. Stokes: "I will now show you something handsome and useful in every household," and he uncovered the box to immediately re-close the lid, but not before his family and guests had seen in the enclosure a tightly rolled piece of paper, on which in bold letters was printed a card of thanks from the purloiners of the stein.—Newark News.

LITERARY.

We would not desecrate the American flag. Was it right to have the "flag law" so interpreted in Boston? Other chiefs of police throughout Massachusetts decided that there was no violation of the law, so the event was local with Boston. The law has already been decided to be unconstitutional in New York, the Judge stating that the question of using the flag was one that could be passed upon only by Congress, as it was a case of Federal sovereignty and not of State sovereignty.—Everybody's Magazine, August, 1904.

August Furniture Sale

The annual August Sale of furniture, a regular event at Woodhull & Martin's for five years past, begins today to continue through August. These sales have grown in popularity each year and always offer special bargains.

The Second Week of The

August Furniture Sale

Opens With A Big Sale of Couches.

Daily Press, Aug. 2, '04.

Big Furniture Sale

The great semi-annual August furniture sale is now going on at Woodhull & Martin's. It was inaugurated by the firm five years ago and has gained in popularity each time, and is still increasing. Everything is marked down and there are scores of good bargains to select from.

At the close of the recent Furniture Exposition held in New York City, we purchased from a large Couch Manufacturer his entire line of samples at about one-third off the usual prices, and have placed them on sale at the same reductions, which means a big saving to you if you have a couch to buy. Please remember that if you don't want your purchases delivered 'till later on, you can, by paying a small deposit, have them stored free of charge and delivered whenever you say.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Manager Vail, of the Dunellen A. C. has arranged the following schedule for his team for the remainder of the season: August 13, Scotch Plains at Dunellen; August 20, Clinton Avenues at Clinton avenue; August 27, Dunellen at New Market; September 3, Clinton Avenue at Dunellen; Labor Day, a. m., Bound Brook at Dunellen; p. m., open; September 10, East Millstone at Dunellen; September 17, East Millstone at Millstone. Several games are contemplated later than the 17, but the management has not yet decided whether to take them in or not.

Walter Clawson and "Shorty" Alberts, took advantage of the fine weather yesterday afternoon to make a fishing trip to the wilds of New Market. While busily engaged at their favorite sport a storm overtook them and caused them to sprint for shelter. While climbing over a wire fence, Clawson was temporarily stunned by a flash of lightning that struck near by. On their return the pair exhibited seven eels, which expert anglers declare to be large worms.

George Gray, of Plainfield, cut a gash over two inches long in his left arm, while visiting in town last evening. He attempted to raise a window and the cut resulted from the glass breaking. Dr. Brakeley was obliged to take three stitches to close the wound.

"Billy" Giles, the popular centre-fielder of the Dunellen A. C., is laid up with a strained tendon which will keep him out of the game for the next two weeks. During his absence Miller will be moved in from centre-field to take his place.

George, the young son of Joseph Hague, ran a needle in his arm over half an inch yesterday, while playing and it was not found until some time later. The youngster will not suffer any ill effects.

Charles F. Harris is said to have left for Philadelphia immediately after the trouble at the Levering & Garrigues' factory. The time of his return is unknown.

A sale of the effects of the late William V. Dunham will be held on Thursday at the Dunellen home.

Mrs. Smith, of Front street, is quite ill.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The local ball team will have a hard game to win when they play at Dunellen on Saturday. The Dunellen team is putting up a fast article of baseball, having been defeated but once this season.

There is one improvement Scotch Plains has not needed for several weeks; that is street sprinkling. The daily rains has kept the dust down and quieted the talk for a street sprinkler.

The only damage done by the heavy rain of yesterday afternoon was to the sidewalks in town. Lightning played peculiar pranks for a time, but did no damage.

William Hazel, of Westfield avenue, is taking his annual summer vacation from his duties with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

The Township Committee met in the town rooms last night. Work on the assessors' duplicate was the only business transacted.

The encampment of gypsies who have been holding forth on Terrill road for a week, have folded their tents and departed.

George H. Johnston was introduced last night to the mysteries of the B. P. O. E. as dispensed by the Plainfield lodge.

James Johnston, Charles Reick and Frederick Schmidt tried their luck angling at the back pond yesterday afternoon.

Adam Gray, who has been visiting his brother, Joseph Gray, of Front street, has returned to his home in Newark.

Mrs. William S. Terry, of New street, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. James Buckley, of Stout avenue.

Mrs. John R. Cochrane, who has been visiting Miss Susie Parse, has returned to her home in Brooklyn.

John VanArsdale, the borough blacksmith, is spending a week with relatives in New York State.

The weekly band concert will be held tomorrow night at Concert Park, weather permitting.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynus Walpole are entertaining relatives from New Haven, Conn., for a time.

The members of the Amity Club hold their weekly reading and study meeting tonight.

Charles Reick has returned from a visit of several days with friends at Staten Island.

Miss Sadie Wahl and Miss Lizzie Riley spent Wednesday at Midland Beach.

Hervey Marsh, of Sandford avenue, was the guest last night of friends in town.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Latourette and daughter, have returned home from Fire Island, where they have been stopping several days.

The Patriotic Order of Sons of America, Camp 41, will hold a regular business session in Washington Hall tonight.

Miss Christella MacMurray, for a few days a guest of Mrs. J. A. Cubberley, has returned to her home in Jersey City.

The heavy showers of late have endangered the prospects of the potato and lima bean crops. Corn is growing well.

onslaught gave way and were lost and several cows grazing in a field near the Stine place, were swept off their feet and carried to Green brook. There they managed to secure a foothold and escaped drowning.

During the storm yesterday afternoon, lightning struck the house occupied by Mrs. Edward Conshee, of Duer street. Mrs. Conshee and her daughter were in the house at the time, but felt no shock. The north corner of the house was almost entirely destroyed by the lightning, and the timbers were torn and scattered over the ground, resulting in considerable damage.

An unusually sharp flash of lightning struck the Jersey Central Railroad bridge at Grant avenue, splintering the woodwork and setting the ties afire. Several men at the station were momentarily stunned by the flash. The flames were extinguished by the rain before any damage resulted.

A large shade tree at Sixth and Liberty streets was shattered by a bolt of lightning and the entire top torn away and leaves stripped off.

PERSONAL.

Miss Lena Botterstein, of Yonkers, N. Y., is spending two weeks with her cousin, Henry Trotter, of New street.

AMUSEMENTS.

The appearance of the original massive production of Hall Caine's latest and greatest play, "The Eternal City," at the Academy of Music, New York city, magnificent and enlarged for the Academy's big stage, is certainly an event for which the managers of the Academy, and its legion of patrons are alike to be congratulated. "The Eternal City" has always been recognized as one of the most elaborate and most expensive productions Liebler & Co. ever put out, and when it is known and understood that with this splendid original production appears the original cast of the great play, practically in its entirety, then the Academy patrons will comprehend what a treat is awaiting them during this all too brief engagement—for other advance bookings elsewhere make a longer stay at the Academy absolutely impossible. Hence those who desire to see this sublime spectacle, and under Academy stage opportunities, and at Academy prices should note the opening date, and attend as soon thereafter as possible.

The one hundredth Boston performance of B. C. Whitney's newest, brightest and most popular musical melange, the "Isle of Spice," was celebrated at the Majestic Theatre on Saturday, by a most unusual display on both the part of Manager Whitney and the enormous audience that witnessed it. When the "Isle of Spice" opens at the Majestic Theatre, New York, Tuesday evening, August 23, it will be an entirely new production. Three news sets of scenery having been painted by W. Franklin Hamilton, the scenic artist, and a new set of costumes having been made by Freisinger, together with new mechanical and electrical effects. All of the stage business, groupings, dances, etc., are absolutey original with the "Isle of Spice" and have been arranged especially for the New York run by Mr. Whitney's general stage director, Gus Sohlke, and mark a new departure in the manner of presenting musical plans. The company is a very large one, numbering one hundred and thirty people and including a number of the most popular and best known comedians and comediennes, together with ninety young women who have been described as being young, pretty and shapely, who can dance as well as sing.

KANSAS RUM FIENDS.

THEY HAVE NO DIFFICULTY IN GETTING THEIR DOPE.

Jointkeepers, However, Have a Hard Time When the Drys Are in Power—How Prohibition Law Is Evaded.

Two heretofore successful methods of evading the prohibition laws of Kansas have come to grief. In one case the state has confiscated liquor shipped in electric light bulbs and in the other Uncle Sam has filed indictments against agents of several wholesale liquor houses and some express agents doing business in the state, alleging that the liquor was sent in sealed packages addressed to fictitious names and then sold by the agents of the express companies for 'express charges." Millions of cases of liquor have been sent into the state by this latter method and for each case so disposed of the agent received 50 cents.

The result of all this is that some new method of evading the law must be invented, for in spite of the fact that prohibition is a part of its laws and that its political parties stand pledged to its support any man who wants a drink in Kansas can get it.

Prohibition in Kansas is to-day entirely a matter of local option and every year at the spring elections the battle is waged. If the drys triumph the law is enforced as well as it can be; if the wets, as little as can be. But in either case the man who knows how can get his drink.

Topeka, the capital, has alternated between the wets and drys until the wily jointkeeper, never sure of what the spring election may bring forth, has prepared himself for emergencies by having a double set of fixtures—one suitable for the strenuous use devolving on it when the drys are in power and one fitted to the peaceful and prosperous days of the wets.

Of course there are no saloons in Kansas—no one would dream of calling them by that name. They are all "joints," whether the drinks are passed over a polished counter by a whiteaproned attendant or shoved through a hole in the wall by a dirty fist.

When the drys are in power the life of the Topeka jointist is hard. His arrest will mean a fine, which appeal to the district court may remit. But, at any rate, it means the confiscation of his stock and the suspension and consequent loss to his business, to say nothing of the inconvenience of being incontinently bundled into a patrol wagon and hauled off to the police station.

Under such circumstances it would obviously be very poor policy to have an expensive and elaborate establishment and a large stock. Therefore the jointist reduces his business to basic principles.

He chooses his location discreetly. His furnishings depend entirely on the temper of the administration he has to deal with. If it is just moderately dry, discreetly dry, he does not have to observe the same caution he otherwise would.

In such a case, in an obscure room, in an obscure alley, or up an obscure stairway, he places two kegs and across them a board. Under this board is a small keg of beer and a bottle or two of bad whisky. On the board are two or three thick mugs and as many whisky glasses.

This is his establishment. If he is pulled his loss is slight, especially if he himself manages to get away, which he usually does, having chosen his location with that end in view.

But, says the Chicago Chronicle, when the dyed-in-the-wool drys are in power then the really serious part of jointkeeping begins. No mere obscurity will answer. Dark, deep secrecy is the rule.

It is then that the man who drinks does not know who serves him. He finds out where he can secure the desired refreshment and makes his way to it through devious and usually ill-smelling ways.

But, once arrived, it is not a matter of opening the door and walking in. No, indeed. He must know the rap, which is circulated around among the drinking gentry who are known as safe.

Once inside, the mystery deepens. A little, dirty room it is, with a rough board partition across the middle. This partition is blank except for a small opening just large enough to admit the passage of a beer mug.

There is no one in sight and no sound. If the man is wise in the ways of the lawbreaker he advances without comment and lays the price of a drink on the little shelf of the opening.

In a moment his drink is silently passed out to him and his money as silently gathered in. Still standing—there is no place to sit—he takes his drink, passes his mug back and, without a word on either side, he leaves.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Aug. 14: "Obeying the Call of God When Obedience Is Hard." Gen. xxii, 1-8.

Human sacrifice has put an ineffaceable stain on all the religions of antiquity. In the days of Abraham it prevailed in all the nations around him. In Chaldea, from which he emigrated, he had become familiar with it as practiced at all the great sanctuaries. The discoveries of the last few years at some of these very shrines have shown unmistakable marks that such sacrifices were not uncommon there.

Abraham was being led of Jehovah into a purer religion and a higher understanding of the nature of God. It will take long ages for men to believe that God is not to be propitiated with the blood of beasts, and even as late as the days of Micah, the prophet, he will need to cry, "Shall I give my firstborn for my transgression, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?" It is exceedingly difficult to teach men that what Jehovah requires is "to do justly and love kindness and walk humbly with God." Many lessons of many kinds are needed before the truth in its fullness will be grasped.

This obedience of Abraham is one of the great object lessons of our holy religion. The writer of this passage says regarding this transaction, "God did prove Abraham," and the conclusion was, "Now I know that thou fearest God, seeing thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only son, from Me."

There is a double truth revealed here. The first and one most frequently spoken of is the obedience of Abraham. It is, in fact, an illustration of the supreme need in human life of fidelity to moral conviction. Whatever we may prize, nothing is to be preferred to God. All we have is to be held subject to his disposal.

This is the inexorable demand of the religious nature. On no other terms can we be religious. It is the call of our own nature in response to the call of the divine nature. It is the one and only possible decisive test of the genuineness of our devotion. In some sense and under some form it comes to all at some time. It is the proving time for us. It is not merely a demonstration of what we are, but is the occasion on which we most frequently bring into active being the qualities which have been lying undeveloped in unrecognized possibility only. They needed some such shock as this to crystallize them into form and put them into definite shape in character. Obedience may be morally most necessary when hardest in its demands. Failure here is fatal. Whatever the cost we must be true and obedient to the call of God.

The second truth in this episode, only less important than that of implicit obedience to moral conviction, is the fact that we are never to inflict evil upon another in order to propitiate God's favor toward ourselves. God does not need the sacrifice of Isaac in order to save Abraham. But Abraham needs to surrender all to the will of God to become saved in nature.

Loving obedience is the means of spiritual acquisition. But the same voice which commands, "Take thy son Isaac and offer him," also commands, "Lay not thy hand upon the lad; neither do thou anything to him."

Our children are to be trained for God's service and so offered to Him and not sacrificed in any other fashion.

Gems of Thought.

Try first thyself, for to the worker God Himself lends aid.—Euripides.

God never makes us feel our weakness except to lead us to seek strength from Him.—Fenelon.

Blessed is he who has found his work. Let him ask no other blessedness. He has a work, a life purpose. Labor is life.—Carlyle.

Unless you put out your water jars when it rains you will catch no water. If you do not watch for God's coming to help you, God's watching to be gracious will be of no good at all to you.—Alexander McLaren, D. D.

Without a conscience that is clear and a mind that is undisturbed there is no rest.—Episcopal Recorder.

The two acts necessary to God in the birth and development of Christian character are surrender and obedience.—Rev. I. Mench Chambers.

More Beautiful.

A doctrine lived is more beautiful than a doctrine preached. Jesus taught His disciples to forgive men their trespasses and that was beautiful, but when upon the cross He prayed, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do," that was sublime. If we are not all called to preach, we are at least called to adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour in all things, and that is better than mere preaching.—Moravian.

Our Burdens—and Us.

"Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and He will sustain thee"—burden and all. "Thee" is the greatest burden that thou hast! All other burdens are but slight, but this is a crushing burden. But when we come to the Lord with our burden, He just lifts up His child, burden and all, and bears him all the way home.

His Standard.

God has regard to the inward governing principle. He calls for Christian stamina; He demands conscientious conviction and devotion to right and truth; He has His balances, and all must measure up to His required standard. Character counts in His sight.—Presbyterian.

A Hope.

Every day is a fresh beginning,
Every morn is the world made new;
You who are weary of sorrow and sinning
Here is a beautiful hope for you,
A hope for me and a hope for you.
—Susan Coolidge.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 14.

Topic.—Obeying when obedience is hard.—Gen. xxii, 1-8.

There are times when obedience is easy and times when to obey is a serious strain upon the physical, mental and spiritual life. Nor do the most faithful children of God always have the commands that are easiest to obey. Abraham had a hard test placed before him, yet he was faithful to God and was called "a friend of God." Enoch faced great trials, yet it was said of him that he "walked with God." Noah was a righteous man, yet a burdensome command was placed upon him. Divine commands involving hardness are therefore not the signs of divine disapproval. They are rather the signs of the opposite conditions. God expects and exacts the greatest things from those who love and serve Him best. This principle holds good among men. The father gives the most difficult task to the son who loves him most and not to the indifferent and untrusty one. The general intrusts the command that involves the greatest hardship and danger to the best and most patriotic of his soldiers. Is God less wise than man? When, therefore, called to perform a difficult duty or to obey, when obedience is hard let us look upon it as an honor and privilege that God has bestowed upon us. The obedience of Abraham should be an inspiration to all to obey when obedience is hard. No man ever had a harder call to obey. "Abraham, take thine only son Isaac * * * and offer him for a burnt offering." Look at the facts here which made obedience hard.

1. Isaac was Abraham's only son, "thine only son." To have given one out of ten or twelve would have been hard, but how much harder to give one out of one! But Abraham did it in will if not in deed. God actually did it. Hence when we are called upon to give the very dearest thing for Christ we should obey, though obedience be hard.

2. God's command must be kept secret. Abraham did not tell Isaac, and we are sure that he never told Sarai, the boy's mother. For three days Abraham walked beside Isaac with this awful secret in his heart. So God commands us to suffer secret sorrows and trials.

A sorrow shared
Is but half a sorrow.

But these sorrows cannot be told to others. But like Abraham we should obey.

3. Abraham himself had to perform the act commanded by God. He must offer up his son! His hand must strike the blow and place Isaac's body upon the wood as a burnt offering. But he was willing to obey. God actually performed such a duty in offering Christ for the world. So when commands come to us the performance of which require great personal hardship we, too, should obey.

4. Isaac was a child of promise. God had given him in accordance with his promise and had further promised that through Isaac all the nations of the earth should be blessed. If Isaac was now sacrificed this promise could not be fulfilled. If God broke this promise how could he trust him in any other? Obedience here would perhaps shake Abraham's faith in God, and yet in faith that somehow God would solve the difficulty Abraham went on to obey. Some commands may tend to shake our faith in God, but still we should obey, with the assured confidence that God will so direct the issue that our faith will be increased instead of diminished, as it was with Abraham.

BIBLE READINGS.

An Attractive Emblem.

New Hampshire has this very pleasing device on all its printed matter. The design was made by the secretary of the state union, Mr. Herbert E. Kendall. Endeavorers will quickly observe the profile on the great stone face and recall the beautiful story of Hawthorne's. There are inspiration and beauty in the emblem.

Ohio Aggressiveness.

The Ohio state union sends out the following about convention advertising:

"A somewhat wide experience brings us to the conclusion that the difference between a large and a small attendance is very often a matter of advertising. Fix your date and place early as you can, get at your programme and then—advertise! Don't take it for granted people know about it because you do. You are interested, of course. But they won't be, they can't be, till they know about it. Personal letters, frequent and full notices in the societies and from the pulpits, the local and county papers—all will help. Make up your mind your convention will be a success, if energetic and enthusiastic advertising will do it. We would not depreciate the other essential elements of a successful convention; but, whatever you do, don't fail to advertise!

"Early to bed
And early to rise,"
Push your pen
And advertise!

The Increase Campaign.

Do not stop working the increase campaign while there is a single church of a denomination favorable to Christian Endeavor that has not an Endeavor Society.—Amos R. Wells.

FASHIONABLE MATERIALS.

Brown Still the Craze—Much Tussore Silk Used.

Brown in lustrous silks and soft taffetas continues its reign of popularity. When brown by itself is not becoming it should not be relieved by touches of bright color such as blue or green, as, alas, is seen too often. A cream tulle bow worn at the neck will help matters considerably; so will a touch of soft coral red in the shape of a string of beads or some other ornament.

The new coarse woolen lace will be ultra effective this fall and winter on gowns of white and pale colored wool.

A great deal of tussore silk is being made up with simple shirred skirts and bodices. They are useful for morning wear, and, when enriched with heavy lace, these little gowns do duty as well for afternoon wear. Pongee gives excellent wear, for it cleans well and does not show the dirt readily like most of the lighter linens. It also combines well with almost any pale color, which permits it to be worn by blond and brunette alike. A heavier weave of pongee, known as "cloth of gold," is used for motoring and evening coats. It is a trifle yellower in tone than pongee and does not wrinkle so readily. Pongee is also combined readily with oriental embroidery, and for those who can stand this kind of trimming it is by far the most smart.

The picture shows a brown taffeta tailor made trimmed with pipings and fine braid. The skirt is shirred on the hips with a full double ruffle.

PARASOLS AND FOOTWEAR.

with little pinked out ruches of silk, and a deep silk fringe all around. The carved handle, which is in the form of a crook, is designed to be folded up, and the whole thing is meant to accompany an early Victorian toilet.

In Paris they are wearing light biscuit colored shoes, which are very dainty and smart, but only possible to her who has a pretty foot. For those not so blessed there is the chocolate brown or medium brown shade. The combination of patent leather with insertion of gray or white buckskin is another novelty this season. Blue, green, purple and red leather is made up into French heeled ties and garden ties, which are very dainty to wear with short skirted linen costumes and muslins.

The Louis XV. heel is more than ever in vogue and shows no sign of being crowded out to make room for sensible footwear.

For evening wear there are a number of gold slippers worn, striped with white.

The picture shows a suit of white voile trimmed with black and white silk. The skirt is especially full.

LITTLE FRANCE

A ROMANCE OF THE DAYS WHEN "THE GREAT LORD HAWKE" WAS KING OF THE SEA

BY

CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Author of "Commodore Paul Jones," "Reuben James," "For the Freedom of the Sea," etc.

Copyright, 1901, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

"Monsieur," answered the marquis, gravely, as if fearing a covert jest, "I keep, so far as I can, the state of my forefathers. This is my domain," he continued, as they rode through the ranks of the guards who had been paraded underneath the great gateway, and who were dressed in quaint outlandish costumes which reminded Grafton of the pictures in some old book, "this is my castle, these my retainers. Here my will is law. Within these walls I am supreme, saving only the feudal rights of my over-lord and master, His Most Christian Majesty, whom God preserve. While you are here, monsieur, the castle is yours. You are free to come and go where you will within the walls, and should you not attempt to pass the gate, you will find nothing to remind you that you are a prisoner. So securely guarded is my castle, Monsieur Grafton, that I do not even ask you for your parole. You hear, Jean-Renaud?" he added, turning to the sergeant of the guard, "Monsieur Grafton is an American gentleman who honors our poor house by accepting its hospitality. Mark you—and you, too, monsieur, pray give heed—he is free to go anywhere but over the walls or through the gate. See to it, Jean-Renaud, that in no case is he allowed to escape. You will forgive the necessity for these orders, Monsieur Grafton, but I am responsible for you. The chatelaine?" he added, turning again to Jean-Renaud, "where is she?"

"She has retired, Monsieur le Marquis," answered Jean-Renaud, "not knowing that you were to be here this evening. Shall I go——?"

"It is my wish that she be not disturbed, Jean-Renaud. Come, captain, let us enter. Supper and a bottle of wine after our long ride will doubtless be as acceptable to you as to me. Allow me to precede you, monsieur—only to show you the way in these old halls, of course."

After partaking of a generous repast in the ancient banqueting hall of the castle, Grafton, now attended by Jean-Renaud, was shown to a huge room, richly and comfortably furnished, the windows of which overlooked the garden. He was informed that this was to be his own chamber during his sojourn at the castle. Tired out by the trying experiences of the day, and invited thereto by a great old-fashioned, comfortable-looking bed, the young man immediately retired and soon sank to rest.

CHAPTER V.

THE CRADLE SONG.

"YOU say we have a visitor, Josette?"

"Yes, mademoiselle, so Jean-Renaud says."

"An English gentleman?"

"Jean-Renaud thinks so, because he certainly is not French."

"But what did he look like?"

"Handsome! Hein! His hair curls, 'tis very blond—and his eyes! Ciel! Blue, blue like the sea, mademoiselle, and his cheeks red——"

"Mon Dieu! Quel beau chevalier! You must be in love with him, Josette!"

"No, mademoiselle! Nay, 'tis not for the likes of me——"

"True, true," said the young chatelaine gravely. "He is a noble knight, doubtless. He had red cheeks, you say?"

"Yes, mademoiselle."

"Not like my pale ones, I suppose; but then the English always were gross and red in the cheek."

"But, mademoiselle——"

"That will do, Josette, you weary me with this stranger. Did you bring the new dolls?"

"Here they are, mademoiselle," said the faithful Josette, producing two elaborately dressed Parisian dolls from beneath her apron. "They came by special messenger from Paris last night after you had retired."

"Oh," exclaimed the young girl, rapturously, "how beautiful they are! I thought I had about done with dolls, but these are so lovely. What grand dames they are! Give them to me, Josette."

"How kind of Monsieur le Marquis, mademoiselle," answered the maid, who was also the foster sister and youthful confidante of the countess, as she handed her the two dolls.

"Oh, do you know," said the capricious little maiden, "these are beautiful dolls, but I don't believe I like them after all as much as old 'Toto.'"

"I brought her along, too," returned Josette, producing her from a pocket in her dress, "I thought you might want her, mademoiselle."

"Oh, give her to me!" exclaimed the young mother, extending her hand to take the old rag affair, "I am tired of walking and talking, Josette. You are so very uninteresting this morning. You can't speak of anything but that Englishman! Let's sit down here under this beech-tree and sing the dolls to sleep. You take the two from Paris. We'll play they're twins, and I will take poor old Toto. She shall not be neglected for the beautiful ladies from the city, shall she? Poor old Toto! I shall never have any more dolls, Josette. I certainly am too old for them. If it were a real baby now, or a knight," continued this small bundle of inconsistencies, "how I would love it! But that is not to be. Helas, Josette! Come, let us put them to sleep."

"But, mademoiselle, 'tis early morning——" responded the unimaginative peasant.

"Stupid, we can play 'tis night, can't we? Besides, it's always good for children to take a nap. Grandfather says, 'the more sleepy the eye in the daytime the brighter the eye at night.' You sit there and I will sit here. Now, sing."

The two children, with that delightful indifference to rank and station which constitutes one of the charms of childhood, sat down on a rustic bench under a handsome old beech-tree. Though both were about the same age, just entering their teens, Josette, who was the younger, would have made two of her young mistress. She had already reached her growth, apparently, for she was tall and large, and her splendid physical development was well set off by the picturesque dress of the Breton peasantry. Her mistress, on the contrary, was small, slender, fragile, undeveloped and physically as much behind her maid as mentally she was her superior. A greater contrast between them could not have been imagined.

"What shall we sing, mademoiselle?" asked Josette. "Shall it be The Fox Gallant?"

"No, we'll sing Toutouie, la, la!"

"Very well, will you begin?"

"No, you."

"Very well. Are you ready?"

"Yes."

"So, then."

Humming the air for a moment, the two voices broke into the plaintive melody of an old Breton cradle song, the refrain of which gave it a title. In default of a rocking-chair—not then indigenous to France—the two bodies swayed back and forth in time to the simple lullaby, or berceuse, the wooden sabots on one pair of large though shapely feet patting the ground in time with the dainty jewel-buckled Louis Quinze slippers upon the other. The words were primitive and childish as befits folk song at its best, and more especially at its beginning in the cradle song, and the music was equally so; yet the emphatic word was repeated at the end of each verse with a long-drawn cadence, and the Toutouie, la, la! rose above the branches with a caressing intonation which a mother might have used to a child.

The gentle air of the summer morning rustled the leaves of the old beech-tree in a not inharmonious accompaniment to the melody and swept the sound into the dull ear of a drowsy man. Philip Grafton had forgotten himself in the great bed of the large chamber above the beech-tree. He lazily opened the curtains of the bed as the sound came faintly into the room, and the flood of light which poured upon him completed his awakening. He lay listening a few moments and then rose and leisurely walked to the window.

It was a heavenly morning. The breeze, laden with the sweet fragrance of summer, blew softly across his face through the casement. An enchanting garden, which might have boasted the supervision of the famous Le Notre himself, lay spread before his eyes. Half concealed by the interlacing boughs of the tree he could detect two figures beneath the window, sitting on a bench under the shadow of the beech.

He watched them. They were singing. That wild, plaintive, yet primitive chant came from the two little girls there. The deeper contralto tones of the peasant girl afforded a sweet accompaniment for the girlish treble of the other. The birds twittered in the trees of the garden, and a gay robin on a branch near the window poured out his brave little soul in brilliant bursts of song. It was a chorus of nature harmonizing with the natural song of motherhood, which seemed not inappropriate, though issuing from the lips of children.

"Toutouie, la, la!" What was the queer little refrain? He leaned far out over the window-sill and listened to the singers. He was wont to be awakened by the creaking of the timbers of a heaving ship, and the experience of this morning was as novel as it was delightful. It was interrupted, however, by a knock upon the door.

CHAPTER VI.

EXIT DOLL—ENTER KNIGHT.

AT the sound of Grafton's voice directing him to enter, Sergt. Jean-Renaud, who was accompanied by a slender youth in the livery of the house, opened the door.

"Monsieur is awake?" asked the sergeant, stepping over the threshold and saluting respectfully.

"As you see, sergeant."

"Monsieur slept well?"

"Very well."

"Monsieur wakes early."

"Yes, that song there—" pointing to the window, "do you not hear it?"

"'Tis mademoiselle and Josette," answered Jean-Renaud; "she will be annoyed to think she has disturbed——"

"On no account tell her! Say nothing about it to any one, my good friend. 'Tis delightful! What sing they?"

"A cradle song, monsieur," answered the sergeant. "My old mother sang me to sleep with that song, and thousands of other mothers in Brittany have sung it as well. Toutouie, la, la!" He caught up the refrain, and in a deep though not unmusical voice hummed the air.

"'Tis a pretty song," said Grafton.

"Yes, monsieur, but if you are ready to dress, I have brought Anatole, who is at your service while you are a pris—while you honor our house," he added, with native politeness. "He will serve monsieur. And Monsieur le Marquis bids me say when you are ready he will be pleased to attend you at breakfast. Monsieur realizes that he is—is—while he is within the walls he——"

"I remember everything, my good friend," replied Grafton, "within the walls I am free; outside, a prisoner."

"Provided, of course, monsieur gets outside," answered Jean-Renaud, smiling. "Has monsieur any commands for me?"

"None," replied Philip as the old soldier withdrew. The deft Anatole, who seemed familiar with the habits of Englishmen, quickly arranged a bath, laid out a uniform from his new master's wardrobe—for his personal baggage had been sent him through the kindness of de Kersaint—and then withdrew. Hastily Philip dressed himself—and yet with unusual care, by the way—and descended to the hall. Finding the door open he entered the garden.

The song had ceased and the two maidens, the dolls lying neglected in their laps, were engaged in earnest conversation.

"And you think," he heard the smaller say, "that he would be my knight?"

"Mademoiselle, he is there!" exclaimed Josette, springing to her feet in much confusion, as she observed Grafton's approach.

The other girl turned her head slightly, saw him advancing, and as if to mark the difference between the mistress and the maid, rose slowly and calmly to her feet. In spite of her dignity her little heart was beating furiously. The dolls fell neglected to the ground. The end of their reign began that morning.

Grafton bowed profoundly before her, and as she returned his salutation with a sweeping courtesy, he looked curiously at her. So this was the Breton rose! She was a small, slender, pale little girl, between 13 and 14 years old, and rather delicate in appearance. Too old to be playing with dolls, certainly. Her head was crowned with a mass of hair black as a raven's wing, which fell down her back in a heavy braid tied with a scarlet ribbon. A pair of rather long arms terminating in long slender hands stretched from her immature sloping shoulders. Below the short skirt of her dress two long thin legs dropped into dainty slippers.

Phillip was something of a connoisseur and he scanned her carefully and swiftly. Her eyes, he thought, were good, and blue he could see in spite of the downcast lids—a strange combination of black hair, pale face, and blue eyes, unusual but striking. Her hands were small, he noticed, and her feet, even then, charming. As for the rest that would come in time. She was a maiden of much promise he decided.

"Mademoiselle," he said respectfully, "have I the pleasure of addressing the Chatelaine of Josselin, the young Countess de Rohan?"

"Yes, monsieur," answered the girl simply, lifting her eyes to his as she spoke.

He started in surprise before their deep violet splendor—the eyes of a woman in the face of a child. Good heavens! They were glorious—decidedly this was promising.

"You are the English milord?" she queried gravely.

"Neither the one nor the other, mademoiselle," he answered, smiling at her frank question. "I was born in America."

"Ah!" cried the girl brightening, "my mother came from there. 'Tis a great land."

"The greatest the sun shines upon, mademoiselle," gravely answered Grafton.

"Except France, monsieur."

"Except France, little lady, since you are here," he returned gaily.

"And monsieur is not a lord?"

"There are no lords in America."

"Not even a knight?"

"Not yet, unless I may be your knight, mademoiselle."

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,

14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

SULTAN WILL BACK DOWN.

Action of the Washington Cabinet Takes Effect on Abdul II.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 11.—Minister Leishman has received a message from the porte promising a favorable communication in a day or two regarding the American representation in reference to the school question and other matters.

There is no doubt that the action of the United States cabinet in discussing the advisability of breaking off diplomatic relations and the near approach of American warships to Smyrna has hurried the sultan in his resolution.

It is realized here that the Washington authorities are in earnest and that further delay will not be tolerated.

Murderer of Dr. Labori In Prison.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Richmond Pearson, American minister to Persia, who has been in this country on leave of absence for several weeks, has called on President Roosevelt and later conferred with officials of the state department regarding affairs pertaining to his post. Persian officials through his urgent representations sent out troops and captured Seyid Gkaffer, the murderer of Dr. Labori, an American missionary, near Ararat. The troops are now seeking to arrest some of the wild Kurdish tribesmen who assisted in the assassination. The principal already has been captured and is now confined in a dungeon at Tabriz, the ancient capital of Persia, awaiting trial.

Open Car Ran Away—Four Hurt.

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., Aug. 11.—A big summer car on the Mauch Chunk, Lehighton and Slatington street railway ran away in Bear Run valley when the brakes refused to work. The car struck a curve at the foot of the grade and turned completely over. Reuben Kresge, seventy-five years old, of Lehighton was probably fatally injured. Motorman Granville Rehrig and Conductor Dominick Wilkinson of Mauch Chunk and W. T. Hunter of New York, a tourist, were also perhaps fatally hurt. The car was prevented from rolling into Beaver run, seventy feet below, by a line of poles and trees.

Populist Ticket For New York State.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Men in charge of the arrangements for the notification of Thomas E. Watson and Thomas H. Tibbles as the candidates for president and vice president of the Populist party at Cooper Union on the 18th are endeavoring to make it an occasion for the inauguration of a movement to place in the field a Populist electoral ticket in this state. There has been some gossip also about nominating a radical or Populist state ticket, and the name of Robert Baker of Brooklyn, member of congress from the Sixth New York district, has been under consideration for governor.

Trolley Slid Down, Injuring Nine.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 11.—By the sliding of a trolley car down a heavy grade on the Union Traction company's lines nine persons were injured. The car was going over the top of the grade when the hood switch blew out, and it descended at a rapid rate, crashing into another car. All of the injured will recover. Harry Brahler was the most seriously injured. His left leg was broken, and he sustained other injuries.

Teamster Killed at Fair Grounds.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 11.—A severe windstorm struck the state fair grounds, where a large crowd had gathered for the harness races. James Llewellyn, a teamster, was killed by the overturning of the gateman's house at the entrance to the grounds.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

"Dick" Watt will umpire at Westfield on Saturday, notwithstanding his apparent short-comings as a handler of the indicator.

The good work of the Alis team is due in a large measure to Captain Smith. No better person could have been chosen to take charge of the players.

Manager Johnston, of the Alis team, was initiated into the local order of Elks at the meeting held last night. He now looks for a continuation of good luck on the diamond.

The friends of Walter Clarkson, the Yale man now pitching for the New York Americans, regret that he is not doing as well as they hoped. Clark Griffith still has faith in the young player.

Secretary Abrams, who resigned from the Westfield Baseball Association, is succeeded by H. H. Downes. Mr. Abrams retired from the club owing to a difference of opinion regarding Umpire Merity.

Garvin, the Brooklyn twirler, pays Christy Mathewson the compliment of being the greatest slab artist in the business. He thinks he is the strongest player in the box and uses the best judgment in the assortment of twisters.

Saturday, August 20, is an open date for the Alis baseball management and although Manager Johnston has not yet closed with any team, he hopes to have the Cuban Giants or some other aggregation, just as strong, at Crescent Oval.

Melvin D. Compton, of New York, who is at the Raleigh, won fame a few years ago by his remarkably clever invention which gave the public a chance of seeing "baseball by electricity." Through the device originated by him big audiences went to the theatres to see the national sport, and by means of an electric current every move in a game that was then in progress was flashed upon a canvas, with an effect so realistic that the fans in their seats shouted to the dummies representing live players words of encouragement or censure.—Washington Post.

GOLF.

The Morris County Golf Club has been unable to replace the clubhouse, destroyed by fire, in time to take an active part in this season's tournaments, and the open contest usually held there will be omitted this season.

HAPPENINGS OF THE LOCAL FRATERNAL ORDERS.

Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold its regular meeting tomorrow night.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., held its monthly meeting last evening and initiated two candidates, one of whom was George Johnston, manager of the Alis baseball team. No other meetings will be held this month but beginning with the second Wednesday in September the weekly sessions will be resumed.

GATHERING OF COLORED CLERGY.

Afro-American Baptist State Convention to be Held Here.

Representative colored clergy from Virginia, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, and neighboring cities will visit this city on September 8, on the occasion of the Afro-American Baptist State Convention to be held at the Mount Olive Baptist church. Rev. E. E. Jackson, the pastor of the church, is corresponding secretary of the organization, and Rev. George E. Morris, of Morristown, is president. Much business of interest to the colored church will come up before the convention, and important State work will be considered.

Elaborate plans for the reception of delegates are under way, and Mrs. S. M. Fields, Mrs. P. H. Brown, Mrs. Lulu Dempsey and Mrs. Rhoda Hancock have been chosen chairmen of the various committees of entertainment.

DEATH OF MRS. H. P. UPDIKE.

Grandmother of Dr. Guy H. Hillman Passes Away in New York State.

Mrs. H. P. Updike, grandmother of Dr. Guy H. Hillman, of West Front street, died yesterday morning at her home in Dansville, N. Y. Mrs. Updike was 84 years of age, and had not been strong for several years. At the time of her death, she was living with Dr. Hillman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Hillman, at Dansville, and her death will be a severe loss to her large circle of friends at that place, where she has been a life-long resident.

The funeral will be held from the Dansville home tomorrow, and the interment will be in the Green Mount cemetery of that place.

Campbell Press Works to Close.

According to an official notice posted by the company yesterday afternoon at the Campbell Press Works, the plant will only continue to run during this week and will shut down Saturday. This shut down is caused by the fact that the plant is to be transferred to Taunton, Mass. Sixty men will be thrown out of employment by the action, but the company has offered to employ any of these at the Taunton works September 1. The men employed at the works now are busied in the clearing up the shop in preparation for the change.

The Water Was Decidedly Fresh.

Seven local colored people, two of whom were women, braved the threatening skies and attended the colored people's salt water day celebration at Boynton Beach yesterday. A very meagre number took advantage of the excursion to visit the shore, and those who did were drenched by the heavy thunder shower which raged a good part of the afternoon, keeping all under shelter.

Death of Edward J. Jordan.

Edward J. Jordan, a colored veteran of the Civil War, who has been a resident of the city for about two years, died last night after an illness of about three weeks. The cause was a complication of troubles. Mr. Jordan was a prominent member of the colored Knights of Pythias, and of the colored Masons. He leaves a wife and two daughters, one in the South, and the other in New York.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS.

QUESTIONS OF THE DAY DISCUSSED BY THE PRESS.

The "Barrel."

Ex-Congressman Alvah A. Clark says the Democrats should not nominate a man for Governor simply because he has a barrel. Could the former Congressman have been thinking of the attempt to boom Mr. Clark?—Jersey City Journal.

"Mayor Bill's" Latest.

"Mayor Bill" Smith having disposed of his burros satisfactorily, has turned his attention to thoroughbred dogs, starting in on a beautiful Siberian bloodhound that made night hideous with his howls last night. The neighbors are gasping over this latest experiment and wondering what will come next.—Newark News.

Need An Issue.

The only excuse we can see for the Democrats putting up a candidate on the equal taxation plank is that they are "powerful hard up" for a plank of any kind on which they can hope to float into power. Do the Democrats think that they can make this thing their own particular virtue? What they really need is an issue.—Elizabeth Daily Journal.

Sale of Beer to Minors.

The police of Jersey City have been ordered to stop the sale of beer to minors. For a time the law will be, no doubt, strictly carried into effect, as it was a year ago last winter, and then will probably be permitted to become practically a dead letter. Its enforcement should be a continuous performance, not a spasmodic one.—Hoboken Observer.

Pestering.

The Democratic organs and leaders that have been pestering the people of New Jersey, now free from state tax, with their clamor for equal taxation which would impose heavier burdens on public utilities, will discover before the state political campaign is begun that the Republican party will take a large hand in the discussion on the issue they propose to make para mount.—Camden Courier.

Oh! So the Republican "organs and leaders" are going to do a little "pestering," too?—From the Paterson Guardian.

"How to Settle the Race Problem."

This is the title of a work by Jesse Lawson, a colored man and a citizen of Plainfield. In a hasty personal we find much to commend it to the public though differing on some points. Certainly the object of a work looking to the settlement of the "race question" is most laudible and commendable. The negro is with us and always will be and it is the duty of all that the two races should live in harmony. This can be accomplished more rapidly through education than by any other course, hence in this we warmly commend the work. Though we are frank to question the truth of the statement, on page 183—in Rev. Dean Babbit's address, wherein he says: "That the Democratic party both North and South is politically against the negro, he can only look for security to the Republican party, etc." We feel sure the above statement is not borne out by the facts. The promulgation of such thoughts will hardly conduce to race harmony in this country.

Admonish the Guardsmen.

Before the two regiments of the New Jersey National Guard leave the State for Virginia to participate in the military maneuvers at Manassas, Governor Murphy should see to it that the members of the regiments are duly impressed with the necessity of thorough, good behavior while absent from the State. They should know that the credit of the State is involved in their acts in Virginia. Frequently when troops go into camp or occupy a section of the country for any extended time, depredations are made on standing crops, and fowl, fruit and other personal property are stolen, while fences and trees are destroyed. This lawlessness provokes the anger of owners of this property, who are unable to get damages from the general government, but have good claims against the State which is represented by the lawless soldiery. If New Jersey troops at Manassas shall appropriate or destroy property, the bill for the same will be presented our State and public decency will demand its payment.—From the Newark Advertiser.

Governor Clark?

Since the St. Louis convention there has been a strong undercurrent among the leading Democrats of the State in favor of nominating ex-Congressman Clark, of this town, for Governor. This sentiment has recently found expression in some of the prominent newspapers, and it is by no means unlikely to consummate in his being named. As the New Jersey member of the Committee on Resolutions he did as much as any one man at the national convention to draft a platform which changed the prospects of Democratic success in the country from a condition of extreme doubt to one of reasonable certainty. Mr. Clark's ability, stamina and fighting abilities impressed themselves upon his colleagues in the delegation, and they are naturally turning to him as the long-sought Democratic Moses. And not without reason. Mr. Clark would reconcile the Hudson and Essex Democrats as perhaps no other man in the State could, and his magnetic personality and dignified bearing, coupled with his oratorical abilities, would prove vote-getters from Port Jervis to Cape May. With Alvah A. Clark as our standard-bearer there would be no doubts of Democratic success in Somerset and they would be reduced to a minimum in New Jersey.—Somerset Messenger.

More High Schools.

A second High School will soon have to be provided in Newark. This necessity was seen and acknowledged when the present new High School was erected. In respect to these schools, Newark is behind sister cities, as an enumeration will show. In New York city there are 19 high schools, in Chicago 15, in Philadelphia 5, in Boston 12, in Baltimore, Louisville, Cleveland and Washington, D. C., 5 each, and in thirty-two cities of not more population than Newark there are from two to four high schools. Newark takes rank with Utica, N. Y.; Peoria, Ill.; Evansville, Ind.; Bridgeport, Conn.; Seattle, Wash.; Hartford, Conn.; Portland, Ore., and other cities of minor importance, while much smaller cities like Wilmington, Del.; Reading, Pa.; Scranton, Pa.; St. Joseph, Mo.; New Haven, Conn.; Toledo, O., have each two high schools. Convenience of access for pupils is an important consideration. The new High School building at Branch Brook Park is charmingly situated, but it is too remote from a large number of school children. Trolley fares are a considerable tax on parents of children, while there is the inconvenience of long daily trips in all kinds of weather. Newark is large enough to give employment to three high schools, and it will require that number to meet the needs of the various sections of the city.—Newark Advertiser.

The Summit Record says: "The Republicans of Union County have started again the fight for a division of the spoils that can always be expected in that party where any office with a fair salary is in sight. This year's squabble is leading to some amusing disclosures not the least interesting of which is the statement which comes direct from the machine leaders in the county that the principal object considered in the passage of a law creating the office of Register for Union County was the fact that it would enable the party to make a more equitable division of offices politically. In other words the machine was in sore straits to provide comfortable berths for all of the faithful who were clamoring for their share of the spoils and to meet the emergency the leaders simply compelled the Legislature to pass a measure creating a new office with a handsome salary attached. No plea is made that the new office was necessary or that its incumbent will be obliged to do much more than draw the fat salary every month. It is a beautiful object lesson in the motives that actuate the Republican machine in its consideration of county or State questions. But if this faction fight accomplishes nothing more than to insure the re-election of the Democratic assembly ticket this fall it will not be wholly without value to the citizens of the county. For the first time in many years Union County was represented this year by a delegation of assemblymen who ranked with the very highest in that body for honesty, ability and fidelity. Messrs. Hague, Gunn and Moffett were a distinct credit to the county, represented as it had been for years by a series of figureheads. All of these men are certain of renomination and they deserve to be equally certain of re-election. This section of the county was particularly interested in the career of Joseph H. Gunn and he was invariably found voting on the right side of all questions of public importance. A second term member is always able to accomplish more for his constituents and with the experience of his first year added to that general ability which he possesses Mr. Gunn should prove one of the leading men in the Assembly if returned this fall."

Iron Replaces Wood.

Large iron girders are being put in the roof of the old Saengerbund Hall, which was destroyed by fire last winter. Formerly there were only wooden supports for the roof, which were of insufficient strength and which allowed the roof to fall in when the building burned. The work is being done by William Hand & Son, of this city.

Anniversary Surprise.

A number of friends of Nelson VanWinkle, of Duer street, gathered at his home, Tuesday evening, in honor of his birthday. The affair was gotten up as a surprise to Mr. VanWinkle, and it proved a pleasant one. The evening was spent in playing games and with music, and a good time was enjoyed until a late hour.

IT GOT A LOAD.

Patrol Wagon Goes Out for One and Comes Back With Four Prisoners.

At the request of Superintendent TenEyck, the police went to the Industrial Home this morning to arrest Bridget Cunningham, one of the inmates, who starts a mutiny in the place every little while. She was put in the patrol wagon and on the way to headquarters, the vehicle was hailed by Roundsman Flynn, who had in custody three boys, arrested by him as they were pilfering the apple crop of a West Front street orchard. They were John Brown, John Boyle and William Boyle and were also taken along.

The four will be arraigned before City Judge Runyon this afternoon.

DEATH OF MISS COTTER

Well-Known Young Woman Passes Away at Mother's Home Early This Morning.

Following an illness of six weeks, Miss Nellie Cotter, the youngest daughter of Mrs. Susan Cotter, of West Fifth street, died at her mother's home early this morning. She was eighteen years old and up to the time her health failed had been in charge of one of the departments at Woodhull & Martin's store. Surviving her are one sister, Miss Mary Cotter, and a brother, James Cotter.

Funeral services will be held from St. Mary's church Saturday morning at 9:30 and they will be attended by the Children of Mary Society, of which she was a member. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

POWER OF A KIND VOICE.

Constant Watchfulness Is the Price of It, But There Is Nothing More Desirable.

There is no power of love so hard to get and keep as a kind voice. A kind hand is deaf and dumb. It may be rough in flesh and blood, yet do the work of a soft heart, and do it with a soft touch. But there is no one thing, says the Detroit Free Press, that love so much needs as a sweet voice to tell what it means and feels; and it is hard to get and keep it in the right tone. One must start in youth and be on the watch night and day, at work and play, to get and keep a voice that shall speak at all times the thoughts of a kind heart. You often hear boys and girls say words at play with a quick, sharp tone, as if it were the snap of a whip. When one of them gets vexed you will hear a voice that sounds as if it were made up of a snarl or whine. It is often in mirth that one gets a voice that is sharp, and sticks to him through life, and stirs up ill-will and grief, and falls like a drop of gall on the sweet joys of home. Use your guest voice at home. Watch it day by day as a pearl of great price, for it will be worth more to you in days to come than the best pearl hid in the sea. A kind voice is a lark's song to a hearth and home. It is a light that sings as well as shines.

Women Dump Farmer's Rig.

Two women driving along West Front street, this afternoon, crowded their rig against the curb and into a farmer's buggy standing in front of Hill & Shupp's store. The latter was caught by a rear wheel and turned completly over while a load of groceries in it was scattered in every direction. Men rushed from every side to right the buggy and quiet the horse which was trying to disentangle itself from shafts and harness. In the meantime the women and the rig which caused the trouble continued on as though nothing had happened.

Executor Explains.

At the instances of Simon P. Whitaker, of Orange County, N. Y., one of the executors of the Corbright estate, Frank M. Bacon, the other executor, appeared before Judge Vail at Elizabeth, yesterday, to explain why he had not deposited $1,600 to the credit of the estate, the money having been secured by him from the sale of some of its land. Mr. Bacon, through his counsel, W. S. Anglemar, stated that he had placed it to his own credit and he was ordered to return it within ten days. Whitaker was represented by W. R. Codington, Esq.

The Hope Chapel Excursion.

Arrangements have been completed for the annual excursion of the Hope chapel Sunday-school. It will take place Saturday, August 20, with Asbury Park and Ocean Grove as the destination. The train will leave the Grant Avenue station at 7:55, the North Avenue station at 8 o'clock and returning will not leave the shore until 7:55, thus giving a full day's pleasure.

Heavy Peach Shipments Promised.

The New Jersey Central will commence running its Annandale peach train on Monday, August 15. Heavy shipments are expected and one authority asserts that during the season 20,000 baskets will be sent out from that point. The fruit is of an excellent quality.

Captain Wm. Townley, of fire headquarters, who with his family are enjoying a vacation at Coney Island, was in Plainfield last evening to attend the meeting of the local lodge of Elks.

Miss Davis' Body Recovered.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, of East Seventh street, received a telegram this morning, stating that the body of her niece, Miss Mineola Davis, one of the 109 victims in the Colorado railway disaster, had been taken from Dry Creek yesterday. The funeral will be held from her late home this afternoon and interment will be made at Salina, Kan. Miss Davis' last visit to Plainfield was made three years ago and it was her intention to come East again within a short time.

Plainfielder Reaches Panama.

Word has been received from Stanley Mosher, of this city, who left a short time ago with a party of about sixteen for Panama, to work on the construction of the Canal. The letter states that he is now at Colone, Panama, where the party joined another civil-engineering corps. The entire company of young engineers under the direction of the Panama Commission, are now at work on the construction of a breakwater near Colone.

Mr. J. A. Garfield Pike, of East Front street, is spending a two weeks' vacation at Riverhead, L. I.

New Borough Police Court and Jail.

Work has commenced on the new cells in the old borough engine house which is shortly to be converted into a police court. The iron work is being made at the Manganese Steel Safe Works, and the wooden framework will soon be ready to be put in place. The only work being done in the building at present is the masonry and carpentry, which is in the hands of Contractor Smalley.

Let Off With a Fine.

William Galloway, who has been spending the last few days in the borough jail wearing off the effects of a succession of drunks, was brought before Recorder Doud last night, and fined $10, and sentenced to ten days in jail. He became so repentant that the sentence was recalled and on payment of the fine, he was dismissed.

Miss Lillian McInnery, of West Fifth street, who has been confined to her home by illness, has recovered.

F. L. C. Martin, together with a party of friends, left yesterday in Mr. Martin's big tonneau automobile for Asbury Park.

SUCCESSFUL LAUNCHING OF THE ELIZABETH

Miss Helen Besler Christens the New Jersey Central's Ferryboat.

PROMINENT GUESTS

SEVERAL PLAINFIELDERS AMONG THOSE WHO WITNESSED THE EVENT.

The New Boat a Sister to the Wilkesbarre—Details About Her Construction.

Under favorable circumstances the new ferryboat "Elizabeth," of the New Jersey Central, was launched at Wilmington, Del., yesterday at noon. The launching was successful in every respect and the delightful weather added to the pleasure of the large number of guests present, including Vice President W. G. Besler, Mrs. Besler and Miss Helen Besler, Freight Traffic Manager T. B. Koons, and Mrs. Koons, General Passenger Agent C. M. Burt, Superintendent of Motive Power William McIntosh and Mrs. McIntosh, of this city. They made the trip to Wilmington, with the party of officials and invited guests, on a special train.

Miss Besler dashed over the bow of the boat as it left the ways, a shower of champagne and formally gave the boat its name. Floating proudly in the breeze as the hull passed into the water, it was taken in tow by some tugs and moored alongside of the new Central Railroad ferryboat "Wilkesbarre," which will be ready for delivery in a few days.

The christener of the boat was dressed in pink and wore in her hair pink ribbons. The bottle of champagne was enveloped in red, white and blue ribbons.

Mr. Besler looked after the personal comfort of the guests of the company, seeing that they secured seats where they could witness the ceremony to advantage. A dinner followed the launching, seats being provided for about 200 guests. The place was suitably decorated and at the table where sat Mrs. Besler, wife of the vice president, was a beautiful bouquet of American Beauty roses.

The "Elizabeth" is the sixth of the fast modern double-decked ferryboats recently built by the Central Railroad of New Jersey, and with her sister ship, the "Wilkesbarre," will ply between Communipaw and the Central Railroad of New Jersey's new station at foot of West Twenty-third street, New York.

The boat is 297 feet in length, 65 feet beam, and has a load draft of 10½ feet. The hull is constructed of the best quality of ship steel, and has five bulkheads, four of which are watertight. She is propelled by a four-cylinder triple expansion engine, having a high pressure cylinder 19 inches in diameter; and intermediate cylinder 30 inches in diameter, with a stroke of 30 inches. The high and intermediate cylinders are fitted with piston valves, and the low pressure cylinders have double posted slide valves, while the engine drives a continuous shaft, having an eight-foot, ten-inch, propeller at either end. Steam is supplied by three cylindrical boilers of the gunboat type, each being eight feet, nine inches in diameter by twenty feet long, and constructed to pass inspection for a steam pressure of 170 pounds.

There are two cabins on the main deck, and from these wide stairways lead to a large saloon on the upper deck, outside of which is a spacious deck extending continuously around the boat, affording an excellent promenade and view of the river and shipping. The cabins are finished in quartered oak, floored with tiled linoleum and have an extra allotment of windows, yielding good light and ventilation, which, in connection with the elaborate system of steam heating assures comfort in all weather.

The main fire fighting equipment consists of a large fire pump in the engine room connected to eight lines of hose located at convenient points in the cabins, and this augmented by the usual auxiliary outfit of fire buckets, axes, and portable extinguishers. There are four lifeboats, four life ring buoys, and an ample supply of cork jacket life preservers. The boat is expected to be ready for delivery to her owners, the Central Railroad of New Jersey, in about six weeks.

Mrs. Amy Laire and son, Victor, of Hunterdon county, have returned home after a pleasant visit with local friends and relatives.

CENTRAL TRAFFIC SUSPENDED

A BAD MIXUP OF COAL AND FREIGHT AT ANNANDALE.

All traffic on the New Jersey Central between Somerville and Easton was suspended for four hours, Wednesday night, because of a bad freight and coal wreck which occurred at Annandale shortly after 6 o'clock. Both tracks were completely blocked and it took three wrecking crews until 10 o'clock before one of them was cleared.

A mixed train of freight and coal cars, westbound, parted as it was emerging from the "Sand Hill" cut. The engineer was signalled of the fact and as the rear end was not in sight he brought the forward part to a stop and started to back up. Before he realized its nearness the detached part came over the summit of the grade and dashed into the forward part with terrific force. Cars were piled up in all directions while six of the largest ones were thrown down the embankment.

Wreckers were sent to the scene from Elizabethport, Phillipsburg and Mauch Chunk, trains in the meantime being sent over the Lehigh Valley tracks between Phillipsburg and Bound Brook. The Harrisburg flyer was one of the expresses delayed.

PLAINFIELD VS. WESTFIELD

ALIS HOPES TO WIN ANOTHER GAME IN THE SERIES.

After winning two straight games against Westfield, Manager Johnston, of Alis, is especially anxious to repeat the dose tomorrow at Recreation Park. Two weeks ago the Alis team defeated its rivals at the Park by the score of 3 to 0, and last week they rubbed it in to the tune of 6 to 0. In tomorrow's game, the local team will be without the assistance of "Al" Farmer, the regular catcher, as he will be unable to play on account of an injury to his knee. With the exception of the battery the line-up will be the same as last week. Manager Denman has not announced his entire line-up which will face Alis, but he has decided that there will be a few changes in the field. "Red" Waller will be in the box.

Mr. Johnston will not be prepared to announce his battery until tomorrow, though he feels assured that he will have a good one.

The New Market team will make its first appearance this year on the Clinton avenue grounds tomorrow afternoon. Each team has won a game and this one will be warmly contested. The battery will be Squires and Nelson. Clinton Avenue will present its same line-up as last week. The game will be called at 3:45.

The green committees of the local golf courses have been up against a tough proposition this week to keep the links in playing condition, but unless there is another deluge before tomorrow, the courses will be in fairly good condition, and the regular weekly events will take place.

At the Hillside Club, there will be play for the Golf Committee cup, and a clock golf contest. The Park Golf Club attractions will be play for the President's and Park Golf Club cups.

The leading feature at the Westfield Golf Club will be the Governor's competition.

ELECTED DELEGATES.

Southern League Club Selects Members to Go to Asbury Park Convention.

A meeting of the Southern League Club, the local colored political organization recognized by the county committee, was held at the home of Charles Shelton on West Third street, last evening. Dr. J. C. Anderson was elected temporary chairman and the following delegates were elected to the convention of the State Republican League at Asbury Park, September 2: Dr. J. C. Anderson, Charles Shelton, Scipio Wellington, E. B. Maynard and A. S. Venable.

Twenty members were present and a general discussion of local and county political matters took place. The next meeting will be held on Thursday, August 18.

J. K. Arnold's Horse Kicks Up.

The horse hitched to Councilman James K. Arnold's grocery wagon became frightened yesterday afternoon, while standing in front of the barn on Mr. Arnold's property. Before the animal could be brought under control, the shafts were broken, and the harness damaged.

"LAW-MAKERS AND LAW-BREAKERS" MEET

Mr. and Mrs. William Newcorn Entertain "The Get-Together-Club" at Their Home.

INTERESTING SPEECHES

PRESENTATION OF A SILVER BOWL AND LADLE TO THE HOSTESS.

Many Guests Prominent in City and County Affairs Present at the "House Warming"—Mrs. Newcorn Joins the Club.

"The Get-Together Club," a local social political organization which its members say, is composed of "the law-makers and law-breakers of Plainfield," "got together" last evening at the new home of William Newcorn, Esq., on West Front street. The occasion was an informal reception tendered by Mr. and Mrs. William Newcorn to their friends in the organization.

About forty members of the club assembled, among whom were Mayor Olin F. Jenkins, President Ralph I. Tolles, of the Common Council, and Councilmen "Col." Frank Randolph, J. S. Higham, William L Gloak, Robert L. Lee, Former President James F. Buckle, of the Common Council, City Collector Frank H. Smith, Andrew MacCardell, Francis J. Blatz, Esq., Chief of Police Patrick Kiely, City Judge William N. Runyon, Postmaster Elias H. Bird, School Trustee Floyd T. Woodhull, George T. Greenleaf, Harry Dumont, Henry T. Dunbar, George Tobin, Harry McDonald, Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, James Morrison, Samuel Priolilla Tabita Wilbur, John Traynor, John Bowman, Overseer of the Poor Alexander Ayres, Thomas Hanna, County Freeholder William A. Westphal, Harry Dreier, David Dreier, James Stewart and Charles Dunham. Out of town guests were James Calvert, candidate for county clerk, Former Assemblyman Edward S. Coyne and Assistant Postmaster James White, of Elizabeth. Hon. Hmilton Kean, chairman of the county committee, expected to be present, but word was received that he would be unable to attend because of important business.

The guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Newcorn and the evening was passed informally. Soon after assembling, the "Club" held a special meeting at which Mrs. Newcorn was elected a member of the organization. In the name of the club, City Judge Runyon presented to Mr. and Mrs Newcorn, a handsome twenty-inch silver punch bowl, gold lined, and a heavy silver punch ladle. Mr. Newcorn responded to Judge Runyon's address, tendering the thanks of himself and his wife.

The subsequent time was taken up largely with a musical programme. Edward Goldberg, of Philadelphia, rendered several selections on the piano, and David Dreier's accompanying violin obligato was well performed. Later Mr. Dreier gave solo selections, and some trick playing. City Judge Runyon, James Traynor and James Stewart also rendered popular vocal selections.

An elaborate buffet lunch was served in the course of the evening in the dining room, which was handsomely decorated with palms, ferns and roses, as were the parlor and hall.

A HUMAN BAROMETER.

Mrs. J. S. Higham Can Predict Any Kind of a Storm.

Following a shock received from lightning about two months ago, Mrs. J. S. Higham, of West Sixth street, has become a human barometer. Twelve hours before a thunder storm her nervous system takes on a high tension, and she has a trembling condition of the muscles until the storm comes. With an ordinary rain she is almost equally sensitive, and can predict it like a barometer. The members of her family put complete faith in her prophesies and find them correct.

Exempts Furnishing Their Rooms.

The North Plainfield Exempt Firemen's Association are having their rooms repapered and painted. The lower floor will be used as a pool and game room while the upper rooms will be private. The pool table has already been secured and other furnishings will soon be put in place.

NEW YORK LABOR TROUBLES CAUSED THE SHUT DOWN.

The Company Has Plenty of Orders Now on Hand—No Change at Aluminum Press Works.

Although the strike among the New York city iron workers is still going on, Superintendent Coyle, of Levering & Garrigues' Company iron works, announced today that the shop will reopen next week.

"I cannot state the exact day at present," he said, in speaking to a Daily Press reporter about the matter this morning, "but whether the New York strike continues or not, we will positively resume work with a full force next week. Though arrangements which are being completed may allow this work to begin Monday, I do not think that we will resume as early as that. At all events, the shop will positively be reopened, as the company won't shut the local machinists out of employment because of the metropolitan troubles."

The cessation in the demand for structural iron work, which the firm manufactures, was the cause for the works closing down about a week ago.

Inquiry at the Aluminum Press Works today revealed the fact that matters are practically the same, the force having been greatly depleted by the lay-off last week. Only a few men are in the shop but the officials declare that the lull will last but a short time and that there is a prospect of the greater part of the employes being recalled. Many of them who started removing their belongings were informed that it would be advisable to leave them as it would not be worth while because of the brief period before matters were again in full operation.

GILBERT LOVELL A BENEDICT

HE IS MARRIED TO MISS FLORENCE E. BELL, OF MERBER, PA.

Rev. Gilbert Lovell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leander N. Lovell, of Crescent avenue, and for the past year assistant pastor at the City Park Branch Presbyterian Mission in South Brooklyn, near the Navy Yard, was married to Miss Florence Ellen Bell at Mercer, Pa., Wednesday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. McConkey, of the Presbyterian church at Grove City, Pa. Miss Bell was married at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Smith. She is the daughter of William S. Bell, a prominent California business man.

Mr. Lovell is a graduate of Yale College, and prepared for the ministry at the Hartford Theological Seminary, several years ago. He and his wife will go to Fall River, Mass., for their honeymoon, and will leave this country from San Francisco on October 1 to go to China, where Mr. Lovell will be a missionary under the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions in Hunyan Province.

STOLE HIS APPLES.

A. J. Brunson Determined to Prosecute Boys Who Invade His Orchard.

William and John Boyle and John Brown, the three West End boys arrested by the police yesterday, for stealing apples from A. J. Brunson's place on West Front street, were arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning. Mr. Brunson wishes to press a charge of trespass against them, but as he was unable to be present the matter was laid over until tomorrow, the boys being released on their own recognizance. Mr. Brunson claims that they have ruined trees and that they make it a practice of taking apples and selling them.

Mrs. Boyle, the mother of two of the boys, was in court and expressed her opinion of the police in such forceful terms that Judge Runyon had to order her restrained.

Francis W. Frost, of Watchung avenue, sails tomorrow for London, where he will spend a month with his brother, G. Harwood Frost, formerly of this city.

DOES KANE OWN THE BUILDING HE BOUGHT?

Galvin's Hotel a Bone of Contention Between Purchaser and Tenant.

HE WON'T GET OUT

CLARK SAYS RIGHTFUL OWNER IS NOT KNOWN.

Just the Same He Will Have to Explain in Court Why He Should Not be Ejected.

Purchasing the large building known as Galvin's hotel and situated near the park of the same name, Alex. Kane, of Fillmore avenue, has had to invoke the law's aid in order to prove that it is his place and that Louis Clark, the present occupant, must vacate. It was his intention to tear the structure down, but as Clark has his family inside it and possession is nine points in his favor, Kane has had to ask Justice Hand to issue a summons to the former to come into town and explain matters.

Since its erection, the building has changed hands many times and not a great while ago it was disposed of at sheriff's sale to D. C. Ivins. He disposed of the place to Kane, who is a dealer in second hand materials, and the latter started to look over the ground and plan out something for its future. Clark opposed him at every move, saying that Kane wasn't the owner and as far as matters went nobody who ever had anything to do with the place knew who did.

Naturally Kane felt a trifle disturbed and he finally determined to assert his rights as the last purchaser and tear it down and Clark was given orders to this effect. He declined to get out however and still holds the fort. Kane yesterday had summons issued for Clark's appearance in court and show cause why he should not be dispossessed. The tenant evidently intends to fight proceedings for he has engaged Lawyer Hart, of Westfield, to look up the deeds of the place and prove that Kane is not the owner and has no authority to give him orders. In a statement to The Daily Press today Kane says he has the necessary deeds to prove his claims and that he intends to assert his rights.

WATERMELON CONTEST.

Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A M., Provide a Pleasant Evening for the Members and Friends.

A social time followed the business meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., held last night when an informal programme was presented consisting of these numbers: Violin solo, B. A. Paroubek; vocal solo, Elmer D. Cutting; mandolin and zither duet, Messrs. Johnson and Jensen; recitation, Frank Platts. Andrew Carpenter was the accompanist, and David Bodine acted as master of ceremonies.

After the entertainment there was a novel watermelon contest. The two contestants had their hands tied behind their backs and they were supposed to eat the melon without touching it with their hands. The one who succeeded in devouring his portion first was declared the winner. The contestants were John Bicknell and Ephraim Compton, and the latter won the prize, a handsome pair of gold cuff buttons.

After the contest the members were allowed their just share of watermelon without the exertion of as much effort. The committee in charge was composed of William Hartpence, C. J. Newman, Frank Platts, R. C. Marsh and George M. Townley.

EUGENE FAY DEAD.

Hemorrhages of the Brain Results Fatally to Well-Known Newarker.

Eugene Fay, forty-three years old, brother-in-law of R. P. Currier, the real estate broker, of this city, and well-known here, died Wednesday afternoon at his home on South Seventh street, Newark. Death was caused by hemorrhages of the brain. Mr. Fay leaves a son, Frank Fay, an actor in Newark, by his first marriage, and his second wife, nee Miss Grace Bullivant, of Newark, whom he married about twelve years ago.

Funeral services will be held from the home tomorrow afternoon, and interment will be at Newark.

Miss Hattie DeCamp, of Newark, has returned home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Totten, of West Third street.

MAY BUILD IRON BRIDGE

FREEHOLDERS THINK HUNTER AVENUE STRUCTURE BEYOND REPAIR.

Instead of having the old wooden bridge over Green brook at Hunter avenue placed in repair, there is every possibility that the Union and Somerset county Boards of Freeholders will have it replaced by a modern, iron structure. The determination was practically arrived at yesterday afternoon when committees from the two sides met at the bridge and inspected it thoroughly. They found that it would barely stand patching and that the cheapest plan in the end would be to tear it down. A further meeting will be held Tuesday afternoon when they will reach a definite conclusion.

In the event of the old bridge being torn down it will leave only one of the chain of white, wooden bridges which extended from Scotch Plains to Dunellen along Green brook. It is located on Leland avenue, but at the present time is still in good condition despite the many years it has been in service.

The Union county committee which have the matter in charge consists of Freeholders Adams, of Cranford; Scudder, of Westfield; Pierson, of Elizabeth; Meisel, of Springfield, and Robison, of Fanwood township.

SENTENCED TO JAIL; SMILES

MRS. CUNNINGHAM SAYS SHE PREFERS IT TO INDUSTRIAL HOME.

Vowing that a six by four cell and prison fare were far preferable to her than living at the City Industrial Home, Bridget Cunningham smilingly received a sentence of sixty days at Elizabeth from Judge Runyon, this morning.

Mrs. Cunningham is one of the old residenters at the Home, likewise she is one of the most choleric and she is never happier than when pitting her wits and strength against Superintendent TenEyck and Overseer Ayers. Yesterday morning she was displeased with the breakfast menu and after refusing her portion, called upon the other inmates to assert their rights. The greater part of them rallied about her and a good-sized mutiny was in progress when Superintendent TenEyck sent a hurry call for the police patrol.

Overseer Ayers, who was at the headquarters, went along in his capacity as special officer and at sight of him Mrs. Cunningham became furious and made a determined attempt to attack him. She continued to berate him in court and when sentence was pronounced, she expressed the wish that it was for life instead of two months. The officials have always had a great deal of trouble with her and because of her leadership it is probable that she will be sent somewhere else instead of returned to the home at the expiration of her term.

WORRIED TO DEATH.

Fear of Blood Poisoning Drove Hiram Wilson Insane.

Hiram Wilson, thirty years old, of New Brunswick, and well-known here, died last night from worry which drove him insane through fear that a wound on one of his arms inflicted a year ago by a rusty wire would cause blood poisoning.

Wilson lived with a cousin. He had a morbid fear of blood poisoning. The wound never healed, and when it became inflamed on Tuesday night he became insane. He was taken to the hospital, and died soon afterward. The doctors declare he worried himself to death.

For the Benefit of Watchung School.

The watermelon social held at Texier Mills last night was a success in every way. The proceeds will be devoted to the Watchung school. A short musical programme was rendered in a pleasing manner, after which watermelon was served, and a social time was enjoyed. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of George Smith, Edward Kannen and Theodore Laurson. About twenty-five dollars was realized.

The Misses Peck Retire.

The Misses Peck, of Crescent avenue, who have for several years conducted a boarding house at their home, have sold the property through the Mulford Real Estate Agency to Mrs. E. V. Waldorf, who is proprietor of the United States Hotel, at Ocean Grove. Mrs. Waldorf formerly lived here.

Mrs. A. V. Lunger and daughter, Miss Ella Lunger, of Watchung avenue, are visiting friends at Hackettstown.

WORKINGMAN CRUSHED BENEATH TONS OF STEEL

Oliver Holmes Meets With Fatal Accident in New York City.

DIED IN HOSPITAL

LINGERED IN AGONY FOR TWO HOURS AND PASSED AWAY AT MIDNIGHT.

Was Beneath Seven Ton Slab When Tackling Broke, Letting it Fall—Plainfield Foreman Arrested.

With the lower part of his body from the hips down crushed to a pulp, Oliver Holmes, of Lee place, was taken to the Hudson Street Hospital, New York, last night, the victim of an accident in the Postal Telegraph building at Broadway and Murray street, where the Manganese Steel Safe Company is installing a mammoth storage vault. A huge slab of steel weighing seven tons fell upon him and pinned him down before the eyes of a score of fellow-workmen. He died shortly before midnight after lingering in agony nearly two hours.

Holmes was one of a gang of men sent out from the local plant to erect the vault in the offices of the Federal Trust Company, which it is now fitting up in expectation of beginning business on September 15. The vault is the largest ever built in this city and had to be shipped in sections which are afterward assembled. Last night the machinists and laborers were hoisting into an upright position the rear wall slab and had it suspended at an angle of forty-five degrees when Holmes went beneath it to adjust some blocks. Only his head and shoulders protruded when the lifting tackle broke without warning and the entire weight fell upon him.

It was several minutes before he could be extricated, but through it all Holmes did not lose consciousness and when he was lifted into an ambulance he bade his acquaintances good-bye. The physicians at the hospital saw it was impossible to do anything for him beyond applying anaesthetics and even these had but little effect for some time.

Milton Peterson, of Astor place, this city, the foreman in charge of the construction gang, was placed under arrest. He was afterward bailed out by an official of the company.

Holmes was thirty-five years old, unmarried and the son of Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Holmes, of West Second street. He was formerly a hay carter in the employ of John Carl and W. H. Baldwin and had resided in the city for many years. At one time he was well known as a local Salvation Army worker. Surviving him are two brothers and a sister. The body will be brought to Plainfield today.

F. A. GLAENTZER DEAD.

Prominent Mason and Fireman Passes Away After a Long Illness.

Ferdinand A. Glaentzer died at his home on West Fourth street yesterday afternoon, after a lingering illness of almost two years. The cause of death was a complication of troubles. He was in his sixty-ninth year and was employed as a silversmith for about fifteen years. Mr. Glaentzer lived in New York previous to his coming here, and during the time that he had been in Plainfield, he became widely acquainted.

He was a member both of the New York Exempt Firemen's Association, and of the local organization. He was also a Mason and a member of a number of New York lodges. He leaves one son, Charles Glaentzer, of New street, and daughter, Mrs. E. F. Hill, with whom he lived.

The funeral will be held from his late residence, 634 West Fourth street, on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment will be at Hillside cemetery.

Entertained Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Giles, of East Sixth street, entertained a large party of friends at their home, Wednesday evening. Dancing, games and refreshments were among the features that made the affair an enjoyable occasion. Guests were in attendance from Newark, Elizabeth and High Bridge as well as from this city.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Hurlick, of East Sixth street, are spending two weeks with relatives in Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Mrs. Horace Huff and son, Herbert, of Coddington avenue, are visiting Mrs. Huff's mother at Centerville, Hunterdon county.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

READY REFERENCES FOR THE LOCAL BARGAIN SEEKERS.

A cooling lotion for prespiring feet is Thorp's foot relief. Try some of it if you have to do much walking these hot days.

The best bread and cake can be bought of John Wirth, the West Front street baker. Call up 702, and order any thing in the line of pastry. All orders receive prompt attention.

Satisfaction is bound to be the result if you have I. N. Wyckoff do your painting. Quality of the paint and care of the workmen tend to make his work sought after. Telephone 292 L.

The Hotel Kensington is very convenient for departing or arriving travelers, being but three minutes walk from the railroad station. Meals are served at any time during the day or night.

Fred Ivamy is always on time with delivery of goods. He has fresh salt water fish every morning. Look in the advertising columns for his prices. They are the most reasonable for the value of the goods.

Local trucking and suburban furniture moving promptly attended to by William Hand & Son, the truckmen. Heavy trucking a specialty. Hand will keep your furniture or piano safe at his storage warehouse for any length of time.

Don't risk leaving your valuables at home while you are away for the summer. Get a safe deposite box in the First National Bank, and be sure of your property. If your investments do not satisfy you, put your money in this institution. Interest paid on all deposits.

Known as one of the oldest and most experienced firms in the city, Woolston & Buckle are always careful to complete satisfactorily any contract they undertake in the way of painting, paper hanging or decorating. Property owners contemplating improvements should ask them for estimates.

The unusual dampness and humidity of these past few days has brought the flies indoors, hasn't it? You can keep 'em out only by being careful about the doors. A screen with a hole in it is as bad as no screen at all. Griffen is advertising a special sale of screens at reduced prices. The store is on East Front street.

The latest fad among smokers is to have their monograms on their cigarettes. This is done at J. Philip Kirch's new tobacco store on North avenue, at only a slight additional expense. Incidentally it might be said that Kirch is offering all high grade tobaccos and Turkish cigarettes at greatly reduced prices during the dull season.

It's a great thing to have good tea and coffee for breakfast. If you are not satisfied with the coffee you are using at present try some from the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. They guarantee satisfaction and when you have once tried their goods you will be content. Note the Company's premium offers. They are not to be sneezed at. All kinds of trading stamps can be secured. Watch for the ads.

The clearance sale at "The Fair," inaugurated a week ago and which closed yesterday, was a tremendous success. Hundreds of buyers took the opportunity to secure women's garments, children's and infants' wear at never-before-heard-of prices and at the same time learn what wonderful bargains are always to be had at "The Fair." It is not only during one day or one week but all the time and the stock is constantly changing. Make up your mind what you want and then visit "The Fair," located at 130 West Front street.

The second week of Woodbull & Martin's annual furniture sale is more than half gone. In speaking of this sale, one cannot mention any special bargains for practically everything is marked down in the furniture department. There has been an immense reduction in couches, due to the purchase of an entire line from a big New York house; these are offered at one-third reduction. The sale presents an opportunity for securing brass beds at especially low prices for the value; and excelsior, cotton, felt, and hair mattresses are being sold at a percentage figure. An exhibition of Jewett refrigerators at low prices is a feature.

BOOK NEWS.

It is planned to issue on Thursday of each week items of library news. This will frequently take the form of book lists, such as lists of books recently added, lists on special subjects and like topics. Frequently the lists will be annotated, the aim being to make these annotations of real service to the reader, by giving him the opinion of a trustworthy critic as to the value of the books or a few words as to their scope. Borrowers should keep these lists. The Plainfield Public Library will furnish to anyone making application a list of its books on a given subject.

Sunday Excursion to Mauch Chunk.

There is no more popular resort for a Sunday than Mauch Chunk, and to reach it entails a delightful rail journey, and at Mauch Chunk there is a diversity of amusements, the chief of which is a ride over the Switchback. This journey occupies more than one hour, and leads over and around the mountains with widely changing scenes at every turn. The Switchback is a gravity road, and the speed attained is close to a mile per minute. Another feature is Flagstaff, the summit of which is reached by trolley, and from its pinnacle point there is a view extending over miles and miles of beautiful country. An interesting spot close at hand is Glen Onoko, a short distance above Mauch Chunk, and, as its name implies, is a beautiful glen, with falls, cataracts, mountain paths leading to cool and delightful places. On August 14 the New Jersey Central is to run a popular excursion to Mauch Chunk from Plainfield by special train leaving at 9:20 a. m. Returning train will leave Mauch Chunk at 5:40 p. m., and the round trip will cost but $1.50. Frequent train service will be in effect between Mauch Chunk and Glen Onoko, and trains on the Switchback run every few minutes. 867c

JAPAN'S BOLD TARS

Cut Out Russian Destroyer at Chefu Harbor.

BOARDING PARTY TOOK HER

Port Arthur Squadron Making For Vladivostok.

FLOTILLA GAVE TOGO THE SLIP

Late Dispatches Indicate That Russian Ships Have Broken Through the Blockading Line and Are In the Open Sea on Their Way to Join Admiral Jessen In the North.

LONDON, Aug. 12. — A Chefu dispatch, dated today, says that two large Japanese torpedo destroyers which have been hovering outside the harbor entered under the cover of darkness last night, showing no lights, and anchored a quarter of a mile from the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshiteini, which had been moved to a permanent anchorage. No one was allowed to board the Japanese vessels. The officers said they would depart at daylight.

The Chinese admiral discovered the presence of the Japanese torpedo boat destroyers and demanded that either they leave the port or disarm. A Japanese officer who was talking over the side of one of the vessels with a war correspondent was reprimanded by a superior officer and compelled to cease. This action was in striking contrast with the frankness of Captain Shostakovsky of the Ryeshitelni.

At 3:30 a. m. a boarding party from the Japanese torpedo boat destroyers boarded the dismantled Russian torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshitelni. The Japanese attacked the crew, discharging their small arms, and during the fight a Russian was wounded in one of his legs. Daybreak showed a third Japanese destroyer towing the Ryeshitelni out of the harbor, and all disappeared.

The Japanese consul claims that the Japanese ships were ignorant of the dismantling of the Ryeshitelni. A war correspondent, however, informed the Japanese naval officers of the fact when he visited the two Japanese destroyers at 2:30 o'clock this morning.

Late reports show that despite a dispatch from Tokyo announcing that Admiral Togo has frustrated the attempt of the Russian ships to escape from Port Arthur, advices from Chefu indicate that the attempt was successful, and it is believed that the long planned junction of this fleet with the Vladivostok ships is now almost certain.

Two Russian battleships, however, were damaged and forced to return to the stronghold. A torpedo boat destroyed reached Chefu, where, disarmed, it will lie till the end of the war. The Japanese cruiser Kasagi is reported sunk.

An all day battle occurred after the sortie was made, but the result is not yet known. The attempt to escape is taken to show that Port Arthur is no longer tenable and the fall of the fortress is predicted for the near future.

The advices from Chefu say that the captain of the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshitelni, which has reached here from Port Arthur, does not deny that the Russian warships have gone to join the Vladivostok squadron. He simply refuses to answer questions on the subject, claiming it would be improper for him to do so.

Other sources affirm that absolutely all the big ships except the Bavan, which was injured, has left Port Arthur, exchanging shots with the Japanese fleet at long range, and it seems likely that the long expected junction of the two Russian squadrons will now occur.

Shortly after the arrival of the Ryeshitelni here the Chinese Admiral Sah sent an officer on board, who demanded that the destroyer either leave the port or disarm. It had previously been ascertained that her engines were disabled. The captain of the Ryeshitelni agreed to render the engines absolutely useless and to disarm in such a manner as Admiral Sah demanded.

The Ryeshitelni shows the effect of long service. Her paint is scratched and fading to yellow, owing to exposure to the sun, and her deck resembles a machine shop, but she has not been damaged by gunfire, although it is stated that the ship was exposed constantly for three months to the fire of the Japanese.

The passengers of the Ryeshitelni include two women, one of whom is said to be the wife of General Stoessel.

It is evident that grave reasons caused the Ryeshitelni to undertake her hazardous voyage. Presumably she came here to file urgent dispatches.

The Russian squadron left Port Arthur in response to imperative orders from Vice Admiral Skrydloff.

A semiofficial telegram reports that the Russian battleships Pobieda and Retvizan have returned, damaged, to Port Arthur.

Three Japanese torpedo boat destroyers are now outside this harbor watching the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshitelni, which still flies the Russian flag.

The Russian battleship Retvizan was hit seventeen times during the recent bombardment of Port Arthur, but was only slightly damaged.

The Japanese fleet has been directing its fire against the dockyards at Port Arthur. One hundred shells dropped on a spot from which a powder magazine had recently been removed.

Refugees from Port Arthur state that during the last five days Japanese shells from Wolf hill have been dropping into the town, causing much damage.

A dispatch from Tokyo announces that Admiral Togo has frustrated the attempt of the Port Arthur squadron to escape.

The dispatch adds that the Port Arthur forts participated with the warships in the engagement, indicating, if true, that the fighting occurred close to the port.

The Russian ships were driven to sea by the fire of the Japanese land batteries, and when they emerged from Port Arthur Admiral Togo immediately closed in and opened a severe engagement, which lasted until nightfall.

A Chefu dispatch dated today again says the Russian protected cruisers Askold and Novik and one torpedo boat destroyer entered the Kiaochau bay last night (Thursday) and exchanged salutes with German vessels.

It is rumored at St. Petersburg that the admiralty has received information that the Port Arthur squadron has passed beyond the Shangtung promontory, which would bring the squadron at least 150 miles to the southeast of Port Arthur and into the Yellow sea.

The family of Lieutenant Smirnoff, an officer of the battleship Cesarevitch, received a telegram from him dated at Tsingchau. The message contained only two words: "Alive. Embraces."

Tsingchau is 160 miles southwest of Chefu, in the province of Shangtung, and is at the entrance of Kiaochau bay. The receipt of this telegram at St. Petersburg might be construed as partial confirmation of the rumor that the squadron had reached the open sea beyond Shangtung.

Even with the absorbing topic of the escape of the Port Arthur squadron, the question whether General Kuropatkin will accept or refuse a general engagement at Liaoyang continues to be a subject of the liveliest interest.

Britain Is Not Satisfied.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Great Britain is distinctly dissatisfied with Russia's attitude in the case of the British steamer Knight Commander, sunk by the Vladivostok squadron off Izu, and continues to press Russia to make substantial modifications of the list of articles regarded as contraband.

IF NOT ROOT, HIGGINS.

Indications Point to Former Secretary of War Being Named.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—"Elihu Root must take himself out of the field for the governorship in a more positive manner than he has yet indicated or he will be nominated at the Saratoga convention next month."

That was the opinion expressed by a member of the New York Republican state committee after he had been conferring with other members both before and after a brief meeting of the committee.

"How about the letter which Mr. Root wrote to Governor Odell?" the member was asked.

"That letter was personal and private," was the reply, "and while it gave reasons why Mr. Root would not be a candidate it did not say that he would not accept if he were nominated. He will have to make a public declaration through the newspapers or the convention will put him at the head of the ticket."

Other members of the committee talked in a similar strain, and the Root boom is again on in earnest. With the convention only about a month away this kind of talk would indicate that the former secretary of war is to be drafted for the nomination, no matter how much he may dislike it. While the talk was all Root, it was not so absolute that an alternative was not suggested.

"If not Root, then Higgins will be the man," was the verdict of the committeemen who were giving their attention to the governorship.

Boston Garment Workers Strike.

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—Twelve hundred garment makers, practically all coatmakers, have struck here because of the refusal of the clothing contractors to sign an agreement submitted to them by the United Garment Workers of Boston. Twenty of the largest shops of the city are affected. It is expected that today the strike will become general and that more than 2,000 will be out.

Forest Fires In Montana.

HAMILTON, Mont., Aug. 12.—Several large forest fires are in progress in various parts of Ravelli county, and much damage is being done. Forest rangers can make no headway against them. A fire has been raging on Roaring Lion creek for some time and has finally made its way to the large bitter root forest reserve. Another blaze is on Sleeping Child creek, southwest of this city.

Tawney Sees Cortelyou.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—James A. Tawney, representative of the First Minnesota district, has come to New York to consult with Chairman Cortelyou. Mr. Tawney is a member of the executive congressional campaign committee, but has been drafted by Mr. Cortelyou to manage the speakers' bureau of the western headquarters.

Suicide Was From New York.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—E. Bissell, who registered from New York, committed suicide by asphyxiation at the Grand hotel. The hotel people assert that they know nothing about the dead man except that he arrived from the east on July 25. He is described as thirty years of age and apparently well to do.

COMING CAMPAIGN.

Republicans and Democrats Will Make Tariff the Issue.

LITERATURE NOW BEING SENT OUT

Copies of Republican Speeches Sent Broadcast Over the Land—Opposition Attacks Roosevelt's Administration.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Examination of the literature being sent out by the Republican and Democratic congressional committees indicates that both parties have decided to make the tariff the main issue of the campaign.

From the Republican headquarters not a pamphlet is being mailed on any other topic except in defense of certain policies which are being attacked in the Democratic literature.

Fourteen different speeches on the tariff form the Republican ammunition on this issue. One is by Littlefield, one by Olmsted, three by McCleary, two by Grosvenor, one by Gallinger, two by Dalzell and one each by Dolliver, Aldrich and Hamilton.

Bourke Cockran's famous speech, one each by John Sharp Williams, Augustus Bacon and John Lind, pleading for reduction of duties, are being sent out for the conversion of Republicans to the Democratic faith.

But the opposition party is striving to raise a number of special issues by attacking the record of the Roosevelt administration. A speech of Senator Gorman accuses the president of "executive usurpation" and blames the party for "official corruption."

Postal scandals form the subject of two documents, one being composed of extracts from the report of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow and the other containing paragraphs from the speeches of a dozen congressmen on the subject.

These two documents are intended more as a defense of individual congressmen, who were accused of improper relations with Beavers and Machen, than as an attack on the party in power.

For states bordering on Mason and Dixon's line the race question is being agitated by the circulation of two bitter attacks on the president by Claude Kitchen of North Carolina and Malcolm Patterson of Tennessee.

Extravagance by the administration is dilated upon in speeches of Senators Culberson, Carmack and Burton and Representatives Livingston and Hitchcock.

Two Will Christen Dubuque.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12. — Two young ladies have been invited to christen the cruiser Dubuque, and they will share this honor if both accept. They are Miss Margaret Treadway of Dubuque, Ia., who the mayor of Dubuque finally selected after first saying he knew of no one who cared to come east to christen the boat, and Miss Annette Hull, daughter of Representative Hull of Des Moines, who the contractors invited when they heard of the mayor's inability to find a young lady. The Dubuque is building at Morris Heights, N. Y.

Deporters Defeated.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., Aug. 12.—A committee of five men went to the home of George Shedit for the purpose of deporting him. After the men had gained entrance to the house Shedit began shooting at them. The fire was returned by one of the members of the party, and a dozen shots were exchanged, but no one was wounded. The would be deporters finally retired. The police made an unsuccessful search for the five men. Shedit was taken to the city jail, where he will be held for protection.

Parker Reads Comments In Silence.

ESOPUS, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Judge Parker read with interest the newspapers which came to Rosemount, noting especially the comments on his speech of acceptance. He had nothing to say regarding them or regarding anything else. He went for a horseback ride during the morning, accompanying a carriage, in which was a party of his guests, in a drive about the neighborhood. There were no callers of importance at Rosemount.

Charged With Lynching Negro.

SELMA, Ala., Aug. 12.—In their preliminary hearing on the charge of murder in the first degree, D. O. Stanfil, B. F. Cherry and M. M. Ranson were remanded to jail without bail to await the action of the grand jury. Edmond Bell, a negro, was given into their charge last Saturday and it is alleged that the negro was taken from the officers and lynched by a mob of negroes.

Double Murder at Sturgis, Ky.

OWENSBORO, Ky., Aug. 12.—At Sturgis, Ky., R. H. Latham shot and killed his brother-in-law, Isaac Tucker, and Mrs. Tucker. They were all occupants of the same house. The difficulty was caused by Latham attempting to put Tucker out of the house. Latham is in jail at Morganfield.

Boilermakers Return to Work.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 12.—All the old boilermakers of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, who have been on strike since last March, have returned to work in accordance with the terms of an agreement with the company.

Ex-Governor Broke His Arm.

CHARLEVOIX, Mich., Aug. 12.—Former Governor of Illinois Joseph W. Fifer of Bloomington, Ill., is confined to his bed as the result of a fall near his summer cottage here. He slipped on a wet sidewalk and broke his arm near the shoulder.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 12, 1904.

This talk about the fall of Port Arthur is like the life of an elevator boy. It's a continued story.

Several of the papers said yesterday that Ananias is in Chicago. We had supposed after reading the Russian-Japanese war accounts that he was somewhere along the Yalu.

One useful deduction The Louisville Courier-Journal makes from the tremendous pother over Bishop Potter's dedication of the Subway Tavern, to wit: "It pays to advertise."

The rest of the country can now feel easy since Editor Henry Watterson has expressed his opinion of Judge Parker's speech of acceptance. He says it "will not only satisfy but delight lovers of constitutional Democracy. It is the voice of one crying in the wilderness of centralization, imperialism, and autocracy into which we have floundered. The clear call to the true faith of popular sovereignty on which the Republic was founded, by which it has been maintained and through which it must be perpetuated."

The report that Assemblyman Swackhamer, of Somerset County, is slated for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Fourth District is not authenticated, but may be correct. The whole district is Republican by about 2,000, taking Judge Lanning's plurality over Colonel Perrine two years ago as the basis. The Republican candidate this year will probably be Ira W. Wood, and it remains to be seen whether he is as popular as Judge Lanning, even with a Presidential year to help him. That Mr. Swackhamer is popular there is no question, and he would poll a very large vote in Somerset and Hunterdon counties, but whether what he would receive in these two would be sufficient to overcome the plurality against him in Mercer is doubtful. The new chairman of the State Republican committee lives in Mercer, and there is no reason to believe that he would allow the Republican vote to fall away in his own county in a Presidential and Gubernatorial year. It might be better, in view of these circumstances, for Mr. Swackhamer to wait until 1906 before accepting the Democratic nomination for Congress. —Newark News.

MODEL DRY GOODS STORE.

Extensive Alterations Are Being Made by Levy Brothers.

Tomorrow begins the big alteration sale at Levy's West Front street department store, and goods will be cleared out in short order to enable the firm to make the radical interior changes planned. The narrow shelving through the entire store will be replaced by the up-to-date broad accommodations for goods, and the cashier's desk will be removed to a balcony to be built along the rear of the store. Special dressing and retiring rooms will be added in the cloak department, which will be located in the rear of the store. The basement will be remodelled and several departments will be moved downstairs, new ones being introduced on the main floor.

To Receive Bids Again.

The Borough Board of Education will hold a special meeting this evening for the purpose of considering bids for the erection of the new Somerset street school. If the lowest comes within the appropriation of $30,000 the contract will be awarded.

George M. Rittenhouse, of Sandford avenue, left this morning for Ocean Grove, where he will spend some time.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Martin, of Woodhull & Martin, have returned from their outing, spent at the Thousand Islands.

AMONG MEN IN THE SHOPS

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

Official announcement was made today that the John A. Roebling's Sons Company will remove its rolling mill, employing about 400 hands, from Trenton to Kinkora, N. J., where the company recently purchased a tract of about 200 acres. The rolling mill will be enlarged to employ 800 or 1,000 men. For the present the remainder of the plant, now in operation and employing about 3,000 hands, will be continued in Trenton. The Roebling company had plans made for buildings and entered into negotiations for the purchase of a tract of land in the southern section of Trenton, where it is intended to build. The land is said to have been in the market for $40,000, but as soon as the Roebling company appeared as prospective purchasers the price was raised to an exorbitant figure, said to be $300,000. The company is said to have offered $150,000 for the land, but declared its intention to remove to another city, rather than to give the higher price.

CHANGE THE DATE.

Republican Party Practically Decides to Hold State Convention in Trenton on September 20.

It was announced yesterday that the Republicans of New Jersey had intended holding their State convention in Trenton September 15, but that as the Democratic State Convention is to be held there on that date, and two conventions in one city on the same day are not regarded as advisable, the plan will have to be changed. It has practically been agreed to have the Republican convention in Trenton on September 20, as Taylor's Opera House can be had for the purpose on that date, or one of the two following days.

Gas for Dunellen.

A representative of the Public Service Corporation is making a canvass of Dunellen to ascertain whether any encouragement would be given the company if they should decide to lay their gas mains through the streets. If the users of gasolene would signify their willingness to burn gas instead there is no doubt that mains will be the next thing in order.

In Honor of Miss Porter.

Miss Mabel Firstbrook, of West Fifth street, entertained a number of friends yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Marion Porter, of New York. Refreshments were served and games played on the porch. The event was a delightful one in every respect, there being fifteen guests present. Mrs. William W. St. John rendered several piano selections.

The entire interior of our establishment is to be remodeled. We are going to modernize and enlarge various departments, and add new ones, to make this a Model Dry Goods House. With this end in view, we start a GREAT ALTERATION SALE, making way for the carpenters and builders. Plainfield has never had a sale of such magnitude and importance since the memorable "Opening Sale" at this store under its present management. You remember those bargains? You remember those crowds? Well! Sale begins Saturday at 9 a. m.

Huge piles of Dry Goods, Hosiery, Underwear, Dtess Goods, Millinery, Corsets, etc., go at "Good-bye" Prices. As stated above, we are going to open on a larger and better equipped scale, and we want none but new goods at our re-opening. That's why we are sacrificing all our present stock.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

An old Civil War veteran by the name of Swartz, who resides on Front street, suffered the loss of a pocket-book containing fifteen dollars and his pension papers, on Wednesday. His pension is his main dependence and if his papers are not recovered, it will be a heavy loss to him. Anyone who finds and returns the money and papers to the owner will be doing a generous humane act.

John Peters, Jr., John Logan, John Dineen and Harry Sugars returned yesterday from Philadelphia, where they went on a trolley trip. By the time they had spent three days in Quakertown the trolley could not get them home quick enough, so they came back by train.

Miss Florence Chichester and Miss Lillian Chichester, who have been spending some time at the home of James Craig, have returned to Poughkeepsie.

It is reported from reliable sources that the Levering & Garrigues' Company will open with a full working force on Monday.

The New Market Y. M. A. and Clinton Avenue will clash for the third time this season, tomorrow, at Clinton avenue.

Robert A. Meeker, of West Front street, State supervisor of roads, returned home last evening from St. Louis, where he has been in charge of the New Jersey road exhibit at the Exposition.

AMUSEMENTS.

McWater & Tyson Company, who are appearing at Riverside Park this week, are duplicating their success of a few weeks ago. They have a clever sketch in which Mr. McWaters gives impersonations of a "Dago," a Hebrew and negro amusingly. Miss Tyson gives a clever impersonation of Marie Dressler in her famous tipsy song. The scenic and lighting effects in the sketch are beautiful. This sketch is only one of the good things on the bill this week. Caron and Farnum, the acrobats, are the best ever seen at the Park. For next week the management has secured Bryant and Saville's minstrels, who will present a programme of mirth and music, a comedy and an excellent olio of vaudeville, including the Great Weitzell, the hooperina; the Troubadour Four, in a comedy creation; Bryant and Saville, the musical minstrels and Elliot and West, the ragtime raggers, in songs and dances.

THE ALIS CLUB'S MANAGER

SKETCH OF G. H. JOHNSTON, THE POPULAR BASEBALL FAN.

While the baseball season is at its height and the local fans are rooting for the home team in the series against Westfield, a brief sketch of the man who has been instrumental in getting together a team, that could make Manager Denman's colts "bite the dust" for the first time on a local diamond, is interesting to the cranks.

George H. Johnston was well-known to the local lovers of the game when he accepted the position of manager of the Alis team. As manager of the Scotch Plains nine he proved his ability to get more work out of the players for less money than any other person through this section of the State. It was for this reason that early in the spring he was sought as a member of the Alis Club and the manager of its ball team. Manager Johnston, himself an old player, knows that one game does not make a player. This has always been his policy and the wisdom of it has been shown in a number of cases, especially while manager of the 'Plains team. The first game Brogan played with that team was one of the poorest exhibitions he ever put up. So it was with "Billy" Williams, who played third base, but Manager Johnston knew that the game was in them and held them, although many thought he was making a mistake. Both players remained with the team for several seasons.

Mr. Johnston, an old ball tosser, began playing the game at Scotch Plains during his school days. When these were over he was instrumental in organizing the old Twilight ball team, one of the strongest amateur teams at that time in this part of the State. It was about this time that the curve ball was introduced. Johnston at this time was doing the pitching for his team. Taking hold of the new idea, he soon mastered it and was one of the first to introduce it at Scotch Plains.

His fame soon spread as one of the best twirlers in this part of the State, and before long the home team lost him, as he entered the New York State League as change pitcher and outfielder for Kingston. The disbanding of his club brought him back again to the 'Plains and for a while he played an outfield position for the famous West Ends, of Somerville. Baseball at the time took a local slump, but several years later the sport was revived and in 1901 he was one of the organizers of the Scotch Plains ball team. As player and manager of the team he continued in the game that season and part of the next, during which time the 'Plains nine was strengthened so that it was one of the best in this section. In 1903, he was again made manager and given full swing by the club in signing the players. When the season opened he had gotten together an aggregation that could give any thing along the line a run for their money. People marvelled at Scotch Plains supporting a semi-professional nine, but Manager Johnston believed that the fastest game was sure to draw the crowd and he was not mistaken, as the club finished the season $300 to the good. His work since coming to this city is well-known, and proves that he is an able manager.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACING.

Knickerbocker $10,000 Stake Won by Sweet Marie.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The grand circuit races were run at the Empire City track with 5,000 in attendance.

The big stake was the $10,000 Knickerbocker for the 2:14 trotting class. Sweet Marie was the choice at $200, John Mc. and Katherine at $70 each and the field $15. Aristo led to the long distance, with the favorite second and John Mc. third. It was a great finish between the trio, the favorite winning with a little to spare in 2:10½. In the second heat Sweet Marie won again in a most exciting finish with Aristo and John Mc., the three shooting under the wire only necks apart.

The opening event was the 2:25 pace for three-year-olds. Bucklock led handsomely to the half when he broke, and Dorcas H. shot at once to the front, with Teddy Weaver close up. At the head of the stretch Simon Kenton looked dangerous, but he soon broke and was out of it. Dorcas H. won by a length, with Teddy Weaver a good second. Teddy Weaver led the field in the second heat to the three-quarter pole, when Dorcas H. came with a rare rush and landed by half a length.

Molly Brant Won the Delaware.

SARATOGA, Aug. 12.—Molly Brant won the stake race, the Delaware, a handicap for three-year-olds and upward. Graziallo showed the way to the first quarter, and Light Brigade then took the lead. At the half Molly Brant, who had gotten away third and had been gradually improving her position, now moved up and from that point had things her own way. Stalwart was second by half a length. Tramotor, favorite in the first race, was never in the money, Teacress winning by more than a length. Malden, the favorite, was never headed in the steeplechase handicap.

Proviso For Miss Inez.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12. — The Proviso stakes, the feature at Harlem, was won by Miss Inez. Allen Avon was second, with Del Carina third and Tom Shelley just outside the money. After racing head and head with Del Carina for a quarter of a mile Miss Inez drew away turning for home and won under wraps Del Carina swung wide when making the stretch bend and carried Tom Shelley out with her, allowing Allen Avon to cut in on the rail, saving ground, and he captured second place by three lengths.

Picked Winner Was Defeated.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 12.—In the semifinals in singles at the southern championship tennis tournament here the surprise of the day was the ease with which Nat Thornton defeated S. C. Williams, both of Atlanta, by the score of 6-1, 6-1. The latter had been picked as the probable winner of the series.

Bryn Mawr Polo Team Won.

NARRAGANSET PIER, R. I., Aug 12.—More than 1,000 members of the summer colony saw the Bryn Mawr second polo team defeat Rockaway first by a score of 15 to 7¼ goals in the third game of the series for the Narragansett cup, offered by the Point Judith Country club.

Light Opera and Doeskin.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 12.—Light Opera and Doeskin were the winning favorites at the fair grounds. Old Stone by winning the fourth, the feature of the card, showed himself to be the best three-year-old now at the track.

King Edward Incognito.

MARIENBAD, Bohemia, Aug. 12.—King Edward, who is traveling incognito as the Duke of Lancaster, has arrived here, accompanied by his suit. The reception at the railway station was purely informal.

Millionaire Lumberman Dead.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Aug. 12.—Abram R. Colborn, a millionaire and head of the wholesale lumber firm bearing his name, is dead here from paralysis.
